ELECTION COMMISSION, INDIA

Dated New Delhi-11, the 20th June 1964

NOTIFICATION

No. 82/110/62. In pursuance of sub-section (6) of section 116A of the Representation of the People Act, 1951, the Election Commission hereby publishes the decision of the High Court of Calcutta, given on the 16th April 1964, on an appeal from the order, dated the 31st July 1963, of the Election Tribunal, Hooghly.

IN THE HIGH COURT AT CALCUTTA

Civil Appellate Jurisdiction

The 16th April 1964

Present:

The Hon'ble PURUSHOTTAM CHATTERJEE, and
The Hon'ble ASOKE CHANDRA SEN,

Two of the Judges of this Court.

Appeal from Original Decree No. 627 of 1963, appeal under section 116A of the Representation of People Act, 1951 with Cross-objection. Appeal against the order of Shri A. Syam, Member, Election Tribunal, Hooghly, in Election Petition No. 110 of 1962 (Suit No. 1 of 1962), dated the 31st July 1963.

Provakar Pal (Respondent No. 1 in the Tribunal)—Appellant

Appeal valued at Nil (Election Appeal)

And a memorandum of Cross-objection filed under Order XLI, Rule 22 of the Code of Civil Procedure by the petitioner-respondent aforesaid on 20th September 1963.

Cross-objection valued at nil (Election matter).

For Appellant: Mr. P. S. Basu, Mr. Surath Chandra Chakraborty, Mr. Siba Pada Mukherjee.

For Respondent No. 1: Mr. Krishnabinode Roy, Mr. Prasanta Kumar Bandopadhyay.

Chatterjee, J:

This is an appeal under section 116(A) of the Representation of People Act of 1951 against the order of a tribunal under that Act.

The petitioner Ajit Kumar Basu was a candidate from the Singur Constituency of the West Bengal Legislative Assembly in the district of Hooghly in the last general election. The appellant is Provakar Pal who was elected from the said constituency as the petitioner Ajit Kumar Basu was found to secure 28,822 votes whereas the appellant Provakar Pal secured 28,853 votes according to the declaration made by the Returning Officer.

The petitioner Ajit Kumar Basu claimed that the appellant Probhakar belonged to the Mahishya community in a constituency where Mahishyas constituted a very large number of the voters; he appealed to them for votes on the ground of caste. Further that certain leaflets were distributed whereby the appellant must be considered to have exercised undue influence within the meaning of section 123(2), proviso (a) (ii) of the said Act. The leaflet in question was marked Ext. 1 and the printed leaflet shows that the said leaflet was published by Shri Benoy Roy, Secretary to the Publicity Sub-Committee, West Bengal Provincial Congress Committee, and printed at the Jupiter Printing Works. The leaflet is a compilation of extracts from various newspapers including the "Ananda Bazar Patrika," "Jugantar," "Lok Sevak" and "Paygam". The extract from the Paygam, dated the 10th February 1962, is attached; it is stated that Bejoy Roy, a person in the position of an agent of the appellant, caused the document to be published so as to attract the religious feeling of the Muslims who constituted a fairly good number of voters.

The election was also vitiated because certain ballot papers, which should have been rejected, were accepted in favour of Pal. That is stated in paragraphs 14 and 16. It was also alleged in paragraph 18 that the result of the election so far as Pal was concerned, was materially affected by non-compliance with the provisions of the Constitution and/or of the Representation of the People Act and/or orders framed thereunder. In paragraph 19 of the petition it was alleged that postal votes were irregularly accepted on behalf of Pal and they should have been cancelled. In paragraphs 20 and 21 it was stated: "that the counting of the ballot papers including the postal ballot papers may be made." It is clear, therefore, that the petitioner applied for declaring the election void because of the grounds which come within sections 100(b) and 100(d). The petitioner further claimed that the petitioner be declared as duly elected in terms of section 101 of the Representation of People Act.

Provakar Pal filed his objection. But he did not move a notice for recrimination as under section 97 of the Representation of People Act nor did he furnish within the time limited by section 97 the required security. Thereafter, the case was heard and evidence was adduced on behalf of both the parties. The Returning Officer Shri P. Ghosal examined himself but he did not prove the reports of the Presiding Officer of several booths. A petition was filed on the 24th June 1963 by the petitioner Ajit Kumar Basu saying that the Returning Officer admitted certain incidents at Khosalpur and Gandarpukur and his evidence is based on the reports of the Presiding Officer and he gave oral evidence about those matters after perusing those reports. But the Returning Officer did not adduce them in evidence in support of his case; he was examined as the witness of Pal. The petitioner Ajit Kumar Basu, therefore, prayed that the report of the Presiding Officers of Khosalpur and Gandarpukur might be marked as Exts. on admission as those had been filed by the respondent No. 3 in support of his case. This petition was strongly objected to by Probhakar, the appellant. Having heard the lawyers for both the parties, the tribunal ordered on the 24th June 1963 by order No. 20 as follows:

> "Let the two reports of the Presiding Officers be marked exhibits on petitioner's side as admitted by the petitioner subject to objections by respondents. Documents filed by the respondent No. 1 be also marked exhibits after objection."

The objection in this case was, as it is even now, that the Presiding Officers should have been examined to prove their reports and this was not done.

Various issues were raised before the Election Tribunal. It is not necessary for our present purpose to refer to all of them. The Election Judge found that there was no corrupt practice and that the postal votes were properly accepted. He also found that there was no corrupt practice so far as the appeal to religion as in the "Paygam" nor appeal to the caste as stated by the petitioner, was proved. The only point on which the Judge has set aside the election is the ground that the appellant did not file a notice for recrimination as under section 97. According to the Judge, the petitioner Ajit Kumar Basu applied for scrutiny and counting of those votes which had been improperly accepted in favour of Probhakar, the elected candidate, and improperly rejected as against the petitioner Basu. The Judge considered such votes and found that on taking account of such votes which were improperly rejected against the petitioner Basu and improperly accepted in favour of Probhakar Pal, the relative position of the parties would be that Probhakar Pal got 28,829 votes and the petitioner Ajit Kumar Basu got a total of 28,879 votes and, therefore, the election was liable to be set aside. But while considering the question as to whether the petitioner should be declared elected or not, the Judge found that the petitioner had not go the majority of all the valid votes and, therefore he could not be declared elected.

Mr. Bose, who has appeared on behalf of the appellant, urged that if Probhakhar had got the majority of the valid votes, the election could not have been set abide and the Judge when he considered as to whether the election should be set aside or not, should have considered the position as to who obtained the majority of all lawful votes, that is to say, the majority of all valid votes. The Judge did not take the matter into consideration for purposes of section 100 of the Representation of People Act on the ground that no notice for recrimination on behalf of Probhakar was filed and as no notice of recrimination was filed, the Judge could not take into account the votes which were improperly accepted so far as the petitioner Ajit Kumar Basu is concerned and improperly rejected so far as Probhakar is concerned. Mr. Bose has challenged this proposition of law and urged that no petition under section 97 was at all necessary in a case which comes under section 100(1)(d) of the Representation of People Act.

Mr. Roy has appeared on behalf of Ajit Kumar Basu who is the respondent in this Court. Mr. Roy has urged that he is entitled not merely to support the judgment but also entitled to challenge those findings which the Election Judge made against him because of the provisions of Or. 41, Rule 22 of the Code of Civil Procedure. He has further filed a cross-objection on behalf of Ajit Kumar Basu to the effect that Ajit Kumar Basu should have been declared elected. Mr. Bose on behalf of the respondent has challenged the right of the respondent No. 1 Ajit Kumar Basu to challenge the finding arrived at by the Election Judge without filing any appeal against the same. He further urged that the cross-objection is not maintainable, because Basu has not complied with the provisions of Or. 41, Rule 22 of the Code of Civil Procedure and also to the relevant sections concerned.

Mr. Roy referred to Or. 41, Rule 22 of the Code of Civil Procedure and also to the relevant sections concerned.

the Representation of People Act and, according to Mr. Roy, he can challenge the findings of the Election Judge on all points on which the Election Judge held against him and was also entitled to file cross-objection and the question of security would not arise as the same has not yet been provided either in the Act or in the rules framed by this Court.

Mr. Roy supported the Judgment of the Election Judge on the ground that the appellant not having filed a notice under section 97 recriminating the petitioner Basu, he is not entitled to demand any scrutiny so far as the votes which have been improperly accepted for Basu and improperly rejected for Probhakar Pal. He further submitted that the postal votes should have been rejected on the ground that the address of the sender was not given. He further referred to the leaflets, Ext. 1, and said that appeal was made on ground of religion and, therefore, corrupt practice had been adopted. Mr. Roy further referred to Exts. 8 and 8A and said that the candidate Pal created commotion and disorderly conduct which required the intervention of the police and which further required voting to be stopped for sometime, the result of which was to threaten the voters and this would be undue influence within the meaning of section 123(2), proviso (a)(i) of the Representation of People Act.

The first point of Mr. Bose on behalf of Pal, the returned candidate, is that no notice for recrimination need have been made under section 97 of the Representation of People Act and the Judge was wrong in holding that a notice for recrimination would still be necessary. According to Mr. Bose, when there is a question of scrutiny or counting, the scrutiny or counting must include the scrutiny and counting of all lawful votes and there is nothing like a scrutiny or a counting of votes in favour of one or the other. Scrutiny does not mean that nor does it imply partial scrutiny. Therefore, no notice of recrimination would be necessary.

Section 97 is as follows:

"(1) When in an application petition a declaration that any candidate other than the returned candidate has been duly elected is claimed, the returned candidate or any other party may give evidence to prove that the election of such candidate would have been void if he had been the returned candidate and a petition had been presented calling in question his election:

Provided that the returned candidate or such other parties as aforesaid shall not be entitled to give such evidence unless he has, within 14 days from the date of the commencement of the trial, given notice to the tribunal of his intention to do so and has also given the security and the further security referred to in sections 117 and 118 respectively.

(2) Every notice referred in sub-section (1) shall be accompanied by the statement and particulars required by section 83 in the case of an election petition and shall be signed and verified in like manner."

Therefore, section 97 demands a notice under sub-section (1) within a period of 14 days together with furnishing of security and matters referred to in section 117 or 118 of the Act. There is no doubt that there was no notice within the meaning of section 97 within the stipulated period nor security as under sections 117 and 118 was furnished. Therefore, if section 97(1) applies, Pal would not be allowed to give evidence to prove that the election of such candidate would have been void if he had been the returned candidate and a petition had been presented calling in question his election. The marginal note on section 97 which is in the Chapter III relating to trial of election petitions is "Recrimination when a seat is claimed ". The word "recrimination" means "accusation in return". When a petitioner files an election petition, he accuses, i.e., criminates the opposite party, of corrupt practice and all things like that. The other party may also in such circumstances say that even if the petitioner had been elected and the returned candidate had presented a petition calling in question his election, his election would have been void or, in other words, if the petitioner makes charges against the returned candidate, the returned candidate can also make counter-charges. The idea behind it is that if the charge of any of the parties is substantiated, then the election goes and if any of these charges was proved, questions relating to counting, scrutiny and others would not arise. Halsbury's Laws of England, 3rd Edn., Vol. 14, page 299, may be considered. Article 541 which refers to recriminatory cases is as follows:

> "When recriminatory evidence may be offered. On the trial of a petition complaining of an undue election and claiming the seat or office for some person, the respondent may give evidence to prove that that person was not duly elected in the same manner as if he had presented a petition against the election of that person."

This is section 122(5) of the Representation of People Act, 1949, in England. But on an election petition a recriminatory case may be made which is different from a case for scrutiny or a case for recounting. With reference to scrutiny and recriminatory case Art. 55a at page 306 is as follows:

> "Where the election petition makes charge of corrupt or illegal practices, the practice is to take the recriminatory case before the scrutiny. The reason is that if both the petitioner and respondent are disqualified, it would be a waste of time to go into a scrutiny. Where, however, the petitioner only claims the seat without alleging any corrupt or illegal practice on the part of the respondent, the practice has been to take the scrutiny first."

The idea, therefore, is clear that scrutiny and recriminatory case are completely different matters. As an election may be set aside on charges of corrupt practices, it may also be set aside on scrutiny. But these are different. A recriminatory case, as it is understood in England, appears to me to be a case regarding corrupt or illegal practice and does not include a case for scrutiny or recount. But the question that we have to consider here is not what the law in England is but what the law in our country is. It may be that we have derived our law from the English common law or English statute in the Representation of People Act, 1949; but the real question is not what the English law is; the real question is what our own law is. The reference to English common law and to the Representation of People Act in England is only a reference for the purpose of appreciation or our own law.

Section 97 may be considered in three parts, namely, (i) when in an election petition a declaration that any candidate other than the returned candidate has been duly elected is claimed, (ii) the returned candidate or any other party may give evidence to prove that the election of such candidate would have been void, (iii) if he had been the returned candidate and a petition had been presented calling in question his election.

Section 100(1) refers to the grounds on which an election can be declared void. Section 101 refers to the grounds for which a candidate other than the returned candidate may be declared to have been elected. Hence, the first part of section 97 shows that notice for recrimination is necessary only in those cases in which a claim is made as under section 101 that any candidate other than the returned candidate has been duly elected. So far as this condition is concern, this part is satisfied in the present case on the ground that there is a claim for a declaration as referred to in the first part of section 97. The next part of section 97 is that the returned candidate may give evidence to prove that the election of such candidate would have been in the same manner void. Section 100(1) says what are the grounds on which the election could be declared to be void, but section 97 does not make any reference to section 100(1) of the Act. Section 100(1) makes an election void under various circumstances. Some of the grounds referred to in section 100(1) make an application void if that ground is found to exist. It also refers to the avoidability of the election on some other grounds, but those grounds by themselves do not make the election void. If we refer to section 100, we find that the grounds referred to in (a), (b) and (c) make the election void without any further condition attached to it and the election becomes void if any of the three matters referred to in (a), (b) and (c) occurs. But the grounds referred to in (d) stand on a different footing. In a case under cl. (d) the candidate is to prove not merely the existence of any or more of the conditions referred to in (i), (ii), (iii) and (iv) but also that the result of the election (taken as a whole) must also have become materially affected because of the existence of the conditions referred to in (i), (ii), (iii) and (iv). Therefore, section 100(1) makes the election void (unconditionally) if grounds as in (a), (b) and (c), occur, whereas on proof of matters referred to in clauses (i) to (iv) the election does not become void by itself; something more has to be found, namely, the result of the election (as a whole) has been materially affected because of the conditions referred to in (i) to (iv). Hence, on mere proof of any condition in (i) to (iv) the election becomes voidable. The Legislature in section 97 could have inserted the phrase "on any of the grounds referred to in section 100" after the word "void" and before the word "if". But the Legislature has not done that. No reference has been made to the entirety of section 100, but to those grounds which make it void and not avoidable. I would, therefore, be inclined to hold that section 97 refers to any of those grounds which may make the election void by itself, i.e., those referred to in clauses (a), (b) and (c). But circumstances as under (d) are not to be considered in section 97. We now consider (iii) of section 100(1); if the returned candidate wants a scrutiny, is he required to file a recriminatory notice? Scrutiny is a ground for setting aside an election. The petitioner Basu has referred to that ground and has asked for setting aside the election after scrutiny. But he has added that the scrutiny must be made with regard to votes which have been improperly rejected so far as the petitioner Basu is concerned and improperly accepted so far as the returned candidate Pal is concerned. Does the law recognise such a scrutiny? The word "scrutiny" has not been defined under the Act. In Halsbury's Laws of England 'scrutiny' is dealt with in Art. 543 and it is stated, "It has been stated previously that on a petition complaining of an undue election the petitioner may claim that the successful candidate was not elected by a majority of lawful votes and demand a scrutiny. The object of a scrutiny is to ascertain by striking off votes or adding votes which candiate had the majority of lawful votes." 'Scrutiny,' therefore, means the scrutiny of all lawful votes. There is nothing like a scrutiny of votes in favour of one party and scrutiny against the other. 'Scrutiny' means scrutiny of all lawful votes. If we refer to section 100(1)(d) (iii), we get the same thing. Clause (d) (iii) is as follows:

> "That the result of the election, in so far as it concerns a returned candidate, has been materially affected—
> (iii) by the improper reception, refusal or rejection of any vote or the reception of any votes which is void."

Whenever any candidate wants to rely on grounds (d) (iii), he must have a scrutiny of all votes which were improperly received, which were improperly refused or which were improperly rejected and also scrutiny of all votes which were void. These are the four matters which have to be considered and this evidently refers to improper reception, refusal or rejection or the reception of any void vote taking into account all lawful votes. Mr. Roy says that if he refers to the opening words of clause (d), it would mean improper reception, refusal, rejection of any vote or the reception of any vote which is void so far as it concerns a returned candidate. He interprets clause (d) as follows:

> "that the result of the election * * has been materially affected * * (iii) by the improper reception, refusal or rejection of any vote or the reception of any vote which is void so far as it concerns the petitioner."

According to Mr. Roy, the clause "so far as it concerns a returned candidate" refers "to any vote" in (iii). But the clause "so far as it concerns a returned candidate", refers to "the result of the election" does not refer to "any vote". Further, the word "vote" in (iii) is qualified by the word "any". We cannot say that the word "vote" is qualified by the words "in so far as it concerns the petitioner". On the other hand the word "vote" is qualified by the word "any" and not by the word "some" or nor by the phrase "votes so far as it concerns the petitioner". The word "any" refers to all votes actually cast and does not refer to some of them. "Any vote", which has been cast, will have to be scrutinised and that is how all the votes have to be scrutinised.

Then again there would be no meaning in saying that the result of an election has been materially affected by improper reception, refusal or rejection of any vote so far as it concerns a returned candidate. This would mean that there would be no scrutiny so far as the votes of the petitioner are concerned. This is absurd. Mr. Roy's argument is, in cases where a recrimination notice has not been given, no evidence can be given and no scrutiny can be made of all those votes which were improperly rejected against the returned candidate or improperly accepted on behalf of the petitioner. There again we do not agree with Mr. Roy. Section 97 bars the reception of evidence or as the section is worded 'giving of evidence', but there is no question of giving evidence so far as the improper reception, refusal or rejection of any vote actually cast is concerned. The ballot papers constitute parts of the record in election case and there is no question of "giving evidence" with regard to them. They are already in evidence. Section 97 merely bars "giving evidence" but does not bar exclusion of all things which automatically are on record. All ballot papers are evidence by the nature of it and there is no further question of "giving evidence" so far as the votes actually cast are concerned. Mr. Ray has referred to a decision of Hidyatullah, C.J., as His Lordship then was in the Madhya Pradesh High Court, in a case between Inayatullah Khan vs. Diwanchand, 15 Election Law Reports, page 219. His Lordship had occasion to construe section 97 and His Lordship came to the conclusion that section 100(1) gives a general provision, but section 97 is a special provision and His Lordship found that the special provision of section 97 must prevail over the general provision of section 100(1). To this extent I respectfully agree but according to His Lordship, unless recriminating notice has been served, evidence should not be allowed to be given with reference to any matter referred to in section 100(1). With very great respect to His Lordship, I am afraid, I cannot agree with the observations made by His Lordship, then in the Madhya Pradesh High Court. I do agree that section 97 is a special provision and I do also agree that section 100 is a general provision and, therefore, the special provision will exclude the general provision. To this extent I do most respectfully agree with the views expressed by Hidyayetullah, C.J. then in the Madhya Pradesh High Court. But the question is, how far does it go, how far does section 97 exclude section 100? This matter was not considered nor urged before their Lordships in the Madhya Pradesh High Court and there was no occasion for their Lordships to go further into the point as it was neither urged nor pressed. If we examine the question as to how far section 97 would prevail over section 100(1), we should come to the conclusion that it would relate only to "giving evidence" on matters which make the election void by itself. That means (i) giving evidence of extrinsic matter, (ii) relating to the election taken as a whole, and (iii) evidence which make the election void and not merely voidable.

There is no question of "giving evidence" so far as the ballot papers are concerned. It is merely a question of finding out which votes are valid and which votes are not valid. Section 97 bars evidence —evidence extraneous to the case, not matters intrinsic in the case. Ballot papers are intrinsic matters and not external matters on which evidence is to be given. Matters relating to corrupt practice are extrinsic evidence in the case, because they are not intrinsic in the case, but they have to be adduced, they have to be proved by oral evidence and documents have to be proved in such a case. What section 97 bars is "giving evidence" and not cancellation of matters already on the record of the case. In an election case the ballot papers are the subject-matter of the case and form part of the records of the case, because there can be no election without them. Finally, a reference to section 101 would also make the same thing clear. Section 101 provides as follows:

> "If any person who has lodged a petition has, in addition to calling in question the election of the returned candidate, claimed a declaration that he himself or any other candidate has been duly elected and the tribunal is of opinion
> (a) that in fact the petitioner.....received a majority of the valid votes:
>
> the tribunal shall after declaring the election of the returned candidate to be void declare the petitioner or such other candidate, as the case may be, to have been duly elected."

Stress must be given to the phrase "in fact..... received a majority of the valid votes". Hence, it is all the valid votes which are to be considered and not some. If it was the intention of the legislature that only some valid votes in favour of the petitioner are to be taken into account, the statue would have made it clear. Section 101 refers to the majority of the valid votes. That means the majority of all the valid votes and that again is qualified by the phrase "in fact". Actually a large number of votes are cast, some of which may be rejected, some of which may be accepted, on scrutiny some of which may be found to be void. This may happen to each one of the candidates. Therefore, the law provides not for consideration of the majority of votes "actually" obtained by a candidate but majority of votes which are "in fact" valid. The statute recognises "actuality" to be different from "factuality" and the legislature was aware of that. They, therefore, provided for consideration of the valid votes which were, in fact, obtained—not which were actually cast. Section 100(1)(2) directs consideration of all votes actually cast and section 101 directs consideration of all votes "factually" obtained as found after scrutiny and counting.

Finally, I have referred to the marginal note "recrimination", I have also referred to the context of recrimination. The Representation of the People Act, 1951 (India), is on the same line as the Representation of the People Act, 1949, in England and has reference to common law. Therefore, in order to understand the context I have referred to Halsbury's Laws of England as well as to the English statute. We find that recrimination means counter-charges or counter-accusation; crimination or accusation is referred to in section 95, it may be with regard to corrupt practices of a candidate; recrimination is against the petitioner and the reference here is to the candidate and not to the Presiding Officer. A Presiding Officer may bona fide make a mistake and accept an invalid vote as valid or reject a valid vote as invalid or accept a void vote. But when these votes are taken into account for purposes of scrutiny and counting, it cannot be said there is any question of recrimination therein, because no body wants to countercharge the Returning Officer. Considering all these various aspects of the matter, we are of opinion that no notice for recrimination is necessary so far as the grounds referred to in section 100(1)(d). For all the reasons aforesaid, I would most respectfully differ from the views of the Madhya Pradesh High Court, the view which the trial court accepted. The view that we are taking in the matter is a view which was accepted in the Allahabad High Court in a case between Lakshmi Shankar Yadab vs. Kunwar Sripat Singh & Ors. reported in Vol. 22, Election Law Reports, page 47.

The next ground urged by Mr. Roy is that regarding the postal votes, the sender's name was not given in the cover as in form No. 13C and he says that it is for this reason that the votes should be rejected. We would refer to rule 62 of the statutory rules and order of the Representation of the People Act. Rule 62 relates to scrutiny and counting of postal ballot papers. Rule 62(6) is as follows:

> "The returning officer shall then place all the declarations in form 13A which are found to be in order in a separate packet which shall be sealed before any cover in form 13B is opened and on which shall be recorded the particulars referred to in sub-rule (5)."

It has been urged that the declarations in form 13A and the covers in form No. 13B were kept separate in one sealed packet. That means that sub-rule (6) was not obeyed. Sub-rule (6) provides that declarations should be kept in a separate packet before any cover in form 13B is opened. But as the declarations in form No. 13A and the covers in form 13B are to be found together in a separate packet, the declarations were not sealed in a separate packet before the covers in form No. 13B were opened. There is no doubt that on the evidence we must come to that conclusion. But the next question is, does this act under the postal votes liable to be rejected. Sub-rule (6) does not by itself say that if it is not complied with, all votes shall be rejected. Sub-rule (8) refers to a postal ballot paper and the circumstances under which it shall be rejected and those circumstances do not include the circumstance which has happened here in not complying with the provisions of sub-rule (6). Sub-rule (9) also shows under what condition a postal ballot paper is to be rejected. Sub-rule (10) shows under what circumstances a postal ballot paper may not be rejected. Ordinarily the word "shall" means "shall" and not "may". But it is also equally known that the word "shall" in some cases has been considered to mean merely "permissive" or directing and in other cases it has been found to mean "mandatory". The question is whether under this rule it should be considered directory, i.e., permissive or mandatory. Mr. Roy has urged that it must be considered to be mandatory unless we can find good reasons to hold that it was not intended to be mandatory. Therefore, we have to refer to sub-rule (6) to find out what the intention of the legislature is. We find that there is no provision as to what would happen if sub-rule (6) is not complied with; there is no penalty attached if the rule is violated. On other hand, sub-rules (8) and (9) show the circumstances under which a postal ballot paper may be rejected and that does not include violation of sub-rule (6). Sub-rule (2) is another rule which says under what circumstances a vote should be rejected and sub-rule (2) provides if the returning officer receives any cover in form No. 13C after the expiry of the time fixed, no vote contained therein shall be counted. Therefore, it is the intention of the legislature that for certain cases non-compliance of the provision the vote shall be rejected; it has been specially provided, so in sub-rules (2), (8) and sub-rule (9) and sub-rule (10) provides that it shall not be rejected even if there is some amount of non-compliance. Sub-rule (10) is: if the mark is indistinct or made more than once, the postal ballot papers shall not be rejected merely on that ground. Therefore, the sub-rules in rule 62 completely provide in what circumstances a vote is to be rejected, a vote is to be accepted and in what circumstances the cover should not be counted at all. Violation of sub-rule (6) does not imply a penalty. Therefore, I must hold that it was not the intention of the legislature that on violation of the provision of sub-rule (6) a vote must be rejected. Hence, the trial court was not in error in accepting those postal votes. This point of Mr. Roy must be overruled.

The third point of Mr. Roy was regarding the statements in the leaflet which contained an extract from the Paygam, i.e., Ext. 1. It is stated by Mr. Bose that Ex. 1 was not proved by a competent person. It mentions the name of one Benoy Roy. Whether it was truly the compilation by Benoy Roy or not, we do not know. Therefore, the document should not have been marked an exhibit. That is the argument of Mr. Bose on behalf of the Appellant in answer to the argument of Mr. Roy that Ex. 1 shows corrupt practice adopted by the returned candidate Pal. Before I go into the merits of the matter I would consider whether this point as to the admissibility of Ext. 1 is of any substance. P.W. 1 Ajit Kr. Bose was examined in part on 13th May 1963. Documents, Exts. 1, 2 and 3, were marked. A petition was filed objecting to the marking of the booklet as Ext. 1. The Judge merely said that the objection would be considered at the time of the argument. I am afraid, the Judge was wrong. The question was whether the P.W. 1 could prove the document, namely, it was actually prepared by the said Benoy Roy who acted on behalf of the party for which Pal was a candidate. If such an objection is taken for admitting a document, it should be decided at once and if the document is not properly proved, opportunity should be given to the party aggrieved for proving the document. The judge observed that the contents of the pamphlet, Ext. 1, have not been legally proved. If that was so, the judge should have given an opportunity to the petitioner to have it proved in the proper manner, but that was not given by the judge. We asked Mr. Bose if he insisted on his objection regarding the manner of proving Ext. 1, we would in that case be compelled to send the matter back and give the petitioner an opportunity to prove the document properly. But Mr. Bose considering the merits of the matter did not press the point. It may be observed that the point though urged in the trial court might not have been urged very seriously, because the Judge even though he has said that the document is not legally proved, has still allowed the document to remain as an exhibit in the case. If the party wants to press his objection regarding the admissibility of the document, he cannot at the same time challenge the merits of the same, until it is properly proved and even if a party has a right of making an alternative argument, the court cannot find the document to be not legally proved and, therefore, no evidence in the case but yet consider the merits of the case on the said document. As the merits of the case on the document was considered in the trial court without much objection and as the merits of the case on this point has been urged before us, we do find that the objection regarding the admissibility of Ext. 1 was not and has not been seriously pressed. If we now refer to the compilation itself, the only paragraph, which is strongly objected, is the last portion of the extract from the "Paygam", dated the 10th February 1962. That extract is as follows:--

> "Having known the real object-principles of communism the Muslim masses and intelligentsia will surely come to this conclusion that the sooner the communist party is exterminated from the political field of our country the better for us. Come, let each of us, religious Muslims, go ahead with the firm and noble vow of exterminating the communists from our country, with our united effort by using in the next election the weapon of destruction we have in our hands in the form of the ballot paper."

"Communism" as they have understood in the said document is, Islam minus God. The question is whether in the context of the entire extract is there any corrupt practice within the meaning of section 123 (2), proviso (a)(ii). Proviso (a)(ii) says, "Induces or attempts to induce a candidate or an elector to believe that he, or any person in whom he is interested, will become or will be rendered an object of divine displeasure or spiritual censure". The statement was not aimed at any particular voter and we have no evidence that any particular voter was in any way influenced by the statement; the 'Paygam" does not say that if you vote for the Communist party, you would incur displeasure of the God or spiritual censure. All that is stated is that communism conforms to the principles of Islam but the only difference is that they do not believe in God. It is nowhere stated if a Muslim votes for a communist, he would incur divine displeasure. The whole idea is that, as the communist do not believe in God, let that party be exterminated. We do not think that there has been undue influence within the meaning of section 123, sub-clause (2)(a)(ii). This point of Mr. Roy must be overruled.

The fourth point also relates to corrupt practices. It appears from a document, which is marked Ex. 8A, that the returned candidate Pal forcibly entered into the polling booth in an agitated manner with a section of the crowd and the result was that some of the waiting voters did not cast their votes between 1-10 p.m. and 2-15 p.m. although the polling station was open all through. The sector police on receiving information from the Presiding Officer intervened and polling was completed without any major incident. According to the Presiding Officer, the crowd assembling outside was, however, aggressive and even had the intention to commit bodily injury to the party members. Their grievance, as the Presiding Officer could collect, was that the 4th Polling Officer Gosta Behari Dutta was directing the voters in such a manner as to influence their votes. The first question is whether this document is admissible in evidence and the second question is whether this document is any evidence of any corrupt practice as stated hereinbefore. With regard to the question of admissibility we find the Judge making the same mistake as before. The reports of the Presiding Officers were filed but none of them was at all proved by any witness. We find from order No. 72, dated the 24th June 1963, that the two reports of the Presiding Officers were marked as exhibits on the petitioner's side as admitted by the petitioner subject to objection by the respondent and documents filed by the respondent were also marked as exhibits after objection. These documents were marked exhibits after evidence was closed on 21st June 1963 and 24th June was fixed as a date for argument. When the Judge considered the document, Ex. 8A, the Judge observed that this document was marked for the petitioner on his own admission, but it was not admitted by Pal. The Presiding Officer, who purported to have written his report, was not examined as a witness. The Judge having considered that, found that the contents of the report was not admissible in evidence against Pal, but the Judge did not give the petitioner an opportunity to call the Presiding Officer and to have the documents proved. He found the same in his judgment and no opportunity was given to the petitioner to prove the same. The Judge was wrong here again. If it was his intention not to admit the document, he should have given the petitioner an opportunity to prove it because the petitioner could have called the Presiding Officer and have it proved by him. But this opportunity was not given. Neither was this document struck out nor arguments were disallowed on this document but the Judge arrived at his finding with regard to this document. The same thing happened here as well. We asked Mr. Bose on that point very definitely as to whether he wants to press his objection on that point and if he wants to press his objection on that point, we must give the petitioner an opportunity to prove the document properly. But having considered the matter carefully, Mr. Bose was not inclined to object to the reception of the document in evidence. Therefore, we shall proceed to consider the document and Mr. Bose has proceeded to argue the matter on merits. From the document, Ex. 8A, it is clear that there was some trouble and even some acts of violence by the crowd. But it was aimed not against the candidate but against the polling officers. Not a single voter has been examined to prove that because of this violence he was prevented from voting. The question is whether such a matter comes within the corrupt practice as under section 123(2), proviso (a)(i). That proviso is as follows:

> "(a) without prejudice to the generality of the provisions of the clause any such person as is referred to therein who—
> (i) threatens any candidate or any elector, or any person in whom a candidate or an elector is interested, with injury of any kind including social ostracism and excommunication or expulsion from any caste or community; shall be deemed to interfere with the free exercise of the electoral right of such candidate or elector within the meaning of this clause."

There is absolutely no evidence that any voter was scared away. All that we get is that voting was stopped for sometime. There is no evidence that any particular voter was threatened nor there is any independent evidence to show that any person interested in the election was threatened by the appellant or his agent. But there was a general violence aimed at a particular polling officer and may be against the agent of the candidate Basu; but there is no evidence that Pal or his agents threatened the agents of Basu. The crowd threatened the agents of Basu. This, I am afraid, is not corrupt practice within the meaning of law, if we refer to the Halsbury's Laws of England, Vol. 14, Art. 388, we get as follows:

"It is the undue influence upon individual voters and not general rioting or violence which constitutes the corrupt practice, though the election may also be avoided on the latter ground".

In this case, as I have stated above, there is no evidence to show that any particular voter was prevented from voting. Reference has been made to Election Petitions—O'malley' Hardcastle—Vol. 1, where Mr. Baron Martin referred to Corrupt Practices Act 1854, and observed as follows:

"According to the true construction of that section, in my opinion, it means the personal direct intimidation of the voter, and does not at all refer to a general intimidation like that alleged in the fourth averment of the petition."

The fourth averment was violating in the town on the polling day to such an extent that the persons entitled to vote were prevented from voting. This case is at page 245 of the said volume. The same view was taken in another case reported at page 62 of that very volume. Mr. Bose referred to a decision of the Orissa High Court in Vol. 17—Election Law Reports, page 427, between Dharanidhar Mahapatra vs. Pradipta Kishore Das and ors. where the same view, as in the case of Borough of Nottingham's has been followed. The statute also refers to intimidation to an elector and that again must be on evidence. There is no evidence that any voter was actually threatened. The evidence is on the basis of Ext. 8A that there was trouble on the polling booth for sometime and the police restored order thereafter and the record shows that a very large number of people voted. Hence, this objection of Mr. Roy must also be set aside.

The other points, which remain to be considered, are objections of Mr. Bose regarding the right of Mr. Roy to challenge the finding which has been arrived at by the court below against him. The election has been set aside on the question of not filing recriminatory notice as under section 97. On all other points the Election Judge found against the petitioner. Mr. Roy challenges these findings. The question is whether those findings could be challenged without filing any appeal or any cross-objection. The Right to appeal is provided by section 116(A) where it is provided that "an appeal shall lie from every order made by a Tribunal under section 98 or section 99 to the High Court of the State in which the Tribunal is situated." Sub-section (2) is as follows:

"The High Court shall, subject to the provisions of this Act, have the same powers, jurisdiction and authority, and follow the same procedure with respect to an appeal under this chapter as if the appeal were an appeal from an original decree passed by a civil court situated within the local limits of its civil appellate jurisdiction:

Provided that where the High Court consists of more than two Judges every appeal under this chapter shall be heard by a Bench of not less than two Judges."

The result, therefore, is that Or. 41 of the Code of Civil Procedure is attracted because of section 116A(2) and Or. 41, Rule 22(1) states as follows:—

"Any respondent, though he may not have appealed from any part of the decree, may not only support the decree on any of the grounds decided against him in the court below, but take any cross-objection to the decree which he could have taken by way of appeal, provided he has filed such objection in the appellate court within one month from the date of service on him or his pleader of notice of the day fixed for hearing the appeal, or within such further time as the appellate court may see fit to allow."

Hence, Or. 41, Rule 22 provides for two things, namely, (i) that the respondent may support the decree on any of the grounds decided against him in the court below and (ii) may also file a cross-objection. Because of section 116A(2), Or. 41, Rule 22 is attracted. Because Order 41, Rule 22 of the Code is attracted, the respondent Basu in this Court has the right to support the decree on any of the grounds decided against him in the court below. This objection of Mr. Bose is overruled.

The second objection of Mr. Bose on behalf of the returned candidate is that security in terms of an appeal was not filed. There is no provision for filing security with regard to a cross-objection either in Act or under the rules and if that is the only ground, Mr. Roy on behalf of the respondent has expressed his willingness to deposit the money as soon as we shall direct him to deposit the security provided it was necessary. As there is no provision regarding furnishing security in respect of the cross-objection, we do not make any direction on that matter. Mr. Bose has referred to the judgment of Hidyatullah, C.J. of the Madhya Pradesh High Court on that point. Mr. Bose referred in this connection to the same judgment of the Madhya Pradesh High Court in 15 E.L.R. 219 where it has been held that, since the making of security for purposes of costs is a condition for an appeal, it must be taken to be a condition for the cross-objection also, and their Lordships further observed that when a new party is joined, it is more desirable that costs should be deposited. So far as the present case is concerned, the petitioner before the trial court has filed the oss-objection. He has deposited the sum there. nally, he was willing to deposit the sum if we were elined to hold that deposit of such sum was cessary. In the aforesaid case as well, the time or acceptance of security was extended under the rovisions of Or. 41, Rule 22. It may be desirable at security should again be furnished, but unless ere is specific provision for that, we cannot say at the furnishing of security is a condition for a oss-objection as well. If the legislature has not ad it, we cannot compel the parties to do things hich the legislature thought that they were not quired to do. I do agree that it may be very sirable to provide for the same, but unless the atute concerned is amended to remove the diffi-alty, we cannot hold that the cross-objection should e defeated for not furnishing the security.

Art. 119A provides for security for costs of appeal. says as follows:

"Every person who prefers an appeal under Chapter IVA shall enclose with the memorandum of appeal a Government Treasury receipt showing that a deposit of five hundred rupees has been made by him either in a Government Treasury or in the Reserve Bank of India in favour of the Election Commission as security for the costs of the appeal."

here is no corresponding provision for the cross-jection and it is not within our power to ld the word "cross-objection" after the word ppeal" and before the words "a Government easury". I must, therefore, hold that furnishing security is not a condition precedent to the filing a cross-objection. It is not a condition under e rules regarding an appeal under Chapter IV. therefore, overrule the objection of Mr. Bose that s. 500 as security for costs should have been posited. In any case, the respondent cross-jector as petitioner has already deposited the sum Rs. 500 while filing the petition before the ection Judge.

The result, therefore, is that on the finding arrived by the Election Judge, which have not been allenged before us, stands, out of the total valid tes the appellant Pal got a total of 28,875 votes d the respondent Basu got a total of 28,857 votes. e result is that the election should not be set ide as the appellant Pal secured the majority of valid votes. I may note here that the trial court und, following 15 Election Law Reports, page 219, at while considering the question whether the titioner is to be declared elected or not, all valid tes have to be taken into account. But while nsidering whether the election should be set aside not, all valid votes would not be considered as the spondent Pal did not file a recriminatory notice. is view again is inconsistent with the provisions sections 100(1) and 101. The condition laid wn in section 101 does not come into operation less the condition referred to in section 100 is mplied with or, in other orders, unless the ction becomes void, the question of claiming that e petitioner should have been declared elected es not arise. But the Court below held that ile scrutinising votes as under section 0 (1) (d) (iii) all lawful votes should not be taken o account but only some of them unless a notice recrimination is filed. But while considering tion 101, all lawful votes will have to be taken into consideration. This, in our opinion, is not the intention of the legislature. Section 101 is dependent on section 100(1) and there is nothing in the language either of section 100(1) or of section 101 that in scrutinising votes for purposes of section 100(1) something is to be done and something else is to be done in scrutinising the votes for purposes of section 101. Section 100(d)(iii) directs a scrutiny of "any vote" which has been improperly received or improperly refused or improperly rejected or any vote which is void has been accepted. It makes no distinction as regards votes in favour of the petitioner or in favour of the returned candidate or in favour of any other person. The word "any" is not qualified by saying "any vote on behalf of the petitioner" or "any vote on behalf of the person who has given a notice for recrimination". If we understand section 100 in that way, we have to quality "any vote" by adding "any vote in favour of the petitioner or the returned candidate who has given a notice of recrimination"; in that case the result would be if there is a third party who is neither the petitioner nor the returned candidate, votes in his favour, would not be taken into consideration in declaring as to whether the election is void. It may be that on scrutiny it would be found that neither the returned candidate nor the petitioner has got the highest votes, but a third candidate, who has neither filed an objection nor a petition for recrimination, got the highest votes, even then the returned candidate would still remain returned, because by the said interpretation his (the third candidate's) votes will not be taken into account. It is needless to consider the matter further, as we have considered it in details while considering the interpretation of section 97. But the trial court found for purposes of section 101 that all lawful votes have to be taken into account. I agree with him, though I do not agree with him that all lawful votes are not be taken into consideration while considering section 100(1)(d)(iii).

The result, therefore, is that we must accept the findings of the trial court that the petitioner Basu got 28,857 votes and the appellant Pal, who was respondent before the Election Judge, got 28,875 votes. The result, therefore, is that there was absolutely no reason for setting aside the election and we must set side the order of the Election Judge and allow the appeal and dismiss the petition and dismiss the cross-objection.

None of the parties challenged before this Court the finding of fact arrived at on various points by the courts below. The questions that were urged were all questions of law. The reason why the Election Judge found against the returned candidate in his interpretation of section 97 which is supported by a judgment of the Madhya Pradesh High Court reported in 15 Election Law Reports, page 219. The law on this point cannot be said to be very much settled, particularly in view of the fact that the Madhya Pradesh High Court took one view of the matter and the Allahabad High Court took a contrary view with regard to section 97(1). The view of the Allahabad High Court with which we have agreed in substance is reported in 22 Election Reports, 47, between Lakshmi Shankar vs. Kunwar. There is no decision of our High Court on this point. Therefore, I cannot blame either of the parties and cannot award costs against either of the parties.

The result, therefore, is that each party will bear his costs both in this Court as well before the Election Judge The order for costs of the Election Judge is also set aside.

Let the substance of the decision be communicated to the Election Commission and to the Speaker of the State Legislature and an authenticated copy of the decision be sent to the Election Commission in terms of section 116, Rule 6.

The appeal is accordingly allowed and the cross-objection dismissed without any order as to costs.

A. C. SEN, J:

A. C. SEN, J:

The present appeal arises out of an election petition filed under section 80 and 81 of the Representation of the People Act, 1951. The said petition was filed by Ajit, the respondent No. 1, against the appellant, Pravakar and the respondents Nos. 2 and 3. The respondent No. 2 was the third candidate for election who withdrew his candidature by a notice in writing to the Returning Officer. The respondent No. 3 is the Returning Officer. The petition was allowed in part. Election of Pravakar was declared to be void. Hence Pravakar has preferred the present appeal. Ajit's prayer to be declared elected however was rejected. Hence Ajit has preferred a cross-objection. The appeal and the cross-objection have been heard together and my judgment relates to both.

Ajit and Pravakar were candidates of the Communist and Congress Party respectively for election to the West Bengal Legislative Assembly from the Singur Assembly Constituency at the General Election held in February 1962. The polling took place on 21st February, 1962. As a result of the counting of the ballots including postal ballots, Ajit, the Communist candidate, was found to have secured 28,822 votes and Pravakar, the Congress candidate, was found to have secured 28,853 votes. Accordingly, Returning Officer, respondent No. 3, declared Pravakar as duly elected on 26th February, 1962.

Ajit filed his election petition on 25th May, 1962 praying (i) for the appointment of the Election Tribunal (ii) for a declaration that the election of the returned candidate was void, (iii) for a declaration that the election of the returned candidate was void and that the petitioner had been duly elected, and (iv) for order or further orders as to the Tribunal might seem fit and proper.

According to Ajit, the election of Pravakar is void and invalid on the ground that serious corrupt practices were committed by Pravakar by seeking vote for himself on the basis of his caste and/or community. It is not disputed that Pravakar is a Mahisya and Ajit is a Kayastha, and that a large number, several thousands, of electors are Mahisyas by caste. Ajit alleges that Pravakar himself made fervent appeal for votes on the ground of his caste and asked the voters to refrain from voting for Ajit as he is a Kayastha. Ajit's further case is that in a public meeting held on the 26th January, 1962, at about 4 p.m. at the Borai South School compound situated in an area where the Mahisyas predominate Pravakar, as one of the speakers, urged the Mahisyas to vote for him as he was a Mahisya. A similar appeal according to Ajit, was made by Pravakar i another meeting held on 29th January 1962 in village predominantly inhabited by Mahisyas.

In paragraph 10 of the petition it is stated that i a public meeting held under the auspices of th Hooghly District Congress Committee at Singu Bazar held on the 16th February 1962 at abou 7 a.m. Pravakar urged the voters not to vote fo Ajit as he was an enemy of religion. The audienc were told, "Ajib Babu is a Communist and is deter mined to destroy all religion. To vote for Aji Babu is to go against God and religion." It i further stated in the said paragraph that in suppor of his appeal Ajit quoted copiously from a pamphle published by Shri Benoy Roy of the Publicit Committee of West Bengal State Congress Com mittee, and that the said pamphlet, being annexur C to the petition, was widely distributed in tha meeting and throughout the constituency on variou dates by Pravakar and his workers and agents This pamphlet in the opinion of Ajit, contained clear appeal to vote and refrain from voting on th ground of religion.

Ajit's further case is that Pravakar resorted t corrupt practice by means of posters, pamphlets and leaflets; and exercised undue influence on and interfered with the free exercise of electoral righ of the voters by calling upon them to oust the communist party from the political field with the help of the ballot box and by invoking divine displeasure on communism and the Communists.

Ajit challenges the election of Pravakar also on the ground that the results of the election were materially affected by serious illegalities and or irregularities in the matter of ordering the counting of votes. His grievance is that neither he nor his polling agent was allowed to be present at the time of actual counting in violation of section 64 of the Representation of the People Act, and that during the progress of the counting at the counting tables his counting agents were not always allowed to check up the first number and the last number of the ballot papers issued at a particular booth Many ballot papers, according to Ajit, should have been rejected and he asserts that there being no counting according to law the result of the election was materially affected.

In paragraph 17 of the petition have been mentioned the names of seven voters, who, it is stated, were dead. In paragraph 18 have been given several instances of non-compliance with the provisions of the Constitution and/or the Representation of the People Act, 1951, and Rules framed thereunder. In Khosalpur Polling booth, it is alleged, Provakar and his workers and supporters started a row at about 2-30 p.m. and threatened the intending voters with physical violence with the result that polling remained suspended from 3 p.m. to 4 p.m. and many voters left out of fear without voting. A similar incident it is stated, took place in Ganderpukur polling booth. Pravakar and his agents and supporters destroyed the camp of Ajit and threatened the intending voters that their life would be in jeopardy if they stayed on to cast their votes with the result that polling remained suspended for some time and many voters went away. It is also pointed out as an illustration of the infringement of the law that many electors were recorded as voters in more than one constituency and that they actually exercised their franchise in more than one booth. The supporters of Pravakar, it is alleged, took out a procession with a motor vehicle bedecked with National flags within 100 yards of the polling booth. Numbers of several ballot papers alleged to have been improperly rejected or accepted have been given in support of the allegation that the Act and the Rules have been violated.

In paragraph 19 of the petition Ajit has given reasons why the acceptance of 83 postal ballot papers in favour of Pravakar and the rejection of 22 ballot papers in favour of Ajit were illegal and improper.

Ajit concludes that the results of the election so far as Pravakar is concerned was materially affected by the reception of void votes, by the improper and illegal acceptance of invalid votes, by the improper and illegal rejection of valid votes and by the contravention of the provisions of the Act and the Rules. He asserts that a recounting of the ballot papers will show that Ajit received a majority of the valid votes and that Pravakar was illegally and improperly declared elected.

As already pointed out Ajit not only asked for a declaration that the election of Pravakar was void, but also for a declaration that he was duly elected.

Pravakar in his written statement has denied the allegations contained in the election petition. He has denied the charges of corrupt practices made against him. He admits that he addressed a Congress election meeting held on 26th January 1962 at 4 p.m. in the compound of the Borai South School, but he denies that he solicited votes on the ground that he is a Mahisya. He further asserts that though he addressed another meeting on 26th January 1962 he did not ask the audience to vote for him because of his caste. As to the meeting at Singur Bazar held on 16th February 1962 he denies to have read out from or distributed any pamphlet at the said meeting as suggested in the election petition. He is positive in his assertion that there was no illegalities and or irregularities in the matter of and during the counting of votes as alleged by Ajit. In the matter of counting and scrutiny of ballot paper, says Pravakar, all that was done was fair and aboveboard, and there was no violation of section 64 of the Representation of the People Act, 1951. He has denied the allegations of Ajit (1) that many ballot papers liable to be rejected were not rejected, (2) that there was no counting according to law with opportunity to Ajit and his counting agents to be present at the time of the counting and (3) that the counting of votes was done in such a way that the result of the election was materially affected. His case is that counting was made in strict compliance with the Act and the Rules thereunder. He has stoutly denied that many voters were prevented from voting by reason of the disturbance caused by him and his followers in the polling booths at Khosalpur and Ganderpukur. The allegations as to double voting and the taking out of a procession within 100 yards of the polling booth at Chhutipur have also been denied by Pravakar. As to the postal ballot papers he asserts that 83 ballot papers were accepted and 22 rejected in accordance with law. According to him, there was no improper acceptance or rejection of ballot papers. He asserts that his election is legal and valid and that the result of the election was not affected by illegality or irregularity as suggested by Ajit or in any other way.

As many as 16 issues were framed: they are briefly indicated below:

1. Whether the application is vague.
2. Whether there was appeal to caste, community or religion in the election meetings, if so, whether the election has been affected thereby.
3. Whether election was affected for appeal to voter's religion.
4. Was there undue influence or coercion? Is the charge vague?
5. Whether the election has been affected due to coercion and highhandness of Pravakar and his supporters at Khosalpur and Ganderpukur.
6. Was polling suspended at Khosalpur and Ganderpukur? If so, has it materially affected the results of polling?
7. Whether election has been affected by the acceptance of votes of dead persons.
8. Whether voters enlisted in different polling booths of the same constituency were allowed to vote twice.
9. Whether any procession was taken within 100 yards of the booth at Chhutipur.
10. Whether there has been any improper counting of votes.
13. Whether any votes were improperly rejected or accepted; if so; what is the number of valid votes polled by Ajit
14. Whether the procedure relating to postal votes were properly followed. Whether any postal ballot was improperly accepted or rejected
15. Whether the result of the election was materially affected because of irregularities.
16. To what relief Ajit is entitled.

On the 4th July 1963 Pravakar filed a petition praying that the votes of Ajit improperly accepted be rejected and that the votes of Pravakar improperly rejected be accepted. Pravakar stated in the said petition that it was open to him to make such prayer as Ajit had not only challenged Pravakar's election but had also asked for a declaration that he Ajit, had been duly elected. He supplied two lists, one, a list of votes which, according to him, were improperly accepted on behalf of Ajit, another, a list of votes cast in his favour which, according to him, were improperly rejected.

As many as 22 witnesses on behalf of Ajit and 10 witnesses on behalf of Pravakar were examined.

The learned Member of the Tribunal after elaborate examination of the oral evidence came to the following conclusion on issue No. 3: "Considering all the evidence, I must hold that the petitioner has failed to establish the charges of corrupt practices alleged by him and the issues must be answered in the negative."

Issues Nos. 4, 5 and 6 too were found in favour of Pravakar. The learned Member held that Ajit had failed to prove intimidation or undue influence. There were no doubt disturbances at Khosalpur and Ganderpukur resulting in the suspension of voting for some time, but, in the opinion of the learned Member, the result of the election was not materially affected.

Issue No. 7 as to whether any vote was recorded in the name of a dead person has been answered in the negative.

As to issue No. 8 the finding of the Tribunal is that two voters, Sudhansu and Sitangshu, cast vote twice; accordingly these four votes have been held to be void. The learned Member says that these four votes were cast in favour of Ajit, but in fact they were cast in favour of Pravakar and that is admitted by both sides. This will also be clear from the learned Member's finding on issue No. 13.

Issue No. 9 as to whether a procession was taken out by Pravakar and his followers within 100 yds. of the polling booth has been answered in the negative.

In deciding the issue No. 10 as to irregularities in the matter of the counting of votes the learned Member of the Tribunal considered the written statement as well as the deposition of the Returning Officer, respondent No. 3 in the present appeal, the depositions of the several witnesses examined by Ajit and Pravakar and also examined the ballot papers. His conclusion on these three issues is as follows: "On an examination of the ballot papers it was found that two ballot papers of Memari Constituency were counted for the petitioner as valid. These should have been rejected as spurious. . . It was also found that two ballot papers in favour of respondent No. 1 (Pravakar) were counted for the petitioner. Furthermore it was found that 57 ballot papers in favour of the petitioner and 44 ballot papers in favour of the respondent No. 1 were improperly rejected and 22 ballot papers in favour of the petitioner and 20 ballot papers in favour of the respondent No. 1 were improperly accepted . I am, therefore, inclined to believe that although the rules regarding counting of votes were generally followed the scrutiny was imperfect. . . There may be some truth in the allegation of the petitioner that his counting agents did not get full opportunity to inspect the ballot papers which were rejected. In some of the rejected ballot papers there appear mark of the stamps, although faint, to indicate for whom the vote was cast. There was a recounting of votes at the instance of the petitioner, but at that time also barring a few corrections, no proper scrutiny was made. It must be held, therefore, that some of the provisions of rule 54 were not properly complied with "

In deciding issue No. 13 as to whether votes were improperly rejected or accepted the learned Member examined all the ballot papers in the presence of the lawyers of both the contesting parties. His finding is that 57 votes cast for Ajit were improperly rejected, 20 votes cast for Pravakar were improperly accepted, 44 votes cast for Pravakar were improperly rejected and 22 votes cast for Ajit were improperly accepted. But the result of the examination, according to him, is as follows: "From a result of my examination above, it will thus appear that the petitioner (Ajit) received (28,822+57) 28,879 votes and respondent No. 1 (Pravakar) received (28,853—20) 28,833 votes. I have also found four of his votes void. So, his total vote would be 28,829." No doubt four votes cast in favour of Pravakar are void on the ground of double voting. But the learned Member in calculating the total votes secured by Pravakar, the successful candidate, has not taken into consideration the 44 votes cast for Pravakar that, according to the learned Member himself, were improperly rejected. Having found that Pravakar obtained only 28,829 votes as against 28,879 votes obtained by Ajit the learned Member has declared the election of Pravakar as void. It has been argued before us on behalf of Pravakar, the appellant, that the finding of the learned Member that Pravakar all told obtained only 28,829 votes is wholly unwarranted and erroneous on the face of it. The argument, on the other hand, in support of the cross-objection is that the learned Member having found that Ajit in fact obtained 28,879 votes should have declared Ajit duly elected. I shall presently discuss the validity of these rival arguments after noting the finding of the learned Member on the rest of the issues.

Issue No. 14 relates to the postal ballots. That issue too has been found in favour of Pravakar. Out of 105 postal ballots, 22 were rejected and the remaining 83 were declared to be valid votes in favour of Pravakar by the Returning Officer. The learned Member has upheld the action of the Returning Officer. He has pointed out that though rule 62(6) has not been strictly complied with the procedure for receiving postal ballot has been substantially complied with and that no postal ballot was improperly accepted or rejected. On the other hand he thinks that two postal ballots in favour of Pravakar were improperly rejected.

In deciding issue No. 15, that is to say, in deciding whether the result of the election has been materially affected because of irregularties the learned Member came to the following conclusion: "It will thus appear that the petitioner has secured 28,879 votes as against 28,833 votes of respondent No. 1 (Pravakar). It must be held, therefore, that the result of the election has been materially affected because of the irregularities in the matter of counting and for this, the election of respondent No. 1 is liable to be set aside." The learned Member has taken the view that Pravakar, as he did not file any recrimination petition under section 97 of the Representation of the People Act, 1951, was not entitled to show that some of his votes were improperly rejected and some of the votes of the petitioner were improperly accepted.

But in deciding issue No. 16 that is to say, whethe Ajit is entitled to be declared duly elected the learned Member thinks that the votes improperly accepted or rejected either in the case of Pravakar or in the case of Ajit are to be taken into consideration. It must be held, he says, that Ajit did not get majority of the valid votes and he cannot, therefore, be declared elected.

Naturally both the candidates are dissatisfied with the decision of the Tribunal. I would like first of all to take up the appeal preferred by the returned candidate Pravakar. Thereafter I propose to deal with the cross-objection filed by the defeated candidate, Ajit.

t is contended on behalf of the appellant, Pravakar, it even without filing any recrimination petition der section 97 of the Act of 1951 he is entitled to ow, by way of defence to the election petition, that ne of his votes were improperly rejected, and some the votes of Ajit were improperly accepted. In e written statement originally filed by Pravakar ere was no allegation that some of the votes cast his favour were improperly rejected or that some the votes cast in favour of Ajit were improperly cepted. Consequently no such issue was framed the Tribunal. The issues were framed by the ibunal on 24th June 1962. It is on 4th July 1963 at Pravakar raised this question by filing an ditional written statement, as stated above.

It may be pointed out that the question of improper jection or acceptance of ballot papers was raised Ajit himself in his election petition long before e filing of the additional written statement by avakar. Paragraph 18(V) of the election petition ns thus: "During counting a large number of llot papers where votes were cast in favour of the tition were illegally and improperly rejected while llot papers with similar condition and mark casting tes in favour of respondent No. 1 were illegally and nproperly accepted." In paragraph 20 of the election tition it is stated that the result of the election far as the respondent No. 1 is concerned was aterially affected on the ground of reception of void tes, improper and illegal acceptance of invalid votes, nproper and illegal rejection of valid votes and ntravention of the provisions of the Act and the ules. There is a request in paragraph 21 for counting the ballot papers including the postal ballot pers because the result of the examination, according to the petitioner, would show that the election of avakar was void.

Pravakar denied in paragraph 26 of his written atement that any ballot papers were either nproperly rejected or accepted, and in paragraph 32 his written statement he asserted that the result the election was not materially affected by improper ception or rejection of ballots.

On these pleadings the following issue, being sue No. 13, was framed: "Whether any votes ere improperly rejected or accepted? If so, what is e number of valid voates polled by the petitioner?"

It is therefore clear that Ajit called in question e election of Pravakar, amongst other, on the ound stated in section 100(1)(d)(iii) of the Representation of the People Act, 1951. Section 0(1)(d)(iii) provides as follows:

"Subject to the provisions of sub-section (2) if the Tribunal is of opinion that the result of the election, in so far as it concerns a returned candidate has been materially affected by the improper reception, refusal or rejection of any vote or the reception of any vote which is void, the tribunal shall declare the election of the returned candidate to be void."

paragraph 20 of his petition Ajit has quoted nost verbatim the language of section 100(1)(d)(iii).

Now, if by an election petition the Tribunal is ed to declare the election of a returned candidate id under section 100(1)(d)(iii), the Tribunal must m an opinion as to whether the result of the ction has been materially affected by the improper reception, refusal or rejection of any vote or the reception of any vote which is vote. Sub-clause (iii) speaks of any vote, not necessarily the votes cast for the returned candidate. If that be so it is the duty of the Tribunal, in order to ascertain whether the result of the election has been materially effected, to see whether any vote either in favour of the returned candidate or in favour of any other candidate has been improperly rejected or accepted. Of course, the petitioner must make out a prima facie case that certain votes have been improperly rejected or accepted. The petitioner naturally will say that some of his votes have been improperly rejected and that some of the votes of the respondent have been improperly accepted where, as in the present case, the petitioner not only seeks avoidance of the election of the successful candidate but also asks that he should be declared elected. Even in a case like this there is nothing in section 100 which enjoins upon the Tribunal to take note of only such votes of the petitioner as were improperly rejected and such votes of the returned candidates as were improperly accepted even though on an examination of the ballots it is found that certain votes of the petitioner were improperly accepted and certain votes of the returned candidates were improperly rejected.

If the petitioner fails to make out a prima facie case that any vote has been improperly rejected or accepted the Tribunal may not exercise its discretion under rule 93, that is to say, may not pass any order for scrutiny and recount. In that case the election of a returned candidate cannot be declared void under section 100(1)(d)(iii). In the instant case Ajit's prayer for scrutiny and recount has been granted and the ballots were in fact examined to ascertain the number of votes improperly rejected or accepted in respect of both the candidates. The learned Member of the Tribunal has found as a fact that Ajit did not receive a majority of votes, and it is for this reason that Ajit's second prayer to be declared duly elected was rejected. The first prayer of Ajit asking for avoidance of Pravakar's election was however allowed on the ground that the result of the election had been materially affected by the improper rejection or acceptance of votes. In arriving at this conclusion for avoiding Pravakar's election the learned Member took into consideration only the votes of Ajit improperly rejected and the votes of Pravakar improperly accepted. As already indicated, according to the finding of the Tribunal, 57 votes of Ajit were improperly rejected, and 20 votes of Pravakar were improperly received and four votes of Pravakar were void. The learned Member thinks that in order to ascertain whether the result of the election has been materially affected or not, 57 votes are to be added to 28,822 votes, which, according to the Returning Officer, were obtained by Ajit; and 24 votes are to be deducted from 28,853 votes, which, according to the Returning Officer, were obtained by Pravakar. By this method Ajit's total votes amount to 28,879 and Pravakar's total votes amount to 28,829. If this is the correct method for ascertain whether the result of the election has been materially affected, then, it must be said, the learned Member was justified in avoiding the election of Pravakar.

But, is there anything in section 100(1)(d)(iii) which justified this artificial method of computation? The learned Member has left out of account 22 votes of Ajit improperly accepted and 46 votes of Pravakar improperly rejected. If these two figures are taken into account, the total number of valid votes secured by Ajit comes to (28,879−22) that is, 28,857 and the total number of valid votes secured by Pravakar comes to (28,853 24+46) that is 28,875. Therefore, it cannot be said that the result of the election was materially affected by improper acceptance or rejection of votes or by reception of void votes, unless the Tribunal is precluded from taking note of the votes of Ajit improperly received or the votes of Pravakar improperly rejected. There is nothing in section 100(1)(d)(iii) that precludes the Tribunal from doing so.

But the learned Member has left out of account the 22 votes improperly received in favour of Ajit and the 46 votes improperly rejected to the prejudice of Pravakar, because he thinks that section 100 is controlled by section 97.

Section 97 in so far as it is material for our purpose is set out below:

> "Section 97. (1) When in an election petition a declaration that any candidate other than the returned candidate has been duly elected is claimed, the returned candidate.. ... may give evidence to prove that the election of such candidate would have been void if he had been the returned candidate and a petition had been presented calling in question his election:
> Provided that the returned candidate.....shall not be entitled to give such evidence unless he has, within fourteen days from the date of commencement of the trial, given notice to the Tribunal of his intention to do so and has also given the security and the further security referred to in sections 117 and 118, respectively."

In the instant case no notice by way of recrimination was filed within the period mentioned in the proviso. Pravakar undoubtedly is not entitled to give evidence to prove that the election of Ajit would have been void if Ajit had been the returned candidate and a petition had been presented calling in question Ajit's election. But, does it necessarily follow that the Tribunal in order to form the opinion as to whether the result of the election, in so far as it concerns Pravakar, has been materially affected by the improper reception, refusal or rejection of any vote or the reception of any vote which is void, is not to give full effect to the result of its scrutiny and recount of the ballot papers simply because no notice by way of recrimination has been given by Pravakar? The answer cannot but be in the negative. At least there is nothing in section 100 that compels the Tribunal to do so.

The learned Member of the Tribunal thinks, and it is also contended on behalf of Ajit, that inasmuch as the proviso to section 97 disentitles Pravakar from giving evidence that the election of Ajit would have been void if he had been returned, and inasmuch as improper reception or rejection of votes is one of the grounds for avoiding election, therefore, the Tribunal even for the sake of ascertaining how far the result of the election has been affected by improper reception or rejection of votes, cannot take note of the 22 votes improperly received in favour of Ajit and of the 46 votes improperly rejected to the prejudice of Pravakar: "In my opinion" says t learned Member, "in the absence of any recrimi tory petition or any plea in the written stateme respondent No. 1 (Pravakar) is not entitled to sh that some of his own votes were improper rejected."

It may be pointed out that Pravakar by a petiti filed on 4th July 1963 more than one year after t filing of the election petition raised this plea, v that some of Ajit's votes were improperly receiv and some of his own votes were improperly reject The learned Advocate for Pravakar began his arg ment on 24th June 1963 and the said petition w filed, while the argument was in progress. On t said petition the learned Member that very d passed the following order: "This is a matter f argument." In the written statement filed on 19 June 1962 there was no such plea. Paragraph 2 the said petition filed on 4th July 1963 gives t reason why Pravakar thought that he was entitl to take this plea. Paragraph 2 runs thus:

> "That in order to succeed in the second pray the petitioner has to prove that he acquired majority of valid votes and that in that event it open to the respondent No. 1 to take up the pl which the respondent No. 1 hereby does, that som of the respondent No. 1's votes were improper rejected and some of the votes of the petition were improperly accepted."

The learned Member too has taken the view th before declaring Ajit duly elected the Tribunal mu see how many votes of Pravakar were improper rejected and how many votes of Ajit were impr perly accepted.

Now the question is whether this is to be don also for the purpose of ascertaining how far th result of the election has been materially affected b improper reception or rejection of votes.

It may be noted that it is Ajit who filed a petitio on 10th May 1963 praying for permission to inspe the ballot papers after breaking the sealed cover and Pravakar put in an application next day raisi objection against Ajit's application for inspection o the ballot papers. On 25th May 1963 the learne Member permitted the lawyers for Ajit and Prav kar and the Returning Officer to inspect the ballo papers in his presence. The inspection continue till 30th May 1963.

The inspection of the ballot papers was in subs tance inspection by the Tribunal with the assistanc of the lawyers of the parties, and it is as a result o this inspection that the Tribunal found that 57 vote of Ajit were improperly rejected and 22 of his vote were improperly received; and that 46 votes c Pravakar were improperly rejected and 24 of h votes were improperly received. It was not nece sary to lead any evidence either by Ajit or by Pra vakar to enable the Tribunal to come to this findin

The following passage is to be found in Halsbury' Laws of England, Third Edition, Volume 14 at pag 308:

> "It would appear that an order may be mad for the inspection of tendered ballot papers sinc there is an inherent jurisdiction in the Court t order inspection of ballot papers except where i is otherwise provided by statute."

In my opinion in India too the Tribunal has an inherent jurisdiction to order inspection of ballot papers except where it is otherwise provided by statute. This inherent jurisdiction has not been curtailed either by the Representation of the People Act, 1951, or by any other statute. The inherent power of the Tribunal to order inspection may also be inferred from section 90 of the Act, which provides that subject to the provisions of this Act and of any rules made thereunder, every election petition shall be tried by the Tribunal, as nearly as may be, in accordance with the procedure applicable under the Code of Civil Procedure to the trial of suits. Like a Civil Court, the Tribunal too, in my opinion, can exercise inherent powers for the ends of justice or to prevent abuse of its process.

If the Tribunal orders inspection of ballot papers, it is bound to reject a ballot paper tainted with any of the defects mentioned in clauses (a) to (h) of sub-rule (2) of rule 56 of the Conduct of Election Rules, 1961, if not already rejected by the Returning Officer. Similarly the Tribunal is bound to receive as one valid vote any ballot paper improperly rejected by the Returning Officer. For such rejection or reception it is not necessary for any party to the election petition to give any evidence. Therefore the provision to section 97 of the Representation of the People Act, 1951, can have no application where the petitioner claiming a declaration that he himself or any other candidate has been duly elected calls in question the election of the returned candidate solely on the ground that the result of the election of the returned candidate has been materially affected by the improper reception or rejection of ballot papers, because in such a case there is no necessity for giving any evidence by either party that the result of the election has been materially affected by improper reception or rejection of any vote. The Tribunal itself shall ascertain the position suo motu on an inspection of the ballot papers. In Lakshmi Shankar Yadav v. Kunwar Sripal Singh, 15 E.L.R. 97 their Lordships of the Allahabad High Court observed as follows:

> "A plea by the elected candidate that some of his votes were wrongly rejected or some of the other candidates wrongly accepted is a plea which, we think, falls outside the ambit of sub-section (1) of section 97 of the Act."

I respectfully agree with this view.

Therefore I cannot agree with the views expressed by their Lordships of the Madhya Pradesh High Court in Inayatullah v. Dewan Chand A.I.R. 1959 M.P. 58 that where a petitioner claims that he should be declared elected instead of the returned candidate the Tribunal is to ignore, in the absence of a notice by way of recrimination the votes improperly received on behalf of the petitioner for the purpose of avoiding the election of the returned candidate. The Tribunal in the instant case has relied upon the ruling in Inayatulla's case in declaring the election of Pravakar void.

In Inayatulla's case the petitioner, Mahajan, received 115 and the returned candidate, Inayatulla received 107 votes recorded in ballot papers without the distinguishing marks. Their Lordships of the M. P. High Court rejected the 107 votes given to Inayatullah and deducted them from the total arrived at by the Returning Officer; but the 115 votes suffering from the same defect cast in favour of Mahajan were not so deducted from Mahajan's total recorded by the Returning Officer. By this process their Lordships came to the conclusion that the result of the election was materially affected, because the difference between the two candidates, according to the Returning Officer, was only 80.

Their Lordships adopted this course, because in their opinion, Inayatulla, who did not file a recrimination, could not ask that the unmarked ballot papers of Mahajan should be cancelled. "If Inayatulla desired", observed their Lordships, "that.....votes of Mahajan suffering from a like defect should be eliminated he had, in our opinion, to comply with the provisions of s. 97 and file a recrimination bringing in the question whether the votes cast in favour of Mahajan should also be excluded in the light of the defect discovered. Unless he did so, the proviso to s. 97 would apply and he would be estopped from giving evidence in the case.

.....In our opinion, the provisions of s. 97 being of a special character will cut down the general provisions of s. 100(1)(d) and to that extent the special law will prevail. In view of the fact that Mahajan had claimed to be the returned candidate instead of Inayatulla. Inayatulla had to take recourse to the law of recrimination to bring into question the votes polled by Mahajan. If he did not do so, and if he only defended his own votes, he could not asked that the votes of Mahajan to be looked into, and, in our opinion, the Tribunal ought not to have looked into that evidence."

Their Lordships think that as there was no recrimination by Inayatulla, "the Tribunal ought not to have looked into that evidence". By the expression 'that evidence' their Lordships evidently mean the votes polled by Mahajan. In my opinion there is nothing in the provision to section 97 which precludes the Tribunal from considering the votes of Mahajan, especially when Mahajan asked the Tribunal to exclude the 107 votes of Inayatulla recorded in unmarked ballot papers. Undoubtedly Mahajan asked for a scrutiny and recount and thereupon the Tribunal passed an order for the inspection of the ballot papers. There is nothing in the proviso to section 97 that suggests that scrutiny is to be confined to the ballot papers cast in favour of the returned candidate, if no recrimination is filed by him. Mahajan could not have been declared elected unless the Tribunal was satisfied as a result of the scrutiny that Mahajan in fact obtained a majority of the votes, neither could the Tribunal form the opinion that the result of the election had been materially affected by improper reception or rejection of votes without scrutinising all the votes cast either in favour of Mahajan or in favour of Inayatulla.

Their Lordships think the votes of Mahajan should not have been scrutinised, and this will be evident from the following passage:

> "It will be noticed that the Election Tribunal got the votes of Mahajan scrutinised merely because it was at that moment not quite clear whether s. 97 applied or not. Imagine a position in which the Election Tribunal or this Court has not before it the ballot papers of Mahajan and the question arose on the statement of Mahajan that he should be declared the returned candidate in preference to Inayatulla by excluding these 107 votes cast in favour of Inayatulla. In answer to this, Inayatulla, if he wanted that such a declaration would not be given, would have been required to file a recrimination under s. 97 and unless he did so, he could not lead evidence in support of his contention."

In my opinion, Inayatulla certainly could have asked the Tribunal by way of defence that his election should not be set aside without first ascertaining that the result of the election was materially affected by the reception of these 107 votes; and the onus of proving that the result had been materially affected undoubtedly lay upon Mahajan. It is for the purpose of discharging this onus that Mahajan asked the Tribunal to scrutinise the ballot papers, and Mahajan could not have discharged the onus by asking the Tribunal to scrutinise only the ballot papers of Inayatulla. In my opinion, it was the duty of the Tribunal to scrutinise the ballot papers of Mahajan also, no matter whether there was or was not any recrimination by Inayatulla. Therefore it cannot be said that the Tribunal ought not to have scrutinised the ballot papers of Mahajan. On the other hand, in my opinion, the Tribnual made a mistake by not giving full effect to the result of scrutiny. Moreover, there was no question of leading any evidence by Inayatulla, because the ballot papers were materials on record and Inayatulla could have defended his position by reference to the materials on record without himself leading any evidence.

The hypothetical case suggested by their Lordships could not have prevented the Tribunal from scrutinising the ballot papers of Mahajan as well. "Imagine a position", observed their Lordships, "in which the Election Tribunal or this Court has not before it the ballot papers of Mahajan and the question arose on the statement of Mahajan that he should be declared the returned candidate in preference to Inayatulla by excluding these 107 votes cast in favour of Inayatulla." Even in such a case it would have been the duty of the Tribunal, on the statement of Mahajan himself, to scrutinise his ballot papers to see if some of his votes were liable to be rejected, and no question of leading any evidence by Inayatulla would have arisen.

In the instant case, there is not only the question of excluding 24 votes from the votes of Pravakar but also the question of adding 46 votes. The learned Member thinks that in the absence of recrimination Pravakar is not entitled to show that some of his own votes were improperly rejected. Inayatulla's case does not throw any light on this point, because no such question arose in that case. Proviso to section 97 disentitles the returned candidate from giving evidence that the election of any other candidate if he had been the returned candidate, would have been void, but it does not disentitle him to show that some of his votes were improperly rejected. Therefore in my opinion the Tribunal in the present case was not justified in refusing to add the 46 votes of Pravakar improperly rejected by the Returning Officer. But even if these 46 votes are added after deducting the 24 invalid votes, Pravakar cannot maintain his election unless after adding to the votes of Ajit 57 votes improperly rejected the 22 votes improperly received are deducted. I have already given my reason why these 22 votes improperly received on behalf of Ajit should be deducted from his votes. I, therefore, hold that Ajit has not been able to make out a case that the result of the election was materially affected by improper reception or rejection of any vote. Hence, in my opinion, the Tribunal was not justified in declaring the election of Pravakar void on the ground of improper reception or rejection of votes or the reception of void votes. It may be noted that the Tribunal rejected the other grounds taken by Ajit for avoiding the election of Pravakar.

I now propose to take up the cross-objection filed by Ajit. It is contended on behalf of Ajit that as there was no recrimination by Pravakar, the Tribunal should not have deducted the 22 votes of Aijt found to be invalid in ascertaining under section 101 whether in fact a majority of the valid votes has been received by Ajit. The Tribunal having found, it is argued, for the purpose of section 100(1)(d)(iii) that Aijt has secured 28,879 votes as against 28,833 votes of Pravakar, Ajit should have been declared duly elected under section 101. I have alredy given my reason why the argument on behalf of Ajit cannot be accepted. The Tribunal was perfectly justified in refusing Ajit's prayer to be declared elected as in fact the valid votes of Ajit are less than the valid votes of Pravakar. Clause (a) of section 101 provides as follows: "If any person who has lodged a petition, has, in addition to calling in question the election of the returned candidate, claimed a declaration that he himself or any other candidate has been duly elected and the Tribunal is of opinion that in fact the petitioner or such other candidate received a majority of the valid votes the Tribunal shall after declaring the election of the returned candidate to be void declare the petitioner or such other candidate, as the case may be, to have been duly elected." Only the valid votes are to be considered and that both for the purpose of declaring the election of the returned candidate to be void as well as for the purpose of declaring the petitioner or such other candidate referred to in section 101 as duly elected. The Tribunal is required to form its opinion on the basis of valid votes. This clearly shows that the Tribunal was not justified in counting some of the invalid votes of Ajit for the purpose of declaring the election of Pravakar void under section 100(1)(d)(iii). I may mention here that no attempt was made either on behalf of Ajit or on behalf of Pravakar to show that the finding of the Tribunal that 46 votes of Pravakar were improperly rejected, 20 votes of Pravakar were improperly received, 4 votes of Pravakar were void, 57 votes of Ajit were improperly rejected and 22 votes of Ajit were improperly received was not in accordance with law. In other words the validity of the above finding was not challenged. The dispute between the parties is as to the inference to be drawn from this finding.

It was next argued on behalf of Ajit in support of the cross-objection that the election of Pravakar should have been declared void on the ground that corrupt practice had been committed by Pravakar, his election agent and by his supporters. A reference was made to the conduct of Pravakar at Khosalpur booth and reliance was placed on

Ext. 8(a), Report of the Presiding Officer of that station. The material portion of the said Report is as follows:

"I beg to report the following:

(a) Description of poll—Polling started at 7-30 a.m. and closed sharply at 4-30 p.m. Voters waiting at the closing hour were accommodated and they finished casting within 4-45 p.m. Heavy polling. Male and Female voters almost equal.

(c) Law and order—It was seriously disrupted. A section of crowd forcibly entered into the polling booth house in an agitated manner under the leadership of Shri Pravakar Pal, a candidate, as a result of which some of the waiting voters did not cast their votes between 1-10 p.m. to 2-15 p.m. although the polling station was open all through. The sector police, receiving information from me, intervened and polling was thereafter completed without major incident....."

It appears that even between 1-10 p.m. and 2-15 p.m. the polling station was open. Then again, according to this report, the polling was heavy. The result sheet (Ext. 9) shows that the percentage of vote at Khosalpur was 90 per cent. At no other station except Ganderpukur was the percentage so high. Not a single witness came forward to say that he could not cast his vote at Khosalpur or that he would have cast his vote in favour of Ajit if not prevented by the alleged disturbance.

It is contended on behalf of Ajit that the Report [Ext. 8(a)] is sufficient to establish the corrupt practice of undue influence within the meaning of section 123(2). I cannot accept this contention. There is nothing in Ext. 8(a) to show that Provakar and others entered the booth with a view to interfering with the free exercise of any electoral right. The grievance of the crowd is thus described in the said Report:

"Their grievance, as I could collect, was that the 4th Polling Officer (Shri Gostha Behari Dutta) was instructing the voters in such a measure as to influence their respective voters.....The 4th P.O. (Polling Officer) was therefore changed to another place to satisfy the grumblers."

So from Ext. 8(a) it cannot be said that Pravakar and his followers directly or indirectly interfered or attempted to interfere with the free exercise of any electoral right. On the contrary they made demonstration with a view to ensuring the free exercise of electoral right. They are not hit by either of the two paragraphs in proviso (a) to section 123(2). Therefore, in my opinion, Ext. 8(a) does not establish the charge of the corrupt practice of undue influence as against Pravakar. Oral evidence on this point has been discarded by the Tribunal, and I think, rightly so. We were not asked to scan the oral evidence adduced on behalf of Ajit. This ground in the cross-objection therefore fails.

It is next argued that the election of Pravakar should be set aside for adopting the corrupt practice of undue influence at the polling booth at Ganderpukur. The oral evidence on this point has rightly been discarded by the Tribunal. But stress was laid on Ext. 8, Report of the Presiding officer at Ganderpukur. In the said Report under the heading "Law and order" the Presiding Officer says this:

"It was difficult to maintain law and order from 10 a.m. So I informed O/C of Singur police-station to help me through the police No. K-1943 and I got his help."

The report was concluded as follows:

"Law and order can be only maintained with the help of O/C, Singur station, when he arrived after 4-30 p.m. Poll concluded smoothly at 8 p.m."

This Report Ext. 8 is too vague to establish the charge of undue influence as against Pravakar or his supporters. Moreover it is in evidence that in this area 90 per cent. of the voters cast their votes and the percentage of voting at Ganderpukur and Khosalpur was the highest among all the polling stations. Even if it be assumed that the corrupt practice of undue influence was committed in the interest of Pravakar, there is no evidence to show that the result of election was materially affected. I am therefore of opinion that this argument too, on behalf of Ajit, fails.

Our attention was drawn on behalf of Ajit to Annexure C to the Election Petition in proof of corrupt practice committed by Pravakar by inducing voters to vote by invoking divine displeasure or spiritual censure and by soliciting votes on the ground of religion. Annexure C to the petition is the same as Ext. 1. The allegations relating to Annexure C, a pamphlet containing extracts from various newspapers, are contained in paragraph 10 of the petition, the gist of which has been given towards the beginning of my judgment. On a consideration of the evidence on records the Tribunal came to the following conclusion: "Considering the evidence on record, it is difficult for me to believe that any appeal was made on the ground of religion at Singur Bazar meeting. I am also unable to believe that respondent No. 1 read out extracts from the pamphlet (Ext. 1) or he and his supporters distributed copies of the same." No attempt was made on behalf of Ajit to show that this conclusion of the Tribunal is not supported by the evidence on record I too do not find any reason to disagree with the Tribunal on this point.

Extracts were read out to us from this pamphlet, and our attention was specially drawn to the extract from the newspaper "poygam" under the caption "Communism in the eyes of Islam" to convince us that Pravakar committed corrupt practice by asking the voters to vote for him and refrain from voting for Ajit on religious ground. In view of the above finding of the Tribunal, accepted by me, I do not think it necessary to consider the effect of the aforesaid pamphlet (Ext. 1). This ground too in the cross-objection fails.

An objection was taken on behalf of Ajit to the postal ballots cast in favour of Pravakar. I may point out that no such objection has been taken in the grounds of cross-objection. I, however, agree with the Tribunal that the said postal ballots in favour of Pravakar are not liable to be rejected. It seems sub-rule (6) of rule 62 was not strictly complied with. Covers in Form 13B were opened by the Returning Officer before sealing the declarations in Form 13A. There is nothing to show that this has in any way interfered with the secrecy of the ballot. In my opinion failure to strictly comply with sub-rule (6) of rule 62 on the facts and circumstances of the case is of little or no consequence. The postal ballots in favour of Provakar cannot be rejected for this. Grounds for rejecting postal ballots are to be found in the various sub-rules of rule 62, and non-compliance with sub-rule (6) is not one of them. Besides, in my opinion sub-rule (6) is directory and not mandatory. This objection is therefore overruled.

No other grounds were pressed before us on behalf of Ajit. I am therefore of opinion that the cross-objection cannot succeed.

Before finishing my judgment I should like to state that a preliminary objection was taken on behalf of the returned candidate Pravakar as to the maintainability of the cross-objection. As I am not prepared to allow the cross-objection even in part I do not propose to pass any opinion on this preliminary objection.

The result is that the appeal of Provakar succeeds and the cross-objection by Ajit is dismissed. The order of the Tribunal declaring the election of Pravakar void is set aside. As to costs I fully agree with the direction given by my learned brother.

By order,
V. RAGHAVAN,
Under Secy. to the Election Commission, India.

DELHI ADMINISTRATION: DELHI

NOTIFICATION

Delhi, the 30th June 1964

No. F. 99/64-C. Whereas the Chief Commissioner, Delhi, is satisfied that the book entitled "Sikh Ithas", Part II, in Punjabi written by Prof. Kartar Singh and published by Secretary, Shrimoni Gurdwara Parbandhak Committee, Amritsar, contains matter which is deliberately and maliciously intended to outrage the religious feelings of a class of the citizens of India, namely, the Namdhari Sikhs, by insulting their religious beliefs and the publication of which is punishable under section 295A of the Indian Penal Code (Act XLV of 1860);

Now, therefore, in exercise of the powers conferred by section 99A of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898 (Act V of 1898), and on the aforesaid grounds the Chief Commissioner, Delhi, hereby declares to be forfeited to Government every copy of the said book and all other documents containing copies, reprints and translations of or extracts from the said book.

By order,

K. M. L. GUPTA, Under Secy. (Home).

HOME DEPARTMENT, ANDHRA PRADESH

NOTIFICATION

Dated the 11th June 1964

Whereas the book entitled "Shaik Abdullah Defended" by Shri Mirza Mohammad Afzal Baig contains matter which tends to bring the Government of India and the Government of Kashmir into hatred and contempt and to excite disaffection towards the two Governments established by law in India;

And whereas the book contains matter the publication of which is punishable under section 124A of the Indian Penal Code:

Now, therefore, in exercise of the powers conferred by section 99A of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898 (Central Act 5 of 1898), the Governor of Andhra Pradesh hereby declares that every copy of the aforesaid book shall be forfeited to the Government.

MINISTRY OF HOME AFFAIRS

New Delhi, the 13th April 1964

G.S.R. 650.—In pursuance of rule 10-A, of the Indian Administrative Service (Pay) Rules, 1954, the Central Government, in consultation with the State Governments concerned, hereby makes the following regulations to amend the Indian Administrative Service (Pay of Special Recruits) Regulations, 1960, namely:—

1. (1)These regulations may be called the Indian Administrative Service (Pay of Special Recruits) Amendment Regulations, 1964.

(2) They shall be deemed to have come into force on the 1st April, 1960.

2. In the Indian Administrative Service (Pay of Special Recruits) Regulations, 1960, for regulation 5-A, the following regulations shall be substituted, namely:—

"5A—Grant of advance increments.—The State Government shall sanction the first or the second increment or both, as the case may be, due to a special recruit appointed to the Service under regulation 3(a) of the Indian Administrative Service (Special Recruitment) Regulations, 1956, as soon as he passes the prescribed departmental examination or examinations irrespective of his length of service, after which he shall be entitled to draw pay at the rate corresponding to his position in the time-scale:

Provided that an officer whose initial pay has been fixed at the first incremental stage in the junior time-scale of the Indian Administrative Service shall be entitled to one advance increment, and an officer whose initial pay has been fixed beyond the first incremental stage aforesaid shall not be entitled to any advance increment, on passing the prescribed departmental examination or examinations.

Provided further that an officer who was in receipt of pay of Rs. 450 (2nd stage) on the 1st April, 1960, in the junior scale of pay applicable to him immediately before the said date and whose pay on that date is refixed at Rs. 540 shall be entitled, if he has passed the prescribed departmental examination or examinations on or after that date, to have an advance increment raising his pay to Rs. 580, from the date he has passed the prescribed departmental examination or examinations.

Explanation.— For the purpose of this regulation, the term 'increment' denotes actual increase in pay and not the actual stage on the time-scale.".

CIVIL APPELLATE JURISDICTION

The 31st July 1964

Present:

The Hon'ble Paresh Nath Mookerjee

and

The Hon'ble Durga Das Basu,

Two of the Judges of this Court.

Appeal from Original Decree No. 613 of 1962 (Election)

peal against the decree of Shri R. Bhattacharyya, District Judge and Member of the Election Tribunal of Zillah Murshidabad at Berhampore, in Election Petition No. 71 of 1962 (Other Suit No. 9 of 1962), dated the 11th of September 1962.

Sudhir Kumar Mondal, Petitioner, Appellant

bhoy Pada Saha, Opposite Party, Respondent.

For Appellant: Mr. D. Das, Mr. Biraj Mohon Roy.

P. N. Mookerjee, J.:

In this election appeal, two questions call for decision. The first relates to the construction of the Constitution (Scheduled Castes) Order, 1960, Part XIII-(2)—Item No. 40, as amended in 1956, and the second of section 101(a) of the Representation of the People Act, 1951. The controversy is acute as to whether the contesting respondent, who got himself declared elected to the reserved seat for the Scheduled Castes in the Khargram Legislative Assembly Constituency of West Bengal in the last General Election, held in February 1962, belonged to the Scheduled Caste, so as to be eligible for the said reserved seat. The controversy is also keen on the appellant's claim to be forthwith declared elected to the reserve seat in case the respondent's election aforesaid is declared void.

To resolve the above controversies, I proceed first to set out the relevant constitutional and statutory provisions, namely, the above amended Item 40 of Part XIII-(2) (together with paragraph 2 of which, plainly, it forms a part), of the Constitution (Scheduled Castes) Order, 1950, and Art. 341(1), of the Constitution of India, under which the same was promulgated, and section 101(a) of the Representation of the People Act, 1951. Those provisions run as follows:

(1) Article 341(1) of the Constitution

> "341. Scheduled Castes: (1) The President may with respect to any State, or Union Territory, and where it is a State, after consultation with the Governor thereof, by public notification, specify the castes, races or tribes or parts or groups within castes, races or tribes which shall for the purposes of this Constitution be deemed to be Scheduled Castes in relation to that State or Union territory, as the case may be."

(2) Paragraph 2 of the Constitution (Scheduled Castes) Order, 1950, and the amended Item 40 of Part XIII-(2) of the said Order, referred to above

"2. Subject to the provisions of this Order, the castes, races or tribes or parts of, or groups within, castes or tribes, specified in Parts I to XIII of the Schedule to this Order shall, in relation to the States, to which those parts respectively relate, be deemed to be Scheduled Castes so far as regards members thereof, resident of the locality specified in relation to them in those parts of that Schedule."

40. Sunri excluding Saha"

(3) Section 101(a) of the Representation of the People Act, 1951

"101. Grounds for which a candidate other than the returned candidate may be declared to have been elected: If any person who has lodged a petition has, in addition to calling in question the election of the returned candidate, claimed a declaration that he himself or any other candidate has been duly elected and the Tribunal is of opinion—

(a) that in fact the petitioner or such other candidate received a majority of the valid votes;"

and, in their context, fall to be judged by the instant case and the contending claims herein.

The relevant facts are not in dispute. At the above impunged election, which was held on February, 18, 1962, there were two candidates for the reserved seat in question. Of them, the respondent secured the highest number of votes, namely, 16,730, as against the appellant's 15,523, and was declared elected to the said reserved seat. The respondent stood at the said election upon a claim that he was a member of the Scheduled Caste, which was the sine qua non of his eligibility for the said election. He had his surname Saha but he claimed that, that notwithstanding, he belongs to the "Sunri caste excluding Saha" as mentioned in the above amended Item 40, Part XIII-(2) of the Constitution (Scheduled Castes) Order, 1950, that is, to a Scheduled Caste, as enumerated in and within the meaning of the said provision. On this footing, he filed his nomination paper for the election in question, which was accepted by the appropriate authority after rejecting the appellant's objection to the same and the election proceed with the appellant and the respondent as the t duly nominated candidates.

In his election petition, filed in April 1962, t appellant took various grounds to challenge t respondent's election, but, at the hearing, the s challenge appears to have been confined only to t question of the respondent's status, namely, whet he belonged to the Scheduled Caste so as to eligible for the impunged election. This challe was founded on the words "excluding Saha" in t relevant Item No. 40 of the Scheduled Castes e meration in the above amended Part XIII-(2) of Constitution (Scheduled Castes) Order, 1950, a the contention was that the respondent was excl ed under that item and so excluded from the Sc duled Caste under the above phrase or expression exception "excluding Saha", however much he mi be a Sunri by caste. This was denied by respondent.

The controversy thus centred round the phr "excluding Saha" and it depended, in the ultim analysis on the scope and meaning of the wo "Saha", as used therein. The implication of t word was not fully or properly realised at the earl stages and some confused ideas appear to have p vaded the proceedings before the Tribunal. Un an impression that the "Saha" there represented caste by itself, distinct from the Sunri ca attempts were made by the appellant to prove th the respondent belonged to that different ca "Saha", as distinguished from "Sunri" and not the Sunri caste. These attempts signally fail The appellant also sought to establish that, wit the Sunri caste, there was a distinct and w defined sub-caste. "Saha-Sunri" vis-a-vis the t other sub-castes, Show-Sunri and Sunri proper, wh three together constituted, according to him, t Sunri caste, and, of them, the Saha-Sunri sub-ca to which, according to the appellant, the respond belonged, answered the above phrase or excepti "excluding Saha". The existence of such a su caste also could not be established and it could n be proved that the Sunri caste comprised three su castes, Saha-Sunri, Show-Sunri proper, as claim by the appellant, with the result that the appellan endeavour to bring the respondent within the exc tion "excluding Saha" on that footing did not a succeed before the Tribunal.

In my view, the above approach was defect When the Scheduled Caste in question is describ in the relevant order as "Sunri excluding Saha", t caste emphasis is on Sunri, or, in other words, t caste meant is 'Sunri' with a reservation or exc tion "excluding Saha" thus denoting that t 'Sahas', contemplated there, would have, but for t phrase come within the 'Sunri' caste. In oth words, they are not members of a separate ca 'Saha' but form a group within the Sunri caste, it a sub-caste, strictly so-called or otherwise. Th there is no such sub-caste, strictly so-called, h been proved in the instant case by the failure of t appellant's attempt in that behalf, namely, to est lish that the Sunri caste comprised and consisted three sub-castes, Saha-Sunri, Show-Sunri and Su proper, and, necessarily, the strict sub-caste thec must be rejected in construing the relevant phra "excluding Saha". That phrase, however, must given some meaning in relation to realities or actualities. It is abundantly in evidence in the present case and almost an admitted fact that, amongst the Sunri caste or community, there is a group—a distinct and well-defined group—distinguished by and bearing the surname "Saha". The surname "Saha" is the hall-mark of their distinction and identification and they carry that insignia to proclaim themselves as a separate and distinct group, standing apart from others, within the same Sunri caste. They may not, strictly speaking, comprise a sub-caste, but they form a separate, distinct and well-defined unit -a group or part—within the Sunri caste, easily distinguishable by their surname or title. Indeed, it is quite clear from the materials before us that the Saha group, bearing the surname Saha and distinguished by it, stands apart from others in the Sunri caste and forms a distinct part of it and, when the parent Article in the Constitution [Article 341(1)] under which the Constitution (Scheduled Castes) Order, 1950, has been promulgated, permits and contemplates exclusion of groups or parts within a caste from the Scheduled Castes enumeration, the excluding phrase "excluding Saha" may well apply to that group, the above Saha group, within the Sunri caste, and, indeed, it can apply to none else. The respondent clearly answers this description and hence should be held excluded from the Scheduled Caste under the above excluding phrase. On this short ground, I would hold that the respondent is not a member of the Scheduled Caste under the law and hence not eligible for the impunged election and his said election must be set aside.

What I have said above will be amply supported by the evidence, adduced in the instant case, and the history, context and circumstances, which, eventually, led to the engraftment of the exception or excluding phrase "excluding Saha" in the relevant item, relating to the Sunri caste, in the Constitution (Scheduled Castes) Order, 1950. The evidence, certainly, does not establish the existence of a "Saha" caste, of which the respondent is a member, or of a "Saha" sub caste, strictly so-called, within the Sunri caste. The evidence also does not establish that all the members of the Sunri caste bear the surname Saha nor are there any sufficient materials before us to support the view that only those amongst the Saha group, who have given up their original profession of manufacturing and distilling liquor and have taken to other professions, would come within the excluding phrase "excluding Saha" and answer the description under it. Indications are, as we shall see hereinafter, rather to the contrary. Indeed, the test of profession would be too uncertain for the purpose and may lead to serious difficulties, anomalies and complications, dividing, in the ultimate analysis, even members of the same Sunri family into Scheduled and non-scheduled castes. The test of the surname "Saha" offers a much more definite and satisfactory criterion or solution and, in my opinion, it is the only acceptable test for the intended exception. From the point of view of certainty and definiteness and literal and natural sense of the words employed, this interpretation of the excluding phrase "excluding Saha" is the most opposite and there is nothing before us to compel or justify its rejection in favour of any other interpretation. Indeed, no other interpretation seems to be appropriate or suited to the occasion or to the language or purpose of the exception.

As the trial, the appellant's case in the pleading that the respondent belongs to the Saha caste, as distinguished from the Sunri caste, appears to have been given up and none of the appellant's witnesses, including the appellant himself, appears to have made any attempt to prove the same in their oral evidence. The denial also of the respondent and his witnesses on the point does not appear to have been seriously challenged. Reference was, no doubt, made on behalf of the appellant to the description of the respondent's caste as "Saw" and "Saha" in the two documents Exts. 1 and 2, to which he (respondent) was a party, but that, in the context of the other evidence on the point and the appellant's real case at the trial, appears to have been more for the purpose of establishing the appellant's said case at the trial that the respondent belonged to the Saha-Sunri sub-caste of the Sunri caste. On this latter point, too, the appellant's evidence is wholly unsatisfactory and utterly insufficient, his witnesses being hardly definite or consistent and the above description of the respondent's caste in Exts. 1 and 2 being, apart from anything else, obviously, loose and inexact. Clearly, then, it has not been proved that the respondent belonged either to any separate Saha caste or to any Saha-Sunri sub-caste of the Sunri caste.

In the above context, I must proceed upon the footing that the respondent belongs to the Sunri caste and the only point, now left for consideration, is whether his title "Saha" excludes him from the Scheduled Caste under the excluding phrase "excluding Saha" in the above item No. 40 ("Sunri excluding Saha") of Part XIII-(2) of the Constitution (Scheduled Castes) Order, 1950. On the interpretation, hereinbefore suggests as put by me, of the said excluding phrase, the respondent would be excluded from the Scheduled Caste but he seeks to resist it by challenging the correctness of that interpretation by showing first that Saha is the common title of all Sunris and hence cannot serve as the mark of distinction of any particular group within it and, secondly, that, even otherwise, the above interpretation will not be correct. On the first of the above two contentions, the respondent's case fails even on his own evidence, as his witnesses had to admit (vide e.g. D.W. 3) that other titles prevail in and amongst the Sunri caste—a fact, supported also by authorities and publications, e.g., the Census Reports of 1931 and 1951 and Risley's famous treatise "The Tribes and Castes of Bengal" - the second, however, is stronger, even though, in my view, it too, is unacceptable.

This latter contention of the respondent succeeded before the Tribunal and primarily upon this the appellant lost this election petition there. The Tribunal held, in effect, that the word Saha in the excluding phrase meant the Saha caste and as the respondent did not belong to it he was not excluded from the Scheduled Caste. The Tribunal also expressed the view that the said word "Saha" did not refer to a group within the Sunri caste, hearing the said surname or title or distinguished by it and repelled the appellant's arguments to the contrary.

In taking the above view, the Tribunal was greatly influenced by the history of the Saha caste, which showed that some of its members were originally a part of the Sunri caste and later became part of the separate and distinct caste Saha. It also held that title or surname was irrelevant for the construction of the above excluding phrase. To my mind, the Tribunal overlooked certain important aspects of the matter and fell into an error. It is true that the Census Report of 1951, West Bengal, shows (vide P. 68--Serial Nos. 586 and 604) that, at least from 1911, two separate and distinct castes "Saha" (Saha) and "Sunri" were recognised [vide also, in this connection, the Census Report of 1931, V (Bengal and Sikkim), Part I, pp. 426 and 428, – paragraph 449 and Castes Nos. 36 and 38 thereunder]. It may also be conceded upon the above two Census Reports of 1931 (pp. 535-7) and 1951 (vide p. 34-(6) and p. 76-(56)] that the Saha Caste comprised as part of it, some members of the old Sunri caste but it also transpires (vide the above Census Report of 1931, pp. 535-7, and Risley's Vol. II, p. 275) that, within the Sunri caste, there is a distinct and well marked group or part, bearing the surname or title Saha, and this position has been existing, at least, since 1911—and even earlier. It is to be remembered further that, of the above two castes, Saha and Sunri, only Sunri was made a Scheduled Caste in the Scheduled Castes Order, 1936 [vide Part III--Bengal, of the schedule to the Government of India (Scheduled Castes) Order, 1936], and that continued until 1956, when the above exception was inserted and the Scheduled Caste list was revised presumably on the recommendation of the Backward Classes Commission, which suggested that revision, apparently, in the light of its questionnaire No. 179, namely, "In your State has any of the Scheduled Castes progressed to such an extent and it was ceased to be untouchable as a caste and it is no longer necessary to keep its name in the list of Scheduled Castes?" In this context and when, in the light of the governing Art. 341(1) of the Constitution and paragraph 2 of the Constitution (Scheduled Castes) Order, 1950, the list would mention castes, or groups or parts within the same, it is idle to contend that 'Saha' in the excluding phrase refers to a separate caste and not to a part or group within the Sunri caste, particularly when, as seen above, that would opposed to the natural and literal meaning of the expression used. Clearly, also, Risley's famous treatise on "Tribes and Castes of Bengal" (vide Vol. II, pp. 275 and 279) would substantially support the distinctive character of the Saha group amongst the Sunri caste or community, following from their surname "Saha", while virtually rejecting the separate caste, or, so to say, the strict sub-caste, theory as it places all the emphasis on the surname or title. I need only add that the above interpretation of the excluding phrase "excluding Saha", resting on the surname, was also sufficiently within the appellant's case before the learned Tribunal and was so understood by the parties and the learned Judge there, as will be evident from the judgment of the Tribunal itself (vide, in particular pp. 67-8 of the Paper Book) and it cannot be thrown out or refused consideration as an altogether new case, made for the first time before this Court, or, on the ground of surprise or prejudice to the respondent. Indeed, it is clear throughout the proceedings that the emphasis was on the surname "Saha" as the mark of distinction and this was fully realised by the respondent (vide, in particular paragraph 11 of the Written Statement). I would, accordingly, answer the first point in the present appeal in favour of the appellant.

The next question is whether, in view of the above findings, the appellant, who was duly qualified for the election or seat in question and was the only other candidate for the same should be declared elected to the said seat, rendered vacant by the setting aside of the respondent's election, as aforesaid. This aspect of the matter would be governed by section 101(a) of the Representation of the People Act, 1951, on which the appellant relies for this part of his claim. To succeed under that provision, however, the appellant must show that he has secured a majority of the valid votes. That can only happen if the votes cast in favour of the respondent, or, at least some or a sufficient number of them can be rejected as invalid. As the only ground, upon which the respondent's election is being set aside in the instant case, is that he is ineligible for the said election, not being a member of the Scheduled Caste, the invalidity of votes, if any, must be related to and founded upon the said disqualification. In other words, the votes, to be invalid for our present purpose, must be "thrown away" votes as understood under the election law. It is well-settled however, that the ineligibility or incompetence of a candidate does not, by itself or, necessarily, make the votes, cast in his favour, "thrown away" or invalid votes and that, to attract the mischief of that doctrines, the voters concerned must be proved in law to have cast the votes in question with knowledge or notice, actual or constructive, of such ineligibility or disqualification and there must be allegation or special pleading to that effect. This plainly appears from the leading English authorities on the point [vide, in particular, Hobbs vs. Morey (1904) 1 K.B. 74, Gosling vs. Veley, (1847) 7 Q.B. 439, Drinkwater vs. Deakin, (1874) L.R. 9 C.P. 626 and Lady Sandhurst's case (1889) 23 Q.B.D. 79 (Baresford Hope v. Lady Sandhurst), as discussed in Jagadananda Roy vs. Rabindra Nath Sikdar and others, 62 C.W.N. 336, read in the light of the Supreme Court decision in Keshab Lakshman Borkar vs. Dr. Deorao Lakshman Anande, A.I.R. 1960 S.C. 131, affirming, on appeal, the decision of the Bombay High Court in the same case reported in Dr. Deorao Lakhman Anande vs. Keshab Laksham Borkar, A.I.R. 1958 Bom. 314].

Indeed, after the above decisions—and, particularly, the above Supreme Court decision, it is no longer open to any doubt or dispute and it can no longer be questioned that, to attract the doctrine of "Thrown away" votes and to invalidate votes on that ground, it must be established that the elector or electors concerned had knowledge or notice or must be presumed to have had such knowledge or notice that the candidate in question was disqualified or ineligible for the particular election. Where there is actual knowledge or notice no difficulty arises. Where, again, the fact, on which the disqualification is founded and which attracts the disqualification, is notorious so as to lead to a necessary inference of the disqualification, notice will be presumed. Equally so where the circumstances are such as to lead to a reasonable presumption or inference of such knowledge or notice on e part of the elector or electors concerned. If, wever, the position is ambiguous or uncertain, her because the law is not clear or certain, or, ere is difficulty in ascertaining the basic fact or cts, knowledge or notice cannot and should not imputed or implied and the doctrine of "thrown ay" votes cannot and should not be applied. esumption of knowledge of law, as applied to tters like the present, should not be given any der scope or application and the observation at 343 of 62 C.W.N. 336 supra, where the point did t arise for consideration and was left open with a ntative expression of opinion on certain English thorities, should not be read differently. I am nscious that, on this last question, the English w, represented by Gosling vs. Veley, supra and resford Hope vs. Lady Sandhurst, better known and usually called Lady Sandhurst's case (23 B.D. 79, supra) and Etherington vs. Wilson L.R. EQ 606, and Drinkwater vs. Deakin, Supra, as ticed in the said case (22 Q.B.D. 79 at p. 85), pears to be somewhat different but, even in gland, the contrary viewpoint had its support in neen vs. Mayor of Tewekesbury, (1868) L.R. 3 3 629, and Cox vs. Ambrose (1891) 55 JP 23, at 24 (see also Etherington vs. Wilson, supra at 618 where the Twekesbury case, supra, was disguished). Be that as it may, so far as this untry is concerned, I would prefer to adopt the w, above expressed by me, in line with the above o English authorities, despite adverse criticism opinion to the contrary in England (vide, Lady ndhurst's case, supra at p. 85, and Drinkwater's se supra, at p. 642 and Rogers on Elections (1928) th Edn. Vol. II, (pp. 82-3). [See, in the above nnection, Parker's Election Agent and Returning licer, 6th (1959) Edition at pp. 154-157, and Sen Poddar's Indian Election Cases, pp. 16-8]. It is be remembered, further, that the onus to prove alidity of the votes in on the person, claiming m as such, and such onus, as laid down by the preme Court in the above quoted decision quires a special pleading of requisite knowledge notice on the part of or to the voters [see also bbs, vs. Morey, supra (1904) 1 K.B. 74 at p. 79]. In the instant case, there is neither the necessary gation nor, if I may add, proof of the requisite owledge or notice—actual or constructive—on part of the electors concerned, upon the view of , above expressed by me. In any event, the quisite special pleading is here definitly wanting d, accordingly, the votes, cast in favour of the pondent, even though his election is now being aside on the ground that he was disqualified or ligible for the said election, would not become rown away" or invalid votes but would remain id votes on the above authority or authorities d must be so regarded for purposes of the relevant tion 101(a) abovementioned. That being so the ellant's claim to be declared elected automatily upon the setting aside of the respondent's ction, as aforesaid, must fail.

Before concluding, I would like to add that the t that the instant case is one of a "status" disalification does not affect or alter the above legal sition (vide 62 C.W.N. 336, supra, at p. 345) and appellant cannot escape its consequences on such distinction. I would add also that, in ation to such a qualification,—a "status" disalification,—the respondent's plea of waiver, estoppel and acquiescence, as detailed in the judgment of my learned brother, is untenable even as a matter of law and must fail in limine.

In the premises, this appeal will be allowed in part, the respondent's election will be set aside but the appellant's claim to be declared elected in his place will fail. As success is divided and as, in particular, the appeal has succeeded on a point, not clearly raised or sufficiently urged before the Tribunal, the parties will bear their own costs throughout. The operation of this judgment (decree), including the above order, will remain stayed for ten days from date for the present, as prayed for by the respondent.

D. Basu, J.:

This is an appeal from the decision of the Election Tribunal for Murshidabad, refusing to set aside the election of the Respondent Abhoypada Saha as member of the Legislative Assembly of the State of West Bengal from the Legislative Assembly Constituency of Khargram.

The Appellant (Sudhir Kumar Mandal) and the respondent were the two rival candidates for the seat reserved in the said constituency for members of the Scheduled Castes of the State, at the General Election held on February 18, 1962. The Respondent having won by a margin of 1,216 votes, the Appellant presented and election petition on April, 7, 1962, for declaring the election of the Respondent as void and for declaring the Appellant himself as duly elected. The petition was referred to the Election Tribunal for Murshidabad and registered as other Class suit No. 9 of 1962. Though several grounds were taken in the election petition to challenge the election of the Respondent only one ground was pressed before the Tribunal and that is the ground which has been pressed before us in appeal. The Appellant's case is that the Respondent is not a member of any of the Scheduled Castes in West Bengal as Specified in the Constitution (Scheduled Caste) Order, 1950, and is not, therefore, qualified to be chosen to fill the seat for which the election was held.

This is the point for determination before us, the Tribunal having dismissed the election petition of the Appellant. The constitutional provision in this behalf is to be found in Art. 173 of the Constitution. Clause (c) of this Article says that—> "173. A person shall not be qualified to be chosen to fill a seat in the Legislature of a State unless he....."

> (c) possesses such other qualifications as may be prescribed in that behalf by or under any law made by Parliament."

The law of Parliament referred to in clause (c) above is the Representation of the People Act, 1951, and the relevant provision is in section 5(a) thereof, which is as follows:—

> "5. Qualifications for membership of a Legislative Assembly: A person shall not be qualified to be chosen to fill a seat in the Legislative Assembly of a State unless—

(a) in the case of a seat reserved for the Scheduled Castes or for the Scheduled Tribes of that State, he is a member of any of those castes or of those tribes, as the case may be, and is an elector for any Assembly constituency in that State."

Now, the list of Scheduled Castes is to be found in the Order issued by the President in exercise of his powers under clause (a) of Article 341, which provides—Scheduled Castes.

"341. (1) The President may with respect to any State or Union territory, and where it is a State.....after consultation with the Governor thereof, by public notification, specify the castes, Scheduled Castes, races or tribes or parts of or groups within castes, races or tribes which shall for the purposes of this Constitution be deemed to be Scheduled Castes in relation to that State or Union territory, as the case may be."

The Order issued by the President, specifying the Scheduled Castes in the various States, for the purposes of the Constitution is the Constitution (Scheduled Castes) Order, 1950, as amended subsequently. This Order is reproduced in the Ninth Ed. of the Manual of Election Law, published by the Government of India. Part XIII of this Order specifies the Scheduled Castes in the State of West Bengal, and item 40, with which we are concerned with respect to the Respondent, is—

The primary question for determination in this appeal is whether the Respondent belongs to the caste which is referred to by the above description in item 40 (which has been renumbered "51" by the Amendment Act, 1956). Before proceeding further, we must advert to the words "excluding Saha" in the above item. It is evident that the entire Sunri caste is not a Scheduled Caste according to this item and that those members of the Sunri caste who belong to the Saha group (who would otherwise have come under the generality of the specification 'Sunri') are excluded from the item. In other words, a person who belongs to the Sunri caste but belongs to the Saha group within that caste, cannot claim to be a member of the Scheduled Caste coming under item No. 40 of the Order. As to why a part of the Sunri caste is thus extended by the Order, we have to refer to the words "or parts of or groups within caste....." in clause (1) of Art. 341 of the constitution which we have seen. Item 40 is not the only item which excludes a part of or group within caste from the protection of the Order. Thus, item 46 of Part XII relating to Uttar Pradesh mentions "Kharwar excluding Benbansi". It may be mentioned in this context that the constitutionality of thus excluding from the Order a part of a caste from being specified as a Scheduled Caste was challenged before the Punjab High Court in Gurmukh Singh v. Union of India, A.I.R. 1952 Punj. 143, but the contention was rejected.

It may be mentioned in this context that in the Government of India Act, 1935, also there were provisions for special representation of members of the Scheduled Castes, e.g., under the Fifth Sch to that Act, relating to the Provincial Legislat and, for this purpose, the Crown was empowere specify "the castes, races or tribes or parts o groups within castes, races or tribes which ar be treated as the Scheduled Castes for the pur of those schedules" [vide Preamble to the Go ment of India (Scheduled Castes) Order, 1 The idea of excluding parts of a caste from enumeration of Scheduled Castes thus subsists the time of the Government of India Act, 1935, was not an innovation introduced by the Cons tion of 1949. The Scheduled Castes Order of did not, however, exclude any part of the S caste, but specified the whole of the Sunri cast a Scheduled Caste in Part III of the Order, rel to Bengal. Even in the Scheduled Castes Ord 1950, as it was originally promulgated by S.R.O. dated August 10, 1950, the entire Sunri caste specified as a Scheduled Caste, in item No. Part IX of that Order, relating to west Be The Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes O (Amendment) Act (No. 63 of 1956) r comprehensive changes in the Scheduled C Order, 1960. This Act, which came into forc the 25th September 1956, substituted inter alia, entire Part X relating to West Bengal, and iten relating to the Sunri caste, was substituted as 51, as follows:

"Sunri excluding Saha."

For, the first time, thus, in 1956, the Saha, th socially forming a part of the Sunri caste, truncated and excluded from the Scheduled Cas "Sunri". The Act of 1956 was followed by Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes Lists (M fication) Order, 1956, which made certain nume and other changes relating to the contents of Order of 1950, as it stood amended by the Ac 1956. No material change was introduced in 51 as it had been introduced by the Act of But Part IX relating to West Bengal was renumb as Part XIII and item 51 was renumbered as iten At the material time in the case before us, t the relevant item in the Order of 1950, as amen and modified subsequently, stood thus—

"40. Sunri excluding Saha."

Now, it is not disputed in this case that in own nomination paper, the Respondent descr himself as "Saha" but nevertheless claimed to member of the "Sunri" caste. If the words "exc ing Saha" be interpreted as excluding those per who bear the surname "Saha", there would be end of the matter at once, because even though Respondent might belong to the social cast "Sunri", he was excluded from the list of Sched Castes for the purposes of the Constitution. apparently simple position has, however, complicated by two circumstances:

(a) The confusion of both parties and their advisers in the proceedings below as to real scope of the excluding portion of 40 of the Order, as reproduced above.

(b) The attempt on behalf of the Respond before us, to show that the words "exc ing Saha" referred to something dee than the surname "Saha".

(a) The Petitioner appears to have misread the effect of the relevant item of the Scheduled Castes Order in assuming that there was a separate caste called "Saha" caste which was excluded by the item and, hence, it was stated in paragraph 6(1) of the Election petition that the Respondent was a member of the Saha caste and not of the Sunri caste which was a Scheduled Caste under the Order. This inaccuracy, however, is not material, since, upon a reading of paragraph 6, as a whole, it is clear that what the Petitioner meant was that the Respondent was a Saha and was, accordingly, excluded from the relevant item of the Order which was "Sunri excluding Saha". The Respondent also understood this to be the case of the Petitioner and so he averred in paragraph 11 of the written statement that he belonged to "the Sunri caste excluding Saha". In this connection, we should refer to one statement in the written statement (paragraph 11), to which we shall have to advert hereafter, namely, that the surname "Saha" is a surname 'generally used' by all Sunris.

Upon these pleadings, the parties went to trial. The Petitioner (P.W. 1), in his deposition, stated that there were three sub-castes, amongst the Sunris—Sunri, Saha and Sow and that the relevant item of the Scheduled Castes Order, as it stands after the amendment of 1956, has excluded the Saha sub-caste, so that the Respondent, who is a member of the 'Saha-Sunri' caste has no claim to be a Scheduled Caste under the Constitution. A more definite stand, however, is taken by P.W. 2 Balaram Choudhury, who says that the Sunri caste is sub-divided into three sub-castes—Saha-Sunri, Sow-Sunri and Sunris proper and that while he himself belongs to the Sunri sub-caste, Respondent belongs to the Saha-Sunri sub-caste. He further states that there is no social intercourse between the Sunri sub-caste and the Saha sub-caste. One thing is patent from the deposition of this witness, namely, that the Sunri sub-caste has no surname of its own and that the witness who claims to belong to the Sunri sub-caste, goes by the surname "Chowdhury".

P.W. 2, Shyamapada is the priest of the Respondent. He says that "Saha" is the general surname of all Sunris and that "I cannot say if the Sunris have any different surname or title". If this be correct, then P.W. 2, Balaram Choudhury cannot be a member of the Sunri caste, having the surname of 'Choudhury' but no suggestion to this effect was made to him. The truth comes out of R.W. 3, Jnan Mukul Saha, a relative of the Respondent, who admits that "Saha" is not the only surname of members of Sunri caste, but Suris also go by the surnames of 'Choudhury', 'Mullik', 'Biswas' and 'Sadhukhan' and R.W. 4 adds other surnames of Sunris, such as 'Roy' and 'Mandal'. If that be so, it is evident that Sunris bearing the surname of "Saha" from a group within the larger caste of Sunris. The case in the written statement that "Saha" is the surname generally used by all Sunris thus breaks down. The evidence of P.W. 5 is of little worth inasmuch as he says that he is not interested to know about any other branch of the Sunri caste except the Sahas. The Respondent (R.W. 6) himself adds little to the written statement. He adheres to his case that he belongs to the Sunri caste and not the 'Saha caste' or the 'Saha-Sunri caste'.

When we come to the judgment of the learned Tribunal, it is clear that he has been misled by the pleadings and the evidence above, and influenced by an erroneous view as to the scope of item 40 of the Scheduled Castes Order. He starts (paragraph 7 of the judgment) with the assumption that there is a caste called 'Sunri excluding Saha' and that the case of the Petitioner was "that the Respondent is not a member of the Sunri caste excluding Saha whereas the Respondent asserts that he belongs to the Sunri caste excluding Saha". In view of the above pleading, the learned Judge rejects as an innovation the case introduced by the Petitioner at the hearing that the Sunri caste was divided into three sub-castes, namely, Sunri, Saha and Sow and that it was the Saha sub-caste which had been excluded by the relevant item of the Scheduled Castes Order and that the Respondent belongs to that excluding sub-caste. It is true that there are statements in the plaint, which construed strictly, might suggest that the Petitioner's case is that the Respondent belongs to a "Saha caste" which exists outside the fold of the Sunri caste. But it is clear from a reading of the Election petition as a whole that the Petitioner's case was that the Respondent did not come within the ambit of the Entry in the Scheduled Castes Order because all Sahas, even though they might form part of the social caste of Sunri, were excluded by the Entry. That there was a group identified by the term "Saha" within the wider caste of Sunri, is established by the evidence of the Respondent's witness, Jnan Mukul, to which we have referred already. In this state of affairs, it would not be reasonable to impute too strict a meaning to the words of the Election petition, particularly because the subject was technical, and, the exclusion of the "Sahas", as we shall presently see was newly introduced.

Another fact on which the learned Tribunal appears to have laid emphasis is the fact though the Petitioner had contested the Respondent at the previous elections, he had never raised the objection that the Respondent did not come within the ambit of the relevant Entry in the Scheduled Castes Order, and also the fact that other persons bearing the surname "Saha" have been elected in the past and that at least one sitting M.P. is a 'Saha'. To this a common answer suggests itself at once. It has been stated earlier that it was on the 25th September 1956, that the "Sahas" were for the first time excluded from the protection of the Scheduled Castes Order. It was not, therefore, possible to take the objection founded on this exclusion at the time of the first General Election and, even for the second General Election, the Act was promulgated at a time which was too late for its implications to be fully appreciated before the State for raising objections to nominations arrived. We can hardly overlook the fact that even since 1936, the "Sahas" had been included within the list of Scheduled Castes. This very fact explains not only the inaction on the part of the Petitioner at the previous election, if any, as well as his confusion in the present election. At any rate, there is nothing in this 'conduct' of the Petitioner as the learned Judge supposes (paragraph 11); it does not constitute waiver, acquescence or the like. The argument that the fact of another Saha sitting as member of Parliament as a representative of the Scheduled Castes goes to undermine the Petitioner's case is equally fallacious.

Nor can we place any importance upon the fact, as the learned Judge has done (paragraph 13), that in a sale certificate of 1939 (Ext. B), the caste of Dulal Chandra Saha, the brother of the Respondent, was stated to be 'Sunri'. There has been, in our opinion, nothing wrong in that, for, the Respondent and his Saha relatives, undoubtedly, all belong to the social caste of Sunris. The Scheduled Castes Order could not possibly, and has never professed, to remodel the social caste, but has simply excluded the Saha sub-caste from the list of Scheduled Castes maintained for "the purposes of the Constitution", i.e., for the purposes of election and the like. The social structure remains as before and the Sahas, so excluded by that Order, are still entitled to describe themselves as 'Sunris' by caste.

The learned Judge discredited the testimony offered by Exts. 1 and 2, which were relied upon by the petitioner. These are documents executed in favour of the Respondent and his brother. The first is a deed of gift executed by their mother and the second by a third party vendor. In the first, the caste of the Respondents is described as "Sau" and in the other one, it is described as "Saha". Learned Judge has accepted the statement of Respondent's brother that he did not attend carefully to the recital as to caste when these deeds were read out. He also holds that the deeds at most show that the Respondent is a "Sau" or "Saha" by caste and not a "Saha-Sunri" as contended by the Petitioner. In this connection, however, we cannot overlook the endorsement as to execution which took place at the residence of the Respondent and Dulal admits that it took place in the presence of himself and the Respondent. In this endorsement, the caste of the executant as well as her brother is stated to be "Sunri"; it cannot be imagined that this description came out from the brain of the Sub-Registrar and without any statement from the parties themselves. The cumulative effect of Exts. 1 and 2 is this that the Respondents and his relative bearing the surname of 'Saha' are members of the social caste of 'Sunri' but form a definite species of that genus and describe themselves by the surname "Saha". "Sau" may possibly be a colloquial abbreviation of the word "Saha" or it may have been sometimes loosely used in place of the latter.

The conclusion that the learned Tribunal draws from the evidence discussed above (paragraph 15) is that "there is no evidence or reliable material to say that Saha is a sub-caste under Sunri". In coming to this conclusion, the learned Judge has also been influenced by his theory that the words "excluding Saha" in the relevant item of the Scheduled Castes Order refers to a caste other than the "Sunri" caste and not a group or sub-caste within the larger caste "Sunri". This interpretation of the item is patently erroneous. The words 'parts of or groups within' are wide enough to refer to any determinate part of a caste which may be referred to by surname or otherwise, and it is not necessary that such part must necessarily form a 'sub-caste', if any technical meaning may be imputed to that term. It would be unmeaning to refer to Sahas in the relevant item if the Sahas formed a separate caste outside the pale of the caste of Sunris. The word "exclude" literally suggests that, but for the specific exclusion, Sahas would have come within the specification "Sunri". The learned Judge, in fact, has involved himself in an argumen in a circle, and, as a result, he has misread the iten of the Order as well as the evidence.

(b) We now come to the second part of the argument advanced on behalf of the Respondent that the word "Saha" in the relevant item of the Order refers to something deeper than the surname 'Saha'.

The earliest material relied upon on behalf of the Respondent is the treatise on Tribes and Castes of Bengal, published by H. H. Risley, in 1891. The relevant heads of 'Saha' and 'Sunri' at pp. 215 and 275 of Vol. II of this book, however, plainly establish that Sahas form a sub-caste under the genus Sunri, though the surname 'Saha' may indiscriminately be used by members of other castes, such as Napits (barbers), Telis (oil pressers) and the like. With the latter we are not concerned in this case. But the contents of this book alone, demolish the conclusion made by the learned Tribunal (paragraph 15) that:

> "There is no evidence or reliable material to say that Saha is a sub-caste under Sunri."

The relevant extracts from the work are:—

> "Saha, Sahu, a title of the Desa sub-caste of Gandhabaniks in Bengal; a little of Napits, Sonars, Telis and Sunris. The letter invariably style themselves Sahas or Sauloks."

> "Sunri, Saundila, Sundaka, Saha, a large and widely diffused caste,—whose original profession is believed to be the manufacture and sale of spirituous liquors. Many of its members have now taken to mercantile pursuits, call themselves by the title Shaha, and disown all connection with those who still follow the characteristic occupation of the caste. Their striving for social advancement has as yet not been entirely successful....."

Admittedly, the Respondent is a member of the Sunri caste. He also bears the surname of "Saha". Respondent's brother Dulal says that his father had a liquor shop and subsequently he started a cloth shop and, later, he and his brother have been running a husking mill. All this broadly supports the conclusion that the Respondent's family belongs to the Saha sub-caste or group within the Sunri caste, and that the family has given up the liquor business and resorted to other callings.

Learned Advocate for the Respondent next relies upon pp. 428 and 535 of Vol. V of the Census Report of 1931 to demonstrate that there is a caste called "Saha" separate from "Sunri". But upon a reading of the explanatory note at 535, as a whole, it is abundantly clear that though members of several trading castes other than Sunri also use the surname "Saha", there is a section of the Sunri caste who bear the surname Saha, and who, being economically advanced, have given up the original trade of liquor and have taken up other pursuits. The statement that they desire to dissociate themselves from the Sunri caste is not material in this context, because, subsequent to the publication of the Census Report of 1931, came the Scheduled Castes Order of 1936, when it became politically advantageous for identifying oneself with the Sunri caste. The mental atmosphere has, accordingly, anged and such importance cannot, therefore, be aced upon the fact that the Respondent, though bears the surname "Saha" is anxious to introduce mself as Sunri by caste. It is not possible to produce in extenso the contents of pp. 535-6 of e Report, but we cannot omit to mention that both the words Saha and Sadhu are to be found a title or surname among different trading asses in Bengal. Thus there are Saha and Sadhu milies among the Gandhabanik, Sankhabanik, Tili, ani and Shundi castes..... It is worthy of note at the Shundis, at least those who aspire to higher cial status, choose to be called Sahas by caste, it do not claim community with the Gandhabanik Sankhabanik Sahas.....".

It is clear that though the surname Saha may ve been assumed by members of other trading astes like the Gandhabaniks, there are families nongst the Sunri caste who are economically lvanced and form a definite group and whose only signia are the surname "Saha" and their dislike for e original occupation of distilling liquor.

On the Census of 1951, we have the Report of e Superintendent of Census Operations in West ngal. It is curious to note that in the list of stes and sub-castes of the Hindus, as recorded the Census of 1911, as reproduced at pp. 59 etseq. this publication, there is no mention of any parate caste as "Saha" and the only relevant item No. 604 relating to "Sunri". The note on "Sunri", p. 76 is as follows:

"Previous to 1911, Sahas and Sunris were enumerated together. Now Sahas claim that the Sunris are altogether a different caste. There are, however, grounds to hold that many Saha families were originally of Sunri origin. Original profession of the caste was manufacture and sale of spirituous liquor. Many now follow mercantile pursuits."

Let us now proceed to the Scheduled Castes Order, hich must be read in the background of the fore- oing materials. As stated by us earlier, in the heduled Castes Order issued under the Govern- ent of India Act, 1935, the entire Sunri caste was ven protection. The Order issued under the onstitution continued that state of affaris, until 56.

The exclusion of Sahas from the scheduled caste Sunris, which was effected by the amendment of 56, was recommended by the Backward Classes ommission, which was set up by the Government India, in pursuance of the provisions of Article 0 of the Constitution, by notification No. 70/53- ublic, dated 29th January 1953. This Commission, ith Shri Kaka Kalelkar as the Chairman, submitted s report on March 30, 1955, and the Report was ublished by the Government of India in 1956 I.D. 69 1).At page 200 of Vol. II of this Report, is to be seen that the Commission recommended revision of the Scheduled Castes Order, 1950, hich, inter alia was to be made by excluding the Sahas" from the item relating to Sunris. As to hy this exclusion was made and who were being ferred to by the Commission by the word "Saha" item 22 at page 200 ibid, the Report does not ve any specific explanation. It was suggested by le learned Advocate for the Respondent that there as an Interim Report of the Commission which gave the reasons for this revision. An attempt was, accordingly, made to bring forth such Interim Report, if any, from the Government of India, but to no success. It is, however, patent that no such Interim Report was ever published by the Govern- ment. We also gave both parties the liberty to take steps for bringing before the Court any such Interim Report, but neither party succeeded. From the statement in paragraph 1 of Ch. X of Vol. I of the Report (p. 154), it would appear that the Interim Report only contained "the revised lists of Scheduled castes and Schedule Tribes" and that this list was sent to the Government of India on December 20, 1954, and that any explanation behind the revision recommended by the Commission cannot reasonably be expected from the Interim Report referred. The revised list is to be found in Vol. II of the published Report, and Vol. I of this Report, as we shall presently see, explains the broad principles accord- ing to which the revision was recommended. In view of all this, we did not consider it worthwhile to protract the hearing before us any further by pursuing the Government of India for prduction of the unpublished Interim Report.

From pp. 2 and 154 of Vol. I of the Report of the Backward Classes Commission it appears that though the immediate question referred to the Commission was to "determine the criteria to be adopted in considering whether any sections of the people in the territory of India (in addition of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes.....) should be treated as socially and educationally backward classes; and, in accordance with such criteria, prepare a list of such classes.....", the President of India was pleased also "to direct the Commission to examine the lists of Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes already published under his Order and to suggest any revision of those lists. If on enquiry it was found that such a revision was necessary." With this latter end in view, the Commission drafted Part XXIII of its Questionnaire (vide p. 20 of Appendix II to the Report, Vol. I). Questions 174 and 179 of this Questionnaire explain themselves. These are-

"174. The main Characteristics of Scheduled Castes is the social disability of untouchability...."

"179. In your State, has any of the Scheduled Castes progressed to such extent that it was ceased to be untouchable as a caste and it is no longer necessary to keep its name in the list of Scheduled Castes?"

The criteria of "backwardness", according to the Commission, are summarised at pp. 165-67 of Vol. I of the Report. From a reading of the above as a whole, it is clear that the Commission excluded from the list of Scheduled Castes any caste, group within or part of a caste, which had ceased to be untouchable, even though it was still considered to be 'backaward' according to the criteria formulated by the Commission, e.g., owing to inadequacy of representation of the group in Government service. If we now turn to pp. 130 and 200 of Voll. II of the Report that the Commission considered that the Sahas had ceased to be 'untouchable' and were, there- fore, recommended to be excluded from the list of Scheduled Castes, though the Commission still recommended their retention in the wider list of 'Backward Classes.' We are not to sit in judge- ment over this determination by the Commission.

What we are concerned with is that the Commission recommended the exclusion of the Sahas from the category of the Scheduled Caste of Sunris and so they were excluded from the relevant entry in the Scheduled Castes Order, by the amendment of 1956. It is also abundantly established by the cumulative weight of all the materials so far discussed by me that these Sahas, who were excluded, belonged to the social caste of Sunri, but that by social evolution, they have come to form a class apart, socially and economically more advanced than the rest of the Sunris, so that the Commission no longer considered them fit to be included in the Scheduled Castes Order, and that these Saha families, within the fold of the Sunri caste, distinguished themselves by their surname, whatever might be their other characteristics. The fact that members of other communities might also bear the surname "Saha" is immaterial in the context of the case before us, simply because the relevant Entry in the Scheduled Castes Order refers to these Sahas who belong to the Sunri caste.

In the result, we hold that the Respondent was not entitled to be returned as a member of a Scheduled Caste to a seat reserved for members of that caste and that accordingly, his election must me declared to be void.

In his election petition, the Appellant has added the claim that upon the Respondent's election being declared void, the Appellant himself should be declared to have been elected on the ground that he is a member of the Scheduled Caste Konai and that at the disputed election, he had polled the next highest number of votes (16,730 for the Respondent and 15,523 for the Appellant). This claim cannot, however, be allowed in view of the decision of t Supreme Court in the case of Keshab Lakshman Deorao, A.I.R. 1960 S.C. 131. In that case it h been held that as soon as the successful candid is held to be disqualified, the next candidate ca not be automatically declared to have been elect inasmuch as, under clause (a) of section 101 of t Representation of the People Act, 1951, t Petitioner can be declared to have been elected or if it is established that "the Petitioner..... received a majority of the valid votes". T Supreme Court held that even though the electi of the Respondent is eventually set aside, the vot cast in favour of the Respondent must be held to valid votes for the purposes of section 101, read wi rr. 36(8) and 57 of the Rules made under the A unless, of course, it is shown that the voters wh voted for the Respondent, knew at the time voting that the Respondent was not eligible an with this knowledge, they intended to throw aw their votes by casting them in favour of an ineligib candidate. There being no such evidence on t record, the Appellant's claim to be declared elect cannot succeed.

In the result, the appeal is allowed in part. Th election of the Respondent is declared void but th claim of the Appellant to be declared elected at th election held on the February 18, 1962, at th Khargram Legislative Assembly Constituency, fo the seat reserved for members of Scheduled Caste is dismissed. Parties will bear their own cost throughout.

G.S.R. 1525.—In exercise of the powers conferred by section 3 of the Defence of India Act, 1962 (51 of 1962), the Central Government hereby makes the following rules further to amend the Defence of India Rules, 1962, namely:—

1. These rules may be called the Defence of India (Ninth Amendment) Rules, 1963.

2. In the Defence of India Rules, 1962,—

(i) in Part XII-A, for the word "Board", wherever it occurs, the word "Administrator" shall, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context, be substituted and there shall also be made in any sentence in which the word occurs such consequential amendments as the rules of grammar may require;

(ii) in rule 126A,—

(a) for clause (a), the following clause shall be substituted, namely:—

"(a) 'Administrator' means the Administrator appointed under rule 126J";

(b) after clause (b), the following clause shall be inserted, namely,—

"(bb) 'certified goldsmith' means a dealer who holds a valid certificate granted under rule 126HH recognising him as a goldsmith",;

(iii) in rule 126B, after sub-rule (1), the following sub-rule shall be inserted, namely:

"(1-A) On and from the commencement of the Defence of India (Ninth Amendment) Rules, 1963,—

(a) no dealer other than a certified goldsmith shall accept any ornament of a purity exceeding fourteen carats, for polishing or repair;

(b) any dealer may accept any ornament of any purity for the purpose of making new ornament or ornaments of a purity not exceeding fourteen carats".

(iv) in rule 126C, in sub-rule (1), for the words "As from the commencement of this Part", the words, figures and letter "Save as provided in Chapter IV-A of this Part, as from the commencement of this Part" shall be substituted;

(v) in rule 126H, sub-rule (4) shall be omitted;

(vi) after Chapter IV, the following Chapter shall be inserted, namely:—

"CHAPTER IVA

'126HH. Certified goldsmiths. — (1) A dealer who is not required by sub-rule (3) or sub-rule (4) of rule 126E to make any application for the issue of a licence under that rule and has not obtained any licence in pursuance of an application made by him under sub-rule (6) of that rule may, if h was carrying on business as a dealer for mor than a year immediately before the commence ment of this Part:—

(a) accept from any person, not being a dealer or refiner, any ornament or ornaments having gold of a purity exceeding fourteen carats for the purpose of making, manufacturing or preparing, and

(b) make, manufacture or prepare, new ornament or ornaments from that ornaments or those ornaments so however that the purity and the total quantity of gold contained in such new ornament or ornaments do not exceed the purity and the total quantity of gold contained in the ornament accepted.

(2) No such dealer shall accept any such ornaments or ornaments for the purpose of making, manufacturing or preparing new ornament or ornaments as aforesaid after the 31st December 1963 unless before that date he has obtained on an application made in that behalf a certificate recognising him as a goldsmith in such form as may be prescribed and on payment of a fee of one rupee.

(3) On receipt of an application under sub-rule (2), the Administrator may, after making such enquiry as to the antecedents of the applicant and as to the provision, if any, which has been made for the grant of assistance to the family of the applicant by Government or any Government-sponsored agency and after considering the desirability or otherwise of increasing the number of persons dealing in gold in the area in which the applicant carried on business, by order in writing either grant the certificate or reject the application for the same.

(4) A certificate granted under this rule shall be cancelled by the Administrator—

(i) if the certified goldsmith is, at any time after the grant of the certificate to him, registered under any law with respect to sales tax, or

(ii) if the Administrator is satisfied that any statements made in the application for the issue of the certificate or in relation to the certificate are incorrect or false in material particulars or that the holder of the certificate has contravened any of the provisions of this Part:

Provided that no certificate shall be cancelled unless reasonable opportunity has been given to the holder thereof to show cause why the certificate shall not be cancelled.

(5) Sub-rule (10) of rule 126E shall apply, as far as may be, to a certified goldsmith whose certificate has been cancelled as if he were a licensed dealer.

(6) Every certified goldsmith shall have in his possession the certificate granted to him while he carries on business as such goldsmith and shall produce it for inspection on demand by any officer authorised by the Administrator in this behalf.

(7) The provisions of rule 126G shall apply, as far as may be, to a certified goldsmith as if he were a licensed dealer.

(8) Notwithstanding anything contained in rule 126C a certified goldsmith may make or manufacture primary gold of a purity exceeding fourteen carats by melting or processing or converting any ornament:

Provided that a certified goldsmith shall not have at any time in his possession, custody or control any quantity of such primary gold in excess of one hundred grammes";

(vii) for rule 126J, the following rule shall be substituted, namely:—

"126-J.— Appointment and functions of Administrator.—(1) The Central Government shall, by notification, appoint an Administrator for carrying out the purposes of this Part.

(2) It shall be the duty of the Administrator by such measures as he may think fit—

(a) to discourage the use and consumption of gold,

(b) to bring about conditions tending to reduce the demand for gold and

(c) to advice the Central Government on all matters relating to gold.

(3) The Administrator shall discharge his functions subject to the general control and directions of the Central Government.

(4) The Administrator may by general or special order authorise such person as he thinks fit to exercise all or any of the powers exerciseable by him under this Part and different persons may be authorised to exercise different powers:

Provided that no officer below the rank of Collector of Customs or Central Excise or Collector of a district shall be authorised to hear appeals under sub-rule (3) of rule 126M.

(5) Subject to any general or special direction given or condition attached by the Administrator, any person authorised by the Administrator to exercise any powers may exercise those powers in the same manner and with the same effect as if they had been conferred on that person directly by this Part and not by way of authorisation.

(6) Anything done or any action taken (including any application made to, or any order made or licence issued by, the Gold Board or other competent authority) under or in pursuance of this Part before the commencement of the Defence of India (Ninth Amendment) Rules, 1963, shall, so far as as it not inconsistent with the provisions of this Part on or after such commencement, be deemed to have been done or taken under the provisions of this Part as amended by the Defence of India (Ninth Amendment) Rules, 1963".

(viii) in rule 126L. in sub-rule (16), the following shall be inserted at the end, namely:—

and such penalty may be imposed,—

(a) without limit, by an officer not below the rank of Collector of Customs or Central Excise;

(b) where the penalty proposed to be imposed does not exceed two thousand rupees, by an officer not below the rank of Assistant Collector of Customs or Central Excise";

(ix) in rule 126M—

(i) for sub-rule (3), the following sub-rule shall be substituted, namely:—

"(3) An appeal shall lie to the Administrator from every adjudication of confiscation under sub-rule (2) within a period of three months from the date of the communication of the order of adjudication:

Provided that in the case of an adjudication of confiscation before commencement of the Defence of India (Ninth Amendment) Rules, 1963, such appeal shall lie within the period of three months aforesaid or within a period of one month from such commencement, whichever period expires later".

(ii) in sub-rule (8), the following sub-rule shall be inserted, namely:—

"(9) The provisions of this rule relating to appeal shall apply in relation to any order imposing a penalty under sub-rule (16) of rule 126L as they apply in relation to an adjudication of confiscation under this rule";

(x) in rule 126O in sub-rule (2), for the words "Every member of the Board", the words "The Administrator" shall be substituted;

(xi) in rule 126P, in sub-rule (2), after item (viii), the following item shall be inserted, namely:—

"(viii-a) carries on business as a certfied goldsmith in contravention of the provisions of rule 126HH";

(xii) for rule 126 S, the following rule shall be substituted, namely:—

(5) Shri B. B. Dutta, Director, Bridges and Flood Research Designs and Standards Organisation, Ministry of Railways, Lucknow.—Member.

Shri R. C. Shenoy, Director, Hydrology and Statistics, Central Water and Power Commission, Government of India, will be the Secretary of the Committee.

3. The terms of reference of the Committee will be as follows:—

(1) To study and review the present flood forecasting and warning methods prevalent in different parts of the country.

(2) To collect information about, and study, the latest techniques and methods of scientific flood forecasting and warning in USA, USSR and other advanced countries and recommend a scientific method or methods of flood forecasting suitable for the different regions of India.

(3) To examine the adequacy of the present organisation and methods for collection, dissemination and publication of data of river discharges and river levels in the country and suggest additions and modifications necessary to meet the needs of scientific flood forecasting.

(4) To recommend a suitable organisation and procedures that may be necessary for undertaking an effective system of scientific flood forecasting and warning for the entire country.

(5) To consider and make recommendations on any other matter that may be relevant to the adoption of a scientific flood forecasting and warning system for the country.

4. The Committee will submit its report within a period of four months.

GOVERNMENT OF MYSORE

Home Department.

Dated Bangalore, the 5th November 1964.

NOTIFICATION

No. HD9CCR64.—Whereas the seven books specified in column 2 of the schedule have been printed and published by Sri Henry Rodrigus at the Evangelical Press, Christ Nagar, Badagayedapadavu, South Kanara;

Whereas the said books contain the matter specified in the corresponding entries in column 4 of the schedule which in the opinion of the Government of Mysore ridicules the institutions of the Pope, Church, Nuns, Rituals and Beliefs held sacred and dear by the Roman Catholics and thereby outrages the religious feelings of the said class of citizens and insults their religious beliefs and promotes enmity and hatred between them and the Protestant Christians in the State;

Now, in exercise of the powers conferred by section 99A of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898 (Central Act 5 of 1898), the Government of Mysore hereby declares that every copy of the said seven books shall be forfeited to Government.

Schedule

Serial No.	Description of the book.	Page of the book.	Matter considered objectionable.
1	2	3	4
1	CTS Series Tract No. 24 "The Human Priesthood".	10	"The stealthily process of mending up of the veil that 'was rent in twain' began with the appearance of these 'false brethren' and never ceased until all the liberties granted by the Cross to every believer were stolen and the priestcraft was firmly in the saddle again"
		11	"All the most prized possessions of believers were stolen by the priest craft".
			"and every liar dressed up in the robes of deception and magnified by false title became an authority with the power to revise and to pervert the Word of God in any fashion he saw fit".
		12	"Is this an endorsement for: 'Arch Reverends', 'Most Reverends', 'High Reverends', 'Very Reverends', 'His Excellency', 'His Eminence', 'Holy Fathers', 'Holy Mothers', "His Holiness' or for any other form titular harlotry ?"
		14	"Now is this again an endorsement for robes, titles, summer palaces, honour guards, ambassadors, 'College of criminals' and similar whoredoms ?"
		15	"In our land, as in all other countries, the purple Abrahams want the taxpayers money to finance the spreading of the vilest spiritual poison to the children, through their 'parochial school system'."

		19	"This again indicated the first appearance of cursed hierarchy with its rituals, sacraments, robes, titles, false doctrines, false miracles and false authority".
		20	"that has it's own state, its own 'College of criminals', ambassadors, palaces, titles, robes and is even beginning to build it's own merchant fleet, apparently anticipating the possiblity of a sudden evacuation".
		21	"The only colour missing in the garment of the Great Whore is blue. It is the colour of heaven and heaven has no part in it. It is clearly the rejuvenated priestcraft without God's authority".
		27	"Rome holds and undisputable championship in perverting everything that apostle Paul laid out for the believers and Rome will pay for it a terrifying price".
2	CTS Series Tract No. 35 'Whose Witnesses ?'	3	"By deliberately preventing the Scripture in this way support can easily be fabricated for the wildest theories and most perverse doctrines".
		5	"The chief priests created the lie that His disciples stole the body to deceive the people; now 'Jehovah's Witnesses' produce a bigger lie that God did it to deceive the disciples".
		6	"Not content with robbing our glorious Lord of His deity, with shocking blasphemy, they boldly proclaim Him one of the greatest religious tricksters of all time".
3	CTS Series Tract No. 34 'Simple Truths for Salvation'.	1	"The are no complicated creeds to learn, no great fee to pay, no purgatory, no mass, no need of a priest. God has set forth, in the Bible, the simple truths for your salvation".
4	CTS Series Tract No. 74 'The Great Divider'.	3	"It is the cry of the worldly church a church which has lost its Christ. But we wonder from whose original mind this original sin emanated. One thing we are certain. It must have emanated from high places, for is it not there that false teachers also"
5	CTS Series Tract No. 64 'From out of the Convent cell to the feet of the Master'.	4	"The prayers and the money would lessen the period of agony of those suffering souls. This was what we were taught to believe. Fear gripped my heart at the thought of Purgatory. I had no mother, father, brothers or sisters, who would pray for me after my death ? I expressed my thoughts to the sisters in the Convent. I told them that I had become a sister in the convent so that I could go to Heaven after death. But alas, they told me that I had to go to Purgatory first. I used to shiver at the very thought of death and Purgatory".
		10	"I noticed that women folk in his church decorated themselves with jewels and flowers just like the Catholics. The thoughts came to my mind that this could not be the real Christian Church"
			"She told me that the Catholic priests and nuns did not help them in any way, but just wanted to live a life of leisure and pleasure".

6	Tract No. 9 'India's Freedom in Danger'.	1	"The large electorate of Romans in India built through belly conversions, multiple pregnancies and by every other possible means are forced to vote according to the orders of the pulpit under pain of sin and threat of excommunication. The Roman Church condemns Birth Control, Family Planning and even starving and debilated women have to go on producing children, the future Roman voters in India".
		2	"There are no secrets between a parishioner, whatever his status or position be, and his parish priest. A parishioner is bound to confess his or her innermost secrets when asked by his or her bachelor priest. The Indian-Romans are held in bondage by a foreign system under the power of a foreign monarch. The plight or woman is worse, who as Romanists must confess to their bachelor "Father" their innermost secrets, thus placing themselves under his power and spell; they give freely to their Church believing that salvation can be transacted through gold and silver and through the medium of a priest. Is this Christianity ? Did Christ teach all these ? Nehru said that he believes in freedom of the human spirit. But these confessions are against the very principle. This is out and out bondage different from every other religion".
		4	"We see in every Roman Church dominated country, there is no political freedom, no freedom of speech, no freedom of the press, no opposition party, persecution of all other religious, poverty and scarcity in rural areas, backwardness, illiteracy and bad Government resulting in constant upheavals against the Government in power".
			"Whenever the Canon of the Vatican conflicts with the Laws of the State, the Romans are bound to uphold the Canon Law against the State Law, thus breeding a set of traitors. The Civil Marriage Act, the Divorce Bill, etc., are not recognised by the Roman Church in India".
7	CTS Tract No. 5 'Why Catholics should read the Bible ?'	2	"The plea many lukewarm Catholics make that they have no time to read the Bible is a downright falsehood and a suspicion rather that they have little or no religion at all".
		3	"Don't understand the Bible: who does ? Neither priest, bishop or Pope for that matter".

By order and in the name of the Governor of Mysore,

G. S. TELANG, Under Secy.

OFFICE OF THE PRINCIPAL, B. E. COLLEGE

PLEADERS' SURVEY EXAMINATION BOARD

Shibpur, post office Botanic Garden, the 22nd September 1964

NOTIFICATION

Annual Examination of Pleaders in Surveying, 1965.

(See Government notification No. 3888J., dated the 18th April 1938, modified in Government notification No. 6636J., dated the 5th August 1938.)

1. The next examination for both Class I and Class II candidates will be held in February 1965 and will be conducted at the Bengal Engineering College Centre.

2. Each examination is complete in itself. A candidate will be required to pass each test and will not be exempted from any test on the ground that he has previously satisfied the examiner in it.

3. No candidate will be admitted to the Class II examination unless he has been enrolled as a pleader and—

(i) has obtained credit for attendance at the special course of instruction for Class II candidates at the Bengal Engineering College in 1962, 1963, or 1964, or

(ii) has been registered for admission to the B.E. Part I Examination of the Calcutta University, or

(iii) has passed the Sub-Overseer Examination, or

(iv) has obtained the Surveyor's certificate of one of the Government Survey Schools, or

(v) has been specially exempted by the Board controlling the examination to appear without any of the qualifications (i) to (iv).

4. No candidate will be admitted to the Class I Examination unless he has passed the Class II Examination or the Pleaders' Survey Examination held under the rules in force prior to the coming into force of these rules, and has obtained credit for attendance at the special course of instruction for Class I candidates at the Bengal Engineering College in 1962, 1963, or 1964.

5. The maximum number that will ordinarily be registered for examination is 20 for Class II and 8 for Class I. But this rule may be relaxed to some extent by the Board if necessary.

6. Should the number of candidates for examination at the Centre be very great (in the opinion of the officer controlling the examination) to be examined at one time, he will arrange for two separate examinations in the field tests. All candidates must appear at the same paper examination.

7. Candidates wishing to appear at the examination will apply on the prescribed registration form, obtain the necessary countersignature of the District Judge in whose Court he is enrolled and forward the same so as to reach the office of the Principal, Bengal Engineering College, not later than the 2nd December 1964. The form may be had from the Principal, Bengal Engineering College.

8. The names of the candidates will be provisionally registered for examination subject to the condition that they must furnish within a month of the date of receipt of the intimation or requisition on that behalf, a receipt from the local treasury certifying the payment of the examination fee of Rs. 50 (in case of Class II candidates) and Rs. 75 (in case of Class I candidates) under the head "XXII—Education (Provincial—Education)—Examination Fees for Pleaders' Survey Examination", which fee will in no case be returned. If a candidate fails to produce the receipt as aforesaid within the specified date he will be debarred from appearing at the examination.

9. The exact date of the examination and the proposed programme will be communicated to candidates by the officer who has registered their names.

Pleaders' Survey Training Classes, 1965

1. Classes for the training of Pleaders in surveying will be opened on the 11th January 1965 at the Bengal Engineering College for both Class I and Class II candidates provided sufficient candidates register their names at the Centre.

2. The courses will last for ten weeks and will consist of practical work combined with class instruction. The routine and hours of attendance will be settled by the head of the institution, who will also decide the exact locality in which the classes will be held and the date of the opening.

3. Pleaders must make their own arrangements for attending this course. No tents or other residential accommodation will be provided.

4. Credit for attendance at the classes will not be given unless the Pleader has been present for 80 per cent. of the working days and for the full working hours for each day. The attendance must be distributed over the course so that no subject is neglected.

5. Candidates for Class II training should have had additional Mathematics in their Matriculation Examination of the Calcutta University or an equivalent Examination. If not, they must have had Mathematics as one of the combination subjects in their Inter|Degree Examination. They must make an application in the prescribed form available from the College office to the undersigned to register their names not later than December 2, 1964. The application of a candidate must be endorsed by the District Judge. The names of the candidates will be provisionally registered subject to the condition that they must furnish within a month of the date of receipt of the intimation or requisition on that behalf, a remittance receipt from the local treasury certifying that the fee of Rs. 100 (for each of the Class I and Class II candidates) has been paid into the treasury to the credit of the Secretary, Pleaders' Survey Examination Board, under the Head "XXII—Education (Provincial—Education)—Fees for Pleaders' Survey Training Classes". If a candidate fails to produce the remittance receipt as aforesaid within the specified date he will be debarred from joining the course, though his name might be provisionally registered for such training.

6. (i) The Registering Officer will inform the candidates as to the date of opening of the class.

(ii) Pleaders who have passed the Class II Examination or the Survey Examination held under the rules in force prior to the coming into force of these rules, may be registered for the training in Class under these rules.

7. The following is the syllabus of instruction:—

CLASS II

No definite text books are prescribed.

(a) Practical work—Chain surveying, Prismatic compass, Plane tabling and levelling.

(b) Class work—Use of mathematical instruments, construction of scales, drawing of plans and section from models, measurements and sketches, mensuration of areas, plotting of field books, variation of compass, preparation of field books from maps, elementary principles of levelling and plotting of level section and relaying.

CLASS I

(a) Practical work—Chain and compass surveying, plane tabling and theodolite surveying.

(b) Class work—Construction and use of Vernier scales, measurement of areas, heights and distances, determination of inaccessible points, three-point problem solutions, temporary and permanent adjustments of theodolite, determination of the true meridian by three different methods, surveying of sites—Gales traverse system, balancing open and closed traverses, filling in interior details, plotting inking and relaying.

Candidates who obtain the required percentage of attendances at these courses are qualified to appear at the Pleaders' Survey Examinations to be held in 1966, 1967, 1968 or 1969, but will not be admitted to the examination more than three times in these four years.

PART IB—Educational Notices

OFFICE OF THE PRINCIPAL, B. E. COLLEGE

PLEADERS' SURVEY EXAMINATION BOARD

Shibpur, post office Botanic Garden, the 22nd September 1964

NOTIFICATION

Annual Examination of Pleaders in Surveying, 1965.

(See Government notification No. 3888J., dated the 18th April 1938, modified in Government notification No. 6636J., dated the 5th August 1938.)

1. The next examination for both Class I and Class II candidates will be held in February 1965 and will be conducted at the Bengal Engineering College Centre.

2. Each examination is complete in itself. A candidate will be required to pass each test and will not be exempted from any test on the ground that he has previously satisfied the examiner in it.

3. No candidate will be admitted to the Class II Examination unless he has been enrolled as a pleader and—

(i) has obtained credit for attendance at the special course of instruction for Class II candidates at the Bengal Engineering College in 1962, 1963, or 1964, or

(ii) has been registered for admission to the B.E. Part I Examination of the Calcutta University, or

(iii) has passed the Sub-Overseer Examination, or

(iv) has obtained the Surveyor's certificate of one of the Government Survey Schools, or

(v) has been specially exempted by the Board controlling the examination to appear without any of the qualifications (i) to (iv).

4. No candidate will be admitted to the Class I Examination unless he has passed the Class II Examination or the Pleaders' Survey Examination held under the rules in force prior to the coming into force of these rules, and has obtained credit for attendance at the special course of instruction for Class I candidates at the Bengal Engineering College in 1962, 1963, or 1964.

5. The maximum number that will ordinarily be registered for examination is 20 for Class II and 8 for Class I. But this rule may be relaxed to some extent by the Board if necessary.

6. Should the number of candidates for examination at the Centre be very great (in the opinion of the officer controlling the examination) to be examined at one time, he will arrange for two separate examinations in the field tests. All candidates must appear at the same paper examination.

7. Candidates wishing to appear at the examination will apply on the prescribed registration form, obtain the necessary countersignature of the District Judge in whose Court he is enrolled and forward the same so as to reach the office of the Principal, Bengal Engineering College, not later than the 2nd December 1964. The form may be had from the Principal, Bengal Engineering College.

8. The names of the candidates will be provisionally registered for examination subject to the condition that they must furnish within a month of the date of receipt of the intimation or requisition on that behalf, a receipt from the local treasury certifying the payment of the examination fee of Rs. 50 (in case of Class II candidates) and Rs. 75 (in case of Class I candidates) under the head "XXII—Education (Provincial—Education)—Examination Fees for Pleaders' Survey Examination", which fee will in no case be returned. If a candidate fails to produce the receipt as aforesaid within the specified date he will be debarred from appearing at the examination.

9. The exact date of the examination and the proposed programme will be communicated to candidates by the officer who has registered their names.

Pleaders' Survey Training Classes, 1965

1. Classes for the training of Pleaders in surveying will be opened on the 11th January 1965 at the Bengal Engineering College for both Class I and Class II candidates provided sufficient candidates register their names at the Centre.

2. The courses will last for ten weeks and will consist of practical work combined with class instruction. The routine and hours of attendance will be settled by the head of the institution, who will also decide the exact locality in which the classes will be held and the date of the opening.

3. Pleaders must make their own arrangements for attending this course. No tents or other residential accommodation will be provided.

4. Credit for attendance at the classes will not be given unless the Pleader has been present for 80 per cent. of the working days and for the full working hours for each day. The attendance must be distributed over the course so that no subject is neglected.

5. Candidates for Class II training should have had additional Mathematics in their Matriculation Examination of the Calcutta University or an equivalent Examination. If not, they must have had Mathematics as one of the combination subjects in their Inter/Degree Examination. They must make an application in the prescribed form available from the College office to the undersigned to register their names not later than December 2, 1964. The application of a candidate must be endorsed by the District Judge. The names of the candidates will be provisionally registered subject to the condition that they must furnish within a month of the date of receipt of the intimation or requisition on that behalf, a remittance receipt from the local treasury certifying that the fee of Rs. 100 (for each of the Class I and Class II candidates) has been paid into the treasury to the credit of the Secretary, Pleaders' Survey Examination Board, under the Head "XXII—Education (Provincial—Education)—Fees for Pleaders' Survey Training Classes". If a candidate fails to produce the remittance receipt as aforesaid within the specified date he will be debarred from joining the course, though his name might be provisionally registered for such training.

6. (i) The Registering Officer will inform the candidates as to the date of opening of the class.

(ii) Pleaders who have passed the Class II Examination or the Survey Examination held under the rules in force prior to the coming into force of these rules, may be registered for the training in Class under these rules.

7. The following is the syllabus of instruction:—

CLASS II

No definite text books are prescribed.

(a) Practical work—Chain surveying, Prismatic compass, Plane tabling and levelling.

(b) Class work—Use of mathematical instruments, construction of scales, drawing of plans and section from models, measurements and sketches, mensuration of areas, plotting of field books, variation of compass, preparation of field books from maps, elementary principles of levelling and plotting of level section and relaying.

CLASS I

(a) Practical work—Chain and compass surveying, plane tabling and theodolite surveying.

(b) Class work—Construction and use of Vernier scales, measurement of areas, heights and distances, determination of inaccessible points, three-point problem solutions, temporary and permanent adjustments of theodolite, determination of the true meridian by three different methods, surveying of sites—Gales traverse system, balancing open and closed traverses, filling in interior details, plotting inking and relaying.

Candidates who obtain the required percentage of attendances at these courses are qualified to appear at the Pleaders' Survey Examinations to be held in 1966, 1967, 1968 or 1969, but will not be admitted to the examination more than three times in these four years.

ANNEXURE

the matter of an industrial dispute between Messrs. Shree Mahalaxmi Cotton Mills, P.O. Bengal Enamel, Palta, 24-Parganas, and their workmen represented by Shree Mahalaxmi Cotton Mills Employees' Union, P.O. Bengal Enamel, Palta, 24-Parganas. (Case No. VIII-200/62.)

BEFORE THE SECOND INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL

Present:

Shri A. P. BHATTACHARYA, Judge,
Second Industrial Tribunal.

Appearances:

For the Company: Shri Niren Dey, Counsel, and Shri S. K. Bhanja Chowdhury, Labour Adviser.

For the Union: Shri D. L. Sen Gupta, Advocate, Shri M. M. Saha, Advocate, and Shri Anil Das Chowdhury, Advocate.

The Government of West Bengal by its Labour Department Order No. 6632-I.R./IR/8L-41/60, dated 29th November 1962, referred to this Tribunal an industrial dispute between Messrs. Mahalaxmi Cotton Mills, P.O. Bengal Enamel, Palta, 24-Parganas (hereinafter referred to as the Company), and their workmen represented by Shree Mahaluxmi Cotton Mills Employees' Union, P.O. Bengal Enamel Palta, 24-Parganas (hereinafter referred to as the Union), for adjudication under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act.

The issue framed in this case for adjudication runs as follows:

Are the employees of the Shree Mahaluxmi Cotton Mills entitled to get any customary Puja bonus? If so at what rate and on what basis?

AWARD

The Union claims Puja bonus equivalent to one month's wages as a condition of service, on the plea that such bonus used to be paid in earlier years. The question of Puja bonus had been the subject in a previous reference beofre the Tribunal, and the Tribunal was pleased to hold that the workmen were entitled to two months' Puja bonus as a condition of service. The matter came up before the Labour Appellate Tribunal in June 1952 and it is reported in 1952 F.J.R. Vol IV page 248 The Labour Appellate Tribunal upheld the view of the Industrial Tribunal. Then the matter came up before the Hon'ble High Court on a petition by the Company, and the High Court upheld the said decision but modified the quantum of bonus by allowing it equivalent to one month's basic pay. Since then the workmen have been enjoying the said Puja bonus as a condition of service. In 1960, 1961 and 1962 bonus had been paid to the workmen. Fifteen days' basic pay was given as bonus in 1962, while 20 days' basic pay was given as such during the other two years The dispute with regard to one month's bonus was always maintained by the workmen, and it was ultimately referred to the Tribunal for decision.

The Company files a written statement challenging that the work are not entitled to any Puja bonus as a condition of service. The Company contends that the claim of the Union for Puja bonus as a condition of service is beyond the scope of the present reference, because the reference is in respect of customary Puja bonus.

The Company was originally named as Mahaluxmi Cotton Mills and it went into liquidation. Then the Hon'ble High Court appointed an Official Liquidator, and the Official Liquidator served notices upon the employees on 2nd April 1960 terminating their services with effect from that date. Thereafter, the workmen filed a petition before the Hon'ble High Court claiming pay in lieu of notice and gratuity at the rate of 15 days' pay for every year of service. On 2nd April 1960, the Official Liquidator under orders of the Hon'ble High Court sold the assets of the Mill to Messrs. Gajraj Pannalal Ltd. The condition of service of the workmen was changed by the new concern. The Union is not entitled to substantiate the workmen's claim of bonus as a condition of service, because the conditions of service prevailing in the old Company do not prevail in the new Company. Since 1960, when the new Company came into existence, no bonus had been paid. In 1960, 20 days' basic pay was given as advance and so also in 1962. In 1961, 15 days' basic pay was given as ex-gratia. The Company is not liable to pay any bonus to the workmen as a condition of service. The claim of customary bonus is unfounded and not justified. There is no payment of bonus by this Company and there is no custom proved by the Union regarding payment of bonus by the old Company. Moreover, customary bonus cannot be pressed against the new Com for custom terminates with the old employer

Decision

The first and foremost argument advanced side of the Company is that the Union's clai one month's Puja bonus as a condition of made out in the written statement need not b idered by the Tribunal, in view of the fact is beyond the scope of the reference. The re is in the following terms:

"Are the employees.....entitled to customary Puja bonus?"

The reference undoubtedly makes mention customary Puja bonus. The case of the Un Puja bonus and not customary bonus. It is cl as a condition of service in clear and unambig term. The learned Counsel for the Company a distinction between four types of bonus, a production bonus, profit bonus, customary or val bonus and bonus as a condition of serv implied contract. These four types of bonu been discussed in the Supreme Court decisio ported in 1961 L.L.J. I page 521. The relev cussion occurs at page 526. It is now argu since there are four types of bonus, and the ence is in respect of customary bonus, the Tr should not consider the question of bonus as a dition of service. It is true that there ar types of bonus, but there is no authority fo proposition that the Tribunal while enterin the bonus issue must confine itself to the part type of bonus without looking into the other The issue undoubtedly is Puja bonus. It may customary or it may be rested on or implied agreement. Simply becaus reference mentions about the customary b the Tribunal should not negative the U claim of Puja bonus as a condition of service issue formulated in the reference mentions Puja bonus as well. I cannot, therefore, accep learned Counsel's contention that the Tri cannot enter into the question of bonus claim a condition of service. It is significant to note the learned Advocate for the Union does not ex tically press the claim of customary bonus claim is of Puja bonus as a condition of servic is an undisputed fact that there had been a pre reference where the issue of bonus was referr the Tribunal. In that case the Tribunal de that the workmen were entitled to two mo wages as Puja bonus as a condition of se There was an appeal by the Company to the L Appellate Tribunal, and the judgment of the L Appellate Tribunal is reported in 1952 F.J.R page 248. The Labour Appellate Tribunal u the decision of the Industrial Tribunal and this in 1952 Admittedly, there was an applicatio the Hon'ble High Court by the Company Hon'ble High Court upheld the claim of Puja b as a condition of service, but scaled down the to one month's basic pay. The reference of therefore settled the matter of dispute between Company and its workmen. It was Mahal Cotton Mills at that time. The Company one month's basic pay as Puja bonus as a cond liable under the said award to pay to its work of service. This position cannot be assailed

On the side of the Company it is argued that the workmen cannot claim the said bonus against the new concern, namely, Shree Mahaluxmi Cotton Mills started by Gajaraj Pannalal Ltd. The following circumstances are pleaded to defeat the claim of the workmen. It is first of all argued that the old Company went into liquidation, and an Official Liquidator was appointed by the Hon'ble High Court, and as such there was termination of service of the workmen of the old Company. This position is got to be looked into, whether it is a fact or not. The question whether the services of the workmen were terminated by the Official Liquidator is a point of fact, and must be decided as such. Shri P. K. Pal was appointed as Official Liquidator on 25th January 1955. It is significant to note that the business of the Company continued as before, and the employees continued to work there under the same conditions as before. Exhibit 6 is a letter, dated 20th August 1958, from the Official Liquidator on the question of annual puja bonus, and it reads as follows:

> "The Court granted one month's basic pay as Puja bonus for the last three years since the Company went into liquidation. Before the Liquidation, the employees used to get Puja bonus and the Appellate Tribunal adjudicated that Puja bonus was a condition of service. The Liquidator recommends payment of Puja bonus and asks for necessary orders from the Court."

From the above letter, it follows that Puja bonus as a condition of service used to be enjoyed by the workmen before the liquidation proceeding, and after the Official Liquidator took over charge of the Company, it was paid for three years. There was no notice to the workmen terminating their services by the Official Liquidator. The learned Counsel for the Company places before me an order, dated 30th July 1956 (Ext. N), and it is to the effect that the workers represented by an Advocate accepted the position of termination of employment of the workers and recommended as preferential creditor two months' salary as gratuity. The acceptance of this position by the Advocate will not prejudice the claim of the workmen. In fact, the workmen did not receive two months' salary or gratuity or accepted the position of termination of service. It is not a fact that the services of the workmen were terminated or retrenchment benefits were given to them by the Official Liquidator.

The Hon'ble High Court gave leave to the Liquidator to sell the Mill, and the Order is Ext. M, dated 6th July 1959. Exhibit B is the Sale Dead by which the Official Liquidator sold the Mill to Gajaraj Pannalal Ltd. On behalf of Gajaraj Pannalal, who purchased the Mill on 2nd April 1960, it is pleaded that he did not purchase the mill as a going concern, but he purchased only the assets and machineries of the mill, and started a new business. The services of the workmen were terminated by the new employer, and there is no continuity of service under the new management. The Sale Deed (Ext. B) may be looked into in this respect. It shows that the Official Liquidator was appointed to carry on the business of the Mill..... so that the Mill may be run as a going concern and be sold as such. The above words clearly indicate that the Mill was run by the Official Liquidator, and was sold as a going concern to Gajaraj Pannalal. Gajaraj Pannalal obtained possession of the Mill on 2nd April 1960. This is recited in the Sale Deed, which was executed in September 1960. The learned Counsel for the Company draws my attention to the notice of the Official Liquidator (Ext. C), dated 2nd April 1960, by which formal possession was given to the Company formed by Gajaraj Pannalal Ltd. That notice recites that the services of all employees employed by the Official Liquidator would cease. This is said to be the termination of service of all the workmen. I am unable to accept the contention that this notice serves as a termination of services of all the workmen. It only recites the fact that the employees were no longer in the service of the Official Liquidator, but they would be in service of the purchaser Company. Thereafter the Company gave a notice (Ext. 4), dated 5th April 1960, to say that the Mahaluxmi Cotton Mill would start its working on 6th April 1960 and the employees were requested to join their respective departments. This notice is just a call to all employees to continue in service. It cannot be interpreted as new appointments being given to the employees of a closed concern which was being started anew. Exhibit A is a simple application for employment. It only shows the name of the employee, his present address, father's name and the job or position he wanted in the Company. This application is dated 6th April 1960. On the strength of this application it is argued that the Company gave new employment to the workmen. The application form (Ext. A) itself belies such a case. On behalf of the Union, the evidence is that the Company got such application signed much later than the date given thereon, and it was not a new application for employment. It was signed while the worker was continuing in service as before. The application form has several column, but all those columns are not filled in. From the very appearance of the application, it is clear that this was not a new application for new employment. The employees were working as before without any interruption, but they were asked to sign and fill up only the relevant columns as token of their continuance in employment. These applications are sought to be utilised as applications for new employment, but from the very nature of the application form, such a case must be negatived. One Abhimanyu Das applied for himself and on behalf of other employees for payment of one month's pay in lieu of notice and gratuity for every year of service. In fact, there is no evidence that any such payment was made to the workmen. From this application, I am reluctant to infer that the workmen accepted the position of termination of their service. There is also no evidence that any workman signed that application, or that Abhimanyu Das was so authorised on behalf of the workmen. From the evidence discussed above, the irresist conclusion would be that there was no termination of service of the workmen either by the Official Liquidator or by the new Company, and the workmen continued in service without break as before in the running business, which had no break either at the time of liquidation or at the time when the new Company took over it.

Now I will come to a discussion of the legal position. The question whether the new Company would be a successor-in-interest of the old Company in consequence of the transfer need not be considered academically, and this had been the observation of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Dahingapara Tea Estate reported in 1958 II L.L.J. page 498. The issue involved in that case was whether the transfer of management of the Dahingapara Tea Estate consequent on its sale as a going concern to the respondent, put an end to the services of the members of the staff, and the Hon'ble Supreme Court observed that it was an abstract question and cannot be answered as such. The Supreme Court, however, in view of the finding taken on the facts of the case, thought it unnecessary to express any opinion on that question. A similar question came up before the Hon'ble Supreme Court in another case, namely, Kays Construction Co. Ltd. reported in 1958 II L.L.J. page 660. That question was not decided in this reported case as well, and it was found on fact that the concern taken over was the same business under a changed name.

The matter was then argued with particular reference to section 25FFF of the Industrial Disputes Act in the light of the decision reported in 1962 L.L.J. II page 621 of the Hon'ble Supreme Court. It is first of all argued that since the ownership is transferred, every workman who had been in continuous service for not less than one year in the previous undertaking, shall be entitled to notice and compensation in accordance with the provisions of section 25F, as if the workman had been retrenched under the provisions of section 25FF. In view of the provisions of the above section, the workman becomes entitled to notice and compensation in the manner provided in section 25FF and as such the service of the workman stands terminated on such transfer. There is a proviso to that section which runs thus:

> Provided that nothing in this section shall apply to a workman in any case where there has been a change of employers by reason of the transfer, if—
> (a) the service of the workman has not been interrupted by such transfer;
>
> (b) the terms and conditions of service applicable to the workman after such transfer are not in any way less favourable to the workman than those applicable to him immediately before the transfer; and
> (c) the new employer is, under the terms of such transfer or otherwise, legally liable to pay to the workman, in the event of his retrenchment, compensation on the basis that his service has been continuous and has not been interrupted by the transfer.

The case reported in 1962 II L.L.J. page 621 does not throw much light upon our case. It was a case of claim for re-employment. The workmen received compensation under section 25FF and wanted re-employment under section 25H of the Industrial Disputes Act. The Hon'ble Supreme Court held that if the transferee was by Statute required to pay retrenchment compensation to his workmen, it would be anomalous to suggest that the workmen who received compensation, were entitled to claim immediate re-employment in the concern at the hands of the transferee. In the reported case, the workmen received compensation in terms of section 25FF, and after they were retrenched in that manner, they claimed re-employment under section 25H as retrenched workers. The workmen whose service was terminated under section 25FF were entitled to receive compensation, as if they had been retrenched, but they were not to be called "retrenched workers" within the meaning of section 25H. That is the burden of decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court. To the instant case, the reported case has no application at all. In the present case, the services of the workmen were never terminated, and they did not claim or receive any compensation under section 25FF. The workmen in the instant case come within the proviso of section 25FF, as their services had not been interrupted by the transferee. The terms and conditions of their service after such transfer were not in any way less favourable to them than the terms and conditions applicable to them immediately before the transfer. From this, the continuity of service of the workmen may be inferred. It may be said that the new employer is legally liable to pay to the workmen, in the event of their retrenchment, compensation on the basis that their service has been continuous and has not been interrupted by the transfer of ownership of the business. The continuity of service and service conditions must be inferred from the proved facts and circumstances. The business was a running concern and the workmen were employed in it all through. There was no interruption in the working of the Mill when Gajaraj Pannalal took over it, and the services of the old employees continued as before under Gajaraj Pannalal without any new service condition being introduced or imposed, or break or change in the service or the service condition of the workmen. The case of the workmen clearly falls under the purview of the proviso to section 25FF of the Act. I have already discussed the facts leading to the above conclusion on the evidence recorded. Bonus used to be paid to the workmen as a condition of service, and the said condition of service was continued by the Official Liquidator and was not even altered by the new concern. It is true that the new concern did not pay any Puja bonus as a condition of service, but that does not matter. Under the old conditions of service which are available against the new concern as well, the claim of bonus can be maintained as a condition of service by the workmen. I accordingly find that the workmen are entitled to one month's basic pay as Puja bonus as a condition of service.

This is my award, and the Company is directed to implement it within one month of its publication in the "Calcutta Gazette".

AWARD

Both parties filed a joint petition of compromise on 27th May 1964 stating that the disputes outstanding between the parties had been amicably settled out of Court. The parties also prayed for an award. It appears that the Company agreed to reinstate the three workmen involved in this case with a lump sum compensation of Rs. 1,000 and the period of their unemployment from the date of dismissal till the date of their reinstatement, i.e., up to 7th June 1964 will be treated as leave without pay in each case. The terms of the compromise appear to be fair and reasonable.

I therefore pass an award in terms of the petition of compromise which do form part of the award as Annexure "A".

And

In the matter of an Industrial Dispute

Messrs. Batabari Tea Company Ltd., 105 Meher Ali Road, Calcutta-17

And

Their workmen, represented by West Bengal Cha Sramik Union.

The humble joint petition of the parties in the matter most respectfully sheweth:

1. That the above case has been compromised amicably between the parties on the following terms:

(a) That the Company hereby agrees to reinstate three workmen Sarbasri (1) Baldeo Naik, (2) Ganga Routia and (3) Dobraj Oraon on and from 8th June 1964 with continuity of service.

(b) That the Company agrees to pay a lump sum compensation of Rs. 1000 (one thousand only) in all to three workmen referred to for the period of their forced unemployment, i.e., from 25th July 1958 to 7th June 1964 in case of Baldeo Naik and Gangaram Routia and from 25th August 1958 to 7th June 1964 in case of Dobraj Naik and the entire period of unemployment will be treated as leave without pay in each case.

(c) Out of this Rs. 1000 (one thousand) the sum of Rs. 200 (two hundred) is being paid today and the balance of Rs. 800 will be paid to Shri Ghanasyam Misra, Joint Secretary of West Bengal Cha Sramik Union for disbursement of aforesaid worker and the receipt granted by said Ghanasyam Misra will be treated as receipt issued by the workers, on or before 15th June 1964.

(d) That the Company agrees to pay their arrear wage and other dues, viz., bonus, leave, if any, to the aforesaid worker within three months from the date of this agreement.

(e) That the workers and the Union will have no further claim against the Company out of this order of reference.

(f) This finally settles the dispute between the parties.

Under the circumstances, it is prayed that Your Honour would graciously be pleased to pass an award in the aforesaid terms and pass such other or further order as Your Honour may deem fit and proper.

And for this act of kindness the petitioners shall ever pray.

The issue relates to the termination of servic 17 workmen named therein. Regarding the n of the termination of services of these workme appears from the written statements filed b Union that the services of all these workmen not terminated on the same ground and at the s time, but the termination of services of diff workmen was effected on different grounds an different times. The specific cases of the pa regarding the termination of services of diff workmen named in the issue will be stated and cussed when I will take up the merits of the is Before going into the merits of the issue, I am to dispose of a preliminary legal objection raised on behalf of the Company. The legal objection is that this concerned Union being a stranger Union and not a Union exclusively of the workmen of this Company is not legally competent to raise this industrial dispute on behalf of the concerned workmen and consequently this dispute raised by some workmen through this Union is not an industrial dispute and as such it is not referable for adjudication and this Tribunal cannot also adjudicate upon it. It has also been faintly alleged that the concerned Union is not also a Union of workmen of the general industry carried on by this Company and other companies.

It has transpired in evidence that quite a substantial number of workmen of this Company are members of the concerned Union, Wood Products Mazdoor Union. P.W. 1 Shri Nakul Maharana has testified that 70 or 80 per cent. of about 200/250 workmen employed by this Company are members of this Union and there is no other Union of the workmen of this Company except this Union. In cross-examination he has made the point clear by saying that out of the entire body of workmen, more than 150 are members of this Union. P.W. 3 Shri Prakash Rawal, a present workman of this Company, and who is not one of the concerned workmen, has also stated that about 100 to 75 workmen of this Company are members of this Union and there is no other Union in this workshop. He has also proved the membership applications made by some workmen of this Company to this Union (vide Ext. 25 series). This witness is the Secretary of this Union. The concerned workmen were all workmen of the bobbin manufacturing section of this Company. It is an undisputed position that this Company produces wooden bobbins. There are indications in the evidence itself that wood is used for work in the bobbin section. It is in the evidence of the Company's Manager, Shri Ojha (O.P.W. 3), that the concerned workman No. 5 Ram Nath Singh was employed for the work of removing mango logs and stacking the planks. This clearly indicates that wood is used for production of finished goods by this Company in the bobbin section. It may thus quite properly be said that this Company is also engaged in manufacturing wood products. So, the general union of the workmen engaged in the industry of manufacturing wood products is quite competent to legally represent the workmen of this Company, which is also engaged in similar industry. But this legal competence will arise only if it is proved that quite a large and substantial number of workmen of this Company are members of this Union. This fact has been clearly proved by the evidence already referred to above. I may state here that there is no counter-evidence on this point on the side of the Company. In fact, none of the Company's witnesses has made any statement denying the evidence of some witnesses on the Union's side, referred to above, that quite a large and substantial number of workmen of this Company, to the tune of 70/80 per cent. of the total number of workmen, are members of this Union and asserting that no workmen of this Company, nor any appreciable number of workmen of this Company, are members of this Union. In view of this nature of evidence on this point, I hold that it has been satisfactorily proved that the concerned Union is a Union of the general industry carried on by this Company and quite a large and substantial number of workmen of this Company, about 70/80 per cent. are members of this Union. In view of this factual position, it must be held that this concerned Union, though not a Union exclusively of the workmen of this Company, is still legally competent to raise an industrial dispute on behalf of the workmen of this Company by reflecting a concerted demand of quite a large and substantial number of workmen of this Company who are members of this Union. Accordingly, I reject the preliminary legal objection raised on behalf of the Company and hold that this Union is legally competent to raise the present industrial dispute and as such the dispute is capable of legal adjudication under the Industrial Disputes Act on reference to this Tribunal.

I will now go into the merits of the issue.

Before taking up the case of each particular workman, I should briefly state the general case of the Union regarding all these workmen. It is that all these workmen were victimised by illegal and unjustified termination of services on some pretext or other because the Company got annoyed with them for their joining the present Union some time in 1961, when the Union was formed. It is further alleged by the Union that in pursuance of this vindictive attitude of the Company, it discharged eight workmen, some of whom are among the concerned workmen of this case, some time before December 1960, and the Union raised a dispute regarding the discharge of these workmen, which was taken up for conciliation by a Labour Officer and it was agreed at the conciliation on 21st December 1960 that all these workmen would be allowed to resume duty on and from the next date, on their reporting for duty. But this agreement was not respected by the Company and the workers who reported for duty on 22nd December 1960 were not taken in on that date, but finally they were allowed to resume their work. The Company's case regarding this plea of the Union is that the Company did not adopt any vindictive attitude against the workmen because of their joining the Union and the eight workmen, referred to above, were not discharged by the Company, but they themselves deserted service and fled away after taking some advances from the Company to meet their urgent needs when there was flood in their home district in Orissa and these advances were not re-paid. The conciliation proceeding is admitted and it is also admitted that it was agreed that all these eight workmen would be allowed to resume their duties on 22nd December 1960, but it is alleged that they did not report for duty on that date. However, ultimately they all reported for duty and were taken in and the matter thus ended. The aforesaid cases of the Union and the Company do not directly bear upon the merits of the issue except by way of background facts and the Union's case is that the discharge of the eight workmen, referred to above, clearly shows animus and mala fides of the Company against the workmen for joining the Union and that spirit of the Company also governed the action taken against the concerned workmen of the present case. I have considered the evidence adduced by the parties on this background position and I am of the view that there is no sufficient ground for holding that the Company became hostile and vindictive against the workmen simply because they joined the Union and the discharge of the eight workmen, referred to above, was nothing but their victimisation for joining the Union. The fact of taking advances from the Company by the workmen whose home district, Cuttack in Orissa, was affected by floods, is admitted. This clearly appears from the cross-examination of P.W. 1 Nakul Maharana. He says "I took some advance from the Company when there was flood in our home district in 1960. * * * The Company gave advance to all workers on account of the flood. All workers whose home district was Cuttack took advances from the Company, the amount being the same as in my case." He has, of course, denied the Company's suggestion that these workmen left the Company's service after taking the advances and without repaying the amounts. O.P.W. 3 Shri Ojha, the Manager of the factory, has stated in his evidence the whole of the Company's case regarding this matter. Apart from this oral evidence, the Company has produced the loan application of Mrittunjoy Paul, the concerned workman [Ext. Z(1)]. P.W. 9 Kesto Chandra Paul, one of the concerned workmen, has also admitted that he took some loan from the Company in 1960, on account of flood in his home district. He has, however, denied that he ran away with the money and did not come back to work. It may, therefore, be taken to be an admitted position that the eight workmen who were discharged previously had taken loans from the Company when there was flood in their home district. It cannot be believed that after granting loans to these workmen, the Company discharged them from service, as alleged by the Union. The very fact of granting loans to these workmen clearly betrays a sympathetic attitude on the part of the Company towards its workmen affected by the flood. Why should then the Company suddenly discharge them? Such discharge was likely to prejudice the Company's interest in that there would be little chance of recovering the loans advanced. After considering the entire evidence on this point in the light of surrounding circumstances and probabilities, I accept the Company's case that these workmen did not report for duty of their own accord after going away with the loan moneys. It is to be noted in this connection that in the conciliation proceedings, the Company did not raise any objection against their reinstatement but fairly agreed to their reinstatement and their ultimate reinstatement is an admitted fact, though there is dispute as to whether they really reported for duty on 22nd December 1960. I, therefore, reject the Union's plea that the Company became hostile and vindictive towards all these workmen simply because they joined this Union some time in 1961. The background facts alleged by the Union and relied on by it to show that the Company became hostile and vindictive towards the workmen do not certainly point conclusively to that conclusion when viewed in its proper perspective and the conduct of the Company as indicated above.

Now I will take up the case of each workmen or each batch of workmen where there is a common case in respect of a batch.

I. Shri Wakil Singh (No. 3) and Shri Gopal Mali (No. 4).

At the opening of the case, it was clearly submitted on behalf of the Union that it did not press the cases of workers Nos. 3 and 4 Wakil Singh and Shri Gopal Mali. As the dispute in respect of these workmen is given up by the Union, their cases are to be disposed of by a "no dispute" award on the basis that the dispute in respect of them has ceased to exist. Accordingly, I at once make a "no dispute" award in respect of these two workmen, No. 3 Wakil Singh and No. 4 Shri Gopal Mali.

II. Harisankar Singh (No. 8), Adhikari Behara (No. 9), Kartick Pashi (No. 10), Shyamsundar Rawal (No. 11), Sridhar Bishai (No. 123, Khelari Pashi (No. 13), Godabari Paul (No. 14), Krishna Ch. Paul (No. 15) and Nakul Maharana (No. 16).

The admissions of the parties in regard to the relevant case in respect of these workers lead us to the following position. All these nine workers were charge-sheeted on 15th July 1961. The charge against each of them was that he along with the other aforesaid workmen and some others surrounded Shri Kapildeo Singh and assaulted him near the main gate of the factory on 14th July 1961 at about 5-30 a.m. I here reproduce below one of the charge-sheets:

> "We have to inform you that on 14th July 1961 at about 5-30 a.m. you along with Shri Godabari Pal, Shri Adhikari Behera, Shri Khelari Pashi and Shri Hari Shanker Singh and others surrounded Shri Kapil Deo Singh and assaulted him near the main gate of the factory.
> You are to send your explanation within forty-eight hours."

The Company has exhibited all the charge-sheets and these are Exts. A to I. The Union has exhibited eight of the charge-sheets. These are Exts. 7, 8, 20, 22, 24, 30, 33 and 38. Some of the nine charge-sheeted workmen submitted replies to the charge-sheets, but not all. Thereafter, notices of a domestic enquiry proposed to be held regarding these charge-sheets were issued to all workmen and it was notified that the enquiry would be held at 9 a.m. on 24th July 1961 in the Works Office. The Company has exhibited all the nine notices and these are Exts. K, L, M, N, O, P, Q, R and S. The Union has exhibited eight of the notices and these are Exts. 4, 5, 19, 23, 28, 32, 35 and 37. Among the nine charge-sheeted workmen, only No. 11 Shyamsundar Rawal did not appear at the enquiry. Here, the general admissions of the parties regarding the charge-sheets, replies, notices of enquiry and the enquiry itself end There is a dispute between the parties as to which of the workmen actually submitted replies to the charge-sheets, though it is the general admission that all of them did not submit replies. According to the Company, only two workmen, No. 14 Godabari Paul and No. 16 Nakul Maharana, submitted the joint reply, Ext. J, and no other charge-sheeted workman submitted any reply. The Union's case, on the other hand, is that No. 9 Adhikari Behara, No. 10 Kartick Pashi and No. 11 Shyamsundar Rawal also submitted a joint reply. The Company has denied having received any such joint reply. Exhibit 18 is said to be a copy of the joint reply of these three workmen. There is no receipt of the Company in respect of s letter. It is significant to note in this connection at Ext. 6 is a copy of the admitted joint reply of dabari Paul and Nakul Maharana to their charge-eets and it is accompanied by a receipt, dated th July 1961, given by the Company. This letter is also dated 18th July 1961. We do not find any ch receipt in respect of the alleged joint reply of yamsundar Rawal, Kartick Pashi and Adhikari hara, dated 20th July 1961 (Ext. 18), which is nied by the Company. I do not see any reason y the Company should deny receipt of this joint ply if it was really given. The reply would not ect the interest of the Company in any manner cause it is an admitted position that a domestic quiry was held in respect of all the charge-sheeted rkmen after service of notice on them. Exhibit T/ hibit 27 is a letter from workman No. 13 helari Pashi stating that he would produce Hari-nkar Singh as his witness at the enquiry. Exhibit U a letter from No. 14 Godabari Paul, No. 8 Hari nkar Singh, No. 15 Krishna Ch. Paul and No. 16 akul Maharana stating that they would attend the quiry with three witnesses Uccha Barik, Mrittunjoy ul and Bhikhari Sura. Both these letters, Exts. T d U, are admitted. The Company's case is that other defence witness was cited by any other harge sheeted workmen. The Union's case, how-er, is that No. 9 Adhikari Behara, No. 10 Kartick si and No. 11 Shyamsundar Rawal wrote a letter the Company stating that they would examine me defence witnesses. Exhibit 17 is said to be a py of that letter. The Company has denied this tter and its case is that no such letter was received. he Union has not produced any receipt granted by e Company for such a letter. The letter purports be dated 21st July 1961. The Union represen-tive has stated that Ext. 56 is the certificate of sting relating to this letter. It is a certificate of sting, dated 22nd July 1961, and apparently it lates to a letter written by Adhikari Behara, artick Pasi and Shyamsundar Rawal. There is no ason to disbelieve this certificate of posting and it ay be presumed from the certificate of posting at it relates to the letter Ext. 17 and this letter uly reached the Company. So, in this respect, accept the Union's case. The position, therefore, that it is proved that after receipt of the notices enquiry, three letters were sent by three batches workmen out of the charge-sheeted workmen ted as defence witnesses. It can be safely held om the above facts and circumstances that after he charge-sheets and after replies by some of the harge-sheeted workmen to the charge-sheets, the ompany duly issued notices of domestic enquiry to hese workmen intimating that the domestic enquiry ould be held on 24th July 1961 at 9 a.m. in the Works Office and some of the workmen cited some efence witnesses for the enquiry. It is not disputed hat all the charge-sheeted workmen except Shyam-undar Rawal appeared before the E.O. Shri Ojha. he Company's case is that Shri Ojha duly held the nquiry in presence of the charge-sheeted workmen ho appeared and the Company's witnesses were xamined in their presence and they were allowed very opportunity to cross-examine the witnesses but hey declined to cross-examine and all the defence witnesses produced by the charge-sheeted workmen were examined. It is further the Company's case hat the statements of the charge-sheeted workmen present were also taken and they were asked to sign the recorded statements, but they declined. This whole case has been testified to by Shri Ojha, the Manager of the factory and the E.O. It is fully borne out by the recorded enquiry proceedings, Ext. W and the enquiry report, Ext. V. I find from the recorded enquiry proceedings that the Company's witnesses were examined first and thereafter the charge-sheeted workmen who were present were examined and the only defence witness cited by Khelari Pasi in his letter Ext. T/Ext. 27 Hari Sankar Singh (No. 13) and two of the three defence witnesses cited by No. 14 Godabari Paul, No. 8 Hari Sankar Singh, No. 15 Krishna Chandra Paul and No. 16 Nakul Maharana were examined and they were Uccha Barik and Bhikhari Sura, and the other witness named in this letter, Mrittunjoy Paul, was not examined. I also find that the witnesses named in the letter, Ext. 17 by No. 9 Adhikari Behara, No. 10 Kartick Pasi and No. 11 Shyamsundar Rawal were not examined. The Company's case in this respect is that the defence witnesses examined were only produced and no other defence witness was produced by the concerned workmen. Here, I should state the Union's case in respect of the enquiry. It is that no enquiry was really held at all, as the recorded enquiry proceedings, Ext. W, purport to show, but all that happened was that when the charge-sheeted workmen appeared before the E.O., he produced certain papers containing some English writings and asked them to sign the papers and when the workmen naturally refused to sign them, he asked them to go away. It is suggested that the recorded enquiry proceedings have been fabricated for the purpose of this case. Five out of these nine charge-sheeted workmen have given evidence in this case and they are P.W. 1 Nakul Maharana, P.W. 2 Adhikari Behara, P.W. 5 Khelari Pasi, P.W. 6 Kartick and P.W. 9 Kesto Ch. Paul. They have supported the case regarding the enquiry put forward by the Union. Besides them, P.W. 3 Provakar Rawal has given evidence stating that he was taken to the enquiry as a defence witness on behalf of Adhikari and others, but his evidence was not taken. P.W. 10 Bhikhari Sura has testified that he was produced for giving evidence as a defence witness at the enquiry by Godabari Paul, but the E.O. did not record his evidence. His further evidence is that the E.O. produced a paper and asked him to sign it and when he refused to do so, he was asked to go away. This is the whole evidence on the Union's side regarding the enquiry. I have carefully considered the entire evidence bearing on the holding of the enquiry produced by both sides. I have also given due consideration to the previous conduct of the parties and the surrounding circumstances and probabilities of the case. After doing all this, I am of the view that the Company's evidence should be accepted in preference to that of the Union. I am unable to believe that after having prepared for the enquiry with the utmost care by issuing notices to the workmen, the E.O. simply dismissed the workmen who appeared at the enquiry without holding any enquiry when they refused to sign some written papers produced before them. The whole story seems to be extremely unnatural and improbable. It is significant to note that there was no letter of protest making this allegation against the enquiry by the workmen or the Union, though it appears that the Union and the workmen were in the habit of frequently writing letters to the Company. The workmen are backed by a strong Union and it cannot be believed that had such a gross irregularity occurred in the matter of holding the enquiry, the workmen concerned would not have at once reported it to the Union and the Union would not have at once protested to the Company by a letter. In support of the position that the Company's witnesses were not examined in presence of the concerned workmen, the Union representative has drawn my attention to the statements made by the Company's witnesses, O.P.W. 1 Shri Purna Chandra Nayek and O.P.W. 2 Shri H. C. Pradhan to the effect that when they gave evidence at the enquiry two other persons, Kedar Babu and Kshitish Babu, were present. It is contended that these statements clearly indicate that the workmen were not present when the Company's witnesses were examined. I am unable to accept this position. These two persons were generally asked who else were present when they gave evidence and naturally they thought that they were being asked about outsiders and not parties and so they named two outsider witnesses, Kshitish Babu and Kedar Babu. They have nowhere stated that these two were the only persons present and none else was present. Upon such vague and loose statement, I am unable to discard the clear testimony of the E.O. P.W. 3 Shri Ojha and the enquiry proceedings and report, Exts. W and V. It appears from the enquiry proceedings that these two persons signed the recorded statements of every person examined at the enquiry under appropriate endorsements. Though it is not clearly recorded in the enquiry proceedings that the concerned workmen were asked to cross-examine each Company's witness after he was examined on behalf of the Company, this fact is testified to by the E.O. and is clearly recorded in the enquiry report which, according to his evidence, was prepared on that very day just after the enquiry. The enquiry report is dated 24th July 1961. As far as the defence witnesses are concerned, the enquiry report shows and it is also the evidence on behalf of the Company, that the witness cited by No. 13 Khelari Pashi in his letter, Ext. T/Ext. 27, Hari Sankar Singh was produced and examined and out of the three witnesses cited by Godabari (No. 14), Harisankar Singh (No. 8), Krishna Chandra Paul (No. 15), Nakul Maharana (No. 16), only two Uchhak Bari and Bhikari Sura were produced and examined, but the other witness, Mrittunjoy Paul, was not examined. Regarding the witnesses cited by No. 9 Adhikari Behara, No. 10 Kartick Pashi No. 11 Shyamsundar Rawal, in the letter Ext. 17, which, I have already held, was sent under the certificate of posting Ext. 56, the Company's case is that this letter was not received and no such witness was produced. I am satisfied from the evidence produced before me that though this letter was written and two of the concerned workmen, Kartick Pashi and Adhikari Behara, attended the enquiry, none of the witnesses named therein was produced for examination. Provakar Rawal, one of the witnesses cited in this letter, has given evidence and stated that he was taken to the enquiry as a defence witness, but his evidence was not taken. He is also a workman under this Company and has a vital interest in this case being the Secretary of the concerned Union. As against his evidence, I prefer to believe the evidence on the Company's side consisting of the testimony of O.P.W. 3 Shri Ojha, the E.O., and the enquiry proceedings and the report and I hold upon this evidence that no witness named in Ext. 17 was produced. When it is seen that the E.O. actually examined some defence witnesses, there could be no reason why he should have refused to record the evidence of some other defence witnesses if they were really produced. I hold, therefore, that all the defence witnesses produced by the concerned workmen were examined and it is not true that some defence witnesses were produced but not examined. On the above findings, I reject all the three main points of attack against the domestic enquiry raised on behalf of the Union and these are (1) that the defence witnesses were not examined, (2) evidence of witnesses on the Company's side was not recorded in the workers' presence and (3) there was no enquiry at all but the charge-sheeted workmen present were only asked to sign papers containing some English writings but they refused and then they were asked to go away. On the other hand I hold that there was quite a fair and proper enquiry in a bona fide manner and according to the principles of natural justice after due notices to the workmen and after giving them every opportunity to defend themselves against the charges by cross-examining the Company's witnesses who were examined in their presence and by producing witnesses on their own side.

There is another point of objection raised against the enquiry report and it is that the E.O. Shri Ojha was not an impartial man. I am unable to accept this objection also. It is quite natural that domestic enquiry should be held by an important officer of the Company and Shri Ojha was certainly such an officer. No doubt he signed the charge-sheets also. But according to the evidence on the record, he had no personal knowledge about the occurrence which constituted the subject-matter of the charge and simply issued the charge-sheets for and on behalf of the Company. So, it is not a case where he issued charge-sheets upon his own knowledge of the occurrence and then held the enquiry himself. In such a case he would not certainly have been an impartial person to hold the enquiry. He simply formally signed the charge-sheets. It was not even suggested to him in cross-examination that he had personal knowledge of the occurrence which constituted the subject-matter of the charge-sheet.

I have carefully considered the enquiry report. It is quite a comprehensive report giving not only the material details of the enquiry but also giving good and cogent reasons in support of the findings that all these workmen were guilty of the charge. He has also discussed the evidence in some detail. His finding against the workman is quite fair and reasonable according to the evidence produced before him and it cannot be said to be perverse or baseless.

The result of all the aforesaid decisions on the point of the domestic enquiry is that it is found that all these workmen were charge-sheeted for allegedly assaulting Kapildeo Singh, a Supervisor of the Company, on the morning of 14th July 1961 at about 5-30 a.m. at the factory gate and the charge-sheets were duly served upon the workmen, some of whom but not all, replied to the charge-sheets, and then after notices of the proposed domestic enquiry were given to and served upon all the charge-sheeted workmen and some of them wrote letters citing some nce witnesses and thereafter the enquiry was at the appointed day and time by Shri Ojha the proceedings of the enquiry were quite fair in consonance with the principles of natural ice and the Company acted throughout bona fide olding the domestic enquiry and in this matter, e was no motive of victimisation or unfair ur practice and the E.O. acted reasonably and rding to a plausible view of the weight of ence in finding the workmen guilty of the ge and his finding was not baseless or perverse. r these findings regarding the enquiry itself, it ot open to this Tribunal to go behind the lings of the E.O. and give relief to the concerned kmen on the basis that they were not guilty. The rge itself was a serious one in that it related to assault upon an officer of the Company by these kmen jointly. The offence was certainly a serious conduct which merited the punishment of missal.

The Company has not produced any independent dence to prove the occurrence underlying the rge against these workmen. Some evidence has, wever, been produced on behalf of the workmen prove that the occurrence was not as alleged in charge-sheets, but it was just the contrary and real occurrence was that Kapildeo Singh had aulted Khelari Pashi, one of the charge-sheeted rkmen, on that day and at that time. This dence has been given by Khelari Pashi himself l some other witnesses examined on behalf of the rkmen have tried to disprove the occurrence, as ged by the Company in the charge-sheet. It is permissible for this Tribunal to go into an dependent investigation of the occurrence itself l come to a contrary finding or to sit in judgment r the findings of the E.O. as a court of appeal l set aside his findings in view of the decision ut the nature of the enquiry and the findings of E.O., already recorded above. I should here only er to one very significant position. It is that mittedly there was some occurrence on the rning of 14th July 1963 at the factory gate. No ubt the factory was closed on that date on count of Ratha Jatra, but still there was an currence involving Kapildeo Singh and Khelari shi according to the admission of Khelari Pashi d the Union. There are, however, contrary rsions of the occurrence. It appears that shortly er this occurrence, Khelari Pashi filed a criminal se against Kapildeo Singh and Janakdeo Singh, mplaining that they had assaulted him and his tition of complaint was sent to the local police for quiry and after considering the police report, the mplaint was dismissed under section 203, Cr. P.C. ide Ext. G(1)]. So, the positive fact remains that er the occurrence, Khelari Pashi rushed to minal court with a complaint against Kapildeo gh and another, but the complaint failed. This a position which goes against the Union's case d in favour of the Company's case. As already dicated above, this Tribunal is not competent to into the merits of the charge against these work-en and give them relief on the ground that the arge was false and baseless. It must accept the quiry report and hold that the workmen were asonably found guilty of the charge after a fair and oper enquiry according to the principles of natural stice. It is proved and not disputed that these workmen were dismissed as a result of the domestic enquiry. Exhibits X, Y, Z, A(1), B(1), C(1), D(1), E(1) and F(1) are copies of the dismissal letters whereby these workmen were dismissed. Exhibits 1, 2, 15, 16, 26, 31, 32 and 36 are eight of the dismissal letters produced by the Union. The letters clearly point out the fact of their dismissal on the result of the domestic enquiry. The charge upon which they were dismissed certainly involved serious misconduct meriting the punishment of dismissal.

On all the decisions and for the reasons recorded above, I hold that these nine workmen were properly dismissed on a charge of gross misconduct after a fair and proper domestic enquiry according to the principles of natural justice and without any mala fides and any element of victimisation or unfair labour practice and their dismissals were, therefore, justified. They are consequently not entitled to any relief. The case of these nine workmen is disposed of accordingly.

III. Mrittunjoy Paul (No. 17)

The admitted facts relating to the case of this workman are these: This workman was charge-sheeted on 13th July 1961 for the offence of being absent from his machine during working hours and misbehaving with the Supervisor, Shri H. C. Pradhan, on being warned about such misconduct. Exhibit 51 is the charge-sheet. I reproduce the contents of the charge-sheet below:

> "It is reported by Shri H. C. Pradhan, Assistant Supervisor, Bobbin Section, that on 13th July 1961, you were absent from your machine between 8-45 a.m. to 9-05 a.m. and when he warned you not to leave your machine, you misbehaved with him on the shop-floor.
> Such types of leaving machine and misbehaving with the Supervisor amount to gross misconduct. You are, therefore, required to show cause within forty-eight hours why disciplinary action should not be taken against you."

This charge-sheet was duly received by the workman and he submitted his reply to the charge-sheet on 15th July 1961. Exhibit 50 is his reply to the charge-sheet. The charge was denied. After this reply, the Company issued notice to this workman informing him that a domestic enquiry regarding his charge-sheet would be held on 18th July 1961 at the main office. Exhibit 49 is the copy of the notice. This notice was also issued on 15th July 1961. After receiving this notice, this workman wrote a letter to the Company stating that he would appear before the proposed enquiry with three defence witnesses named therein and these were (1) Nakul Maharana, (2) Magani Maharana and (3) Godabari Paul. Exhibit 48 is that letter. Up to this point, there is no dispute between the parties. But there is serious dispute regarding the holding of the enquiry. The Company's case is that the domestic enquiry was duly held on 18th July 1961 at the appointed time and the concerned workman was present with two of the three witnesses cited by him, viz. (1) Godabari Paul and (2) Nakul Maharana and the enquiry was held fairly and in consonance with the principles of natural justice and in the enquiry, the Company's witnesses were first examined and the concerned workman was given every opportunity to cross-examine the witnesses on behalf of the Company but he declined to cross-examine all the witnesses and thereafter the statement of the concerned workman was recorded and he was subjected to cross-examination and after him, two defence witnesses produced by him were examined and they were also cross-examined. It is the Company's definite case that the other witness named in the workman's letter, Exhibit 48, Maguni Maharana, was not produced and examined by the workman himself. The case put forward on behalf of the Union and the concerned workman is that no enquiry was held, as alleged by the Company, though the workman appeared with all his witnesses and all that happened was that when he appeared before the E.O. Shri Ojha, the Manager, the Manager only asked him to put his signature in a paper containing some writings without holding any enquiry, but as he refused to sign the paper, because no enquiry was held, he was asked to go away. It is definitely stated that no defence witness produced by him was examined. The Company's case regarding the holding of the enquiry is supported by the evidence of O.P.W. 2 Shri H. C. Prodhan, the Supervisor of the Bobbin Section, on whose complaint the charge-sheet was issued against Mrittunjoy Paul, and who gave evidence at the enquiry, O.P.W. 3 Shri Ojha the Factory Manager who held the enquiry and Exhibit J(1) the recorded enquiry proceedings and Exhibit H(1) the enquiry report. As against this evidence on the Company's side, the evidence on the side of the Union and the concerned workman consists of the testimonies of P.W. 7 Mrittunjoy Paul, the concerned workman himself and P.W. 8 Shri Sibu Shou, who, according to the enquiry proceedings, was one of the witnesses examined on behalf of the Company. I have carefully considered the evidence on both sides and I am of the view that the Company's evidence should be accepted. P.W. 8 Sibu Shou was, according to the enquiry proceedings, Exhibit J(1), one of the witnesses examined for the Company. He has admited his signature below his recorded evidence at the enquiry [Exhibit J(2)], but he has sought to explain it away by saying that he made the signature on the statement of their Head Mistri, Purna, that this was required for increment of his pay and the application for increment was written by Shri Hari Charan Pradhan, the Supervisor. The implication of his statement is that he made this signature in the belief that he was signing an application for increment. This story has been categorically denied by O.P.W. 1 Shri Purna Chandra Nayek, the Head Mistri, and O.P.W. 2 Shri H. C. Pradhan, the Supervisor. The explanation seems to me to be extremely unnatural and improbable and I am satisfied from the entire evidence produced before me that the explanation is not correct and that he really made this signature below his recorded statement at the enquiry. I am also unable to believe the plea of Mrittunjoy Paul that there was no enquiry at all but when he appeared with his witnesses, he was simply asked to sign some papers and on his refusal to do so, he was asked to go away. I accept the recorded enquiry proceedings as correct and bona fide and reject the suggestion made on behalf of the Union and the concerned workman that these have all been fabricated. My attention has been drawn by the Union representative to a statement made by Mrittunjoy Paul in his examination-in-chief that when he refused to sign the paper produced by the E. O., the latter asked him to make an endorsement saying that he would not sign and at the instan his witness Maguni, he made such an endorse in a paper in his mother tongue, Oriya. It is tended on the basis of this statement that as the no paper in the enquiry proceedings showing suc endorsement by Mrittunjoy, it is to be inferred the Company has withheld that paper and fabri the proceedings of the enquiry, particularly the containing the alleged statement of Mrittunjoy without any such endorsement and signature above statement of Mrittunjoy Paul was challe in cross-examination on behalf of the Company he was shown the recorded enquiry proceedings after seeing these, he said that the papers had changed. There is no corroboration of this s ment of Mrittunjoy Paul. His witness Magun whose instance he is said to have made such end ment and signature, has not been produced to port him in this respect and there is no explan for this. No such statement is also to be foun paragraph 17 of the Union's written statement w covers the case of Mrittunjoy Paul. I have no tation to reject this belated statement of Mrittu Paul as absolutely unreliable and unaccept Accepting the evidence adduced on behalf of Company and rejecting the evidence of Mrittu Paul and Sibu Shou, I hold that the domestic enc concerning Shri Mrittunjoy Paul was held by Ojha in the manner as recorded in the enquiry ceedings, Ext. J(1), and this shows that there a fair and proper enquiry according to the princ of natural justice and the concerned workman every opportunity to defend himself at the enq by cross-examining the Company's witnesses and ducing witnesses on his side and though he three witnesses, he produced only two, Nakul M rana and Godabari Paul and did not produce Ma at all. There is no reason why if that witness been produced, the E. O. should have refuse examine him when it appears that he examined other two witnesses. In the enquiry proceed it is recorded that Mrittunjoy Paul was asked cross-examine other witnesses for the Company, he declined. There are no materials upon the re upon which it can be held that the Company actuated by any mala fide motive against this w man in the matter of charge-sheeting him and h ing the domestic enquiry or that the Company guilty of any spirit of victimisation or unfair lal practice against this workman in the matter of iss charge-sheet to him and holding enquiry. No b error is also to be found in the Company's ac against this workman and the enquiry held certainly not in violation of any principle of nat justice. I hold, therefore, that there was a fair proper enquiry according to the principles of nat justice regarding the charge-sheet to this workn Exhibit H(1) is the enquiry report. It is a full comprehensive report. It appears that the E. O sidered the evidence produced before him and on basis of the evidence, he came to the conclusion the workman was guilty of the charge. This findin the E. O. is quite reasonable according to evidence produced before him and it cannot by means be said to be perverse or baseless. The offe certainly constituted a serious misconduct becaus consisted of leaving a running machine in his ch and then misbehaving with his Supervisor w asked about such conduct within the factory. missal for such misconduct was certainly justif He was dismissed by the Company's letter, dated domestic enquiry.

ccordingly, I hold that this workman, Shri ttunjoy Paul, was charged with a serious misluct and was dismissed after being found guilty he charge in a fair and proper domestic enquiry, h was held after due notice to him and fully in rdance with the principles of natural justice and Company acted quite bona fide in the matter.
dismissal of this workman was, therefore, justified he is not entitled to any relief. The case is dis-d of accordingly.

Rankanath Maharana (No. 1) and Bairagi Sain (No. 2)

he Union's case regarding these two workmen is he same nature. This case is stated in para-hs 20 and 21 of the Union's written statement.
alleged that on 13th July 1961 the Management ed employment to these two workmen without notice and the Manager, Shri Ojha, told them they would not be allowed to resume their duties s and until they gave up membership of the erned Union. The Manager also wanted an rtaking from them that they would give up the n before allowing them to resume their duties.
were going to the factory every day since 13th 1961, but they were not allowed to resume their
s. On 18th July 1961 and 22nd July 1961 the gement issued two letters to Bairagi Sain and anath Maharana with some false and baseless itions. Bairagi Sain and Rankanath Maharana itted their replies on 20th July 1961 and 25th 1961 and denied all the allegations but still the gement did not pay any heed to their replies finally terminated their services on 28th July by way of victimisation.

e Company's case regarding these two workmen ntained in paragraph 12 of its written statement.
case is as follows: Both these persons surreptiy started remaining absent from their duties 13th July 1961 without any information. The pany addressed letters, dated 18/19th July 1961 em and after drawing their attention to such horised absence, asked them to join their duties three days, but without any effect. On 22nd 1961 the Company addressed further letters to and pointed out therein that if they did not heir duties in time, they would be deemed to left the service of the Company of their own
l. There was no response to these letters of ompany. After all this, the Company, by its dated 28th July 1961, confirmed that since workmen did not act in terms of the Company's us letters, their services had automatically nated and directed them to collect their dues.
i Sain wrote a letter in reply to the Company's dated 22nd July 1961, without giving any date vithout joining his duties and in this letter he altogether false allegations. These allegations futed in the Company's letter, dated 28th July according to the Company, both these work-voluntarily left the Company's service by reg absent from their duties without any intima-nd without any permission. It is a case of

The Company's case has been substantially proved by the evidence of O.P.W. 3 Shri Ojha. None of these two workmen has come forward to pledge his oath in support of his case and in denial of the Company's case. I have considered the undisputed letters Exts. L(1), L1(a) and M(1), dated 19th July 1961, 18th July 1961 and 19th July 1961, respectively, in which these two workmen were informed that they had been absenting themselves from their duties without information since 13th July 1961, and they were directed to report for duty within three days from the receipt of these letters. According to the Company, there was no reply from Rankanath, but Bairagi Sain is said to have given a reply (Ext. 46) denying the charge and asking for permission to resume duty with full compensation for the period of forced unemployment. This letter is supported by a receipt. Exhibits 40 and 45, dated 22nd July 1961, are two further letters to Rankanath and Bairagi asking them to join their duties and informing them that in default they would be considered to have left the Company's service of their own accord. Exhibits N(1) and O(1) are the corresponding exhibits on the Company's side. Exhibit 44 is said to be a reply to this letter from Bairagi stating that he appeared at the factory gate on 20th July 1961 to resume his duties, but he was not allowed to work and was driven out. He again asked for being allowed to join his duties with compensation for forced unemployment. There is no receipt in support of this letter. After this, came the Company's letters, dated 28th July 1961 [Ext. 39/Ext. Q(1) to Rankanath and Ext. P(1) to Bairagi] stating that as they had not replied to the previous letters, they were considered to have left the Company's service of their own accord and accordingly their services were automatically dispensed with and they were asked to collect their dues from the Company on any working day. Exhibits 41 and 42 (both copies) purport to be copies of the replies sent by Rankanath Maharana to the Company's letter, dated 22nd July 1961. There is no receipt in support of this alleged reply. Even assuming that all the alleged replies of the workman, referred to above, were really sent, these would show nothing but some allegations of the workmen, but the allegations would not be proof of themselves when these are not admitted by the Company and the allegations must be proved. There is no proof in support of these allegations. None of the workmen has come forward to give evidence and no witness on the Union's side has given evidence in support of these allegations.

So, the sole question regarding these workmen is whether they were deliberately refused employment by the Company or they voluntarily relinquished the Company's service by continued unauthorised absence and not reporting for duty in spite of the Company's directions. After considering the letters along with the positive evidence of Shri Ojha that these workmen remained absent from 13th July 1961 and did not join their duties in spite of the Company's letters and also the fact that none of these two workmen who only can personally testify to the fact of his not having really deserted the Company's service by unauthorised absence and having reported for duty according to the Company's letters has appeared to pledge his oath, I accept the Company's case as proved without rebuttal and accordingly I hold that these two workmen unauthorisedly absented themselves continuously since 18th July 1961 and did not rejoin their duties in spite of the Company's requests and by such conduct, they voluntarily relinquished the Company's service and so it was not a case of termination of their service by the Company but a case of voluntary relinquishment of the service by them. True, no charge-sheet was issued to these workmen. But, when it is found to be a case of voluntary relinquishment of service and not a case of termination of service by the Company, no charge-sheet was necessary and the fact of voluntary relinquishment of service would not be affected in the least by non-issue of any charge-sheet and non-holding of any enquiry. In any case the fact of voluntary relinquishment of service by continuous unauthorised absence and non-reporting for duty in spite of the Company's request having been independently established, they are not entitled to any relief simply on the ground that no charge-sheet was issued and no enquiry was held. When there was no domestic enquiry, the Tribunal can decide the case on merits. Accordingly, I find in the case of these workmen that their services were not terminated by the Company but they voluntarily relinquished the Company's service and as such they are not entitled to any relief. They would, however, be entitled to their due wages for the actual service period and this was actually offered to them. That offer must still be held to be open and they would be entitled to come forward and the Company would pay them their unpaid wages and other dues, if any, for the actual period of their service on their making demands for the same within 15 days from the publication of the award. I dispose of the case of these two workmen and award accordingly.

V. Ramnath Singh (No. 5)

The case regarding this workman is contained in paragraph 23 of the Union's written statement and the Company's reply is contained in paragraph 13 of its written statement. The Union's case is that the Management terminated the service of Ramnath Singh on 5th July 1961 without any notice or showing any reason, by way of victimisation for his membership of the concerned Union. The Company's case is that this workman, Ramnath Singh, was employed as a casual labourer on daily rate basis for removing big mango logs which were lying outside the factory shed and stacking the planks cut from them and the job for which he was engaged was completed after about four months' work and as he was specially engaged temporarily for this job only, his appointment was terminated by a letter, dated 4th July 1961, but his name was kept on the waiting list. It is further alleged that he did not seek re-employment and he collected all his dues from the Company. It is not a case of dismissal, after a domestic enquiry. Hence I take up the merits of the case.

This workman also has not come forward to pledge his oath in support of his case of wrongful dismissal by way of victimisation and no other workman on the Union's side has also spoken about his case in evidence. On the Company's side, O.P.W. 3 Shri Ojha, the Factory Manager, has proved the Company's case by his testimony. Exhibit R(1) is the Company's letter, dated 4th July 1961, whereby his services were terminated from 5th July 1961. It was clearly stated in this letter that he was employed on 26th February 1961 as a casual mazdoor and as the temporary work for which he was employed was finished, his services were terminated. In this letter, the Company also informed him that his name w kept on the waiting list and he would be consider for re-employment whenever necessary. He was al asked to collect his dues from the Works Office any working day. The Union has produced an offi copy of a letter, dated 17th July 1961 (vide Exhibit series), in which the name of this workman is a given in the list of workmen whose services wi alleged to have been terminated by way of victimi tion. Anyway, upon the evidence produced bef me, I cannot but hold that the Company's case t this workman was employed temporarily for a pa cular job as a casual worked and his services w terminated after the particular job had been co pleted has been proved by the positive evidence Shri Ojha and without any contrary positive evide on the Union's side. I have already referred to fact that this workman has not himself come forw to give evidence, nor is there any other positi evidence on his behalf. Upon the facts proved, Company was legally entitled to terminate his ser ces on the completion of the particular job for wh he was temporarily appointed. But at the same tim I must hold that as the job was not for a particu fixed period, the Company should have given h one month's notice or, in lieu thereof, one mont wages, for the purpose of dismissal. It is to deemed to be a termination of service simplic without any motive, but in such case he would entitled to one month's notice or in lieu thereof, o month's wages. Accordingly, I hold in his case t the termination of his service was justified, but would be entitled to one month's wages in addit to the wages for the actual period of service and Company shall pay him the additional wages for month within a month from the publication of award. I award accordingly in his case.

VI. Shew Mongal (No. 6)

The Union's case in respect of this workman contained in paragraph 23 of its written statem and the Company's counter-case is contained paragraph 14 of its written statement. The Unio case is simply that the Management terminated service of this workman on 1st August 1961 with any notice or assigning any reason. The Compar case is this: He was working as a Durwan in factory. Sometime in July 1961 his service was t porarily required at the Head Office for only months. He was accordingly transferred to the H Office of the Company from 14th July 1961. A working there for the rest of the month, he ceased report for duty in the Head Office from 1st Aug 1961, without giving any information. Thus, he h self left the service of his own accord and it is true that the Company terminated his service. A some time, the Company came to know that Shew Mongal had been staying with one Ramda Sukul at the address of Messrs. Andrew Yule & Calcutta. Shew Mongal owed some money to Company on account of an advance of Rs. 150 ta by him from the Company on 21st June 1961 on stipulation that he would repay the money by cert instalments. After getting the aforesaid address this workman, the Company sent him a registe letter on 10th October 1961 demanding repaym of the money, but the money was not repaid. Th after, the Company sent another demand le through its lawyer, but it came back as refus This is not also a case of dismissal after a dome enquiry. Hence I go into the merits of the case.

Coming to the evidence in respect of this workman's case, I find that there is practically no positive evidence on the side of the Union, but there is some positive evidence on the side of the Company. This workman has not come forward to pledge his oath in support of his case of alleged wrongful termination of service None of the witnesses examined on behalf of the Union has also said a word about the case of this workman. The only evidence on the side of the Union is a letter of the Secretary, dated 21st August 1961, to the Labour Officer, Government of West Bengal, complaining about illegal and unjustified discharge of this workman on 1st August 1961. This letter is contained in Ext. 56 series. But there is no positive proof of the allegations contained in this letter. Allegations made in a letter cannot be accepted as ipso facto proof of the same. On the Company's side, O.P.W. 3 Shri Ojha, the Manager of the factory, has given positive evidence in support of the Company's case in respect of this workman. Exhibit U(1) is the application for advance of Rs. 150 made by this workman to the Company. Exhibit (1) is the office memo regarding the temporary transfer of this workman from the factory to the Head Office. Exhibit T(1) is the Company's letter to this workman addressed to the care of Ramdayal Sukul of Messrs Andrew Yule & Co. Ltd., relating to the advance taken by him. It is supported by a returned acknowledgment. Exhibit T(2) is the second letter of demand sent by the Company through its lawyer. Exhibit Z(2) is the refused registered cover containing the original letter. Considering the evidence on both sides, referred to and discussed above, I hold that the Company's case in respect of this workman has been proved and he really deserted his service after working up to 31st July 1961 in the Head Office where he was temporarily transferred and the Company did not terminate his service at all. It clearly appears to me that he deserted his service under the Company after taking an advance of Rs. 150 and without repaying it. On this finding, I hold that the Company is not guilty of unfair or illegal termination of his service but he voluntarily relinquished his service under the Company and so he is not entitled to any relief. I award accordingly in his case.

II. Matilal Majhi (No. 7)

The Union's case in respect of this workman is contained in paragraph 23 of its written statement and the Company's counter-case is contained in paragraph 15 of its written statement. In his case also, the Union's allegations are that he was on leave and after the expiry of his leave, he submitted an application to the Management for extension of his leave, but the Management ignored the application and terminated his service without notice and without assigning any reason.

The Company's counter-case is as follows: This workman went on leave and his leave expired on 30th June 1961, but he did not join his duty; nor was any intimation received from him regarding the cause of his unauthorised absence. The Company waited for some days, but when still nothing was heard from him, the Company, by its letter, dated 13th July 1961, sent under certificate of posting, informed him that since he had not resumed his duty, the Company had treated him as not interested in his service and had accordingly dispensed with his service. No reply to this letter was received by the Company. Thus, it was a case of this workman's voluntarily leaving the Company's service and so he is not entitled to any relief.

As this is not a case of dismissal after a domestic enquiry, I take up the merits of the case.

In this case too, there is no positive evidence in support of the Union's case while there is positive evidence in support of the Company's case. O.P.W. 3 Shri Ojha, the Manager of the factory, has proved the Company's case. There is practically no challenge to his evidence in this respect and there is no counter-evidence. This workman himself has not come forward to give evidence in support of his case and there is nothing in the evidence of the other witnesses examined on behalf of the Union in support of his case. Exhibit U(2) is the Company's letter, dated 13th July 1961, informing him that as he had not joined after the expiry of his leave on 30th June 1961, nor had he sent any information regarding his overstay, it was presumed that he was not interested in continuing his service under the Company and as such he was considered to have left the service of the Company of his own accord and accordingly his service was automatically dispensed with. He was also asked to collect all his dues from the Company, if any, during any working day. The letter is supported by a certificate of posting. No reply to this letter has been proved on behalf of the Union. Considering the above evidence on the Company's side, I hold that it has been proved without rebuttal that this workman voluntarily relinquished the Company's service by not joining his duties after the expiry of his leave and without assigning any reason and so the Company was justified in treating him as having left its service of his own accord, which amounted to automatic termination of his service. In view of the proved fact, it does not matter that no charge-sheet was issued to him.

In the result, I award in his case that he voluntarily left the Company's service by not joining his duties after the expiry of his leave and this amounted to automatic termination of his employment and so he is not entitled to any relief.

This finishes my award.

ANNEXURE

In the matter of an industrial dispute between Messrs. Bengal Flour Mills Ltd., 32 J. B. Ghat Road, Sibpur, Howrah, and their workmen represented by Bengal Flour Mills Employees Union, 7 Jagat Banerjee Ghat Road, Sibpur, Howrah. (Government Order No. 5039-I.R., dated 11th December 1963.) (Case No. 310/63.)

BEFORE THE FOURTH INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL

Present:

Shri R. BHATTACHARYA, Judge,
Fourth Industrial Tribunal.

For the Union: Shri N. B. Shamal, Joint Secretary of the Union.

For the Company: Shri R. Goswami, an officer of the Bengal Chamber of Commerce and Industry.

This reference under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act regarding a dispute between Bengal Flour Mills Ltd. (hereinafter referred to as the Company), and their workmen represented by Bengal Flour Mills Employees' Union (hereinafter described as the Union), arises out of Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, Order No. 5039-I.R./IR/11L-99(A)/63, dated the 11th December 1963. The issue is "Is the termination of service of Shri Dharamdeo Singh justified? What relief, if any, is he entitled to?"

In short, the case of the Union is that the Company dismissed its workman Shri Dharamdeo Singh, a durwan, out of malice and against that dismissal a reference was taken to this Tribunal. The Tribunal found that the dismissal was mala fide and that the workman was reinstated. According to this direction of the Tribunal, the Company reinstated the durwan on 27th June 1963 but again terminated his service on 1st July 1963 illegally and with ulterior motive. It has been alleged that this is a case of victimisation and unfair labour practice, and the prayer is that Shri Singh should be reinstated with full back wages.

In short, the Company has filed objection to say that Shri Singh was a temporary durwan. There was some reorganisation of labour force and, according to the scheme of reorganisation, some temporary hands were absorbed as permanent hands and the remaining temporary hands were removed. Shri Singh was a temporary hand and as his services were not required, the Company could not retain him. The Company stated that it was not a case of victimisation or unfair labour practice. Better candidates were absorbed.

Several documents have been exhibited on bot the sides and some witnesses have been examine by the parties. Admittedly, the previous dismiss of Shri Singh was found by this Tribunal to be ill gal, and not bona fide. Shri Singh was, therefor directed to be reinstated with back wages. Th award of this Tribunal is Ext. C. The date award was 26th April 1963. It was published the "Calcutta Gazette" of May 30, 1963. Shri Sing was reinstated on 27th June 1963 and his servic were terminated by a letter, dated 1st July 196 with immediate effect on the ground that there no suitable vacancy and that his job was temporar The admitted fact is that on 1st July 1963 tw other temporary durwans, Ramkishan Singh an Hanumant Tewari, were made permanent. Th contention put forward before me from the side the Company at the time of argument was that o account of reorganisation of labour force, practicall speaking, retrenchment was necessary and Dharam deo Singh's services were terminated because tw other temporary durwans were found suitable f making permanent. The Company, according the reorganisation, was to abolish temporary hand Let us see how far this contention can be accepte according to the evidence on record. It has bee admitted from the side of the Company by Sh Goswami that practically it was a retrenchment. chart, Ext. D, shows that there are three temporar durwans, Shri Dharamdeo Singh, Shri Ramkisha Singh and Shri Hanumant Tewari. The Compa had two permanent vacancies to be filled in by tw temporary durwans, and the remaining tempora durwan should be removed from service as he wou be unnecessary. According to the Ext. D Han mant Tewari started working as a temporary ha under the Company in 1961 and the total days worked were 543. Dharamdeo Singh, of cour started working under the Company from 1956 a the total days of his service, according to t Company, up to 30th November 1962, are 1,1 Ramkishan Singh entered the service of the Co pany as temporary hand occasionally from Janua 1957 and up to 1st July 1963 he worked for 1,3 days. It should be noted that according to t award of this Tribunal Dharamdeo Singh was instated, and he was deemed to be in service af 30th November 1962. However, this much at least clear that if the Company followed the pr ciples to be adopted in case of retrenchment, ordinary course Dharamdeo Singh ought to ha found place for permanent vacancy. Instead t Company has confirmed Ramkishan Singh a Hanumantbir Tewari as permanent in the post durwans with effect from 1st July 1963 on wh date the services of Dharamdeo Singh were t minated. The Company wants to say that the Co pany found Ramkishan Singh and Hanumant Tewari very suitable to the post and more effici than Dharamdeo Singh. Now let us consider evidence of the Mill Manager who is the author to recruit labourers and members of the staff. He responsible for general supervision of their wo He is O.P.W. 2. According to this witness, of the three temporary durwans already mentioned, selected Ramkishan Singh and Hanumantbir Tew for the appointment of permanent members of Watch & Ward staff because he personally thou that Dharamdeo Singh did not possess all the qu fications to be a permanent durwan. He admitted again that he cannot give specific rea his not being selected as permanent durwan. He stated simply that from his general appraisal of iramdeo Singh's qualifications he did not select . He has denied the suggestion that this is a : of victimisation. O.P.W. 2 has stated that iramdeo Singh could not be appointed as a per- ient hand when compared with Hanumantbir ari and Ramkishan Singh. The witness has that in the matter of giving permanent appoint- it, he primarily considers the merits of the lidate. During the cross-examination he has ed that the length of service of the candidate not influence him aganist merits. From his lence we also get that no special qualification is essary for temporary hand to be made a perma- t durwan. I put some questions to the witness in reply he has stated that in June 1962 he ided to make Ramkishan Singh and Hanumantbir ari permanent if any occasion would arise in ire, that he never considered to see whether iramdeo Singh would be made permanent, that after his reinstatement after the Tribunal's rd, he did not consider whether Dharamdeo gh would be made permanent, and that there is note either that Dharamdeo Singh's service was isfactory. If these statements of O.P.W. 2 e are considered, it would be clear that the agement never considered the case of Dharam- Singh to see whether he should be made perma- or he should be put into the permanent ncy according to the reorganisation of labour e. This is not only surprsiing but shocking to s conscience. It is not unreasonable to hold the management acted without bona fides in considering whether Dharamdeo Singh should nade permanent. In the circumstances of this I do not think that the management really ight that Hanumantbir Tewari and Ramkishan h were better candidates than Dharamdeo Singh rding to the merits or efficiency. The evidence vs that previously this Dharamdeo Singh was issed and against that dismissal this Tribunal ded that the said dismissal was illegal, and not i fide According to the award of the Tribunal, Company was compelled to reinstate Dharam- Singh and pay all back wages. Dharamdeo h was reinstated on 27th June 1963 and again st July 1963 his services were terminated. on is not very far to explain the termination of amdeo Singh's service. The management ght that Dharamdeo Singh was undesirable as management was compelled to reinstate him all back wages. From the evidence of O.P.W. is clear that he did not consider the case of amdeo Singh for permanent vacancy, on the hand, O.P.W. 2 placed in permanent posts two temporary durwans who came later to serve Company on temporary basis. The total number ays Dharamdeo Singh served under the Com- was greater than any of the two other were made permanent. As O.P.W. 2 has stated no special qualification is required for a tem- y hand to be made a permanent durwan and ally when Dharamdeo Singh was not declared inefficient, I fail to understand what other ns can there be except the vindictive attitude has prompted the authority to terminate the es of Dharamdeo Singh. I have considered. ver, the evidence of other witnesses examined e side of the Union and the Company and also the documentary evidence and I find that the termination of service of Dharamdeo Singh is a mala fide and improper one, and that it is a case of victimisation, and unfair labour practice. Even if it is a case of retrenchment, then also fair and just principles have not been followed.

The termination of service of Dharamdeo Singh is, therefore, unjustified.

The next question is what relief Dharamdeo Singh is entitled to in the circumstances of this case. From the evidence and circumstances of this case I am satisfied that the management is out to harass the workman. Admittedly, the management is trying to get rid of this workman and Dharamdeo Singh is also tired and distressed at the conduct of the management meted out to him. If Dharamdeo Singh is again reinstated by an award, certainly he will not be happy to work under the Company and the atmosphere will not be peaceful to him. The management will not be also happy at his presence. The atmosphere will be changed and ultimately this atmosphere will affect other workmen and it may also result in awful situation. I have suggested to the Secretary whether the workmen want that Dharamdeo Singh should be reinstated or whether they will be satisfied by reasonable compensation against the unlawful action of the Company. It has been submitted to me from the side of the workmen that the matter is left at the discretion of the Tribunal. The Union is not adamant to see that Shri Singh be reinstated. In order to create a peaceful atmosphere in the place of work and also to see that fair justice is done to the aggrieved, I feel that in the present case instead of ordering for reinstatement I should give relief to Shri Singh by awarding reasonable compensation. On this point, of course, Shri Goswami for the Company, does not protest. Rather, he has submitted that the Tribunal is at liberty to give compensation in suitable circumstances instead of ordering reinstatement. Giving my anxious consideration to the facts and circumstances of this case, I hold that twelve months' basic wages along with usual dearness allowance payable to Shri Singh from 1st July 1963, had he been in service, would be sufficient and reasonable compensation for the termination of the service of Shri Singh. I, therefore, award such compensation to Shri Dharamdeo Singh to be paid by the Company within a month from the publication of this award in the "Calcutta Gazette". In the circumstances of this case I also allow cost of this proceeding to be paid to the Union by the Company, and the said cost is assessed at Rs. 100 in lump.

In the matter of an industrial dispute between Messrs. Bhartia Electric Steel Company Limited, 8 Swinhoe Street, Calcutta, and their workmen represented by Bhartia Iron & Steel Workers' Union, 7/2A Jamir Lane, Calcutta-9. (Government Order No. 3596-I.R., dated 10th August 1962.) (VIII-125/62.)

BEFORE THE FOURTH INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL

Present:

Shri R. BHATTACHARYA, Judge,
Fourth Industrial Tribunal.

For the Company: Shri S. Roy Chowdhury, Counsel.

For the Union: Shri Ram Sen.

This reference under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act arises out of the Labour Department Order No. 3596-I.R./IR/10L-120/51, dated 10th August 1962, of the Government of West Bengal. The dispute is between Messrs. Bhartia Electric Steel Company Limited, 8 Swinhoe Street, Calcutta (hereinafter referred to as the Company), and their workmen represented by Bhartia Iron and Steel Workers' Union, 7/2A Jamir Lane, Calcutta-9 (hereinafter described as the Union). The issue framed by the Government is as follows:

> Whether all the workmen are entitled to get the benefit of the existing incentive bonus? If so, on what condition?

In short, the case of the Union is that the Company undertakes manufacture of axlebox, buffer casing, buffer plunger, bogie bolster centre wheel, heavy casting, bogie column, etc. The Company introduced production or incentive bonus schemes under which the workmen are required to give more production. The incentive bonus schemes were introduced in some departments, and some departments and some workmen have been deprived of the benefits of the scheme. Workmen of General Section, Store Section, Transport Section, Foundry Section and many others including clerical and subordinate staff and temporary hands are n getting any benefit of the incentive bonus schem These persons have been excluded by the Co pany although they are co-operating with oth workmen in the matter of production. Ma companies of the engineering industries hav included the so-called non-productive workme like those excluded the so-called non-produc tive workmen like those excluded in this Compan in various incentive bonus scheme. The Union ha claimed that the excluded persons may be allowe to enjoy the benefits of the incentive bonus schem and that the scheme now in existence may b revised by fixing the rates of bonus.

The Company has also filed written statement Its case is that the Company is primarily engaged i producing steel castings and ingots. The Compan introduced on its own initiative and discretion various incentive bonus schemes in different depart ments and for different groups of workmen from time to time according to the nature of their duties It has been alleged that the introduction or an subsequent extension of production or incentiv bonus scheme is entirely a management functio and the Company cannot be compelled to extend th scheme to all workmen. It is stated that th schemes were introduced in consultation with th Union and the workmen. The schemes are subjec to certain specified conditions and have been tailo ed to suit the requirements of different productio or maintenance departments or groups of person There is no practice in the Engineering Industry t extend the benefit of incentive bonus scheme to a the workmen as a rule. The excluded persons a not connected with the production and they canno claim any incentive bonus. Moreover, the scheme now in existence meant for any particular depar ment or groups of persons cannot be practically e tended to the excluded workmen. The Company has, however, denied the material allegations made by the Union in the written statement. It has been further stated that the Company cannot be regarded as a highly prosperous and financially stable unit. It is clearly stated by the Company that the actual production turned out by the workmen in different firms where incentive bonus schemes were introduced was much below of the normal production capa city of the said department and as majority of the workmen were time-rated, the Company had no option but to introduce piece-rates and incentive bonus schemes in the production and maintenance departments with a view to increase the production to a satisfactory level. It has also been stated that the work of the excluded workmen cannot be measured. The submission of the Company is that this Tribunal has no jurisdiction to revise the existing bonus scheme or the rates of bonus in the present reference and that the claim of the workmen for the incentive bonus has failed.

After considering the main contentions of the parties I should give the history of this case in a nutshell. The State Government sent a similar reference to this very Tribunal in the year 1957 with the same issue between the parties and the Tribunal did not give any relief to the workmen. Against that decision the workmen moved the Hon'ble High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, and the Hon'ble Court by its order, dated 11th July 1961, quashed the award of this Tribunal ıe State of West Bengal was, however, to place the spute either before the same Tribunal or before y other Tribunal of its choice. Ultimately, how- er, the present reference before me was made by the Government. It may be mentioned in this connection that Mr. Justice Banerjee relying on the case of Burn & Co. Ltd. and others versus their employees reported in 1960, 3 S.C.R. p. 423 remark- ed that he was bound to hold that the Tribunal did not proceed on sound ground in refusing the exten- sion of the scheme to the excluded workmen. In the instant reference I am to consider whether accord- ng to the principles laid down by the Supreme Court or other authorities the excluded persons should be entitled to get the benefit of the incentive onus scheme.

Both the parties produced several documents which have been exhibited in this case. Some wit- nesses were also examined by both the parties.

At the time of argument Shri S. Roy Chowdhury, earned Counsel for the Company, has argued that o relief can be granted to the workmen on three rounds, viz., (i) the excluded persons meaning ose who are not getting any benefit of any incen- ve scheme do not take any part in the actual pro- uction, (ii) there has been no increase in the work- ad of the excluded workmen and (iii) the incentive nus scheme now in existence and followed by e Company cannot be extended to the excluded orkmen. In this connection it has also been gued that the starting or extension of any incen- ve bonus scheme is a management function and, erefore, this Tribunal cannot interfere with the cision of the management in this respect, and at section 19 of the Industrial Disputes Act is a r to the maintainability to the present reference.

The evidence shows and it is admitted during the gument that the Company started the incentive nus scheme long before the agitation made by the rkmen regarding it. The evidence further shows at there are some schemes of incentive bonus in rticular departments on the basis of nature of rk of the employees, that some schemes were mulated regarding a particular group of persons ording to the nature of work, and that there is schemes concerning a single worker. In Ext. B get the nature of incentive bonus schemes of the mpany. It also appears that some of the schemes re based upon agreement between the Company l the Union. The admitted fact is that bonus being paid according to the schemes now preval- in the factory of the Company. I am also sfied and there is no denial about the fact that the workmen are connected with the works in factory or workshop of the Company. The first stion that arises for consideration is whether or the excluded workmen contribute anything ards the production of the Company. In Ext. A get a list of the excluded workmen mentioned n page 70 to page 82. In these pages, more or , the particulars of the excluded workmen are en. We get the name of the department, the ignation and the nature of the work of these ions. I have considered the case of each of e workmen and I am satisfied that they are rectly connected with the actual works of pro- tion and works relating to the production. I have considered also the statements of the witnesses examined on behalf of the Union and the Company. The Union wants to say through the witnesses that the excluded persons are connected with the works of production and that there has been an increase in their workload. The Company, on the other hand, has tried to show through the witnesses that the excluded persons were not directly connected with the production and that there has been no increase in the workload. O.P.W. 3, the Chief Executive of the Company, has stated that the works of the Stores Department are not directly connected with the production but in a very general sense the men of the Stores Department contribute indirectly to the production because if they stop work the production will be affected. Similarly, the men of the Transport Department are indirectly connected with the production. This witness has admitted during the cross-examination that if the men of the departments mentioned in the statement of employment position at unmarked page 3 of Ext. D stop work, the production will be affected and the work of the factory will be dislocated. Similar is the case of the Canteen Department. The third unmarked page of Ext. D shows the position of the employees excluded from the incentive bonus scheme in different departments. In this connection I have considered three important cases decided by the Supreme Court. The first case is Burn & Co. Ltd. versus their employees reported in 1960, L.L.J. Vol. II, at page 261. In that case the Company introduced incentive bonus for manual workers including Sirkars and Checkers but there was no provision for incentive bonus to the clerical and subordinate staff. The workmen claimed that these two categories should also be given incentive bonus like the manual workers. The Company resisted the claim on the ground that the clerical staff got the Bengal Chamber of Commerce's dearness allowance which was higher than the dearness allowance paid to the manual workers and that the clerical staff and the subordinate staff did not actually produce anything. The learned Tribunal found no substance in the first contention and it was conscious of the fact that although the clerical staff and the subordinate staff did not directly produce goods but, in its opinion, there is no jurisdiction for their total exclusion when other comparable concerns were paying incentive bonus to the clerical and subordinate staff also. The Tribunal therefore ordered that the Company should extend the scheme of incentive bonus to the clerical and subordinate staff also and lay down the rates and conditions for the same. The Hon'ble Supreme Court considered the contention in that case and upheld the decision of the Tribunal. It has been pointed out by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the following words:

> "But there can be no doubt that economically speaking clerical and the subordinate staff also take part in the production and there is no reason therefore for excluding them altogether from the scheme of the incentive bonus. Besides, as the Tribunal has pointed out in other comparable concerns incentive bonus is being paid to the clerical and sub- ordinate staff. The fact that the dearness allowance was paid to the clerical staff at a higher scale is also, in our opinion, no reason for depriving them altogether of the benefits of the incentive scheme."

With regard to the workload it has been stated in the same judgment as follows:

> "It is however difficult to accept that there will be no increase in the work of the clerical staff in particular and also of the subordinate staff because of higher production, though it may be accepted that the increase may not be in proportion to the increase of production".

Ultimately, the decision of the learned Tribunal was upheld.

The next case is National Iron & Steel Co. Ltd. versus their workmen and another reported in 1962 L.L.J. Vol. II, at page 752. In this case the Company was running a steel mill at Belur having several departments including direct productive department and non-productive department. In that case the question was whether indirect productive department should be paid incentive bonus at the same rate at which the workmen of the productive department were paid. The case of Burn & Co. Ltd. was considered in the case of National Iron & Steel Co. Ltd. and the principles laid down in the former case was approved. It was stated in the judgment of the National Iron & Steel Co. Ltd. that the Tribunal would do well to ascertain whether in view of the increased production there has been a rise in the workload with regard to non-productive workmen.

Next we get the case of between Western India Match Co. Ltd. versus their workmen reported in 1963, L.L.J. Vol. II, at page 459. In this case the Company engaged in manufacture of matches was having one of the factories at Bareilly. The Company is also having a separate sales office at the same place to look after the sales of the goods manufactured at their factory. The question was whether the benefit of the incentive bonus scheme should be extended to the staff employed at the sales office. On consideration of the position of the salesmen beyond the limits of the factory in relation to the finished goods coming from the factory, it was found in the judgment of the Supreme Court as follows:

> "Therefore, it would be unreasonable to say that though those who make the matches are 'producing', but those who sell them are not".

On consideration of the principles laid down by the highest Tribunal of this country and the evidence and circumstances appearing before me, I hold that the excluded persons are making contribution towards the production of the company though indirectly and that they are certainly connected with the works of production.

The next question is whether there has been any increase in the work-load of the excluded workmen. It has been argued from the side of the Company that from comparative study there has been no increase in the production after 1956 when compared to the production of 1956. In this connection it has been argued that after 1956 there has been addition to the strength of the employees and although there has been an increase in the number of employees in different departments, there has been decrease in the production. In these circumstances it has been submitted that there has been no increase in the workload and, as such, the question of incentiv bonus to the excluded persons does not arise. Th second page of Ext. D relates to the statement production. Mere employment position in the ne page cannot prove that there has been less produ tion after 1956. There is no statement regarding th working days in each year. There is no statemer either to show as to how many persons we employed each day covering so many years f production. There may be various factors for th decrease in the production in the subsequent year All those details are not before me. Moreover, th admitted position is that in spite of the decrease i production the Company is paying incentive bon to certain other employees. If really the Compan decided to pay incentive bonus on the basis of work load, certainly incentive bonus should not have bee paid to those persons who are now getting bonu If those persons are getting the bonus, why shou the excluded persons be deprived of the benefi The evidence shows that the incentive bonus wa introduced in order to encourage the workmen t produce more. Admittedly again, some persons ar getting incentive bonus and on account of th introduction of this system there has been at leas some increase in the production. As a result thereo there must be some increase at least in other depart ments connected with the production. The evidenc shows that with the introduction of the incentiv bonus scheme several forms are to be filled in, an naturally raw materials are to be brought in larg quantities and there has been certainly som increase in the finished goods, which require to b despatched from the factory to their destination. I these circumstances, I cannot concede, for a momen that with the increase of production there cannot b increase in the works of other departments connecte with the factory. With the increase in the produc tion, workers of all the departments must be mor busy and their work must be increased to som extent at least. Of course, the increase in the work load may not be to the same extent as in case of th actual producers. The workload of the excluded persons must have, therefore, increased but not t the same proportion as in the case of worker connected directly with the production.

Another fact should be considered in this con nection. The Industrial Disputes Act has bee enacted for maintaining good and balanced relatio between the employees and employers. The intentio of the legislation is to stop exploitation of the labou by the employer and also to see that the productio of the country may not be disturbed or set back b any indisciplined worker. In the most cases, how ever, the manual labourers of the lower grade ar uneducated and helpless and in many cases takin the advantages of the poverty of the labourers th employer wants to take undue advantage. It is t be remembered that for maintaining good relatio between the employer and the employees, peace an harmony in the field of production should prevail wit the progress of the industry. It should be seen tha fair play both on the side of the employer and o the side of employees is being practised in th industry. It should also be remembered that th employer should have human feelings and to act o humane consideration. The employer should als remember that the employees are all members o human family and that they should be treated with sympathy and affection. The employer should act

th good conscience and with the principles of partiality. I think that the position of the nagerial authority is that of Pater familias looking er the interest of the workmen with a benevolent sture. On the other hand, the emloyees should o be disciplined and faithful and sincere workers ing their duties to the best of their abilities. less the labourers are disciplined and faithful, it not be expected that the employer should also k after their interest. There must be reciprocity action, rights and duties. There must be mutual d sincere co-operation in the field of industry. One rty must feel the difficulty of the other. In this nnection the employer should note that if there any unfair labour practice, or impartiality shown ards the workmen, the confidence of the rkers cannot be gained and as a result thereof re will be chaos and rapture in the industry. There st be fair play on the parts of the employer and employees and in that case alone there will be ppy, sincere and peaceful atmosphere in the field production. In the case before me the Company nts to say that there has been decrease in the duction every year after 1956. Why then did Company start incentive bonus for some selected kmen although there has been no increase in the rkload in general? It has been stated that the entive bonus was introduced in order to get rease in production. If that is so, then certainly Company should have considered the conmitant variation in the workload of the other partments. The Company should have considered t the incentive bonus scheme should be extended all the workmen so that there may not be any evance in the mind of any workman on the und that some of them are being excluded. This t of practice, I think, is not a fair practice. I do say that in this case the Company had any malice ards the excluded persons. I say that the Comy should have done well if they did extend the efits of the incentive bonus scheme to the luded persons. In that case the workmen would e felt that there had been no partiality from the of the Company and that the workmen, all in ody, would have been happy. However, as I have ady indicated earlier, I find that there has been increase in the workload of all the excluded kmen on account of the introduction of the ntive bonus scheme and the increase in duction.

he evidence shows that some other engineering panies are paying incentive bonus to all the kmen including the clerical staff and the subinate staff. In some cases the scheme was the lt of agreement and in some cases the Company their own accord formulated the schemes. vever, the fact remains that in some of the cerns incentive bonus is being paid to the work- in general. I have considered the incentive us schemes of some other companies exhibited in case, and on consideration of all the facts I am he opinion that two categories of workmen at least uld be excluded. They are badli workers and nees or apprentices. Badli workers cannot get incentive bonus because they are purely porary and casual workers without any stability practically having no substantial right in the ice under the Company. The trainees or apprens are taken by the Company in order to give ning. I do not think that they should be entitled to get any incentive bonus. All other persons excluded by the company should be entitled to get incentive bonus.

The next argument from the side of the Company has been that the incentive bonus scheme now in operation in the Compnay cannot be extended to the persons excluded because according to the principles laid down in those schemes the works of the excluded persons cannot be assessed for the purpose of giving bonus. I have considered the scheme referred to in Ext. B. It is true that the schemes already in existence cannot be applied to the excluded workmen because they were not framed for them. O.P.W. 3 has given certain essentials for the introduction of incentive bonus scheme. The witness has stated that he could not frame incentive bonus scheme for the excluded persons because the works of the excluded persons could not be measured and that was his difficulty. His contention was that persons directly connected with the actual production can be grouped together for bringing them under an incentive bonus scheme. He has stated categorically that the incentive bonus scheme cannot be extended to the clerks and other excluded workers. I think his opinion cannot be accepted because, in fact, several other concerns have formulated incentive bonus scheme to give the benefit to clerks and other persons. An attempt has been made to say that in a general incentive bonus scheme all categories of workmen can be given benefit of the incentive bonus but in that case also there cannot be any precise standard for fixing the rates of bonus payable to the excluded categories of workmen. It is easier no doubt to fix rates for the works of the direct producers but although it is not possible to measure the works of the clerks and other groups of persons for the purpose of incentive bonus on account of their being connected indirectly with the production, the Company in all fairness should find out some standard or criterion for the assessment of incentive bonus as has been done in other concerns. The principles or standard may not be the same but the employer should find out some reasonable and just standard for assessment. It depends upon the just discretion of the employer.

In connection with this branch of argument Shri Roy Chowdhury for the company has submitted that this Tribunal has no jurisdiction to direct the Company to set up some other incentive bonus scheme for the excluded persons. The ground assigned is that, according to the issue framed the Tribunal is only to see if incentive bonus scheme prevalent in the Company can be extended to any of the excluded workmen and if the scheme is applicable, only in that case the Tribunal can give benefit to the workmen concerned. It has been suggested from the side of the Company that the Tribunal cannot direct the management to start incentive bonus scheme and this matter is a managerial function. Let us now see what the issue is. As I have already mentioned earlier, the issue has been framed in the order of reference in the following words:

> "Whether all the workmen are entitled to get the benefit of the existing incentive bonus? If so, on what condition?"

Admittedly, some of the workmen of the Company are getting benefits of certain incentive bonus schemes. This position is admitted. The position therefore is that some workmen are getting the benefit of some incentive bonus payable by the Company and some have been excluded. According to the clear language of the issue the Tribunal is to enquire and decide whether all the workmen without any exception or exclusion of the excluded workmen are entitled to get the benefit of the incentive bonus which is being paid by the Company to some of them. There is no question as to whether or not the incentive bonus schemes now functioning are applicable to the workmen. Rather, in plain language the question arises whether all the workmen of the Company can claim incentive bonus. The exclusion of some workmen from the benefit of incentive bonus is the question for decision. I cannot therefore hold that simply because the existing scheme set up for some categories of workmen cannot be extended to the excluded workmen, no benefit can be extended to the excluded workmen. In view of my decision the management should consider to formulate appropriate schemes so that the workmen entitled to the benefit of the incentive bonus should get such bonus. The formation of such schemes are certainly matters of the management. I agree that this Tribunal cannot direct the management to set up or introduce incentive bonus scheme for the first time but when the Company has already introduced certain incentive bonus schemes for some categories of the workmen, this Tribunal can for ends of just decision and fair dealings direct the management to extend the benefit of incentive bonus to the excluded persons by taking suitable steps . In that case it cannot be said that the Tribunal has directed the Company to introduce incentive bonus scheme for the first time. In this connection the case of Burn & Co. Ltd. already referred to may be considered. In that case the Company already introduced incentive bonus scheme for manual workers including the clerical and the subordinate staff. The claim of the Union was to extend the benefit of the incentive bonus to the clerical and the subordinate staff and the Tribunal ordered that the Company should extend the scheme of the incentive bonus to the clerical and subordinate staff also and lay down the rates and conditions for the same. The Supreme Court held in the judgment as follows:

> "We can see no reason why where an incentive bonus is in force in a concern for the majority of its workmen, the Tribunal should not be able to extend the same to the remainder of the workmen".

Following the principles laid down by the Hon'ble Judges of the Supreme Court, I therefore hold that I can direct the employer to extend the benefit of incentive bonus to the excluded workmen by appropriate scheme.

An endeavour was made from the side of the Company during the argument to submit that in view of section 19 of the Industrial Disputes Act the workmen cannot claim any change regarding the incentive bonus scheme unless the workmen give notice of an intention to terminate the agreement made between the Company and the workmen regarding the incentive bonus scheme. I do not think that this argument has any sound basis. The evidence shows that at first the Company in its own motion introduced the incentive bonus scheme. Thereafter there had been some agreements between the workmen and the Company regarding some further schemes. The evidence shows that some the schemes were approved by the workmen in t form of agreement and there were some incenti bonus schemes which were not on the basis of agre ment at all. It should be remembered in th connection that after the introduction of incenti bonus scheme by the Company the workmen fro time to time agreed with the Company for som additional benefit to the workmen or extension the benefit of the incentive bonus scheme to sor other workmen. In these circumstances, therefore, there cannot be any question of settlement between the Company and the workmen over the introduction of the incentive bonus scheme or exclusion of any workmen upon any agreement. This line of argument is therefore of no avail.

Lastly, it was argued that the schemes of the incentive bonus, exhibited on the side of the union in this case, are not in the same line with those existing in the Company and, therefore, the excluded persons though included by some other companies in their scheme cannot get any benefit. We are not concerned here with the frame work or details of the incentive bonus schemes. We are concerned with the principles of law and fair treatment towards the workmen according to the accepted canons of honesty, good conscience and sincerity. It has been found by me that except badli workers, trainees and apprentices all other workmen should get the benefit of incentive bonus and, therefore, the Company is to provide such benefit as far as practicable according to the good conscience and just decision The variations regarding the structure of the schemes do not matter. I think that the Company should take necessary step to extend the benefit to the workmen concerned. In the present case before me, a case has been made out by the workmen to get some benefit.

In view of my findings above, I, therefore, find that all the workmen except badli workers, trainees and apprentices should be entitled to get the benefit of the existing incentive bonus payable by the Company as indicated in the body of my award. The Company should therefore extend the benefit of incentive bonus to those persons by appropriate scheme or schemes and lay down the rates and conditions for the same The fixation of the rates and the conditions for incentive bonus are left to the management because these are primarily the functions of the management and also because the parties did not produce before me any material, sufficient and reasonable, for the purpose. The Company is to implement this award and the benefit should be extended to the workmen before the expiry of the year 1964.

Shri R. BHATTACHARYA, Judge, Fourth Industrial Tribunal.

This industrial dispute arising out of the Labour Department Order No. 4699-I.R./IR/4L-29/63, dated 21st November 1963, of the Government of West Bengal between Messrs. Walford Transport Limited, 71 Park Street, Calcutta-16, and their workmen represented by Automobile Sales Staff Association of West Bengal, 13 Circus Row, Calcutta-17, has been sent to this Tribunal with the issue regarding gratuity.

Both the parties duly appeared and submitted their written statements. At the hearing stage of the proceeding, the parties, however, amicably settled the dispute and filed on 13th June 1964 a joint petition of compromise containing the terms of settlement. I heard on the petition of compromise and on consideration of the terms of settlement I find that they are reasonable, legal and voluntary. The joint petition of compromise is marked Annexure "A which shall form part of the award which I hereby pass. The case is disposed of on the terms of settlement mentioned in the said petition.

And
Their workmen
And
In the matter of an industrial dispute referred for adjudication under Order No. 4699-I.R.[IR]4L-29/63, dated the 21st November 1963.

The joint petition on behalf of the Company and the workmen represented by Automobile Sales Staff Association of West Bengal—
Most respectfully sheweth

(1) That the issue of Gratuity has been referred to the Tribunal under the above order of reference.

(2) That the Company and the workmen had several negotiations to arrive at a mutual settlement with regard to the issue under reference and finally both parties have come to a settlement outside the Tribunal.

(3) That the terms of settlement are as follows:

(i) The retirement age shall be 60 years.

(ii) The Company will have the right to retire employees who are now 60 years or more old and in the case of others on the attainment of the age of 60. The age is to be calculated on the basis of date of birth declaration recorded in the Company on Provident Fund Register.

(iii) On retirement of an employee as stated above the Company shall pay gratuity at the rate of half month's basic salary for every year of continuous service subject to a maximum of 15 months' basic salary.

(iv) On the voluntary resignation or retirement after five years of continuous service, the employee shall be paid half month's basic salary for every continuous year of service subject to a maximum of 15 months' basic salary. No gratuity shall be payable where the service is less than five years.

(v) On the death of an employee while in the service of the Company after five years of continuous service, half month's basic salary for every year of service, subject to a maximum of 15 months' salary, shall be paid to his heirs on production of succession certificate, will, probate or other legal papers acceptable to the Company.

(vi) Where an employee, after being in continuous service for 20 years or more, is declared unfit for work and so certified by the Company's medical adviser and consequently has to leave employment, he shall be paid gratuity equivalent to 15 months' basic salary.

(vii) Where an employee, while in employment dies after 20 years' continuous service, his heirs shall be paid the full 15 months' basic salary on production of succession certificate, will, probate or other legal papers acceptable to the Company.

(viii) On the termination of service of an employee by the Company, gratuity shall be paid at half month's basic salary for every year of continuous service subject to a maximum of 15 months' basic salary provided the employee has served the Company for a continuous period of not less than one year.

(ix) In the case of employees retiring in 1965 only and where leave has been accumulated to the extent of 60 days or more, the Company agrees to give not more than two months' notice of retirement, or salary (inclusive of dearness allowance) in lieu thereof. This is not to be treated as a precedent.

(x) For the purpose of calculating gratuity salary shall mean basic salary (excluding dearness allowance and all other allowances). Gratuity is to be calculated on the basis of last drawn basic salary.

(xi) The retirement scheme described above shall be applicable to all employees who are on the Company's pay roll as at date and who may be appointed hereafter irrespective of the terms which may have been stipulated earlier, it being understood that all previous agreements, if any, relating to gratuity shall hereby remain cancelled.

(xii) In view of the agreement stated above, the Union agrees to file a joint petition before the Fourth Industrial Tribunal for adjudication under Order No. 4699-I.R.[IR]4L-29/63, dated 21st November 1963, praying for a compromise award as per the above terms.

4. That with regard to the issue under reference there is no other dispute between the parties and it is jointly prayed that an award in terms of the settlement stated above, may please be made by the Tribunal at the earliest.

AWARD

The above dispute over the issue given in the order of reference and reproduced below was referred for adjudication to this Tribunal by Government of West Bengal, Labour Department Order No. 5157/I.R. IR 11L-472 63, dated the 17th December 1963.

Issue

Whether the dismissal of the following workmen is justified?

1. Shri Hasai Jaiswarh.
2. Shri Kunner Kurmi.
3. Shri Abdul Karim.

To what relief, if any, are they entitled?

After the parties had filed their respective written statements and necessary preliminary proceedings had been taken, the case was fixed for fixing a date of hearing and filing lists of documents, if any, by the parties on 12th June 1964. On that date, the parties filed a joint petition of compromise setting out therein the terms upon which the dispute under reference had been amicably settled between them and praying for an award in terms of the settlement.

I have heard the representatives of the parties and considered the terms of settlement. The terms appear to be quite fair and lawful. I am satisfied that there has been a bona fide amicable settlement of the dispute in terms of the joint petition of compromise. Accordingly, I would make a compromise award in those terms, as prayed for.

In the result, I make a compromise award in terms of the joint petition filed by the parties on 12th June 1964, a copy thereof is made a part of the award as an Annexure.

The Government of West Bengal by its Labour Department, Order No. 5388-I.R./IR/10L-123(B)/63, dated 23rd December 1963, referred to this Tribunal an industrial dispute between Messrs. The General Electric Company of India Private Limited, Magnet House, 6 Chittaranjan Avenue, Calcutta-13, and their workmen represented by The G.E.C. Staff Union, Magnet House, 6 Chittaranjan Avenue (South), Calcutta-13, for adjudication under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act.

The issue framed for adjudication in this case runs as follows:

Bonus for the year 1962-63.

AWARD

The Union claims bonus for the year 1962-63 at the rate of six months' total wages. The Company submitted a written statement challenging that the claim of the workmen was not justified on the available surplus calculated according to the Full Bench Formula. After several dates were fixed for hearing, the Union as well as the Company on 9th June 1964 filed a joint petition of compromise embodying the terms of settlement with the prayer for passing an award in terms of the petition of compromise. The Company agrees to pay bonus at five months' basic salary for workmen earning up to Rs. 100 (basic) per month, and three and half months' basic salary for other workmen. The terms are fair and reasonable and may be accepted. I accordingly make an award in terms of the petition of compromise which will form part of the award as Annexure "A". The award is to be implemented within 30 days of its publication in the "Calcutta Gazette."

This is my award.

The Government of West Bengal by its Labour Department, Order No. 4513-I.R./IR 11L-322(B)/62, dated 6th November 1963, referred to this Tribunal an industrial dispute between Messrs. Avery Company of India (P) Ltd., Avery House, 28/2 Waterloo Street, Calcutta-1 (hereinafter referred to as the Company), and their workmen represented by the Union of Avery Employees, Sramik Bhawan, 177 B Lower Circular Road, Calcutta-14 (hereinafter referred to as the Union), for adjudication under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act.

The issues framed in this case for adjudication are as follows:

1. Grades and scales of pay.
2. Privilege leave and sick leave.

AWARD

This is a reference arising out of a dispute between the clerical and subordinate staff of the Company working in the Head Office and the Area Office located in Waterloo Street and British Indian Street in Calcutta on the one hand and the Company on the other. The Company is engaged in the manufacture of weighing machines and servicing the same as also various types of weighing and testing machines. It is complained by the Union that the workmen do not receive wages on the need-based minimum. The existing wage structure of the different categories of workmen is shown in Annexure A to the Union's written statement. The report of the Fair Wage Committee laid down the principles on which minimum wage is to be fixed. The need-based minimum for working class cannot be less than Rs. 210.97 nP. The need-based minimum for the middle class family would be higher by 80 per cent., and it would be Rs. 378.97 nP. The present scale of the different categories of workers is far short of the fair wage. The claim of the Union is embodied in paragraph 15 of its written statement.

The Union further claims revision of the privilege leave and sick leave, and the claim in this respect is embodied in paragraph 19 of the written statement.

The Union placed before the Tribunal for comparison the scales of pay of Voltas Ltd., Brooke Bond Ltd., India Tyre & Rubber Company, Bird & Co., Andrew Yule and Co., Shaw Wallace and Co. and Imperial Chemical Industry in Annexure B to its written statement.

The Union also shows the leave facilities enjoyed by the workmen of some other concern of the same region.

The Company filed a written statement stating that the grades and scales of pay and basic wages of the workmen of this Company were fixed by an award of Shri Sarkar published in the "Calcutta Gazette" on 21st July 1960, and that the Union is not entitled to claim revision of the said award within such a short time. The Company maintains wage scales which are fair and adequate and they compare favourably with those prevalent in other industries in the region. The Company also contends that the concerns listed in Annexure B to the Union's written statement are not comparable concerns with the present Company, and the wage scale of this Company can only be considered on region-cum-industry basis.

The Company also contends that the leave facilities enjoyed by the workmen of this Company also compare favourably with those available to the workmen employed in similar establishments in the vicinity.

Decisions

Issue No. 1—Grades and scales of pay

The existing pay structures for the different categories of workmen involved in this dispute are as follow

Clerical staff junior grade (non-graduates and typists) - Rs. 70- 5- 100- 10 150 E. B. - 10 170.

Junior grade, i.e., Grade I (graduates and typists) Same as above with the modification that the initial start is at Rs. 90 instead of Rs. 70
Senior Grade, i.e., Grade II— Rs. 170- 10— 250.

The Union claims higher scale for the junior grade clerks, though the starting remains the same according to that claim, the grade claimed by the Union on this score being Rs. 70 5 100- 10— 200—15- 260. The Union's claim for Grade II staff is Rs. 170— 10- -270— 15—420

In the case of stenographers, bearers, dri sweepers, durwans, etc., the claim is made at a hi scale and the initial pay remains the same excep the case of stenographers and sweepers.

A comparative wage chart can be found in Ex filed by the Company, and it is admitted to correct. Now the question is whether the exis scale is to be revised and fixed at a higher stag claimed. The Company objects to the revision the scale of pay firstly on the ground that Shri Sa made an award on the same issue in July 1960 he decided that the scale should not be revi Fixation of scale of pay is a long term affair revision thereof should not be undertaken so s The law on this point can be found in the cas Balmer Lawrie reported in F.L.R. 1964(8), page Technical consideration of res judicata cannot allowed to hamper the discretion of the Indus Tribunal because of the special characteristic industrial adjudication. If the paying capacity of employer increases or the cost of living shows upward trend, or there are anomalies, mistakes errors in the award fixing the wage structure, or t had been rise in the wage structure in compar industries in the region, industrial employees wo be justified in claiming for re-examination of the w structure. In the present case, the Union has sho that there has been some rise in the cost of liv since the award of 1960 was made. Shri Sarkar his award observed as follows:

> "The adequacy of a pay scale should be judg on regional basis by comparison with the scales of similar concerns in the neighbo hood, and the pay scales of the engineer industries as settled by the award of the Th Major Engineering Industries Tribunal sho be taken as the prevailing standard rates this region."

This view of Shri Sarkar is attacked on the s of the Union. The Union argues that Shri Sarl ignored the fact that there are few concerns sim to the present Company (Messrs. Avery Company India Pvt. Ltd.) manufacturing weighing scales in particular region, and that in making comparison the clerical staff of this Company, greater empha should be put on the region aspect on industry-cu region formula. Obviously, Shri Roy, learn representative for the Union, invites reference to Greaves Cotton's case reported in 1964 I L.L page 342. In that reported case, the follow observations were made by their lordships of Supreme Court after referring to the two cases of Supreme Court, namely, Hindusthan Motors a French Motor Car Company's cases:

> "The principle, therefore, which emerges fr these two decisions is that in applying industry-cum-region formula for fixing wage scales, the Tribunal should lay stress the industry part of the formula, if there ar large number of concerns in the same regi carrying on the same business; in such a ca in order that the production cost may not unequal and there may be equal competiti wages should generally be fixed on the ba of the comparable industries, name industries of the same kind. But where t number of industries of the same kind in particular industry is small, it is the regi part of the industry-cum-region formula which assumes importance particularly in the case of clerical and subordinate staff, for as pointed out in the French Motor Car Company's case, there is not much difference in the work of this class of employees in different industries."

In the reported case, the Tribunal leaned more on the region part of the industry-cum-region formula, and this was approved by the Supreme Court. The Industry-cum-Region Formula has been laid down in the Express Newspapers case reported in A.I.R. 1958, S.C. page 578, and the principle of fixation of wages had been discussed therein. The question of capacity of the industry to pay is to be considered on an industry-cum-region basis after taking a fair cross section of the industry. In the case reported in 1959 I L.L.J. S.C. page 431, the law with regard to the principle of fixation of wages was discussed at page 442. The Crown Aluminium case was referred to as laying down the principle of social welfare and common good. The Express Newspapers case was also discussed in the reported case as well as in the present case. The question is not one of payment of living wages. The Union does not claim raising of the minimum wage. It is a case of payment of fair wages which still fall short of the living wages. For payment of fair wages, the financial capacity of the industry is undoubtedly a relevant consideration. The question of capacity of the industry to pay a fair wage has been considered in the Express Newspapers case. Normally, therefore, in deciding the question of capacity of the industry to pay, one is called upon to consider the wage structure of similar industries, i.e., industries manufacturing weighing machines in the same region. In the present case, the Company's witness Shri Avenger stated in his evidence that there is another Company, namely, Indian Machineries Company of Dasnagar, Howrah, which also manufactures weighing machines and its Head Office is at Strand Road, Calcutta. No other Company could be cited by him as being engaged in the manufacture of weighing machines. It must, therefore, be said that there are very few standard similar industries. It is therefore vitally suggested on behalf of the Union on the strength of the Greaves Cotton's case referred to above, that the region part of the industry-cum-region formula should assume importance, particularly when in the case of clerical and subordinate staff, there is not much difference in the work of these classes of employees in different industries. The award of Shri Sarkar ignored this aspect, and as such revision of the grades and scales of pay may be claimed by the Union, provided that the Union succeeds in proving that there should be a revision. This brings us to Annexure B to the Union's written statement. In Annexure B the Union stated that some other Companies having offices in the same region are paying higher scales of pay to their workmen. In the written statement of the Company, the scales as laid down in Annexure B to the Union's written statement, are not denied. I can, therefore, safely assume that Annexure B lays down the correct scales of the Companies listed therein. On behalf of the Company it is urged that the Companies listed in Annexure B to the Union's written statement are Managing Agency concerns and are engaged in different industries. This is no doubt a fact. But though they are engaged in different industries and are Managing Agency concerns, they being located in the same region can come into the picture for comparison in view of the fact that the present Company does not plead any financial incapacity to bear the burden of increased pay structure. The Company is financially very prosperous, and I had occasion to observe in another award that the Company paid 200 per cent. dividend to its shareholders. The Company is undoubtedly possessed of considerable finance to bear the burden of increased pay structure. In that view of the matter, it will not be a serious defect if the trading results of the present Company are not disclosed along with the Companies listed in Annexure B to the Union's written statement. Annexure B includes Voltas Ltd. having four grades for clerks, Brooke Bond Ltd. having three grades for clerks and India Tyre & Rubber Co. Ltd. having three grades for the clerical staff. Besides, the grades and scales of pay for clerks as prevalent in Bird & Co., Andrew Yule and Co., Shaw Wallace and Co. and Imperial Chemical Industries are also mentioned in this Annexure B to the Union's written statement. On a perusal of Annexure B, it will be seen that the Junior Grade Clerks in all those Companies are getting more than Rs. 170 which is the highest in this Company, and the Senior Grade Clerks are getting more than Rs. 250 which is the highest in the instant Company. The grades vary in different Companies, and it would not be fair to adopt the highest scale for the workmen of this Company available therefrom. The increase in the scale of the instant Company should be reasonable and it should not be a big jump from the present scale and also it should compare reasonably with the scale of the Companies listed in Annexure B. In fixing the scale of pay, the total wage packet including dearness allowance should also be taken into consideration. The Tribunal should not only consider basic wages, but also dearness allowance in considering the total wage packet. The present Company pays dearness allowance according to the Bengal Chamber of Commerce scale. A statement has been filed by the Company showing the said scale in accordance with the varying rise in the cost of living. According to the Union, the cost of living index is between 491 and 500 since April 1963 up to December 1963 and January 1964. According to the Bengal Chamber of Commerce scale, dearness allowance is given at Rs. 160 for the first Rs. 100 (basic), 80 per cent. on the second Rs. 100 (basic) and 40 per cent. on the third (basic). The Companies listed in Annexure B to the Union's written statement also pay dearness allowance according to the Bengal Chamber of Commerce scale. Bird & Co. pays dearness allowance on the basis of an award made on 30th April 1949, Shaw Wallace and Andrew Yule on the basis of an award, dated 30th May 1949, while Imperial Chemical Industries pays dearness allowance on the same rate under the Mercantile Award, dated 2nd August 1949. Thus a large majority of the concerns listed in Annexure B pay dearness allowance on the Bengal Chamber of Commerce scale. It is not in dispute that Voltas Ltd. is an engineering concern, while the other Companies listed in Annexure B are not. But the fact remains that they are also Companies having their office in the same region. So far as the clerical staff is concerned, the work in all those concerns would be of the same nature. It does not matter if the other Companies listed in Annexure B are not engineering concerns. Even though Voltas Ltd. is an engineering concern, it cannot be said that it carries on the same industry like the present Company (Avery Company). Voltas Ltd. and the present Company are engaged in the manufacture of two different kinds of machineries, and as such they are not engaged in the same industry, and so there can also be no competition between the two. On the strength of the observation made by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the Greaves Cotton case, I should take into consideration the scales of pay prevalent in the concerns listed in Annexure B in the matter of revision of the scales of pay of the clerical staff of the present Company. On the side of the Company, it is urged that the scales fixed by the Third Major Engineering Omnibus Award should be the standard. It is true that that is the general standard for all the engineering industries. But it cannot be considered as a rigid standard for an industry having capacity to pay higher scales. Moreover, in the Third Engineering Omnibus Award, the question of region did not acquire much importance, the very nature of the award being omnibus. I am not unmindful of the fact that the concerns listed in Annexure B to the Union's written statement, are Managing Agency concerns and are expected to earn considerable profits as Managing Agents. Their trading results are not, however, disclosed. I cannot, therefore, saddle the present Company with the wage structure of those Managing Agency concerns in toto. But the scale which I should revise in respect of the present Company, should approach the wage structure of those Companies as nearly as practicable. Having regard to the fact that those concerns are paying positively higher scales for their clerical staff, I am inclined to raise the scales of the clerical staff of the present Company to some extent keeping in view the Company's present scale and taking note that the increase which is given is only reasonable and proper.

First of all, I will consider the Junior Grade (Grade I). The claim is that it should go up to Rs. 260. I am in favour of raising the scale up to Rs. 200 in the following manner: Efficiency Bar remains at Rs. 150 as before. But after the E.B. is crossed, the increment will be at Rs. 10 per year up to Rs. 200 instead of Rs. 170. With regard to Graduates, they will get higher start at Rs. 90 as before.

With regard to Senior Grade (Grade II), the maximum of the scale would be Rs. 300 in place of Rs. 250. The usual increment of Rs. 10 will carry on up to Rs. 300 and end there, instead of stopping at Rs. 250.

I have taken into consideration the total pay packet in this respect. Dearness allowance is paid according to the Bengal Chamber of Commerce scheme. On this basis of that scheme, basic salary up to Rs. 100 gets the maximum benefit of neutralisation. Basic salary of the second Rs. 100 does not get full neutralisation of the cost of living, but neutralisation is effected to a certain percentage. That is why I have raised the maximum of the Junior Grade from Rs. 170 to Rs. 200. The third Rs. 100 of the basic salary gets lesser percentage of neutralisation, and taking this into consideration, the highest scale of the senior grade clerks has been raised from Rs. 250 to Rs. 300.

With regard to stenographers, the claim is for higher start by Rs. 20 with the maximum of Rs. 340. I have compared the scales of stenographers as mentioned in Annexure B to the Union's written statement. The present scale of the Company does not compare very much unfavourably with the scales shown in Annexure B. The stenographers will, therefore, start at Rs. 100 and I am not willing to disturb it. There are two grades for stenographers in Brooke Bond Ltd. In the present case, the Union does not claim multiplication of the grades for stenographers, and I do not intend to disturb the grade of the stenographers as it stands. On the side of the Union it is urged that the female stenographers are getting higher scale. But there is no record before me in this respect.

Now I will consider the claim of the subordinate staff. The bearers and peons have a scale which ends at Rs. 54. The claim is that it should go up to Rs. 86. Having considered the scales of bearers in Annexure B, I raise the scale of bearers and peons to Rs. 60. The increment of Rs. 1.50 nP. will continue until the maximum of Rs. 60 is reached. It may be mentioned here that the subordinate staff do not get dearness allowance according to the Bengal Chamber of Commerce scale. They get dearness allowance at a different scale as disclosed in the comparative statement filed by the Company (Ext. A). Dearness allowance neutralises the cost of living to a considerable extent. But there was rise in the cost of living in recent times, and the industry has capacity to pay as already found by me. I have compared the scales of pay of the subordinate staff of the Company with the scales of pay of similar staff in different Companies as listed in Annexure B to the Union's written statement. I am in favour of raising the scale to some extent in order to bring it in conformity with the scales of pay available to the subordinate staff in other Companies with an eye to avoid putting in any serious burden upon the finance of the Company. In this view of the matter, I raise the scale of pay of bearers and peons to Rs. 60 from Rs. 51 as existing.

Similarly, the scale of pay of head bearers should also go up to Rs. 89 instead of Rs. 85, the increment remaining the same.

In the case of drivers, the maximum of the scale would go up to Rs. 100 instead of Rs. 96.

Now I come to the case of sweepers. They start at Rs. 30. The claim is that they should start at Rs. 35. I think the claim is justified in view of the fact that Rs. 35 is the minimum start for bearers and durwans. The job of sweepers is no less onerous. The maximum of the scale of sweepr is raised to Rs. 50 instead of Rs. 45. The increment will be Re. 1 as usual.

With regard to durwans, they start at Rs. 35 and end at Rs. 54. I raise the maximum to Rs. 60 in the same manner as in the case of bearers and peons.

With regard to head durwan, the maximum is fixed at Rs. 89 instead of Rs. 85. The usual increment of Rs. 2 will continue.

In this manner, the scales and grades of pay of the clerical and subordinate staff are revised. Now the question is at what point of time, the new revised ales of pay should become into operation. The ference was made on 6th November 1963. The arned representative for the Company submits that crement is paid to all categories of employees on st January every year. In my considered opinion, ie new revised scales should be given effect to om 1st January 1964 and the Company is directed ccordingly.

Coming to the question of adjustment, the case of weepers should be clarified. Since their initial start ould be at Rs. 35 with effect from 1st January 1964, ll the sweepers who were getting less than Rs. 35 n 1st January 1964 would be entitled to have their ay fixed at Rs. 35 on the said date and they would ot be entitled to any further advantage.

Issue No. 2—Privilege leave and sick leave

Now I will come to the Union's case with regard o privilege leave and sick leave. The Company rants privilege leave for 14 days cumulative up to 8 days for employees of less than 10 years' service, nd 28 days a year cumulative up to 42 days in the ase of employees serving for more than 10 years. he Union claims that there should be one month's rivilege leave every year cumulative up to three ionths. The Union in this respect relies on the eave facilities granted by the Companies listed in nnexure C to the Union's written statement. The ompany denies the correctness of this Annexure C. he witness for the Union stated that he collected he figures of Annexure C from the Unions concerned nd from some of his friends working in different ompanies. The correctness of the figures is hallenged, and it will appear from the cross-xamination of Shri Sunil Kumar Roy that the orrectness of the figures are successfully assailed on he part of the Company. It would, therefore, be nsafe to rely upon those figures of Annexure C. Vith regard to privilege leave, the Company makes distinction between employees serving for less than 0 years and for more than 10 years. I see no point n maintaining this distinction. I am in favour of emoving this distinction, and privilege leave would e enjoyed by every one of the clerical staff for 8 days per year cumulative up to a maximum of 2 days. Privilege leave is accordingly revised by me n this case.

With regard to sick leave, the Company grants 5 days' sick leave on full salary per year, subject o a maximum of 12 months in the whole service areer. The Union claims 21 days sick leave in place f 15 days. I do not think there is any reason for nlarging the period of sick leave. The sick leave will emain the same for the clerical staff.

With regard to subordinate staff, they enjoy rivilege leave for 14 days in a year and there is no eason for revising the same. Regarding sick leave, here is no claim by the Union so far as the sub-rdinate staff is concerned.

Subject to the modifications indicated above, the eave rules remain unchanged. Revision in the leave ules will take effect from 1st January 1964.

This is my award.

No. 2516-I.R./IR/14L-2(A)/64.—27th June 1964.—Whereas under the Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, Order No. 3623-I.R./IR/14L-14/60, dated the 19th July 1960, read with its Corrigendum No. 509-I.R./IR/14L-14/60, dated 6th February 1962, the industrial dispute between the Municipalities in West Bengal mentioned in the list attached to the said order represented by the West Bengal Municipal Association, C-55 College Street Market, Calcutta-12, and their workmen represented by the West Bengal Municipal Employees' Federation, Dr. Meghnad Saha Road, Asansol, Burdwan; Hooghly Distirct Municipal Workers' Union, 346 G. T. Road, Belur, Howrah; and Chandernagore Municipal Corporation Sramik Union, Lal Dighir Dhar, G. T. Road, Chandernagore, Hooghly, regarding the issue mentioned in the said order, being a matter specified in the Second and the Third Schedules to the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), was referred to the Seventh Industrial Tribunal for adjudication;

And whereas during the pendency of proceedings before the said Industrial Tribunal, Shrimati Subhasini Pathak, a workman of Purulia Municipality, made a complaint in writing to the said Industrial Tribunal against the said Purulia Municipality alleging that the said Municipality had discharged the said workman concerned in such dispute;

And whereas in exercise of the powers conferred by section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), the said Industrial Tribunal has adjudicated upon the said complaint and submitted its award to the State Government;

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the provisions of section 17 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), the Governor is pleased hereby to publish the said award as shown in the annexure hereto.

ANNEXURE

In the matter of a complaint under section 33A Industrial Disputes Act by Shrimati Subhasini Pathak, Midwife, Purulia Municipality (represented by Shri Balai Chatterjee, General Secretary, West Bengal Municipal Employees' Federation, 213KL Traffic Quarters, Asansol), against the Purulia Municipality represented by

he Administrator of that Municipality. (Case Jo. 152|63 under section 33A.)

BEFORE THE SEVENTH INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL

Present:

Shri S. K. RAY, Judge, Seventh Industrial Tribunal.

For the applicant: Shri B. Chatterjee, LL.B., General Secretary, West Bengal Municipal Employees' Federation.

For the Municipality: Shri S. Roy, of the West Bengal Municipal Association.

AWARD

This proceeding arises out of an application under section 33A, Industrial Disputes Act, made by Shrimati Subhasini Pathak, formerly employed as a Midwife under the Purulia Municipality, which is the O.P. in the present case, complaining that she was illegally, unjustly and unreasonably dismissed or discharged from service on some vague, unfounded and unreasonable grounds by the Administrator in charge of the Municipality by his Order, dated 27th October 1960, in contravention of the relevant provisions of section 33, Industrial Disputes Act, though the adjudication proceedings of another dispute between the Municipality and its workmen, referred to this Tribunal by Government Order No. 3623-I.R., dated 19th July 1960, were then pending before this Tribunal.

It is alleged by the applicant that she was a permanent worker of the Municipality and had put in about 10 years of honest and sincere service to the Municipailty before her discharge or dismissal complained of in the present case. She was thrown out of employment for no fault on her part. Her discharge or dismissal was against the provisions of Industrial Disputes Act and also the provisions of Bengal Municipal Act. She claims reinstatement with back wages.

The application is opposed by the Municipality. The contention urged on behalf of the Municipality before this Tribunal are as follows. The present application under section 33A is not maintainable in law or on facts. The Board of Municipal Commissioners was superseded and the Municipality was placed in charge of an official Administrator. On or about 27th October 1960 the then official Administrator found that the retention of the post of Midwife held by the present applicant was no longer necessary in view of the facilities provided for maternity cases in the Government Hospital and so he abolished the post and terminated the service of this applicant with effect from 1st December 1960 by his Order, dated 27th October 1960. In doing so, the Administrator also took into consideration the poor financial condition of the Municipality. The fact of termination of service of Shrimati Subhasini Pathak was duly intimated to the Assistant Labour Commissioner with reasons for not paying any compensation. No intimation was received from the Assistant Labour Commissioner and the matter was treated as disposed of by the Administrator. The termination of service of Shrimati Subhasini Pathak was justified on the grounds that retention of her post was l longer necessary and the financial condition of t Municipality was also very poor. There was breach of any provision of section 33, Industri Disputes Act.

The undisputed facts of the present case are follows. At the time of her discharge or dismiss the applicant was a permanent worker in confirm service and had put in about 10 years' service. charge-sheet was given to her for any miscondu or neglect of duty. She was straightaway inform by the Administrator's letter, dated 27th Octob 1960, that her service would terminate with effe from 1st December 1960, because the Municipali had no longer any necessity for retaining a Midwi and the post of Midwife that she was holding woul be abolished with effect from that date. Exhibit is a copy of that letter. This letter was given effe to and her service was terminated from 1st Decen ber 1960. No compensation was paid to her f such termination of her service. It is now contende on behalf of the Municipality that it was a case retrenchment and not a case of discharge or di missal by way of punishment and as such, it coul not come under the purview of section 33(2)(b Industrial Disputes Act, though the adjudicatio proceedings of another dispute referred to th Tribunal by Government Order No. 3623-I.R., dat 19th July 1960, were pending at the time of t discharge or dismissal. It is next urged that th being the position, there was no contravention of an relevant provision of section 33, Industrial Dispute Act, and so the present application under section 33A is not maintainable. It is proved by evidence an it is not also disputed that the only duty of this appl cant when she held the post of Midwife was t attend to maternity cases in the houses of rat payers on calls given to her and for attending suc calls at the rate-payers' houses, she was entitled t a maximum remuneration of Rs. 5 from the part calling her and she was to get this remuneration i addition to her pay and other allowances from th Municipality. So, she was not appointed as a Mid wife attached to any hospital or establishment ru by the Municipality, but the Municipality kept h in service for the purpose of providing help i maternity cases at the residential houses of the rat payers. Exhibit D is the copy of the proceeding dated 21st October 1960, relating to the subject the post of Midwife. It appears from Ext. D tha the Administrator considered that the Municipalit had no longer any necessity for retaining a Midwif on the following recorded grounds:

> "Records do not show that her services wer even requisitioned by any rate-payer unab to pay her fees. Nor is there any record t show what work she had been doing. Ther is a first class Government Hospital, her besides maternity clinics. Rich and poo people can easily utilise these institution Hence retention of a midwife is no longe necessary and would amount to waste Municipal funds."

I have already indicated above that the post Midwife held by the present applicant was no attached to any Municipal Hospital or other estal lishment, but it was created for the purpose giving aid to maternity cases at the rate-payer houses on their requisitions. So, the existence of first class Government Hospital and other maternity clinics could not be a sufficient ground for discharging her. The evidence is that the Government Hospital is in existence since before the creation of this post of Midwife. There is nothing to prove that the Midwife was to keep any record of works done in private houses by her. When there was no rule for maintaining such a record, the absence of any record to show that work she had been doing could not also be a reasonable ground for discharging her. At least, she should have been given some time to show her work by a direction for keeping a record of her work and submitting the record monthly to the Municipal authorities. It appears that she was summarily discharged on a personal view of the Administrator and no opportunity was given to her to explain the circumstances which apparently weighed with the Administrator in discharging her. In the above view of the patent facts and circumstances of the case, it cannot but be held that it was an arbitrary discharge of the Midwife by the Administrator simply on the basis of some personal views held by him. Even if it was a case of retrenchment on the ground that her services were no longer necessary, it may be stated at once that no sufficient grounds for retrenchment have been established. The personal views of the Administrator expressed in the proceedings, Ext. D, cannot, in my view, amount to sufficient legal grounds for retrenchment of this woman worker. I have already indicated above that she was employed as an independent Midwife unattached to any Hospital or other establishment simply for the purpose of giving aid to maternity cases at the houses of rate-payers and so the existence of Government Hospital and other maternity homes would not be a sufficient ground for abolishing her post as unnecessary. It is also to be noted that she was not paid any compensation. If the Administrator treated it to be a case of retrenchment, certainly she would have been paid some compensation. The conduct of the Administrator shows that he did not treat it as a case of retrenchment. Payment of compensation is one of the essential pre-conditions of retrenchment under section 25F, Industrial Disputes Act. In this view of the matter, I cannot accept the present contention of the Municipality that her discharge was a case of retrenchment and as such it could not fall under the purview of section 33(2)(b), Industrial Disputes Act, and consequently the present application under section 33A, Industrial Disputes Act, would not be maintainable. No doubt, a case of retrenchment for reasons other than by way of punishment would not come under the scope of section 33(2)(b), Industrial Disputes Act. This principle has been decided in the case of Silver Cloud Estate vs. Labour Court, Coimbatore & Ors. [LLJ 1960(II), 571]. I fully accept the principle laid down in this case. But, this principle cannot affect the present application. I am unable to hold that it was a case of bona fide retrenchment. No doubt, there is nothing to show that she was discharged or dismissed by way of punishment for any misconduct. It is contended on this position on behalf of the Municipality that her discharge or dismissal complained of in the present case cannot also come under the purview of section 33(2)(b), Industrial Disputes Act, as it was not effected for any misconduct unconnected with the dispute in respect of which adjudication proceedings were pending before this Tribunal at that time. The correct legal position appears to me to be that section 33(2)(b), Industrial Disputes Act, covers not only a case of discharge or dismissal by way of punishment for some misconduct unconnected with the dispute but also a case of a discharge simpliciter, which is not by way of punishment. This has been laid down by the Bombay High Court in the case of National Machinery Manufacturers Ltd. vs. Vyas P. D. & another [LLJ 1961(II), 274]. In my view of the facts and circumstances of the case relating to the termination of service of this applicant, it was nothing but a case of discharge simpliciter. I have already indicated above that it was not and could not be a bona fide retrenchment, nor was it a case of discharge or dismissal by way of punishment. The simple position was that the Administrator had some notions of his own about the necessity for retaining the post held by this worker and on the basis of such notions, he discharged or terminated the services of this worker in exercise of the inherent right of the employer to terminate the service of a worker whom the employer did not like to keep in service. As a case of discharge simpliciter, it certainly fell within the purview of section 33(2)(b), Industrial Disputes Act, and the employer was bound to comply with the requirements of the proviso to that section because of the pendency of the adjudication proceeding of another dispute, already referred to this Tribunal. The employer did not comply with these requirements and as such, there was contravention of the provisions of section 33(2)(b), Industrial Disputes Act, in the present case. So, the present worker is legally entitled to maintain the present application under section 33A, Industrial Disputes Act. The application cannot, therefore, fail on the ground that it does not lie under section 33A, Industrial Disputes Act. As to the merits of the case, I have indicated and held above that it was a case of arbitrary discharge of the worker by the Administrator and the discharge was not justified and the grounds for discharge given by the Administrator were not tenable. The applicant is, therefore, entitled to appropriate relief against such discharge. As it is a case under section 33A, Industrial Disputes Act, it is to be treated as a reference under section 10 and disposed of accordingly. As to the reliefs admissible to this worker, I am of the view that having regard to the overall facts and circumstances of the case, she should get some compensation but not reinstatement. The fact remains that the post has been abolished by the Administrator and it is no longer in existence. Another very pertinent fact is that the present application under section 33A was made after much delay. In fact, it was made more than two and half years from the date of the impugned discharge. Although law has not provided for any limitation of time for an application under section 33A, Industrial Disputes Act, still the application should be made within a reasonable time. It is contended that the application was delayed, as the matter was referred to the local Assistant Labour Commissioner and this worker was expecting that the Assistant Labour Commissioner would take some steps, but when after waiting for a long time, it was found that no step was taken by the Assistant Labour Commissioner, she made the present application. No doubt, it is an undisputed position that the matter of her discharge was intimated to the local Assistant Labour Commissioner by the Administrator, but thereafter nothing was done by the local Assistant Labour Commissioner. Even assuming that there was unreasonable inaction on the part of the local Assistant Labour Commissioner, the worker should not have delayed so much in making the present application. This delay, though it would not by itself lead to the failure of this application on the ground of limitation, would certainly be taken into consideration in granting relief to this worker. Having come with this application with such inordinate delay, she is not, in my view, entitled to the relief of reinstatement, though her discharge has been found to be arbitrary and unjustified. She should get compensation and I think that it would be sufficient to allow her compensation in the nature of retrenchment compensation. She had put in more than 10 years' service at the time of her discharge. I would allow her five months' full wages at the rate last drawn by way of compensation.

In the result, I allow this application under section 33A, Industrial Disputes Act, and award that the discharge of this applicant with effect from 1st December 1960 was really a discharge simpliciter by the then Administrator of the Municipality, but the discharge was arbitrary and not justified and she would get only compensation for the arbitrary and unjustified discharge without reinstatement in service and the compensation would be equivalent to five months' full wages at the rate last drawn by her. I further award that the Municipality shall pay her this compensation within 15 days from the publication of this award.

ANNEXURE

ereas an industrial dispute existed between . Bhartia Electric Steel Co. Ltd., 8 Swinhoe Calcutta-19, hereinafter referred to as oyers" and their workmen represented by a Iron and Steel Workers' Union, 7/2A Jamir Calcutta-19, hereafter referred to as "work- relating to the matter specified in the Third Schedule to the industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947);

And whereas the employers and the workmen have, under sub-section (1) of section 10A of the said Act, referred the said dispute to arbitration by an Arbitration Agreement and had submitted to the State Government under sub-section (3) of the said section a copy of the said arbitration agreement;

Now, therefore, in pursuance of sub-section (3) of section 10A of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, vide Order No. 1435-I.R. IR 10L-207/63, dated 9th April 1964, referred the said dispute to me to act as an Arbitrator in pursuance of the arbitration agreement submitted by the parties to the State Government under the aforesaid sub-section of the Industrial Disputes Act.

As per order of the Government stated above I took up the dispute between Messrs. Bhartia Electric Steel Co. Ltd and their workmen represented by Bhartia Iron and Steel Workers' Union and give my Award as follows:

Bhartia Iron and Steel Workers' Union raised a dispute concerning incentive bonus scheme for the electric furnaces and ingot departments of Bhartia Electric Steel Co. Ltd. at 8 Swinhoe Street, Calcutta-19. On 9th of November 1962 the said Union and the Company came to an agreement in respect of their incentive bonus scheme. This agreement, however, was on a bipartite basis and incentive was calculated on average daily production. Term 5 of the agreement stated that for every ton (metric) of liquid steel output exceeding "no bonus limit" an amount at the rate selected from the table given below on the basis of average daily production shall be credited to the incentive pool. The scheme was as follows:

Average daily production.	Rate per metric ton.
Exceeding 34 m.t. but not more than 42 m.t.	Rs. 14.30 nP.
Exceeding 42 m.t. but not more than 45 m.t.	Rs. 16.30 nP.
Exceeding 45 m.t. but not more than 47 m.t.	Rs. 17.30 nP.
Exceeding 47 m.t. but not more than 49 m.t.	Rs. 18.30 nP.
Exceeding 49 m.t.	Rs. 19.30 nP.

The agreement stated above improved production. In November 1962 the production in all the three furnaces A, B and C together average per day was 44.9 m.t. In December 1962 it was 46.1. In January 1963, however, the average production per day came down to 42.1 m.t. In February 1963 this went up to 44.5 m.t. Thereafter management sensed something wrong with the furnaces A and B and imposed certain restrictions which automatically lowered the production. The conditions imposed by the management were (i) restriction of maximum loading on A and B furnaces, (ii) production of more casting heats, (iii) production of more coupler heats and (iv) greater use of heavy scrap in such heats.

With these restrictions imposed on the furnaces, production was reduced in March 1963 to 41.4 m.t., in April 1963 to 41.1 m.t., in May 1963 to 41.63 m.t. in June 1963 to 39.9 m.t. and in July 1963 to 41.2 m.t. It can be noticed that the production before the imposition of the restrictions was on its height in December 1962, i.e., 46.1 m.t. per average day while after the introduction of the incentive in March, the production came down to 41.1 m.t. in April 1963. The fluctuation after the introduction of the restrictions was negligible while the fluctuation was somewhat noticeable during the months October 1962 to February 1963 before the introduction of the restrictions. It was due to these variations in production, the workers' pay-packet was disturbed and therefore with the restriction of production the Union raised a dispute for compensation for the loss of wages due to no fault of theirs. There were discussions on bipartite basis between the said Union and management and ultimately an agreement was reached between the Union and the Company. This agreement was dated 27th August 1963 wherein the dispute in respect of compensation for the changed circumstances both the parties agreed that in the event of any disagreement each party will choose a single arbitrator and this constitute a Board of Arbitration. Thereafter bipartite discussion failed and then each party selected their own arbitrator. Md. Elias, M.P., acted on behalf of the Union and Shri R. L. Tantia, M.P., for the management, but ultimately owing to some difference of opinion, both gave separate awards not acceptable to either party. The said agreement of the 27th August 1963 further incorporated that in the event of the said Arbitrator's not being able to arrive at a common decision they should appoint an umpire of their own choice and the decision of the umpire should be final and binding. Accordingly the matter was referred to me to act as an Arbitrator as provided under the Industrial Disputes Act.

The Union was represented by Shri Biren Mitra, Shri Sanat Chowdhury and Shri Paritosh Das Gupta and the management by Shri J. P. Chowdhury and Shri Prakash Nath.

The Union opened up their case and referred to Award of the arbitrator Md. Elias, M.P. Md. Elias, one of the arbitrators, suggested 5 m.t. per day compensation on the basis of co-relating the maximum monthly production figure after introduction of the revised scheme in November 1962 and the average monthly production figure during the five months after introduction of restrictive production. The other arbitrator Shri R. L. Tantia, M.P., of course followed a different method and co-related the average monthly production figure of the 6 months prior to imposition of restriction and six months subsequent to this. He, however, was not quite categorical about the compensation amount but stated that the compensation should not exceed 88.20 m.t. per month in any case.

On the perusal of the Statistical information contained in the written statement of both the parties and hearing their respective viewpoints I am of the opinion that we should follow a little otherwise procedure. Management maintained that the maximum production reached in December 1962 was only the usual picture as in other years whereas the union representatives mainatined that in all fairness the December figure should be singly followed without reference to other months' figures during the period of November 1962 and February 1963. It is therefore, clear that both the sides held the view that the condition during November 1962 and February 1963 as represented by the average figure for these months was not full proof and tried either to extend the period backward by two months as pleaded by the management or to bring to the forefront monthly average figure for December 1962 only as pleaded by the union. The management however pointed that December was the month when the company always recorded highest production not only in Furnace Department but in other departments as well but I am confined to the average production in 1962 and 1963. So it is immaterial to select any particular month but I noticed the trend was upward after the incentive scheme agreement and acted accordingly.

I found from the record that the representatives of both union and management brought in controversial arguments over technical aspects of electric furnaces. For example, on the question of slightly lower production in January 1963 the union complained that this was as a result of burning of the transformer as well as scarcity of dolomite. Management, however, denied the charges. It may be noticed that after the agreement in November 1963 there was a stiff rise of 46.1 m.t. in December 1963 and a fall in January 1963. This sudden fall was explained by the union as stated. It is difficult for a non-technical man to find out relative advantages and disadvantages in a electric furnace in its technical aspects and therefore I refrain from making any comments on the question of lower production in January 1963. Hence I concentrate myself on the facts and figures regarding monthly production supplied by the parties and explained during hearing.

I have gone through the records and heard arguments of both sides. I now record that both parties agreed that the average annual production figure for 1957 and 1959 were somewhat normal picture and as such I feel that the average of these two years which was little less than December 1962 figure should be adopted for comparison with the average figure for the period of five months subsequent to the introduction of the restrictive measures. My thinking of the whole problem was more dependent on the common sense rather than in a pure technical way. I therefore tried to find an acceptable proposition. I have considered the viewpoint of the parties so far as production figures given for 1957 and 1959. The production figure in 1957 average of which comes to 45.89 m.t. and 45.65 m.t. in 1959. Avearge of these two figures comes to 45.77 m.t. per month. I now calculate the average production figure for the months of March 1963 to July 1963 which is 41.04 m.t. Since these months are matters in the dispute I take the above average and compare this average with the average of 1957 and 1959 production. Comparing the two, it comes to 4.75 m.t. per day. Before I conclude I would like to mention that too much rigidity may not be congenial in this atmosphere particularly when most of the arguments were based on technical assumption but nevertheless this assumption may not be quite chronometrically correct but it will definitely be near about such correctness. I, therefore, taking all aspects, consider that compensation be paid to the workmen for the loss of production from March 1963 onward at the rate of 4 m.t. per day or 120 m.t. in a month of 30 days. This is my Award.

No. 2440-I.R./IR/8L-6/61.—26th June 1964.—Whereas, under the Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, Order No. 268/I.R./IR/8L-6/61, dated the 19th January 1961, the industrial dispute between Messrs. Sarat Textiles, 9 B. T. Road, Calcutta-2, and their workmen represented by Cotton Textile Workers' Union, 7 Rani Rashmoni Road, Calcutta-13, regarding the issue mentioned in the said order being a matter specified in the Second Schedule to the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, (XIV of 1947, was referred to the Third Industrial Tribunal for adjdication;

And whereas on an appeal filed by the said Company against the Award made by the Third Industrial Tribunal on the said industrial dispute, the Hon'ble High Court, Calcutta, sent back the case on remand for rehearing;

And whereas the said Third Industrial Tribunal adjudicated on the said dispute and submitted its award to the State Government;

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the provisions of section 17 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), the Governor is pleased hereby to publish the said award as shown in the annexure hereto

ANNEXURE

In the matter of an industrial dispute between Messrs. Sarat Textile, 9 B. T. Road, Calcutta-2, and their workmen represented by Cotton Textile Workers' Union, 7 Rani Rashmoni Road, Calcutta-13. (Case No. VIII-35 of 1961.)

BEFORE THE THIRD INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL

PRESENT:

Shri J. N. MANDAL, Judge, Third Industrial Tribunal.

For the Union: Shri J. N. Pandey, President of the Union.

For the Company: Shri K. K. Maitra, Vice-President of the Assam, West Bengal, Orissa and Bihar Employers' Association.

AWARD

By Order No. 268-I.R./IR/8L-6/61, dated the 19th January 1961, the Government of West Bengal, in the Labour Department, referred under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, the industrial dispute between Messrs. Sarat Textile, 9 B. T. Road, Calcutta-2, and their workmen represented by Cotton Textile Workers' Union, 7 Rani Rashmoni Road, Calcutta-13, regarding the matters specified in the schedule, to the Third Industrial Tribunal, constituted under section 7A of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, by notification No. 808-I.R./IR/3A-2/57, dated the 11th March 1957, for adjudication.

Issue

Whether the dismissal of the following workmen is justified? To what relief, if any, are they entitled?

(i) Shrimati Manorama Mukherji.

(ii) Shrimati Saraswati Mullick.

The reference relates to an industrial dispute existing between Messrs. Sarat Textile, 9 B. T. Road, Calcutta-2 (hereinafter be referred to as the Company), and their workmen represented by Cotton Textile Workers' Union, 7 Rani Rashmoni Road, Calcutta-13 (hereinafter be referred to as the Union) Previously the dispute under reference was adjudicated upon by this tribunal and an award was given on 19th April 1962. There was only one issue framed in the order of reference regarding dismissal of two women workers, Shrimati Manorama Mukherji and Shrimati Saraswati Mullick. By that award the two women workers became entitled to reinstatements and also to the wages for the period of their forced unemployments. Against that award the Company moved the Hon'ble High Court at Calcutta. A Rule was issued but none represented the workmen or the Union before the Hon'ble High Court. His Lordship was pleased to remand the case with direction for a finding on the preliminary point, whether the dispute under reference is an industrial or individual one. In accordance with the directions of the Hon'ble Court the case was taken up afresh.

Both parties appeared before this Tribunal and participated in the hearing of the case. Quite a number of witnesses were examined in addition to the evidence already on the record. The case was heard on several dates. Meanwhile parties having expressed common desire to settle up the dispute amicably, all opportunities and facilities were given to them for a peaceful settlement of the dispute. I am happy to note that parties have been successful in settling up the dispute amicably. They filed a joint petition of compromise on 16th May 1964 incorporating therein the terms of settlement. In terms thereof Shrimati Saraswati Mullick has been paid a lump sum of Rs. 390 and Shrimati Monorama Mukherji a sum of Rs. 290 in addition to their earned wages, provident fund, etc. In consideration of the payments received by the two women workers question of their reinstatements has been abandoned. The joint petition of compromise has been signed on behalf of the Company by the Manager Shri P. C. Das Gupta and also by the learned Advocate Shri K. K. Maitra and on behalf of the Union by the General Secretary Shri Kshitish Chandra Sinha. The two concerned workers also signed. Shrimati Manorama Mukherji signed her name and Shrimati Saraswati Mullick put her thumb impression. I have accepted the terms of settlement as fair, reasonable and lawful. Accordingly an award is made on compromise in terms of the joint petition of compromise filed before this Tribunal on 16th May 1964 which do form part of the compromise award as an annexure thereto.

FORE THE FIRST INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL

Present:

RENUPADA MUKHERJEE, Judge, First Industrial Tribunal.

vide its Labour Department order No. 3607/I.R./IR/89(A) 62, dated Calcutta, the 28th August 1963, Government of West Bengal has referred this ustrial dispute to this Tribunal for adjudication er section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act. party to the reference is the management of the men's Co-operative Industrial Home Ltd., Uday e, Kamarhatti, 24-Parganas (hereinafter to be ribed as the Management or Home), and the r party their workmen represented by Women's perative Industrial Home Employees' Union einafter to be described as the Union).

he only issue referred for my adjudication is the wing:

Whether the termination of service of Shrimati Sujata Mitra is justified? What relief, if any, is she entitled to?

ter the reference was received by this Tribunal notices were issued to both parties and they their written statements.

e following are the main averments of the en statement filed on behalf of the Union.

is Home is an industrial establishment under West Bengal Co-operative Societies Act. It the work of handicrafts and other materials ced by female workers. For the purpose of ng the establishment the Home engages several men and it is run under the direct control and nistration of the Vice-President with two taries. From the inception of this Industrial e there has been a post called the post of a rintendent whose duty it is to look after the of the women workers, for betterment of the uction and its quality and also to make arrange- for making production consistent with the s received by the establishment and also to et the finished goods. This Home was running logs and the Vice-President Shrimati Bina Das ed Shrimati Sujata Mitra who was a graduate qualified in special crafts to give up her employ- under Community Development Project and to accept the post of the Superintendent at Uday Villa. During the period when Shrimati Mitra acted as Superintendent, the quality of production in Uday Villa improved to a great extent and Shrimati Mitra became very popular among the workers and other persons connected with this establishment. As a result of her popularity Shrimati Das went to the background and lost her importance to such an extent that she became jealous of Shrimati Mitra.

Shrimati Mitra had to work very hard for rendering her services to the establishment. In spite of her pressure of work she was compelled to entertain the friends and guests of Shrimati Das who were brought to Uday Villa. This was resented by Shrimati Mitra and Shrimat Das threatened her to resign her post which she declined to do. This made Shrimati Das furious and she managed to terminate the services of Shrimati Mitra on 14th October 1961 by a letter issued in the name of Shrimati Dipali Ghosh, a Joint Secretary of the establishment. It transpired subsequently that the post of the Superintendent which Shrimati Mitra was occupying has been abolished in a meeting alleged to have been held on 11th October 1961. No agenda for abolition of the post was put up at the meeting, and there is reason to think that the resolution regarding the abolition of the post is a false and fictitious one connected by Shrimati Das and her two Secretaries. The alleged termination of the service of Srimati Mitra was made with a mala fide motive for removing Shrimati Mitra from Uday Villa and it was done by Shrimati Das to feed fact her personal grudge against Shrimati Mitra. It should be held that the termination of Shrimati Mitra is illegal and unjustified and she should be reinstated with full compensation for the period of her unemployment.

In the written statement of the Home some preliminary objections have been taken besides the objection regarding the merits of the case. It is stated in the first place that the dispute is an individual dispute and not an industrial dispute and so the reference is not maintainable in law. In the second place it is stated that the Home does not carry on any business or undertaking with the sole object of earning profits and it is not an industry within the meaning of section 2 clause (j) of the Industrial Disputes Act and so no industrial dispute involving such an establishment can be raised in law. It is next contended that that Shrimati Sujata Mitra is not a workman within the definition of section 2(s) of the Industrial Disputes Act inasmuch as she exercised managerial and administrative functions over the womenfolk under training and so she was in a position of command, direction and control.

As regards the merits of the case it is stated that Shrimati Mitra was never directed by the Vice-President to entertain her guests and friends or that she was ever jealous of Shrimati Mitra's popularity and threatened her to resign her post out of any personal or mala fide motive. It was further submitted on behalf of the Home that the termination of the services of Shrimati Mitra was not by way of retrenchment. Her post was abolished in pursuance of a resolution passed in a meeting of the Managing Committee on 11th October 1961. The resolution was passed after compliance with the rules and formalities required for a meeting. The service of Shrimati Mitra was terminated under the common law regulating the relationship of master and servant and there was no element of victimisation and so Shrimati Mitra was not entitled to any relief.

Appearance of the parties are as follows:

For Women's Co-operative Industrial Home Ltd. -Shri N. K. Mukherjee, Advocate assisted by H. P. Palodhi, Advocate.

For Women's Co-operative Industrial Home Employees Union -Shri N. M. Das Gupta, Advocate, instructed by Shri Patit Paban Pathak and Shri Nanda Srimani, Advocates.

Decision

Evidence, both oral and documentary, was adduced by both parties in this Tribunal. The subject-matter of adjudication is the legality or illegality of the termination of the service of Shrimati Sujata Mitra. It is an admitted fact that she joined this Society or Home at Uday Villa on 19th November 1959. It is not also disputed that she held the post of Superintendent. Whether she was a workman under the Home as prescribed in section 2(s) of the Industrial Disputes Act is a question to which I shall advert in its appropriate place. Her service was terminated by a letter, dated 14th October 1961 (Ext. C). It is a very short and cryptic letter and it runs as follows:

"Notice is hereby given to Shrimati Sujata Mitra, Superintendent, that her service is terminated from 15th October 1961, her dues may be collected from the office."

Dipali Ghosh,
Joint Secretary.

The legality and propriety of this termination is the subject matter of the present reference. Before I come to that question I shall deal with and dispose of some preliminary objections raised on behalf of the Home by Shri Mukherjee who represented it.

The first preliminary objection taken by Shri Mukherjee is that under sections 86 and 87 of the Bengal Co-operative Societies Act, 1940, this Tribunal has no jurisdiction to entertain this reference and the dispute which is the occasion for the reference should be settled according to the procedure laid down in sections 86 and 87 of the above Act. These sections run as follows:

"Section 86–

Any dispute touching the business of a co-operative society (other than a dispute regarding disciplinary action taken by a society or its managing comittee against a paid servant of the society) or of the liquidator of a society shall be referred to the Registrar if the parties thereto are among the following, namely.

(a) the society, its managing commitee, any past or present officer, agent or servant or the liquidator of the society; or

(b) a member, past member or persons claiming through a member, past member or deceased member of the society; or

(c) a surety of a member, past member deceased member of the society, such surety is or is not a member society; or

(d) any other co-operative society liquidator of such society.

Section 87—

(1) On receipt of a reference under sect the Registrar shall, subject to rules—

(c) refer it for disposal to one or more trators to be appointed by the Reg

(2) Subject to the rules, the Registrar may draw any reference transferred or re under sub-section (1) and may deal it himself in the manner provided rules."

I may mention here that this objection was specifically taken in the written statement of Home but it was allowed to be taken as a objection regarding a question of law.

Shri Das Gupta submitted on behalf of the I that the present dispute is not a dispute "tou the business of a Co-operative Society", but it industrial dispute between a Home registered the Act mentioned above and its employee v service has been terminated. Such a dispute, ac ing to the contention of Shri Das Gupta, is c of being adjudicated upon by this Tribunal support of his argument Shri Das Gupta relied decision of Calcutta High Court reported in L.L.J., Volume II, page 61 (case of Co-operative Societies Union Ltd., versus State of West Beng others). It has been held by Hon'ble Mr. Ju P. B. Mukharji in that case that so long as the di is an industrial dispute it is governed by the In trial Disputes Act although the industrial di is between a Co-operative Society under the Be Co-operative Societies Act and its workmen and withstanding provisions for settlement of dis in sections 86 and 87 of the Bengal Co-oper Societies Act. Shri Mukherjee on behalf the Home cited two decisions this High Court in support of proposition that a dispute of the present nature be settled only in accordance with the provisions sections 86 and 87 of the Bengal Co-opera Societies Act. The first case is reported in L.L.J., Volume II, page 167 (East India Railway plovees' Co-operative Society Ltd., versus Arbitr and District Auditor). The second case is repor in A.I.R. 1964, Calcutta, page 190 (Syamap Banerjee versus Assistant Registrar Co-opera Society, Burdwan). I have gone through these ca and I do not see that the learned Judges who deci them dissented from the view taken by the Hon Mr. Justice P. B. Mukharji in the case mentio earlier. Whether a dispute is one touching business of a Co-operative Society is to be determi according to the particular circumstances of e case. I am not prepared to say that an industrial dispute concerning the termination of the service of a workman is one which touches the business of a Co-operative Society. Shri Mukherjee wanted to lay down a broad proposition of law that whatever may be the form or nature of the dispute between a Co-operative Society and its workmen it must be determined according to the procedure laid down in sections 86 and 87 of the Bengal Co-operative Societies Act. I am not prepared to accept this general proposition of law and in my opinion the decision of Hon'ble Mr. Justice P. B. Mukharji mentioned above must be followed in this case.

In the above connection Shri Mukherjee also cited a case of Madras High Court reported in A.I.R. 1964, Madras, page 103 (South Arcot C.M.T. Society versus Syed Batcha). This case has no application to the facts of the present case because the Co-operative Society which is concerned in the case cited was registered under Madras Co-operative Societies Act and the facts of the case would show that the Special Bye-laws and Rules governing the Society are quite distinct from the Bye-laws governing the Home involved in the present dispute I, therefore, negative the first preliminary objection of Shri Mukherjee that this Tribunal has no jurisdiction to entertain or to adjudicate upon the present dispute and that it should be resolved according to the procedure laid down in sections 86 and 87 of the Bengal Co-operative Societies Act.

The second contention urged on behalf of the Home was that this Home is not an "Industry" as defined in section 2(j) of the Industrial Disputes Act. The definition of "Industry" in section 2(j) is as follows:

> "'industry' means any business, trade, undertaking, manufacture or calling of employers and includes any calling, service, employment, handicraft, or industrial occupation or avocation of workmen."

Shri Mukherjee submitted that the main object for establishing the Home was to ameliorate the pecuniary condition of indigent and helpless women and also of middle-class women by establishing Works Centre for production of handloom articles and articles of other cottage industry. For achieving this objective the Home supplies raw materials to its members and sells the finished goods to the members and also in the market at the highest price. Shrimati Dipali Ghosh, Joint Secretary of this Home, has stated in her evidence that articles produced or manufactured by members of the Home are sold by it When the articles are made over to the Society a price is fixed and the member concerned is given 25 per cent. of the price. At the end of the financial year the balance of profits which remains after meeting the expenses of running the Society is distributed amongst the members. The ultimate aim of the Home is no doubt to improve the pecuniary condition of poor and needy women. This aim is sought to be achieved by carrying on a trade in various articles of cottage industry. Besides the regular members of this Home who have got to purchase one share of Rs. 10 in the minimum there are also other workers in this Home. According to Shrimati Dipali Ghosh the members are given only 75 per cent. of the price of finished goods which they manuafcture. According to Shrimati Sujata Mitra all workers, whether members or non-members, are paid on piece rate basis. In my opinion this difference in payment is immaterial for the purpose of the present case. It is the common case of the parties that there is a Work Centre in this Home for manufacturing various articles of cottage industry. Shrimati Dipali Ghosh has stated that there are seven departments of home industries such as weaving, tailoring, printing, painting, etc. Raw materials are purchased by the Home and distributed amongst the members. The finished goods are manufactured by the members either in their own house or in the Works Centre which is located inside the premises of the Home. These finished goods are sold at profits either amongst the members or in the open market through wholesalers, retailers and commission agents. In my opinion these activities of the Home bring it within the definition of "industry" as defined in section 2(j) of the Industrial Disputes Act. This view is supported by a decision of the Supreme Court reported in 1960, 1, L.L.J., page 251 (State of Bombay versus Hospital Mazdur Sabha), in which their Lordships of the Supreme Court while laying down some tests as to whether an activity should be regarded as an undertaking have said that an activity systematically or habitually undertaken for the production or distribution of goods is an undertaking.

Shri Mukherjee contended on behalf of the Home that the main objective of this Home is to give training to refugee trainees sent by Government and so the Home should be regarded as an establishment for training women in handicrafts and cottage industry. In this connection some correspondence from Government was produced on behalf of the Home. These papers have been marked Ext. 10 series. They would show that displaced and unattached women are sent to the Home at Uday Villa for their maintenance and training for which adequate grants are also given by Government. Giving of training to displaced women is only a part of the activities of this Institution. I am not prepared to say that such activities of this Home bring it within the compass of the case reported in 1963, 2, L.L.J., page 335 (University of Delhi versus Ram Nath). It has been held in that case educational Institutions which are founded primarily for the purpose of imparting education would not fall within the ambit of the definition of "Industry" in section 2(j) of the Industrial Disputes Act. Judge by the objective for which this Home has been established and also the main activities of this Home I am not prepared to say that it is an educational institution or an institution analogous to it. Its main objective is to manufacture various indigenous articles of Home and cottage industry and to sell them at profits and to distribute the profits amongst the women. The contention of Shri Mukherjee that the Home does not carry on any industry and cannot be concerned in any industrial dispute is therefore negatived.

The next preliminary objection raised by Shri Mukherjee on behalf of the Home is that Shrimati Sujata Mitra is not a "workman" within the ambit of the definition in section 2(s) of the Industrial Disputes Act. His contention was that Shrimati Mitra was employed mainly in a managerial or administrative capacity as laid down in clause (iii) of section 2(s) and so she should not be regarded as a workman. In this connection both parties have adduced evidence as to the nature of the duties of Shrimati Mitra. The resolution of the Managing Committee by which she was appointed does not give any indication as to the nature of her duties. The resolution was marked Ext. 2. The relevant portion runs in the following terms:

> "It was resolved that Shrimati Sujata Mitra be appointed on trial for six months for the present on a salary of Rs. 300 per month."

Shrimati Dipali Ghosh, the Joint Secretary, stated in her evidence that Shrimati Mitra's duty was to control and supervise the entire work of the Society. Shrimati Mitra stated in her evidence that she was called Superintendent and her main duties were to attend the Works Centre, to look after the work of the workmen, to supply designs of printing, Batik and embroidery and similar artistic things. She also stated in her evidence that she did everything according to the instruction of Shrimati Bina Das. On behalf of the Home some papers were produced to show that Shrimati Mitra sent orders for supplying raw materials (vide Ext. 3 series). Shrimati Mitra also granted leave to some workers and also permitted visitors of resident workers to have their names entered in the Visitors Book (vide Ext. 5 series). It further appears that Shrimati Mitra sometimes transferred workmen of one section to another section. In my opinion these facts do not make her a Manager or Administrative Officer of the Home. She was a worker and a supervisor and nothing more. Her pay was less than Rs. 500 per month and so she was a workman within the definition of section 2(s) of the Industrial Disputes Act. The objection taken by Shri Mukherjee on this score is overruled.

The last objection taken on behalf of the Home was that this is an individual dispute and not an industrial dispute and it has not been properly raised by any legally constituted Union.

It is no doubt true that the mere fact that the dispute has been mentioned as an industrial dispute in the order of reference does not make it such. It is open to a party to raise an objection that the dispute is not an industrial dispute but only an individual dispute which is not within the jurisdiction of this Tribunal. Shri Mukherjee contended that Shrimati Sujata Mitra is concerned in this dispute in her individual character and the so-called Women Co-operative Industrial Home Employees' Union has got no legal existence. I have already observed that the service of Shrimati Mitra was terminated by a letter of Joint Secretary, dated 14th October 1961 (Ext. 6). There was no existence of the Union at that time. The Union was formed after this termination and it was registered on 14th May 1962 (vide Ext. B). This date is antecedent to the date of the reference. I may mention in this connection that before the formation of the Union as many as 100 workers submitted a petition to Deputy Labour Commissioner Shri S. N. Chatterjee on 25th November 1961 challenging the validity of the termination of Shrimati Sujata Mitra and asking for appropriate relief (vide Ext. H). It transpires from evidence that most of the signatories with the exception of nine or so are members of the Society or Home. Shri Mukherjee contended that the members in fact are the owners of the Society and they cannot be regarded as workmen and any application filed by the members cannot be regarded as an application made by workmen. According to Shri Mukherjee the dispute was never sponsored by workmen and so it never attained the character of industrial dispute.

Shri Das Gupta contended on behalf of the Union that in the definition of the word "workman" in section 2(s) of the Industrial Disputes Act it has nowhere been stated that the members of a Co-operative Society who work under the Society and earn remuneration cannot be regarded as workman. He submitted that in relation to the Society taken as a whole individual members who earn their remuneration by working under the Society should be regarded as "workmen". I accept this contention of Shri Das Gupta. To hold otherwise would be to put too narrow a construction upon the meaning of the word workman as defined in section 2(s) of the Industrial Disputes Act. There is no bar to a member of a Co-operative Society in becoming a paid worker of the Society as well. It would not be proper to say that such a member who hold a dual capacity would be prevented from getting the benefit of the Industrial Disputes Act in an appropriate case. That being so and this dispute having been at first sponsored by a substantial member of workmen and later by the Union became an Industrial Dispute. The mere fact that the Union is composed mostly of members of the Society does not make it an invalid Union. In a case reported in 1960, Volume I, Indian Factories and Labour Reports, page 587 (Newspapers Limited, Allahabad versus U.P. State Industrial Tribunal), Their Lordships of the Supreme Court have held that a dispute becomes an industrial dispute if it is shown that a body of workmen either acting through their Union or otherwise have sponsored the workmen's case. In the instant case the dispute was sponsored by as many as 100 workers of the Works Centre and also subsequently by the Union. In my opinion this dispute is an industrial dispute. The last objection taken by the Home fails.

Having disposed of all the preliminary objections taken on behalf of the Home I now proceed to deal with the merits of the case. I have already observed that Shrimati Sujata Mitra was appointed by a resolution passed on 21st October 1959 at a meeting of the Board of Directors of this Home. Shrimati Mitra has stated in her evidence that she joined at Uday Villa on 19th October 1959. It may be that she had joined her post two days before the passing of the resolution. This is not uncommon in the case of private institutions. Her service was terminated with effect from 15th October 1961 by a letter, dated 14th October 1961 (vide Ext. C).

Shri Mukherjee contended on behalf of the Home that Shrimati Mitra was a temporary workman and her post was abolished and the termination of her service was effected by way of discharge simpliciter and there was no question of mala fide or victimisation. The case of the Union, on the other hand, was that the service of Shrimati Mitra was terminated by Shrimati Bina Das in a most illegal and high handed manner and for wreaking personal ance upon Shrimati Mitra. I shall now me which of these conflicting versions should cepted.

e case of the Union was that because of the arity which Shrimati Mitra gained with the ers of this Institution Shrimati Das became is of her. A good number of visitors and ls of Shrimati Das used to visit this Works e and Shrimati Mitra had to provide for their mmodation and entertainment. Shrimati Mitra unwilling to do these things as they did not any part of her duty and so Shrimati Das me enraged and she removed Shrimati Mitra by g a faked resolution passed at a meeting ut bringing the question of the termination of ati Mitra's service as a part of the agenda of meeting. The allegation that Shrimati Das me jealous of Shrimati Mitra on account of growing popularity has not been proved but it t be questioned in any way that there was a is tension between Shrimati Mitra and Shrimati t the relevant time. In the written statement e Home it has been stated in paargraph 7 that ati Mitra was never required to entertain the s and friends of Shrimati Das and that she was directed by Shrimati Das to entertain them. statement is apparently untrue. Exhibit 7 is te which Shrimati Mitra sent to Shrimati Das 9th September 1961. It contains the following ment:

I do not think that it is my duty to look after the lunch of the visitors. Of course I shall have to do it when it is ordered by you now. As I am already overworked, Hostel Matron may be asked to do this duty. But I strongly feel that it is not fair to put this burden on me at this time when I am overburdened and the order supply will suffer most."

pon the above note of Shrimati Mitra, Shrimati Das made the following comment on 29th ember 1961 (vide Ext. 7a):

I do not think the order supply will suffer. You may ask Matron to help you."

receipt of this comment Shrimati Mitra wrote as ws:

I may please be released of my present post if needed. I do not think I can continue here in this way" (vide Ext. 7b).

ould appear from the above exhibits that mati Mitra took strong exception to the order Shrimati Das requiring Shrimati Mitra to rtain the visitors. Within a few days after the e comments and notes were written, Shrimati addressed a letter to Shrimati Mitra which ld show that the relations between these two es were very much strained. This letter is d 5th October 1961 and is marked Ext. A. ards the end the letter contains the following ement:

"There is no need to go into details here. I have received some notes from you on 29th September 1961 regarding your inability to carry out some instructions given by me. You have intimated your desire to resign. I think that will be the best course for you to take. I have received many complaints from many of the staff regarding your behaviour. I have seen your ill-mannered letter written to Shrimati Surekha Mukherjee. Considering all circumstances I do not think it will be possible for us to work happily together any more."

On a perusal of the entire letter marked Ext. A and particularly the portion quotted above, it will be clear that Shrimati Das was extremely annoyed with Shrimati Mitra and she wanted that the latter should resign. Shrimati Mitra replied to this letter on the very next day, namely, on 6th October 1961. Towards the end of this letter she has stated as follows:

"I do not think the question of resignation can ever arise."

In spite of this statement of Shrimati Mitra her service was terminated by a resolution passed at a meeting of the Board of Directors on 11th October 1961, i.e., within five days of Shrimati Mitra's letter. The notice for this meeting was given on 5th October 1961 (vide Ext. 8). There are five items on the agenda of the meeting. Item No. 4 is relevant for our consideration. This item is simply mentioned as "departmental." Under this item the following resolutions was passed by the Board of Directors (vide Item No. 4 of Ext. 13):

"Resolved after discussion that the post of Superintendent which was created two years back be abolished as it would now be superfluous and it would also mean a monthly saving of Rs. 225 in view of the fact that the Joint Secretaries were taking charge of supervising the various activities of the Society. Shrimati Dipali Ghosh is directed to issue notice of termination of Superintendent's post with effect from 15th October 1961."

Shrimati Mitra had been serving this institution for nearly two years before her service was terminated. It does not appear that she was ever informed that her service was continuing on temporary basis. The relevant resolution by which her service was terminated contains a statement that the post of the Superintendent had been created two years back. There is not a scrap of paper to show that this statement is true. I have already mentioned the resolution by which Shrimati Mitra was appointed. It does not show that the post of the Superintendent was created for the first time when Shrimati Mitra was appointed. From the evidence of Shrimati Mitra I am satisfied that this post was in existence before the appointment of Shrimati Mitra. The fact that the service of Shrimati Mitra was terminated because of the abolition of the post is a mere eye wash for supporting the termination. The agenda for the meeting in question do not contain anything which would show that the question of the termination of Shrimati Mitra's services was going to be raised or discussed in the meeting. When all these facts are considered in their proper perspective, there will be no room for doubt that Shrimati Mitra was discharged because the Vice-President Shrimati Bina Das was displeased with her. In the circumstances of the case it must be held that the discharge or termination was a mala fide one and Shrimati Das wanted to remove Shrimati Mitra from her way because she was displeased with her. If Shrimati Mitra was guilty of anything like misconduct or misdemeanour she should have been properly charged for the same. It is true that when Shrimati Das insisted that Shrimati Mitra should provide entertain for her visitors Shrimati Mitra wanted to be relieved of her post in a moment of desparation. When Shrimati Das wanted to take advantage of this momentary expression of Shrimati Mitra's feelings and suggested that the latter should resign. Shrimati Mitra at once protested and said that no question of resignation arose. I have already discussed the documents showing the undercurrent of strained feelings between the two ladies. Although Shrimati Mitra had stated in Ext. D that no question of her resignation arose, Shrimati Das terminated her service within less than a week without properly or legally putting the matter on the agenda of the meeting. I can only say that this looks like a personal vendetta on the part of Shrimati Bina Das. The procedure adopted by the Home under the guidance of Shrimati Bina Das for removing Shrimati Sujata Mitra must be held to be unjust, unfair and mala fide.

The only remaining question for my consideration in this case is what relief should be given to Shrimati Mitra for the unfair and unjust termination of her service.

Shri Das Gupta contended on behalf of the Union that this is a case of invalid retrenchment because of the non-compliance of the provisions of section 25F of the Industrial Disputes Act and so it should be held that Shrimati Sujata Mitra is still continuing in service and she should be given all back wages at the rate of Rs. 300 per month from the date of termination of her service and also such future compensation as this Tribunal may allow.

Shri Mukherjee submitted on behalf of the Home that this is not a case of retrenchment at all but a case of termination of service following the expression of Shrimati Mitra's desire to resign her service voluntarily. As to the case of termination of service on account of Shrimati Mitra's desire to resign her service, I have already observed that no such question arises in this case. I need not repeat the reasons for holding this because they have already been given in an earlier portion of this Award. At the same time I am unable to agree with the submission of Shri Das Gupta that this is a case of retrenchment. It is no doubt true that in the relevant resolution passed by the Board of Directors on 11th October 1961 it was mentioned that the post of the Superintendent was abolished and a notice of abolition of the Superintendent's post was directed to be given with effect from 15th October 1961 (vide Ext. 13). From the evidence of Joint Secretary Shrimati Dipali Ghosh (P.W. 1) it would appear that some of the duties of Shrimati Mitra were allotted to the two Joint Secretaries for which the honorarium of each was increased by Rs. 25 and an Administrative Officer was a engaged on a pay of Rs. 250 per month. Thus th was no saving of expenses on account of the called abolition of the post of the Superintende

In the abve connection Shri Das Gupta drew attention to a decision of the Supreme Co reported in 1960, 1, L.L.J., pag. 251 (State of Bom versus Hospital Mazdoor Sabha). There it has b held that retrenchment effected without comply with the provisions of section 25F(b) of the would be invalid. In my opinion this decision got no application to the facts of the present c because I am of opinion that the termination of service of Shrimati Sujata Mitra does not amo to retrenchment as defined in section 2(oo) of Industrial Disputes Act. Although a colour retrenchment has been sought to be given in resolution passed by the Board of Directors to wh I have already referred, the termination in present case was due to a personal ill-feel between the then Vice-President Shrimati Bina I and Shrimati Sujata Mitra. That being the case was not necessary to comply with the mandat provisions of section 25F of the Industrial Disp Act and the non-compliance with those provis does not mean that Shrimati Mitra is still conti ing in service. Her service was terminated in unjust, unfair and mala fide way as has already b held by me. I am, not however, prepared to all reinstatement in this case because that would ruinous to this Institution.

It is not in evidence whether Shrimati Su Mitra has succeeded in obtaining another emp ment. This is a case where some substantial amo should be given to her as compensation for los her service. I am of opinion that the ends justice would be met if I allow a sum of Rs 3 (three thousand) to her by way of compensa which would represent wages for ten months.

In the result I make the following award. I that the termination of service of Shrimati Su Mitra was not justified. She would get a com sation of Rs. 3,000 (three thousand rupees) from Home for loss of her service which must be within a month of publication of this award in "Calcutta Gazette".

No. 2543-I.R./IR/10L-15(A)/62.—29th June 1964. —Whereas under the Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, Order No. 7162-I.R./IR/10L-118(B)/61, dated the 24th November 1961, the industrial dispute between Messrs. Shree Hanuman Foundries Ltd. (Rolling Mills)- Mill at 15 Dr. H. K. Chatterjee Lane, Ghusury, Howrah (Head Office at Agarwalla Mansions, 370 Upper Chitpore Road, Calcutta-6), and their workmen represented by the Iron & Steel Workmen's Union, 7 Dayaram Naskar Lane, Ghusury, Howrah, regarding the issue mentioned in the said order, being a matter specified in the Third Schedule to the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), was referred to the Second Industrial Tribunal for adjudication;

And whereas during the pendency of proceedings before the said Industrial Tribunal Shri Ramdhari, a workman of the said Company, made a complaint in writing to the said Industrial Tribunal against the said Company alleging that the said Company had dismissed the said workman concerned in such dispute;

And whereas in exercise of the powers conferred by section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), the said Industrial Tribunal has adjudicated upon the said complaint and submitted its award to the State Government;

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the provisions of section 17 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), the Governor is pleased hereby to publish the said award as shown in the annexure hereto.

ANNEXURE

In the matter of an application under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act filed by Shri Ramdhari represented by Iron & Steel Workmen's Union, 7 Dayaram Naskar Lane, Ghusury, Howrah, against the employer Company Messrs. Shree Hanuman Foundries Ltd. (Rolling Mills), 15 Dr. H. K. Chatterjee Lane, Ghusury, Howrah. (Case No. 113 under section 33A of 1963.)

BEFORE THE SECOND INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL

Present:

Shri A. P. BHATTACHARYA, Judge, Second Industrial Tribunal.

Appearanees:

For the workman: Shri Patit Paban Pathak.

For the Company: Shri T. M. Pal, Legal Adviser of the Company.

AWARD

This is a complaint under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act filed by Shri Ramdhari against the employer Company Messrs. Shree Hanuman Foundries Ltd. (Rolling Mills), 15 Dr. H. K. Chatterjee Lane, Ghusury, Howrah, against the order of dismissal passed by the Company against him during the pendency of a dispute before this Tribunal referred under G.O. No. 7162-I.R., dated 24th November 1961. The workman complains that he was suspended after a charge-sheet and was refused employment thereafter. The allegation is that the employer contravened the provisions of section 33 of the Act in dismissing him from service.

The Company filed a written statement denying that it had dismissed the workman in contravention of the provisions of section 33. The contention of the Company is that action was taken against the workman in terms of the standing orders for disobedience and misconduct on the part of the workman in question. A Committee of Enquiry duly enquired into the charge-sheet and recommended dismissal and by the letter, dated 4th October 1962, the workman was dismissed from service. The action of the Management is justified on merits.

Decision

Under section 33A, the Tribunal is to adjudicate upon the complaint of a workman, provided it is proved that there had been contravention of the provisions of section 33 by the employer. If the Tribunal finds in favour of contravention, then the further point which the Tribunal will proceed to decide is whether the order passed by the employer was justified on merits.

On the point of contravention of the provision of section 33, it is admitted by the employer's witness that after the order of dismissal on 4th October 1962, the Company did not apply for approval under section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act. The letter of dismissal is Ext. 2. In this letter the Company stated that the workman might take one month's wages from the Company's office. There is admitted contravention in view of the fact that there was no application under section 33(2)(b) of the Act. In the present case, there is no controversy that the workman was dismissed. At least, on the side of the Company, the position is that the workman had been dismissed. It was the duty of the Company to pay wages for one month to the dismissed workman, but in the present case this has not been done. There was no tender of wages also. The mere mentioning in the dismissal letter (Ext. 2) that the workman might take one month's wages from the Company's office cannot be construed as payment of wages for one month. It is, therefore, obvious that the employer contravened the provisions of section 33—thereby giving the Tribunal jurisdiction to adjudicate upon the complaint.

Coming to the complaint on merits, the workman stated that there was no enquiry in his presence, though he was served with a charge-sheet. He, however, admits in his cross-examination that he attended the enquiry on 22nd June 1962, which is the first date fixed for enquiry. He added that he was not asked to attend the enquiry on 25th June 1962 and he disclosed the names of three witnesses. It will appear from the enquiry proceedings that on 25th June 1962, to which date the enquiry was adjourned, the workman did not attend the enquiry. The enquiry was not held on that date, and it was adjourned to 19th July 1962. On the first day of enquiry, the workman — Ramdhari alone was examined. On 19th July 1962 the Enquiry Committee sat and it was decided that a notice should be sent to the permanent address of the workman asking him to attend the enquiry on 18th August 1962. On 18th August 1962 the Enquiry Committee sat, but as the acknowledgment receipt was not received, the enquiry was adjourned to 27th September 1962. On 27th September 1962 Jagannath and Narayan were examined, and on their evidence the Enquiring Officers found that the duty of Ramdhari was to charge materials, but he refused to charge the same at the bidding of the Manager, and this was the ground for dismissal. It is urged before me that Ramdhari did not get notice of the subsequent dates of enquiry. It is true that Ramdhari attended the enquiry on 22nd June 1962, and got notice of the next date, i.e., 25th June 1962, but he did not attend the enquiry on that date. Then the Enquiry Committee adjourned the enquiry to different dates and issued notices to the workman. The notices were not, however, received by the workman and were returned with the Postal Endorsement "not found", "left", etc. The fact is that Ramdhari did not attend the enquiry on those subsequent dates. Since Ramdhari attended the enquiry on the first day, it was his bounden duty to attend the enquiry at subsequent dates or at least to enquire as to what happened to the enquiry. Since notices were issued to Ramdhari at all conceivable addresses, as will appear from the enquiry proceedings, it is obvious that the Company was anxious to give Ramdhari every opportunity to place his case. Narayan and Jagannath were examined at the enquiry as witnesses as cited by Ramdhari. They stated that the duty of Ramdhari was also to charge materials. The Manager asked him to charge materials on a particular date, but he refused to do the work. While refusing to comply with the order of the Manager, Ramdhari pleaded that charging of materials was no part of his duty. From the evidence of Narayan and Jagannath, it will appear that it was the duty of Ramdhari to charge materials and also to stroke, i.e., to pull coal to the furnace. The Office Manager Shri Bankim Sarkar gave evidence to the fact that Ramdhari refused to obey his order, and this is a misconduct which would justify the order of his dismissal. The workman, in the present case, has therefore no case on merits. In the result, the application should be dismissed, and the workman is not entitled to any relief.

This is my award.

Fagu, district Darjeeling, represented by the West Bengal Chah Sramik Union, P.O. and district Jalpaiguri, regarding the issue mentioned in the said order being a matter specified in the second schedule to the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947) was referred for adjudication to the Fifth Industrial Tribunal;

And whereas the said Fifth Industrial Tribunal has submitted to the State Government its award on the said industrial dispute;

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the provisions of section 17 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), the Governor is pleased hereby to publish the said award as shown in the annexure hereto.

ANNEXURE

In the matter of an industrial dispute existing between Messrs. Padma Limited, P-11 New Howrah Bridge Approach Road, Calcutta, and their workmen employed in Upper Fagu Tea Estate, P.O. Fagu, district Darjeeling, represented by the West Bengal Cha Sramik Union, P.O. and district Jalpaiguri. (Case No. 218 of 1963.)

BEFORE THE FIFTH INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL

Present:

Shri K. P. MUKHERJI, Judge,
Fifth Industrial Tribunal.

Present for the Company: Shri T. Sen Gupta, Advocate.

Present for the Union: Shri D. L. Sen Gupta, Advocate.

This dispute between Messrs. Padma Limited, P-11 New Howrah Bridge Approach Road, Calcutta, and their workmen represented by the West Bengal Cha Sramik Union, P.O. and district Jalpaiguri, was referred to this Tribunal under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, by the Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, Order No. 4039-I.R./IR/9L-44/63, dated the 25th September 1963, for adjudication upon the only issue which is as follows:

Is the dismissal of Shri Purnabahadur Mager, Dresser, justified? To what relief, if any, is he entitled?

The case of the Union, shortly put, is as follows: Shri Purnabahadur Magar was a Dresser in Upper Fagu Tea Estate owned and managed by Messrs. Padma Limited. He was also the President of the West Bengal Cha Sramik Union, a registered Trade Union, unit Upper Fagu Tea Estate. The Company was not well disposed towards Purnabahadur on int of his Trade Union activities. As there no doctor in the Upper Fagu Tea Estate, nbahadur was to perform some extra duties h were ordinarily the duties of the doctor. A ge-sheet was given to Puranbahadur on 2nd 1962 for excess payment of 75 nP. as sick a to one Ganga Prosad Bahun. Another ge-sheet on the same allegation was given to on 12th June 1962. He submitted explanations th the charge-sheets in which he pleaded that verpayment was made through inadvertence to pressure of work. The Company, however, out giving him any opportunity of hearing, and out holding any enquiry whatsoever into the ge-sheets, dismissed him in an arbitrary, high-ed and capricious manner. The matter was to the Assistant Labour Commissioner, Dar-g, and conciliation proceedings were started, to no effect. The Union has prayed for rein-ment of the workman Puranbahadur with full wages on the ground that he was wrongly ssed from service. The Company has filed a en reply to the written statement filed by the n, and the case as set forth in the written ment of the Company may shortly be stated as ws:

e workman Puranbahadur was guilty of viola-of the Standing Orders of the Company which nted to fraud inasmuch as he misappropriated money of the Company. The fraud alleged st him was that a sum of 75 nP. was shown to a workman who was not entitled to receive payment of the same. In view of this derelic-of duty he was dismissed from service by the gement. It is pleaded that the management justified in dismissing the workman for viola-of the Standing Orders, and it is denied that smissing the workman the management was ted by any desire of victimisation or unfair r practice. A plea has been raised that the nt dispute is an "individual dispute" and not industrial dispute", and as such the reference sconceived and incompetent.

e only issue relates to the dismissal of Puran-dur The undisputed facts bearing on the dis-l of this workman are these: He was em-d as a Dresser in the Upper Fagu Tea Estate d by Messrs. Padma Limited. Charge-sheets issued to him on 2nd June 1962 and 12th June respectively alleging excess payment of 75 nP. ck hazira to a workman Ganga Prosad Bahun. submitted explanations to the charge-sheets d to him wherein he admitted excess payment, pleaded that it was paid through inadvertence to pressure of work. The explanations sub-d by him were not accepted and he was dis-d from service by the management without ing any enquiry into the matter or giving him opportunity to explain his conduct.

preliminary objection has been raised on behalf he Company regarding the maintainability of reference. The contention of the learned law-appearing on behalf of the Company is that the ent Union does not represent a majority of men of Upper Fagu Tea Estate and, as such, Union is not competent to take up the alleged ute between the workman concerned and the Company, and the present dispute not being an industrial dispute is misconceived, and incompetent. This contention does not appear to be well founded, and cannot be accepted. The evidence of P.W. 1 Shri Ghanashyam Misra, the Joint Secretary of the West Bengal Cha Sramik Union, is that about 70 per cent. of the workmen of Upper Fagu Tea Estate are members of this Union. He has, however, not produced the relevant papers in support of his oral statement. It was suggested to this witness that only 5 to 10 per cent. of the workmen of the Upper Fagu Tea Estate are members of the Union. This suggestion has been denied by P.W. 1, the Joint Secretary of the Union. The suggestion made to this Union clearly indicates that the present Union represents some workmen of the Upper Fagu Tea Estate. It is now well settled that a Union which does not represent a majority of workmen of an industrial concern can take up the cause of a workman. The present Union, even if it be accepted that it does not represent a majority of workmen of the Upper Fagu Tea Estate, can take up the cause of the workman concerned. It has been urged that no papers have been produced to show that the present Union was asked to take up the matter with the Assistant Labour Commissioner, Darjeeling. The evidence of P.W. 1 is that on receipt of the information about the dismissal of Puranbahadur he went to the garden, and a resolution was passed by the members of the Union to take up the matter of dismissal of Puranbahadur with the Assistant Labour Commissioner, Darjeeling. No copy of the resolution has been produced. But the non-production of the resolution does not necessarily prove that no such resolution was passed by the workmen, in view of the sworn testimony of P.W. 1. The Company never raised the plea at any stage during the conciliation proceedings that the Union is not competent to take up the cause of the workman concerned and, in view of this fact, the oral evidence of P.W. 1 that in pursuance of a resolution of the workmen who are members of the Union, the matter of dismissal of Purnabahadur was referred to the Assistant Labour Commissioner, Darjeeling, appears to be true. The evidence of P.W. 1, taken along with the fact that no objection was raised before the conciliation officer regarding the competency of the Union to represent the case of the workman concerned, leaves no room for doubt that the present Union is competent to take up the cause of the workman, and the present reference is not incompetent or misconceived. The preliminary objection on behalf of the Company is thus overruled.

I shall now deal with the merits of the case. It is an undisputed fact that the charge against Purnabahadur which led to his dismissal is an excess payment of 75 nP. as sick hazira to a workman who was sick. This is clearly indicated in the charge-sheet, Ext. 1, dated 2nd June 1962, which is Annexure A to the Union's written statement. A reply to the charge-sheet was given by the workman on 3rd June 1962 wherein he admitted his mistake and begged to be excused. This reply is marked Ext. 1(b) and is Annexure C to the Union's written statement. Another charge-sheet relating to this excess payment of 75 nP. to Ganga Prosad Bahun was issued to the workman on 12th June 1962 which is Annexure B to the Union's written statement, and has been marked Ext. 1(a). In this charge-sheet it is stated for the first time that this amount was drawn by Purnabahadur in the name of Ganga Prosad Bahun. In reply to this charge-sheet, dated 14th June 1962, which is Annexure D to the Union's written statement, Purnabahadur pleaded that the excess payment was due to a mistake on his part and he begged to be excused. This explanation was not found satisfactory by the management, and he was dismissed from service for dereliction of duty and misconduct under clause 13(b) of the Standing Orders. In the charge-sheet issued to the workman on 2nd June 1962 all that is stated is that the workman concerned was guilty of an act of omission. There is no charge of any fraud being practised on the Company by drawing .75 nP. in the name of Ganga Prosad Bahun. The subsequent charge-sheet, dated the 12th June 1962, clearly appears to be an after-thought to make out a case of fraud against the workman concerned. The Company has not produced the relevant papers which are in its possession to show that actually no excess payment of .75 nP. was made to Ganga Prosad Bahun, nor Ganga Prosad has been examined to prove that he did not receive the payment. It is thus difficult to hold that any fraud was practised upon the Company by the workman concerned so as to attract the provision of paragraph 13(c)(ii) of the certified Standing Orders of the Company, as stated in the charge-sheet, dated 12th June 1962. The excess payment of .75 nP. to Gangaprosad Bahun it appears was made through a bona fide mistake on the part of the workman concerned, as stated by him, and I see no reason to suspect his bona fides. The act of the workman concerned in making the excess payment is at best a neglect of work on his part, and in the absence of any mala fides on the part of the workman the explanation submitted by him appears to be quite reasonable, and should have been accepted by the Company. But instead of accepting the explanation submitted by the workman, and without giving any opportunity of being heard, he was dismissed from service on the plea that the explanation submitted by him on 14th June 1962 was not satisfactory. No enquiry was held into the charge-sheets that were issued to the workman and he was also not given any opportunity to defend himself, and there has thus been clear violation of the principles of natural justice which demand that a man should not be condemned unheard. It is provided in clause (d) of paragraph 13 of the certified Standing Orders that no workman should be dismissed for the first offence under (X) of paragraph 13 unless he has previously been suspended for a similar offence. In the instant case the act of the workman, if taken as neglect of work on his part, which amounts to a misconduct, cannot be made a ground for his dismissal from service, as this is his first offence. It also appears that the provision of section (g) of paragraph 13 of the Standing Orders has not been complied with. In view of the facts and circumstances stated above, the act of the management in dismissing Purnabahadur cannot be justified and he is entitled to the reliefs claimed.

The Company is directed to reinstate the workman Purnabahadur Mager to his former post and also to pay him arrears of wages from the date of his dismissal up to the date of his reinstatement, within one month from the date of publication this award in the "Calcutta Gazette".

This is my award.

ANNEXURE

In the matter of an industrial dispute between Messrs. Satyanarayan Oil Mill, 33 Benaras Road, Salkia, Howrah, and their workmen represented by Employees' Association, c/o Shri Panchanan Bhattacharya, 1 Joy Bhattacharya Lane, Calcutta-3. (Case No. VIII-59/63)

BEFORE THE SECOND INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL WEST BENGAL

PRESENT:

Shri A. P. BHATTACHARYA, Judge, Second Industrial Tribunal

Appearances:

For the Company: Shri P. R. Mukherjee.
For the Union: Shri P. Bhattacharya.

The Government of West Bengal by its Labour Department Order No. 1293-I.R./IR-15L-4/63, dated 26th March 1963, referred to this Tribunal an industrial dispute between Messrs. Satyanarayan Oil Mill, 33 Benaras Road, Salkia, Howrah, and their workmen represented by Employees' Association, c/o Shri Panchanan Bhattacharya, 1 Joy Bhattacharya Lane, Calcutta-3, for adjudication under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act.

The issue framed in this case for adjudication runs as follows:

Whether the dismissal of Shri Upendra Nath Majhi is justified? To what relief, if any, is he entitled?

AWARD

It is the case of the Unoin that the workman concerned in this dispute—Shri Upendra Nath Majhi—joined the Employees' Association in 1962. Certain demands of the workmen were placed before the Assistant Labour Commissioner, Howrah, at about the same time. In August 1962 Shri Majhi was served with a notice containing baseless charges. He was asked to attend the enquiry. On the date fixed for enquiry, he went to the mill but was not allowed to enter the factory. On his protest, a second date for enquiry was fixed . On the date so fixed, Shri Majhi went to attend the enquiry but he was told that the enquiry would not be held before the Pujas. Shri Majhi's residence is close to the mill. Shri Majhi pressed for early enquiry, and at that he was told to wait in his residence with promise that he would be called at the enquiry. But he was not ultimately called at the enquiry, and this was on 12th September 1962. By a letter, dated 14th September 1962, Shri Gazdar, Proprietor of the mill, dismissed Shri Majhi. The Union therefore demands that Shri Majhi should be reinstated in service and paid back wages for the period of forced unemployment.

The Company filed a written statement denying Shri Majhi's association with the Employees' Association. The Company's contention is that Shri Majhi used to leave his duty and for that he was reprimanded by the Manager. At this, Shri Majhi showed temper to the Manager and abused him. So, a charge-sheet was issued against Shri Majhi on that ground and he was found guilty of the charge. Shri Majhi did not attend the enquiry either on 1st September 1962 or on 12th September 1962. It is denied that Shri Majhi was not allowed to attend the enquiry. He was found guilty of misconduct and was dismissed accordingly.

Decision

The question is whether the dismissal of Shri Majhi is justified. With regard to the departmental enquiry alleged to have been held by the Company, the Union submits that the depratmental enquiry was not held properly, for Shri Majhi was not given opportunities to attend the enquiry. The charge against Shri Majhi was in respect of an alleged incident on 9th August 1962. The Manager—Shri Patit Paban Mukherjee- is said to have been abused by Shri Majhi. According to the Company's case, the Manager made a written complaint to the Proprietor against Shri Majhi, and Shri Majhi was also supplied with a copy of the same. The chargesheet is Ext. 3 and it is dated 10th August 1962. But from the Postal Stamp appearing on the envelope under the cover of which the chargesheet was sent to Shri Majhi, it will be seen that the chargesheet was posted on 14th August 1962 and was received by Shri Majhi on 16th August 1962. Since according to the Company the incident took place in presence of the Manager and the Proprietor, there is no reason for this delay in posting the chargesheet, though it was typed on 10th August 1962. The suggestion is that the question of issuing a chargesheet was thought of on 14th August 1962, and so the letter (Ext. 3) is a back-dated one. Shri Majhi replied to the chargesheet, but denied having received a copy of the complaint. Without the complaint, Ext. 3 must be considered to be an incomplete chargesheet. From the manner of folding of the copy of the complaint (Ext. 13), it is urged on the side of the Union that it could never have been sent by the Company along with the chargesheet marked Ext. 3. The folding of Ext. 13 would, of course, support the contention of the Union. Shri Majhi stated in his evidence that he received the complaint much later during his absence. This is borne out by the fact that immediately after the receipt of Ext. 3, Shri Majhi complained about the non-receipt of the Manager's complaint in his letter, dated 18th August 1962 (Ext. 4). The Company, however, did not furnish Shri Majhi with a copy of the complaint. Unless a copy of the complaint is supplied to the chargesheeted person, the proceeding must be held to be vitiated. With regard to enquiry, it was fixed on 1st September 1962. Shri Majhi stated in his evidence that he was not allowed to enter into the mill premises. The notice regarding enquiry on 1st September 1962 was, however, given by the Company as will appear from Ext. 5, and this was replied to by Shri Majhi on that very date (1st September 1962). Shri Majhi complained that he did not receive the chargesheet—obviously referring to the complaint of the Manager. He further added that on 1st September 1962 at 10 a.m. he went to the mill for attending the enquiry, and the Manager turned him out by saying that no enquiry would be held. On the complaint of Shri Majhi, however, another date for enquiry was fixed on 12th September 1962. But on that date also, Shri Majhi was not allowed to attend the enquiry. This is the evidence of Shri Majhi and he complained about it at the earliest opportunity. The Union adduced evidence to prove that the Company was giving false evidence by saying that Shri Majhi was given opportunities of being heard at the enquiry. The only witnesses for the Company in this respect are the Manager, Shri Patit Paban Mukherjee, who is said to have been insulted by Shri Majhi, and the Enquiring Officer, Shri Ajit Kumar Chakrabarty. On the contrary, there is overwhelming evidence on the side of the Union to prove that Shri Majhi was not given any opportunity of being heard, and that the entire chargesheet is a fabricated one. Shri Majhi lodged a diary at the local police-station complaining that he was driven out by the Manager and the Proprietor following an altercation on 9th August 1962. The G.D. Entry is dated 10th August 1962 and it is Ext. 1. P.W. 2 Shri Debendra Nath Das, who is a Police Constable at Traffic Outpost at Golabari, stated in his testimony to the effect that on 9th January 1962 at about 8 a.m. the Proprietor of the mill Shri Gazdar and the Manager caught hold of both the arms of Shri Majhi and drove him out of the mill. There is no reason why this Traffic Constable would give false evidence. P.W. 4, Shri Ram Dutta Murari is an old employee of this very mill. He gave evidence to the effect that he was present when the Proprietor and the Manager drove out Shri Majhi, pulling him by the neck. He further added that Shri Majhi asked him to give evidence for him at the enquiry. But there was no enquiry at all. On one day, the Manager told Shri Majhi that no enquiry would be held. Upon this, Shri Majhi left the factory after waiting for three hours, and there was no enquiry on that date. That Shri Majhi was not given any opportunity to attend the enquiry and that there was no enquiry at all will be borne out by other evidence and circumstances also. If Shri Majhi attended the enquiry or had opportunities of attending the same, he would not have complained about it at the earliest opportunity. The Management acted mala fide with a view to victimise him. It is clear that there was a dispute between the Union and the Company, and an agreement was reached between them on 26th September 1962 (Ext. 2). Shri Majhi was a member of the Union and the Management had differences with him, and this led the Management to dismiss him without any enquiry. This is opposed to the principle of natural justice. Shri Ajit Chakrabarty, who is said to have held the enquiry, stated in his evidence that he prepared a report in Bengali, and it was translated into English by Shri P. R. Mukherjee, who is representing the Company before the Tribunal. That translated report is Ext. F. But curiously enough I do not find the Bengali report, which is said to be the original report of the Enquiring Officer. In the circumstances I am inclined to accept the Union's suggestion that the report Ext. F was never in existence and it was manufactured for the purpose of this case. There is considerable force in the argument advanced by the Union in this respect. It is a clear case of victimisation, and I am of opinion that the alleged incident did not take place in the manner stated by the Manager in his written complaint. The incident was of a different nature, and the Management gave a colour to it in order to victimise the workman.

It is the established principle of law that the Tribunal should interfere only in cases where there is want of good faith, victimisation or unfair labour practice or the Management is guilty of violation of the principle of natural justice. On the evidence before me, the charge appears to be completely baseless and perverse. Even if there was no proper enquiry, it was open to the Company to prove the charges before the Tribunal. The Company examined the Manager, who is said to be the aggrieved person. He does not speak about the incident in his evidence. His evidence is that he gave evidence at the enquiry. On the side of the Union, witnesses were examined to prove that the occurrence was not as alleged by the Manager, and that it was of a different nature. The Manager was not abused. On the contrary, the workman was driven out by the neck by the Manager and the Proprietor Shri Gazdar. Even before the Tribunal, the Company fails miserably to prove the charge on merits.

In the result, the order of dismissal passed by the Management against Shri Upendra Nath Majhi must be held to be unjustified. The workman is, therefore, entitled to reinstatement with full back wages for the period of forced unemployment, i.e., from 14th September 1962 till the date of his reinstatement. I accordingly direct the Company to reinstate the workman and make payment of his back wages within 30 days of the publication of this award in the "Calcutta Gazette".

This is my award.

By Order No. 5673-I.R./IR/8L-49/60, dated the rd November 1960, as amended by Order No. 97-R IR/8L-10/61, dated the 5th January 1963, and rder No. 952-I.R./IR/8L-49/60, dated the 24th ebruary 1961, the Government of West Bengal, in ie Labour Department, referred under section 10 the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, the industrial spute between Messrs. Janata Textile Mills, 1 aragacha Road, Kidderpore, Calcutta-23, and their orkmen represented by Hide Road Textile Mazoor Union, 1/1 Garden Reach Road, Calcutta-24, garding the matters specified in the schedule, to e Third Industrial Tribunal, constituted under ction 7A of the Industrial Disputes Act, by Notifiion No. 808-I.R./IR/3A-2/57, dated the 11th arch 1957, for adjudication.

Issues

1. Wages and dearness allowance.
2. Bonus for 1959 payable in 1960.
3. Night Shift Allowance.
4. Whether the termination of service of Shri bdul Gani is justified? To what relief, if any, is entitled?

5. Casual leave.

The reference was received from the Government West Bengal in their Labour Department for udication of some industrial disputes existing ween Messrs. Janata Textile Mills Ltd., 1 Garaha Road, Kidderpore, Calcutta-23 (hereinafter be erred to as the Company), and their workmen resented by Hide Road Textile Mazdoor Union, Garden Reach Road, Calcutta-24 (hereinafter be erred to as the Union).

he reference although was initially received ut the close of the year 1960, but it has a chered career. It was amended by issuing an lendum on 24th February 1961, and by a corridum on 5th January 1963. Proper notices and portunities were given to both parties, who entered their appearances and filed their written statements and additional and supplementary written statements following the amendments of the original reference.

The Union's case in the written statement is that the Company is a powerloom factory producing cotton textile goods and has got a good market for its produce. The Company is in sound financial position but it does not concede to its workmen the minimum wages and other benefits enjoyed by workmen of similar concern. So, the workmen organised themselves to form a Union in order to press their reasonable demands regarding the basic wages, dearness allowance, casual leave, bonus, night shift allowance, etc. The aforesaid demands were placed before the management but they received no consideration from the management. So, the Labour Directorate was approached, joint conferences were called by the conciliation officer but it was of no effect in view of the Company's adament attitude. Therefore, the disputes have been referred to this tribunal for adjudication.

The Union has also specifically mentioned what should be the basic wages of different categories of workers and the dearness allowance. It has also claimed some special allowance for night shift workers and reinstatement of a workman Abdul Gani who remains out of employment since 26th December 1959.

The Union also filed two supplementary written statements after the order of reference was amended by the Government by issuing addendum and corrigendum. The Union has claimed therein six days' casual leave with wages and four days' without pay every year since 1958 or six days' wages.

The Union has further claimed for the workmen payment of two months' wages as bonus for the year 1959 payable in 1960.

The Company has stated that the Mill was started from 1st January 1959. It is a small industry where 16 looms only are working for the manufacture of cheap quality dhoties and sharies and there are only 24 permanent workmen and almost equal number of casual hands in the employ of the Company. There is no spinning section in the mill. So, textile yarns are purchased from tight market and the Company is faced with keen competition in the market. The industry is still in its infancy and has not yet reached financial stability. Therefore, any additional financial burden by way of increase of wages and dearness allowance will be prejudicial to the interest of the industry. The workmen are already being paid fair and reasonable wages in comparison with other similar and comparable industries in the region. Company has denied the allegation that no weekly holiday is granted to the workmen. They are, on the contrary, granted weekly day of rest in spite of the fact that they work for 45 hours in a week instead of 48 hours as provided in the Factories Act. It may be that there is no common day of rest for all workmen, but the day of rest is different for different set of workmen in each shift.

The Company's further case is that the workmen are not entitled to claim any bonus as there was no available surplus of profit for distribution as such. The Company has also denied the workers' claim for night shift allowance because they actually work for seven and half hours only in place of eight hours and at the same time they are paid D.A. on eight hours basis and basic wages on piece-rate basis.

As regards dismissal of the workman Abdul Gani it has stated that he was on leave on medical grounds up to 16th November 1959, when he was declared fit to resume his duties by the Panel Doctor of the Employees' State Insurance Corporation. He actually resumed his duties and worked from 17th November 1959 to 20th November 1959 and started absenting himself from duty since 22nd November 1959 without any information or application for leave or permission. So a letter was addressed to him on 21st December 1959 directing him to join or to communicate the reasons for his absence There was no response. So, he was charge-sheeted on 9th January 1960 and following a domestic enquiry and finding him guilty of long absence without reason he was dismissed from service. All other allegations are denied.

Company in the two supplementary written statements has reiterated the fact that the industry is still in its infancy and yet to attain financial stability. Therefore, it has not the capacity to bear the extra burden of expenditure of permanent nature in the shape of wage increase, etc. The Company has denied its liability to pay six days' wages on account of casual leave or to grant any casual leave or any compensation for unavailed of casual leave. The Company has lastly prayed for rejection of the Union's claim of bonus for the year 1959 payable in 1960.

Decision

Issue No. 1

The Union representing the workmen of the Company claims revision of rates of wages and dearness allowance on the allegation that the workmen are not being paid adequately although the Company is making a very good profit and is in sound financial position.

Company has denied the allegations. Admittedly it is a powerloom factory producing cotton textile goods using 16 looms (vide Ext. D). It is not a composite mill. There is no spinning section but weaving only. Admittedly the factory was started on 1st October 1958 and according to the Manager, D.W. 1 Ramnath Sharma, it went into production from 1st January 1959. It further appears from the Manager's evidence that the workmen struck work for about a month from 1st October 1959 to 29th October 1959. This fact remains unchallenged. So, it is unfortunate that the workmen or their leader, if any, whose advice they followed, did not consider such a step almost at the initial stage of the mill undesirable and prejudicial to the interest of all concerned. It hampered production and the enterprise yielded no profit. Naturally the employer was dissatisfied having suffered a setback at the very beginning of the enterprise. Ultimately the workmen themselves would suffer because with profit of the business they cannot expect their employer to grant any additional benefit or amenity to them. The balance-sheet (Ext. E) shows actually there was no profit. So, the workmen such a hasty action undoubtedly did harm to themselves as well. The more they will produce, more profit there will be and then and then only they can reasonably expect to share the profit as fruit of their labour. The Company had very little breathing time. In the very first year of existence of the mill the workmen started agitation, raising various demands as will appear from the Union correspondence Exts. 2(a) and 2(b). They went so far as to resort to strike during the whole of the month of October 1959 without consideration of the fact that the mill functioned at that point of time only for a few months. It must be given reasonable time and opportunity to work. However, that is a matter not very material for the purpose of adjudication of the disputes under reference but incidentally it came up before me in connection with the profit or loss of the business and there was evidence placed on the record on the point I have just discussed.

The Union to support its demand for higher rates of wages and dearness allowance has relied upon an agreement Ext. 1 arrived at on 1st March 1961 between the employers in the Cotton Textile Industry in West Bengal represented by the Bengal Mill Owners' Association on the one hand and the trade unions in the Cotton Textile Industry represented by the four central trade union organisations in West Bengal on the other. It was no doubt a tripartite agreement, and the Secretary, Labour Department, and the Labour Commissioner, Government of West Bengal, were signatories to the agreement. But admittedly the present concern which is fairly a small mill working with 16 looms only was no party to the agreement. So, the present concern will not be bound by the said agreement. There is also no evidence to show that the mills which are parties to the agreement are similar and comparable units. There is no evidence to show their standing, the strength of labour employed, extent of profit etc. Therefore, I am unable to accept the Union's contention that this document will be a guiding factor in the matter of fixation of wages and D.A. for the employees of the present concern.

In the matter of fixation of wages and D.A. certain principles have been laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Express Newspaper (Private) Ltd. [1961 (I) L.L.J. 339]

The capacity of the industry to pay is one of the essential circumstances to be taken into consideration except in cases of bare subsistence or minimum wage where the employer is bound to pay the same irrespective of such capacity. Then the capacity of the industry to pay is to be considered on an industry-cum-region basis after taking a fair cross section of the industry. In this connection there are also other things to be taken into consideration like elasticity of demand for the produce, etc.

In another case of Novex Dry Cleaners [1962 F.L.R. 224], the Hon'ble Supreme Court observ that in fixing a fair wage the capacity of the industry to bear the burden of the said wage is very relevant and important. Where the wage structure is being fixed with reference to those in other similar industries in the region, the standing of the industries, the strength of labour employed, extent of customers, profits and loss must be taken into account. It is necessary to assess whether the employer would be able to meet the additional liability. In the same volume of the above reference at page 312 has been reported the case of Bengal Porcelain Company Ltd. In that case it has been held by the Hon'ble High Court at Calcutta that the increase in the wages can only be made after a consideration of the financial ability of the Company to bear the increase and after the Tribunal had come to the conclusion upon the evidence before it that the Company had the capacity to bear this increase. In that case it has also been held that the same consideration will apply to the fixation of D.A.

In the light of the above principles the claim of the Union may be considered. The wages claimed by the Union in paragraph 9 of the written statement are as follows:

"(1) Unskilled workers– Rs. 34.37 nP. per month.
(2) Weavers Rs. 50.17 nP. per month.
(3) Durwans– Rs. 44.67 nP.- 2 -66.67 nP.
(4) Other categories– Rs. 45 per month.
(5) Jobber Rs. 130 per month."

The Company has placed before the Tribunal two charts Exts. F and F/1 to show the existing rates of wages and also the previous rates paid by the Company to these workmen. The existing rates are as follows:

(1) Unskilled workers– Rs. 32.50 nP.
(2) Weavers –Rs. 55.12 nP.
(3) Jobber (there is one only)—Rs. 149.50 nP.
(4) Durwan –No mention of wage rate.

Other categories—

(5) Winders –Rs. 32.50 nP.
(6) Checker (there is one only)—Rs. 45.50 nP.

The Union has not specifically mentioned who the workers are included in the "other categories". No evidence has also been adduced on this point. But it appears from the company's chart Exts. F, F/1 that the workmen of other categories in the employ of the Company are six winders and one checker. So, I consider their wages as well.

It appears from the Union's correspondence with the Labour Commissioner Ext. 2(a) that in connection with the demands of the workmen it referred to the Second Omnibus Cotton Textile Industry Award, 1958. The said award was published in the extraordinary issue of the "Calcutta Gazette", dated June 10, 1958, pages 2029 to 2134. At pages 2073 and 2074 of the award, the Tribunal fixed the lowest wage of male Cotton Mill workers in West Bengal at Rs. 60.67 nP. per month of 26 days of 208 hours. That was the total wage of the lowest paid male workers, which total wage was divided in that award into Rs. 28.17 nP. as the basic wage per month and Rs. 32.50 nP. as D.A. per month. The standardised basic wages will appear in Appendices VII and VII(a) at pages 2126 to 2128 of the Second Omnibus Cotton Textile Award. The basic wage rates fixed by the Second Omnibus Cotton Textile Award are as follows:

(1) Unskilled workmen –Rs. 28.17 nP. per month.
(2) Weavers –Rs. 44.17 nP.
(3) Jobber –8 to 10 per cent. of the basic earnings of the weavers under him.
(4) Winders –Rs. 32.17 nP.
(5) Checkers Rs. 34.17 nP. per month.

It has been contended on behalf of the Company that the Second Omnibus Cotton Textile Industry Award, 1958, will not apply to the present case in view of the fact that it is a small power loom factory and was no party to the said omnibus reference. It is quite true that this company was not party to the said omnibus reference because it did not come into existence even at the time of publication of its award. But it will appear from Appendix II at page 2116 of the said omnibus award that a number of powerloom factories were covered by that award were such wherein even less than 16 looms had been used. It is clear from the award that wages have been fixed in respect of different categories of Cotton Mill workers in West Bengal. Therefore, I see no reason why this award should not be a guiding factor for fixation of wages and other allowances. As a matter of fact, it appears that the Company has practically followed this award and the existing wage rates paid to it, workmen are somewhat better than in the Second Omnibus Cotton Textile Award, 1958. Sometimes after the Second Omnibus Textile Industry Award there was an award made by the Fourth Industrial Tribunal, West Bengal, in respect of some industrial disputes raised by the workmen of Messrs. Hindusthan Lace Manufacturing Corporation Private Ltd., Jainkunj, Hide Road, Kidderpore, Calcutta. That award was published in the "Calcutta Gazette", dated August 24, 1961 (a copy is kept with the record). This award was referred to by the Union. Some similar items of disputes as in the present reference were raised in that reference and according to the Union Messrs. Hindusthan Lace Manufacturing Corporation Private Ltd. is an allied concern and the proprietor of that concern is the same as of the present concern (Messrs. Janata Textile Mills). The Company does not admit this in so many words but it appears from the evidence of the Manager Shri Sharma that the Manager of the other concern serves as the weaving master of this concern. He is Shri N. C. Majumder. These two concerns are admittedly situated side by side. The Manager Shri Sharma (D.W. 1) has no technical qualification. He admits that the technical side of the mill is entirely looked after by Shri N. C. Majumder the Weaving Master who is admittedly the Manager as well as the Weaving Master of Messrs. Hindusthan Lace Manufacturing Corporation Private Ltd. What the Manager himself admits is carefully suppressed by the other supervising staff, namely, D.W. 2 Gouri Sankar Dutt who is the Senior Supervisor of Janata Textile and by D.W. 3 Sitaram Joshi who is the Time-keeper of this mill. He went so far to say that Shri Majumder is in no way connected with their concern, i.e., Messrs. Janata Textile Mills but he is connected with Messrs. Hindusthan Lace Manufacturing Corporation Private Ltd. only. So, it seems that there may be some truth in the Union's contention. The Union has further contended that a number of small factories with smaller number of power looms are found more profitable than to have a big mill because the incidence of excise duty and other taxes are heavier in case of big mills compared to small powerloom factories. This is apparent from the Government circular regarding Central Excise Duties (Ext. 3). The Company has, of course, produced three receipts, Exts. C, C/1 and C/2, to show payment of heavy excise duties. But the amount was heavy because the factory runs three shifts. There is no manner of doubt that the incidence of taxes is heavier in case of big cotton textile mills. Naturally it is found profitable to run a number of small units using limited number of looms. However, not only there was an award in respect of industrial disputes raised by the workmen of that concern which has been referred to by the Union but the Company also has produced a chart of the wage-rates paid by the said concern to its workmen of different categories. This document is Ext. G. There is another chart Ext. G/1 on the same subject filed by the Company said to be in respect of workmen of Asoka Textile Mills. I have considered all these rates of wages and I find that the existing rates of wages paid by the present concern is not inadequate or very unfair. By the award of 1961 the wages of unskilled workmen of Messrs. Hindusthan Lace Manufacturing Corporation Private Ltd. were fixed at Rs. 28.17 nP. and that of the winders at Rs. 32.17 nP. The Tribunal refused to interfere with the earnings of the weavers in consideration of the fact that weavers were generally earning on the basis of piece-rate work Rs. 19.15 nP. in the average per month more than the unskilled workmen, i.e., Rs. 47.32 nP. Compared to the wage-rates fixed by the Second Omnibus Textile Award, 1958, and also the wage-rates fixed by the award in respect of Messrs. Hindusthan Lace Manufacturing Corporation Private Ltd., I find that the existing rates of wages of the different categories of workmen of the present concern are in no way unfair or inadequate. On the contrary, they are on the whole satisfactory though not very fair. Therefore, regard being had to the capacity of the industry to pay, and its financial position and standing, I do not propose to increase the wage-rates in respect of the workmen other than Durwans. I have already observed that neither party has adduced any evidence regarding the scale of pay of Durwans. The Union has claimed a scale of pay which remains unsupported by any evidence whatsoever. The Company also remains silent as to the pay of Durwans. In the circumstances, in absence of any evidence on this point on the record I take into consideration the scale of wages for Durwans prevailing in other industries and accordingly the scale is fixed at Rs. 35-1-55 per month. This will take effect from 1st April 1963. Any Durwan drawing monthly wages lesser than the minimum should be pulled up to Rs. 35. If any better scale of wages for Durwans is existing at present in the mill, then it will not be disturbed. The existing better scale will continue to operate.

The Union has demanded extra wage for Sunday work. No evidence has been led to support the demand. However, it is admitted that each and every worker gets weekly rest as provided in the Factories Act. It may be that there is no common off-day for all the workmen. There is evidence to show that the factory runs three shifts and there is no single off-day for all workmen of the mill. But it is not the Union's contention that some workmen are denied weekly rest. Those who work on Sundays are given off-day on any other day in a week. Therefore, there is no point in claiming extra wage for Sunday work. I reject this claim of the Union.

I now take up the demand for D.A. Union claims D.A. at the rate of Rs. 40 per month and at .18 nP. per point of rise or fall of cost of living-index over 372 points (1939 100 basis). In the definition of "wages" under the Industrial Disputes Act as amended in 1956, D.A. is included in wages. In the Third Major Engineering Industry Award that was published in the "Calcutta Gazette," extraordinary issue on November 5, 1958, it was observed that D.A. was a wartime measure introduced during the war just to offset the rising prices of commodities and to mitigate the sufferings of the people resulting therefrom. In that award it was further observed that D.A. depends on two factors viz.

"(1) capacity of a particular industrial unit to pay, and

(2) it corresponds to the rise in the cost of living index".

The learned Judge who presided over the Third Omnibus Engineering Tribunal was pleased to observe that D.A must not be granted such as to fully neutralise the rise in the cost of living-index for the following reasons:

"(1) It may as a result give fillip to the inflationary level of crisis.

(2) It may create a priviledged class in the society in the shape of industrial workers. There is no reason why they should have preferential treatment than all other people of the country to feel the pinch of rising prices. On the basis of this the percentage of neutralisation has been weighed down to 60 per cent. or at the highest 90 per cent. as in Bombay."

The Second Omnibus Cotton Textile Tribunal in West Bengal in 1958 fixed D.A. for the cotton mill workers in West Bengal at Rs. 32.50 nP. per month which is equivalent to Rs. 7.50 nP. for a week of 48 hours. In the light of this Omnibus Award of 1958 the learned Judge of the Fourth Industrial Tribunal assessed D.A. at Rs. 36.50 nP. per month of textile workers of a power loom factory—Messrs. Hindusthan Lace Manufacturing Corporation Private Ltd., Kidderpore, Calcutta. The award was published in the "Calcutta Gazette" on August 24, 1961, at pages 3071 to 3076. That was also a mill producing cotton fabrics using 24 power looms and it is situated just by the side of this mill and it is admitted there is at least one common principal staff working in both the concerns. It appears from Ext. 1 that in March 1961 the working-class cost of living index figure 400. P.W. 1 Shri Arun Sen, the Secretary of Union, has deposed that in 1962 average cost of ig index in and around Calcutta was 422. It is, course, common knowledge that prices of ential commodities are increasing almost beyond acity of common man. But as I have noted ve the cost of living-index figure alone will not the guiding factor for fixing the D.A. The other y important factor is the paying capacity of the ticular industrial unit. I have already found that s is a new mill of small unit using 16 looms only l in the very first year of existence it suffered s and the workmen themselevs were partly ponsible for the said loss, they having resorted to ike for a month or so. Taking all these into eful consideration I fix the D.A. at Rs. 36.50 nP. month to take effect from April 1963, although dispute was raised about the close of the year 60 but it took a complete shape in January 1963 er a couple of amendments of the original erence by the Government at the instance of the ion. Arrears of D.A. be paid to the workmen thin two months of the date of publication of the rd in the "Calcutta Gazette".

ue No. 2

The Union has demanded two months' wages as onu bonus. The Company has resisted the claim the ground that there was no profit in the year ded on 31st March 1959. The Company has pro-uced the balance-sheet Ext. E to show that the mpany suffered loss to the extent of s 18,803.66 nP. in that year. As there was no ofit in that year question of profit bonus does not se However, I do not propose to go further into e merit of the case in view of the fact that the ue has not been properly framed. There is some ount of ambiguity in it. The Secretary of the nion admits in his evidence that he had no owledge of the Company's trading year. It is ear from the balance-sheet, Ext. E, that the Com-ny's trading year is from April to March. D.W. 1 ri Ramnath Sharma, the Manager of the Mill, ports this fact which remains unchallenged by e Union. Therefore, it is difficult to give any judication effectively and precisely on this point. is accordingly left open at the desire of the Union ho did not press for any decision in view of the mbiguity.

ssue No. 3

The Union has demanded eight hours' full wages nd D.A. for seven and half hours' work in the night hift. The workers receiving monthly wages and D.A. suffered no loss by way of deduction of pay or D.A. They get full amount for seven and half hours' vork for the night shift. Therefore, I leave their ase out of consideration.

But the workers who earn on piece rate basis surely suffer loss for not being able to work for full eight hours. They earn for their work of seven and half hours.

The Second Omnibus Cotton Textile Tribunal (1958) awarded that workers in Cotton Mills in West Bengal shall get eight hours' wages for seven and half hours' work at night. (At page 2095 of the "Calcutta Gazette", Extraordinary, dated June 10, 1958.) In the same line was awarded by the Fourth Industrial Tribunal in the case of Messrs. Hindusthan Lace Manufacturing Corporation Private Ltd. That award was published in the "Calcutta Gazette" on 24th August 1961 at pages 3071 to 3076. That concern is very similar to the present one, and both are located side by side in the same region. Therefore, to be on the same line it is awarded that the piece-rated worker should be paid basic wages for the night shift work and this should be done by adding 1/15th portion of their work earnings with the wages earned for the night shift duties.

I may incidentally observe that a workman should not be placed on night shift work continuously but only by rotation at reasonable intervals of time, so that bad effect on his health by reasons of night work may disappear with nights of rest during those intervals of time.

Issue No. 4

The Company by letter, dated 21st January 1960, Ext. H/3 dismissed a workman Abdul Gani from services with effect from 22nd November 1959. The workman Abdul Gani (P.W. 3) has denied any knowledge of the alleged order of dismissal. Assuming for a moment that the order of dismissal was communicated to the workman concerned. By this order, dated 21st January 1960, the Company dismissed the workman from service with retrospective effect from 22nd November 1959. It is well settled that there cannot be dismissal or discharge made with retrospective effect [vide 1963 (4) F.L.R. 19]. It was also held in a case reported in 1959 (I) L.L.J. 585 that the order of dismissal with retrospective effect must be held to be an illegal order and consequently the dismissal must be held to be wrongful. Therefore, the order of dismissal with retrospective effect cannot be sustained. It is an illegal order and as such it cannot be justified

According to the Company there was a charge-sheet issued against the workman on 9th January 1960 (vide Ext. H/1). No reply was forthcoming form the workman. So, there was an enquiry started, of which notice was sent by ordinary post under certificate of posting. Exhibit H/2 is a copy of the notice. D.W. 2 Gouri Sankar Dutt, an officer of the Company, is said to have held the enquiry in absence of the workman. His report is Ext. I. Going into the merits of the enquiry I have no hesitation to say that it was not a fair and proper enquiry. The charge-sheet, notice of enquiry or the order of dismissal, none of them was duly communicated to the workman. The Company ought to have sent them by registered post with acknowledgment due. But those were despatched by ordinary post under certificate of posting. The address appearing on the documents Exts. H series created some confusion about the correctness thereof. Names of two roads are mentioned therein. Therefore, it is difficult to believe that it was correctly addressed and it did reach the concerned workman. P.W. 3 Abdul Gani has denied knowledge of any of these letters. The Enquiry Officer admits in his evidence that he did not care to enquire why Abdul Gani absented himself from the enquiry, or whether proper intimation was given to him. But attendance register Ext. A/1 shows that the workman was on leave on medical grounds. The Enquiry Officer ought to have examined the attendance register and the medical certificates Exts. B, B/1 and B/2 which remained in the custody of the Company in order to be satisfied that the workman proceeded on leave on medical grounds. There was no attempt on his part to ascertain the cause of his absence specially when he left work for reasons of health. The enquiry ought to have been held in his presence. There is nothing to satisfy that the workman was duly informed of the charges levelled against him or of the date of the enquiry. Therefore, in my opinion, it was not a fair and proper enquiry. Moreover, I have already held that the order of dismissal passed against the workman with retrospective effect was an illegal order and as such it was worngful and unjustified.

Admittedly the workman having fallen ill went on leave and the Panel Doctor granted certificates Exts. B/1, B/2. There is one such certificate Ext. B to show that he was fit to resume work from 17th November 1959. The Company has produced attendance register to show that he actually joined on the 17th and worked on that day and on 19th and 20th of November 1959. He has denied to have joined on the 17th and worked up to 20th November 1959. The Company has stated in paragraph 9 of the written statement filed on 28th February 1961, that the workman resumed his duties and worked from 17th November 1959 to 20th November 1959. This is not correct and the Company's written statement is contradicted by the attendance register Ext. A/1 produced by the Company. This document shows that the workman did not attend on 18th November 1959. However, the fact remains that he having fallen ill was granted leave on medical grounds and he placed himself under the treatment of Panel Doctors as required by the Employees' State Insurance Act, and he has produced some reliable documents Exts. 5, 5(a) to show that he was for long under the treatment of a Panel Doctor as he was suffering from duodonal ulcer and also of gastritis. The two medical certificates granted by the Panel Doctor [(Exts. 5, 5(a)] clearly prove that the man was suffering seriously and remained under the proper medical treatment up to 25th December 1959 and immediately there after he having been declared fit to resume his duties presented himself at the gate of the factory in order to resume his duties but he was not allowed to do so by the Company. So, he at once wrote to the Manager enquiring why he had not been allowed to join his duties. He wrote to the Company by letter, dated 28th December 1959 (vide Ext 6). Copies thereof were sent to the Assistant Labour Commissioner and also to the A.N.O. Office of E.S.I., 64 Ganesh Avenue. The Company has not denied this letter of the workman, nor there is any denial by the Manager that the workman produced the certificate of fitness from the Panel Doctor when he presented at the gate of the factory on 26th December 1959 for resumption of duties. Therefore, I am inclined to hold that there was justification for the workman's absence from duty on medical grounds in continuation of the medical leave granted by the Mill Manager as is apparent from the attendance register (Ext. A/1). There is, of course, no correspondence to show that the workman kept the Mill Manager informed about his continued illness and treatment by the Panel Doctor, under the Employees' State Insurance Scheme, which facts have been clearly established by the documents under the Employees' State Insurance [Exts. 5, 5(a)]. Therefore, for reasons stated above I hold the dismissal of the workman Abdul Gani with retrospective effect as illegal, wrongful and unjustified. He is accordingly entitled to reinstatement by the Company in his old job or if that is not available now in a suitable job similar to that one carrying almost equal wages and benefits. The Company is directed to reinstate him on his presenting himself at the factory within 15 days of the publication of this award in the "Calcutta Gazette". Regard being had to the circumstances of the case I further direct that the workman be paid three months' wages as compensation in addition to what he would be entitled to under the Employees' State Insurance Act. The period of his absence be treated as on leave for the purpose of continuation of service.

In conclusion I may observe that the Company has made an attempt to show that the workman Abdul Gani has been in service of Messrs. Kesoram Cotton Mills Ltd. and to support that fact it has produced a letter Ext. H/4 from that concern which is dated 28th August 1961. This document shows that one Ab. Gani son of Samsuddin has been in the employment of that concern with effect from 5th December 1959. P.W. 3 Abdul Gani has denied his alleged employment by Messrs. Kesoram Cotton Mills. It appears that the name of the concerned workman is Abdul Gani. His father's name is Sihabuddin of Q 570, Akra Road (vide identity card Ext 4) and Panel Doctor's certificates (Exts. B, B/1 and B/2). But the name of the workman employed by Messrs. Kesoram Cotton Mills Ltd. as per letter Ext. H/4 is Ab. Gani whose father's name is Samsuddin. It is no knowing whether the name is Abul Gani or Abdul Gani. The father's name also differs. Therefore, identify has not been established. Moreover, it appears from the Panel Doctor's certificates Exts. 5 and 5(a) that the workman was under the medical treatment of the Panel Doctor even at that point of time. Therefore, the Company's plea seems unsubstantial.

The Union demands in the written statement, paragraph 2, filed on 8th April 1961, six day's wages for six days' casual leave with wages and four days' casual leave without pay every year since 1958. The Company objects to such privilege being granted to the workmen at this early stage of the factory which is still in its infancy.

Admittedly there was Second Omnibus Cotton Textile Industry Tribunal in West Bengal in 1958. The award was published in the "Calcutta Gazette", extraordinary issue, on June 10, 1958, pages 2029 to 3134. This Company was, of course, not a party in that Omnibus Cotton Textile Industry Award. As a matter of fact, it came into existence shortly after publication of this award. But I have already observed that Appendix II (at pages 2116-2117) will show that small power loom factories using less than 16 looms are also covered by the said award. Therefore, there is no reason why this award will not apply to this power loom factory using 16 looms if not more. By that award, manual and clerical workers within the meaning of Factories Act were allowed to enjoy 10 days' casual leave without pay in a year. At the same time they are allowed to get six days' wages by way of compensation for withdrawal of the benefit of five days' casual leave with pay, as awarded by the First Omnibus Award in 1948. This lump payment was made payable to the workers concerned 15 days before the pujas and shall be calculated at the rate at which the worker was being paid in the month of August of the calendar year for which the payment is made. I have already observed that in 1961 similar dispute along with some others were referred to the Fourth Industrial Tribunal for adjudication. There was an award which was published in the "Calcutta Gazette", August 24, 1961. This was in respect of workmen employed by Messrs. Hindusthan Lace Manufacturing Corporation Private Ltd., Kidderpore, Calcutta, which factory is similar to the present one and both the factories are situated in the same region and the Union's allegation is that under common management. There is, however, evidence to show that at least there is a common supervisory staff who is Manager of the one and Technical Expert of the other. The workmen of that factory have been granted casual leave facilities almost in line with the Second Omnibus Cotton Textile Award. There is no reason why there should be discrimination. I accordingly grant the same benefit to the workers of this concern as well. It is accordingly directed that the workmen will get 10 days' casual leave without pay in a year. A lump payment amounting to six days' wages calculated at a rate at which the workers were paid in the month of August should be made 15 days before Saptami day before Durga Puja in accordance with the scale laid down in paragraph 11(5) at page 2089 of the "Calcutta Gazette" (Extraordinary), dated June 10, 1958. This will take effect from April 1963.

This is my award.

No. 2560I.R./IR/8L-13(A)/64. — 1st July 1964. — Whereas under the Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, order No. 1857I.R./IR/8L-13(A)/64, dated the 15th May 1964, the industrial dispute between Messrs. Sodepur Cotton Mills Ltd., P.O. Sodepur, 24-Parganas, and their workmen represented by Sodepur Cotton Mills Mazdoor Union, Mishra House, Baraset Road, P.O. Sodepur, 24-Parganas, regarding the issue mentioned in the said order being a matter specified in the second schedule to the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), was referred for adjudication to the Sixth Industrial Tribunal;

And whereas the said Sixth Industrial Tribunal has submitted to the State Government its award on the said industrial dispute;

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the provisions of section 17 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), the Governor is pleased hereby to publish the said award as shown in the annexure hereto

ANNEXURE

In the matter of an industrial dispute between Messrs. Sodepur Cotton Mills Ltd., P.O. Sodepur, 24-Parganas, and their workmen represented by Sodepur Cotton Mills Mazdoor Union, Mishra House, Baraset Road, P.O. Sodepur, 24-Parganas. (Case No. VIII-137 64.)

BEFORE THE SIXTH INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL

Present:

Shri P. M. LAHIRI, Judge.

AWARD

The Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, by Order No. 1857-I.R./IR 8L-13(A) 64, dated 15th May 1964, referred under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, the abovementioned dispute to this Tribunal for its adjudication.

Issue

Whether Sarbashri Jhink Jaysavara, Sheeo Prosad Das, Vishnu Pada Sukul, Kapil Deo Singh, Ram Ujagir Pandey and Dutnath Dusad are eligible for permanent employment with retrospective effect?

To what relief, if any, are they entitled for their past services?

On receiving the order of reference by the Government, notices were duly served on the parties. After the service of the notice, the Secretary of the Union, Shri Jagamohan Trivedi, filed a petition to the effect that the Union would not press for the case as the Company had already fulfilled its claim.

A "no-dispute" award is passed accordingly.

The index number for Malda West Dinajpur area came down by one point from 101 in December 1963 to 100 in January 1964 and remained steady in February and March 1964.

The fall in January 1964 was due mainly to the fall in the prices of rice and potato in spite of rise in prices of some other items in the food and fuel and lighting groups as well. In February and March 1964, there were simultaneous rise and fall of prices of some items which made the index number steady.

LABOUR DEPARTMENT

ORDERS

No. 2594-I.R./IR/15L-11/63.—3rd July 1964. — Whereas under the Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, Order No. 3673-I.R./IR/15L-11/63, dated the 31st August 1963, the industrial dispute between Messrs. Swaika Vanaspati Products Ltd., 18B Brabourne Road, Calcutta-1, and their workmen represented by Swaika Mazdoor Union, 61 Chintamoni Dey Road, Howrah, regarding the issue mentioned in the said order being a matter specified in the second schedule to the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), was referred for adjudication to the First Industrial Tribunal;

And whereas the said First Industrial Tribunal has submitted to the State Government its award on the said industrial dispute;

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the provisions of section 17 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), the Governor is pleased hereby to publish the said award as shown in the annexure hereto.

ANNEXURE

In the matter of an industrial dispute between Messrs. Swaika Vanaspati Products Ltd., 18B Brabourne Road, Calcutta-1, and their workmen represented by Swaika Mazdoor Union, 61 Chintamoni Dey Road, Howrah. (Case No. VIII-188/63.)

BEFORE THE FIRST INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL

Present:

Shri RENUPADA MUKHERJEE, Judge,
First Industrial Tribunal.

Appearances:

For the Company: Shri T. K. Jagadeesh, M.A. LL.B., Labour Adviser.

For the Union: Shri Nikhil Roy, Advocate.

This industrial dispute has been referred for adjudication under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act by the Government of West Bengal by its Labour Department Order No. 3673-I.R./IR/15L-11/63, dated Calcutta, the 31st August 1963. The first party to the dispute is Messrs. Swaika Vanaspati Products Ltd. (hereinafter to be described as the Company) and the second party their workmen represented by Swaika Mazdoor Union (hereinafter to be described as the Union). The only issue referred for my adjudication is the following:

Whether refusal of employment of Shri K. S. Dikshit is justified? To what relief, if any, is he entitled?

On receipt of the reference usual notices were issued to both parties. The sum and substance of the written statement of the Union is that Shri K. S. Dikshit was a permanent workman for more than two and a half years in the service of the Company and he had a uniform good record of service. On 23rd October 1962 the management addressed a letter to Shri Dikshit alleging falsely that Shri Dikshit had expressed his desire on 22nd October 1962 to be relieved immediately and on that baseless ground informed him that he was no longer in the service of the Company with effect from 23rd October 1962. This allegation of the Company is a false one and Shri Dikshit never expressed his desire to be relieved of his service. Thereafter the workmen raised this industrial dispute through their Union before the Labour Directorate which started conciliation proceedings. Due to the unreasonable attitude of the Company the conciliation proceedings did not bear any fruit. So the Union prays for an award declaring that the refusal of employment to Shri Dikshit is unjustified and for reinstating Shri Dikshit to his former job with all back wages and allowance.

In reply to the written statement of the Union the Company stated that the workman in question resigned his service voluntarily and the management had no other alternative but to accept his offer of resignation. This is not a case of refusal of employment and the workman is not entitled to any relief. It was also contended on behalf of the Company that this dispute is not an industrial dispute and the Tribunal has no jurisdiction to make any adjudication.

Decision

Besides the question of jurisdiction which was raised by the Company the only other issue which arises for my determination is the issue contained in the order of reference. The case of the Union is that the Company has unjustifiably and arbitrarily refused to give employment to Shri K. S. Dikshit who was admittedly a permanent salesman under the Company. This case hinges upon a letter, dated 23rd October 1962. This letter was marked Ext. 3 and the body of the letter which is relevant for our consideration is quoted below:

"Dear Sir,

We refer to the talk you had with the undersigned yesterday evening (Monday, the 22nd October 1962), when you informed us that you wished to be relieved immediately. You further said that your account should also be settled.

We confirm having conveyed to you that your both requests were granted by us.

You are now instructed to visit our office any working day to settle up your account.

Please be advised that you are no longer in our services with effect from Tuesday, the 23rd October 1962.

Yours faithfully,
For Swaika Vanaspati Products Ltd.
D. N. Lalvani."

According to the case of the Company Shri Dikshit expressed his desire to be relieved of his service before Shri D. L. Lalvani, the Sales Manager, in the evening of 22nd October 1962 and this offer was accepted by the Company and on that basis the letter in question was issued to Shri Dikshit. Shri Dikshit denied the allegations of the Company that he had expressed his desire to resign his appointment. It is admitted that Shri Dikshit saw Shri Lalvani in the evening of 22nd October 1962 but Shri Dikshit stated that he did not say that he was giving up his service and he did not express any desire that his account should be settled. The evidence of Shri Lalvani is in a contrary vein. According to him Shri Dikshit had written several letters making some demands. On the evening of 22nd October 1962 he came to him and said that if his demands were not conceded to he would resign with immediate effect. Shri Lalvani further stated that he told Shri Dikshit that these demands could not be met. There was another gentleman present in the room who was in overall charge of the Administration. After consulting him Shri Lalvani accepted the offer of resignation made by Shri Dikshit. This was confirmed on the following day by the letter marked Ext. 3. In this case I have got to choose between the evidence of Shri Dikshit and of Shri Lalvani and I accept the evidence of the latter for the following reasons. Shri Dikshit admits that he had no ill feeling either with Shri Lalvani or with anybody else of the Company. If that be the case then there is no reason why the Company would suddenly terminate his service by assigning a false reason.

Shri Roy contended on behalf of the Union that this was done by the Company capriciously. It does not stand to reason that the Company would act in such a capricious and unjust manner without any reason whatsoever. On the other hand, some letters written by Shri Dikshit to the management would show that he had reason to be dissatisfied with his appointment. These two letters were marked Exts. B and C. They are in Hindi. English translations of these letters were furnished by Shri T. K. Jagadeesh. The letter marked Ext. B is dated 4th August 1962. This letter would show that for the year in question no increment of salary was given to this workman for which he was dissatisfied and he stated that he would not take his salary until the letter was replied to. The other letter is dated 7th September 1962. In his letter the workman requested the Company to furnish him with a room in Vanaspati Factory so that he might bring his ailing wife from Cawnpore for treatment. The management expressed its inability to furnish any room (vide Ext. D). It appears clear to me that this workman was dissatisfied with the Company and for that reason he expressed his intention of resigning his post. This was accepted by the Company and the workman was informed accordingly. The Company did not act mala fide and the workman having himself verbally resigned his appointment, no question of refusal of employment arises. The workman is not, therefore, entitled to any relief.

As the claim of the workman fails on the merits, it is not necessary to enter into the question whether this dispute is an industrial dispute or whether this Tribunal has jurisdiction to entertain his reference. If, however, it had been necessary for me to decide such a question, I would have decided it in favour of the Union. The workman became a member of the Union after the termination of his service and the dispute was sponsored by the Union. So the dispute became an industrial dispute and no question of jurisdiction arises.

In the result I pass the following award. The refusal of employment to Shri K. S. Dikshit is justified, because before such refusal he had voluntarily resigned his appointment. He is not entitled to get any relief.

This is my adjudication and award.

AWARD

After the receipt of the order of reference No. 3881-I.R., dated 13th September 1958, of the Government of West Bengal, Department of Labour, usual notices were served on the parties for appearances and taking necessary legal steps. The parties at first took some steps for leading the case to its final hearing. But subsequently the parties absented themselves on several dates and took no steps. So in order to dispose of the matter notices were issued on the parties asking them to appear on the date fixed for hearing and intimating them that if they failed to come ready for hearing the case would proceed ex-parte without further reference to them. But on the date so fixed with notices duly served on the parties neither party appeared before the court nor did any of the parties take any step whatsoever.

Therefore, considering the circumstances I have reasons to believe that no industrial dispute exists now between the parties. I therefore pass this no-dispute award and dispose of the case accordingly. Dictated and corrected by me.

ANNEXURE

In the matter of an application under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act filed by Shri Jagabandhu Banerjee, P.O. and village Ghola, district 24-Parganas, a workman of Messrs. Bengal Potteries Limited, 45 Tangra Road, Calcutta-15, against the aforesaid Company in connection with G.O. No. 3665-I.R.|IR|11L-324|63, dated 30th August 1963. (Case No. 180 of 1963 under section 33A.)

BEFORE THE FIRST INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL WEST BENGAL

Present:

Shri RENUPADA MUKHERJEE,
Judge, First Industrial Tribunal.

Appearances:

For the Company: Shri C. L. Ganguly, Advocate.

For the workman: Shri Anil Das Choudhury, Advocate.

This is an application under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act for alleged contravention of some of the provisions of section 33 of the Act. The application has been made by one Jagabandhu Banerjee who is a workman under the opposite party Company known as Messrs. Bengal Potteries Limited.

The sum and substance of the complaint of the petitioner is the following:

A dispute between the opposite party Company and its workmen is pending before this Tribunal for adjudication in pursuance of Labour Department Order No. 3665-I.R., dated 30th August 1963. The petitioner being a workman under the opposite party is concerned in the dispute and is also a protected workman under the Industrial Disputes Act. During the pendency of the said dispute the Company has punished the petitioner by way of victimisation by changing some of the service conditions of the petitioner. The petitioner has submitted that his working hours were from 9 a.m. to 5-30 p.m. with a recess for half an hour. These working hours were made from 8 a.m. to 4-30 p.m. by a letter, dated 17th October 1963. This was purposely done by the Company for punishing the petitioner for his bona fide Trade Union activities. The petitioner was a member of the office staff and he was transferred to factory by Order, dated 9th July 1963. All his service conditions were governed and regulated by office rules. Not only were the working hours of the petitioner illegally changed by the Company but also his holidays were curtailed unjustifiably. The petitioner has been put to serious financial loss for the change in his working hours and he prays that he may be allowed to revert to his original working hours and also he may be compensated by a sum of Rs. 76.80 nP. per month for his financial loss and the salary deducted against holidays may also be refunded to him.

The application of the workman is opposed by the Company. The Company has alleged that the application under section 33A is not maintainable inasmuch as the petitioner is not a workman concerned in the dispute and the subject matter of his application cannot be considered to be connected with the pending dispute. The Company further alleges that the petitioner was transferred from office to the Purchase Department of the factory on 19th July 1963, i.e., long before the main dispute was raised. By such transfer the petitioner became amenabel to the rules of the factory regarding the timings of his work and enjoyment of festival holidays. The Company did not do anything for punishing the petitioner for his alleged Trade Union activities and the petitioner is not entitled to get any financial relief or any other relief for the alteration in the timings of his duties.

Upon the allegations and counter-allegations made by the parties the following points arise for my decision.

(1) Is the application under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act maintainable?

(2) Was the Company justified in changing the working hours of the petitioner as alleged by him?

(3) Was the Company justified in refusing to allow the petitioner to avail himself of festival holidays prescribed for the office?

(4) To what relief, if any, is the petitioner entitled?

Point No. 1

Before I enter into the question of the maintainability of the application it will be useful to state certain facts about which there is hardly any dispute. Applicant Jagabandhu Banerjee was appointed as a general assistant in the office of this Company by a letter, dated 16th September 1955 (vide Ext. 1). The office of the Company is situated at 45 Tangra Road. The working hours in the office were from 10 a.m. to 4-30 p.m. with a break for lunch of half an hour at 1-30 p.m. This is disclosed by the appointment letter. Jagabandhu Banerjee was confirmed by a letter, dated 30th December 1955 (vide Ext. 2). It is an admitted fact that towards the end of 1962 a proposal came from the Company to increase the working hours from 36 hours to 48 hours in a week. The office staff did not agree to the proposal and they made a protest. In spite of that protest the Company increased the working hours from 36 hours to 48 hours a week with effect from some date in the last week of December 1962 and the working hours were made from 9 a.m. to 5-30 p.m. with a break of half an hour. A dispute was raised by the Union over this matter and it is an admitted fact that a reference case in connection with the dispute was pending in this Tribunal at the time when this application under section 33A was filed.

Jagabandhu Banerjee was transferred from office to the Purchase Department of Factory No. 1 on 19th July 1963 (vide Ext. 3). Jagabandhu Banerjee joined there on 20th July 1963. It was specifically stated in this order of transfer that the working hours of this employee would be the same as at present. This means that the working hours would be from 9 a.m. to 5-30 p.m. with a break of half an hour for lunch. It is an admitted fact that the working hours in the factory were from 8 a.m. to 4-30 p.m. with a break of half an hour. The working hours of Jagabandhu Banerjee were made from 8 a.m. to 4-30 p.m. by a letter, dated 17th October 1963 (vide Ext. 6). He objected to this change by writing a protest letter, dated 28th October 1963 (vide Ext. 6a). This change in the working hours is one of the grounds for making this application under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act.

Shri Ganguly contended on behalf of the Company that upon the admitted facts of the case as stated above this workman is not entitled to make any application under section 33A inasmuch as he was transferred to the Factory on 19th July 1963 and the reference was made on 30th August 1963 as would appear from the very head line of the application. He submitted that when Jagabandhu Banerjee was transferred to the factory he was bound to observe rules of the factory regarding hours of work etc. and although the management maintained status quo with regard to hours of work in the letter, dated 19th July 1963, it was within the rights of the management to withdraw the privilege granted to Jagabandhu Banerji at any time it considered necessary. Shri Ganguly submitted that there was no change in the conditions of service of this workman as prescribed in section 33(1)(a) of the Industrial Disputes Act and so the application is not maintainable.

Shri Das Choudhury submitted on behalf of the workman that hours of work constitute one of the conditions of service as laid down in item 4 of the fourth schedule of the Industrial Disputes Act and it was not open to the management to make a change in the hours of work to the prejudice of the worker without the permission of the Tribunal before which a reference case was pending. Shri Ganguly submitted that in this case there was really no change in the hours of work but there was a change only in the timings of work and so this matter does not fall under item 4 of the fourth schedule as claimed by Shri Das Choudhury. The distinction sought to be made by Shri Ganguly appears to me to be a distinction without any difference. It is to be observed that in the Company's letter, dated 17th October 1963 (Ext. 6), this workman was asked "to observe the factory working hours, viz., 8 a.m. to 4-30 p.m." The expression "working hours" certainly mean the same thing as hours of work. The letter under reference shows that the Company was making a change in the working hours of this employee. So this matter comes under item No. 4 of schedule IV and it constitutes a change in the conditions of service of Jagabandhu Banerjee.

The above change was effected when the reference case was pending in this Tribunal. The change was also made to the prejudice of the workmen as will be found later. So the previous permission of the Tribunal was necessary.

In the above context Shri Ganguly submitted two other contentions before me. He argued that Jagabandhu Banerjee was transferred to the factory before the reference was made to this Tribunal and was not concerned in the dispute because it was only the office staff who were concerned in it and so he cannot complain of any violation of the provision of section 33(1)(a) of the Industrial Disputes Act. In support of his contention he drew my attention to a decision of the Supreme Court reported in 1960, I, L.L.J., page 551 (New India Motors versus K. T. Morris). In this judgment Their Lordships of the Supreme Court have given an elaborate exposition of the expression "workman concerned in the dispute.". I have gone through this case and I am unable to see how it applies to the facts of the present case. The very head line of the application of the petitioner would show that in the main reference one of the parties was the workmen of this Company represented by Bengal Potteries' Employees' Union. The office staff might have been immediately concerned in the dispute but all the workmen of this Company were made parties to the reference and certainly all of them would be bound by any award that might be passed in the main reference. It is also significant that when the dispute first originated Jagabandhu Banerjee was a member of the office staff. According to the case of the Company there is an interchange of office assistants from office to factory and vice versa. In these circumstances Jagabandhu Banerjee who had been a member of the office staff at the time of the origin of the dispute and who was transferred to factory less than a year ago may again be transferred back to office at any time. In these circumstances it is idle to contend that he is not concerned in the dispute and so the objection taken under this head by Shri Ganguly fails.

The next objection regarding the maintainability of the application taken by Shri Ganguly was that the change in the timings of Jagabandhu's work is not a matter "connected with the dispute" as required by section 33(1)(a) of the Industrial Disputes Act and so this application was not maintainable. I have already observed that in the main reference the subject matter of the dispute is the increase of working hours from 36 hours to 42 hours in a week. Jagabandhu Banerjee had made this application as his hours of work were altered by making an alteration in timings. The question as to when the duty hours of a particular workman would begin is certainly a matter related to the quantum of his hours of work. In these circumstances it cannot be said that the alteration in the working hours of this workman is not connected with the dispute raised in the main reference.

I now consider the question whether the alteration regarding the timings of Jagabandhu Banerjee's duty hours has caused any prejudice to him. The workman attends office from a place called Ghoshpara which is three miles off from Sodepur Railway Station which is 15 miles from the factory of the Company. The evidence of Jagabandhu Banerjee would show that he has got to incur some extra expenses for purchasing his meals and tiffin at present. He has also been inconvenienced because by the acceleration of the timings he is not in a position to take a bus from his native place before coming to the railway station. All these facts have been prejudicial to him.

Another contention made by Shri Ganguly was that this change in regard to the working hours of Jagabandhu Banerjee was made not for the purpose of victimising him but for saving consumption of electricity. In this connection some Government notifications were filed on behalf of the Company [vide Ext. C to C(2)]. In my opinion these notifications are irrelevant for the purpose of our case because they only dispense with service of notice under section 9(1) of the Industrial Disputes Act in the matter of alteration of some of the conditions of service specified in the fourth schedule of the above Act. These notifications have got no bearing on section 33 of the Act. I therefore reject all the preliminary grounds taken by Shri Ganguly regarding the maintainability of the application and hold that it is maintainable.

This point is practically covered by the decision of Point No. 1. I have already observed that the main reference was made by the Labour Department, Government of West Bengal, to this Tribunal by an order, dated 30th August 1963. The hours of work of the applicant were changed by a letter dated 17th October 1963, in spite of the fact that at the time of his transfer to the factory Jagabandhu Banerjee was given to understand that his duty hours would be the same as in the office, namely, from 9 a.m. to 5-30 p.m. (vide Ext. 3). Shri Ganguly contended that as the transfer was effected on 19th July 1963 which is prior to the date of the main reference it should be held that there was no change in the conditions of service of this workman. I am unable to agree with this contention.

The transfer of the applicant from office to factory is not the subject matter of this application. One of the subject matters of this application is the change in duty hours. As this change was effected without the previous permission of this Tribunal before which the main reference was pending, I hold that the Company was not justified in making the change. The change has undoubtedly caused prejudice to the workman. It is clear that this change was made because this workman had taken effective part in opposing the move of the Company for increasing duty hours. The explanation of the Company that this was done for saving consumption of electricity is merely an eyewash because there are several clerks in the factory whose duty hours are from 9 a.m. to 5-30 p.m. There would be no difficulty on the part of the Company if the same timing is observed by this particular clerk. Point No. 2 is decided accordingly.

Point No. 3

A grievance was made by this workman that he was not allowed to enjoy the same number of festival holidays as is enjoyed by the office staff. In my opinion the workman is not entitled to make any grievance on this score. When he was transferred to the factory the Company specifically intimated that his working hours would be the same as in the office. As this employee was transferred to the factory it can be presumed that he came to be governed by Factory Rules in regard to other conditions of service such as enjoyment of festival holidays, leave, etc. It is in evidence that in the year 1963 this employee was allowed extra casual leave for four days in excess of the total casual leave permissible to him by the rules of the office. It is an admitted fact that factory staff get seven days' more casual leave than the office staff. This benefit was given to the applicant for 1963. As regards festival holidays he was allowed such holidays according to factory rules. There was therefore no inequity in this matter. The curtailment of festival holidays was compensated by additional casual leave. I, therefore, hold that the Company was justified in granting festival holidays to the applicant according to the factory rules and not rules prescribed for the office staff.

From the decision of the foregoing points it would follow that the applicant should get some monetary compensation for the alteration in his working hours. From the evidence of the applicant, I am satisfied that he has got to incur some extra expenses on account of his meals, tiffin and rickshaw fare. He has also claimed some compensation for the loss of private tuition. I am not prepared to allow any compensation under the last mentioned item. Regarding other expenses I am of opinion that the applicant should be compensated to some extent. I allow a compensatory allowance of Rs. 15 per month for the period during which he worked or will work in future according to the modified timing as introduced by the Company's letter, dated 17th October 1963. I shall, however, permit the applicant to revert to his old timings of 9 a.m. to 5-30 p.m. from a date specified later.

In the result I make the following award on the application of the workmen under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act. The applicant will enjoy festival holidays as prescribed for the office so long as he works in the factory. The working hours of the applicant will be from 9 a.m. to 5-30 p.m. with a recess of half an hour from the beginning of the English month following that in which this award will be published in the "Calcutta Gazette". For the period commencing from 19th October 1963 up to the date when this workman will work in the factory from 8 a.m. to 4-30 p.m., he will get a compensatory allowance of Rs. 15 per month. The entire amount of such allowance will be paid by the Company to the applicant within a month of publication of this award in the "Calcutta Gazette".

No. 2697LR./IR/13L-5/62. 7th July 1964.—Whereas under the Government of West bengal, Labour Department, Order No. 3762LR./IR/13L-5/62, dated the 25th August 1962, the industrial dispute between Messrs. New India Press, 6 Duff Street, Calcutta-6, and their workmen represented by West Bengal Press Workers' and Employees' Union, 84/1A Bepin Behari Ganguly Street, Calcutta-12, regarding the issues mentioned in the said order being matters specified in the second and the third schedules to the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), was referred for adjudication to the Seventh Industrial Tribunal;

And whereas the said Seventh Industrial Tribunal has submitted to the State Government its award on the said industrial dispute;

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the provisions of section 17 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), the Governor is pleased hereby to publish the said award as shown in the annexure hereto.

ANNEXURE

In the matter of an industrial dispute between Messrs. New India Press, 6 Duff Street, Calcutta-6, and their workmen represented by West Bengal Press Workers' and Employees Union, 84/1-A Bepin Behari Ganguly Street, Calcutta-12. (Case No. VIII-129/62.)

For the Company: Shri K. Das Gupta, Partner of the Company.

AWARD

The above dispute over the issues given in the order of reference and reproduced below was referred for adjudication to this Tribunal by Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, Order No. 3762-I.R./IR/13L-5/62, dated the 25th August 1962.

Issues

1. Grades and scales of pay.
2. Dearness allowance.
3. Leave and holidays.
4. Service cards.

After service of notices of the reference upon the parties, they appeared and filed their respective written statements. After necessary preliminary proceedings when the case became ripe for hearing, the parties took some adjournments on the ground that a talk of settlement was going on. Finally, 17th June 1964 was fixed for hearing. On that date, the parties filed a joint petition of compromise setting out the terms upon which the entire dispute had been amicably settled between them and praying for an award in terms of the settlement.

I have heard the representatives of the parties and considered the terms of settlement. The terms appear to be quite fair and lawful and I am satisfied that there has been a bona fide settlement of the entire dispute between the parties on the terms set out in the compromise petition. In these circumstances, there is to be a compromise award in the case, as prayed for.

In the result, I make an award in terms of the settlement embodied in the compromise petition, a copy whereof is made a part of the award as an Annexure.

ANNEXURE

BEFORE THE SEVENTH INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL

In the matter of Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, Order No. 3762I.R./IR/13L-5/62, dated 25th August 1962.

And

In the matter of an industrial dispute between Messrs. New Indian Press of 5 Duff Street Calcutta-6 (hereinafter referred to as Company), and their workmen represented by West Bengal Press Workers and Employees' Union of 84/1/A Bepin Behari Ganguly Street, Calcutta-12 (hereinafter referred to as Union).

The humble petition of compromise by the parties abovenamed -

Most respectfully sheweth:

1. That the issues for adjudication are as follows:

(i) Grade and scale of pay.
(ii) Dearness allowance.
(iii) Leave and holidays.
(iv) Service cards.

2. That the parties mutually discussed and settled the dispute on terms and conditions mentioned hereunder:

(a) Grade and scale of pay: (i) The Union will not insist for introduction of grade and scale of pay at this stage in view of the fact that the Company granted the increments which were due and increased dearness allowance and has also agreed to increase dearness allowance as mentioned below.

(ii) The Company agrees to review the matter of introduction of grade and scale of pay in the month of January 1965 and discuss with the Union on the subject for finalisation and settlement.

(iii) The Company agrees to grant Rs. 3 as annual increment at a flat rate to every worker every year in January till the grade and scale of pay be introduced.

(b) Dearness allowance: The Company agrees to grant further dearness allowance amounting to Rs. 2 per month to every workman with effect from June 1964.

(c) Leave and holidays: The Company agrees to increase the existing leave and holidays by two days. That is, the workmen shall enjoy 39 days leave and holidays every year with full pay/wage and the existing list of leave and holidays will be altered accordingly in consultation with the workmen.

(d) Service cards: The Company agrees to introduce service card for the workmen, consulting the old record and the workmen concerned and the Union for the purpose. The service card shall contain amongst other things the following particulars:

(i) Date of appointment,

(ii) Post or designation,

(iii) Existing pay/wage,

(iv) Dearness allowance,

(v) Other allowances, if any,

(vi) Permanent or temporary,

(vii) Provident Fund A/C. No.

(viii) E.S.I. No.

The card will be issued to the workmen on or before 1st September, 1964.

3. That the dispute with respect to aforesaid issues are settled and closed.

4. That both the management and workmen shall mutually co-operate for efficient work and production.

It is, therefore, humbly prayed that your honour would be pleased to accept the aforesaid terms of settlement and make the same as part of the Award and dispose of the case accordingly and pass such order or orders which your honour would consider fit and necessary.

And for this act of kindness the petitioners shall ever pray.

AWARD

This is an application under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act 1947 filed by the workman Shri Kalipad Mondal (hereinafter be referred to as the applicant), complaining of contravention of the provisions of section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act by the employer Messrs. Britannia Building & Iron Co. Ltd. (hereinafter be referred to as the company).

His case in short is that he has been in service of the company from 1945. The company issued a charge-sheet on 2nd February 1961 against him for some alleged misconduct. He submitted written explanation on 4th Februry 1961, but the management punished him with suspension for three days from 16th February 1961. The punishment was awarded by the company at a time when there was a proceeding under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act, pending before this tribunal. So, the company was under obligation to comply with the provisions contained in proviso to section 33(2)(b) of the Industrial Disputes Act, which the company did not and thereby contravened the legal provisions. His further case is that his order of suspension was wrongful and unjustified.

The company resisted the application by filing a written objection in which it has questioned the maintainability of the present application. The company has challenged the tribunal's jurisdiction to entertain this application in view of the fact that the provisions of section 33(2)(b) proviso are not attracted to as it is not a case of discharge or dismissal. The Company has denied other allegations.

In a complaint of this nature two issues to be decided are:—

(1) The fact of contravention, and

(2) the merits of the act and order of the employer.

In the present case the applicant has not turned up to pursue his application. But the company who is the opposite party attended and was ready for hearing of the case. No steps having been taken on behalf of the applicant, I have no other alternative but to dismiss the application for default, and for want of proper prosecution.

The company having raised a preliminary point questioning the tribunal's jurisdiction to entertain the present application I would like to give decision on that point. The materials on the record will be just sufficient to give a decision on that point. Admittedly there was a proceeding under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act pending before this tribunal at a time when a workman was charge-sheeted for some misconduct and following a domestic enquiry was awarded punishment of suspension for a period of three days from 16th February 1961. The disptue that was pending for adjudication by this tribunal was relating to the workmen's claim for bonus. That was the only dispute referred to this tribunal for adjudication. The applicant was charge-sheeted on 2nd February 1961 (vide Annexure A to the application) for having been absent from his place of work on 1st February 1961 when he kept himself engaged at another place in writing some Money Order Forms. So, that was a matter unconnected with the dispute under reference before this tribunal. That being so, section 33(1) has no application. Section 33(2)(b) may have some application provided the punishment meted out is either discharge or dismissal from service. The provisions contained in the proviso to section 33(2)(b) are to be complied with by employer when the workman is either discharged or dismissed from service and for no other kind of punishment. In the instant case the applicant was punished with suspension for a period of three days only for which the employer is under no legal obligation to comol, with the provisions contained in the proviso to section 33(2)(b). So, there has been no contravention of the provisions of section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act. Admittedly, it is not a case of discharge or dismissal of workman from service, by his employer and as such the provisions of section 33(2)(b) proviso are not attracted. Therefore, the present application is not maintainable, the tribunal being without jurisdiction to entertain an application of this nature. Hence, it is rejected and disposed of.

AWARD

This is an application under section 33A of th Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, filed by a workma Shri P. R. Gurukkal complaining of contraventio of the provisions of section 33 of the Industri Disputes Act by their employer Messrs. Samu Osborn (India) Private Ltd. (hereinafter be refer to as the Company).

Briefly stated, his case is that on 20th March 1963 he was appointed by the Company as a mechanic and was subsequently confirmed in that post from 1st July 1963. Later on the Company issued a charge-sheet against him on 21st November 1963 for negligence of duty. He submitted written explanations on 23rd November 1963 but the Company without holding any domestic enquiry terminated his service by a letter, dated 27th November 1963. At that point of time some proceeding was pending before this Tribunal regarding industrial dispute existing between the said Company and their workmen, the pending dispute was relating to customary bonus claimed by a workman. In view of the pending proceeding under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act, the Company ought to have applied to this Tribunal for approval of the order of dismissal in compliance with the provisions contained in the proviso to section 33(2)(b) of the Industrial Disputes Act. Not only no application was filed seeking approval but also the Company failed to pay or offer one month's wages to the workman. Hence, there has been contravention of the provisions of section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act by the Company. The Company also wrongfully dismissed him from service without holding any domestic enquiry into the alleged charges. The prayer is, therefore, for reinstatement after setting aside the order of dismissal.

The Company has resisted the application of the workman by filing written objection in which it is stated that the workman having admitted his guilt was punished by dismissal from service. The workman having worked negligently and carelessly has considerably injured and damaged the reputation and goodwill of the Company. Therefore, the workman had to be punished by his removal from service. The Company has denied violation of the provisions of section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act. It has also denied the other allegations.

Admittedly the petitioner Shri P. R. Gurukkal was in the employ of the Company as a service mechanic. He was appointed on 20th March 1963 and on completion of his training he was confirmed in that job from 1st of July 1963. While in service of the Company he was charge-sheeted by the Company on 21st November 1963 for gross negligence of duty with specific instances enumerated in the charge-sheet (Ext. B). The petitioner submitted written explanations on 23rd November 1963 (vide Ext A). The Company on scrutiny of the written reply to the charge-sheet found him guilty of the charges and dismissed him from service by letter, dated 27th November 1963. At that point of time it is admitted that there was an industrial dispute relating to a workman's claim for bonus referred to this Tribunal for adjudication, and was pending for disposal. That being the admitted fact it was incumbent upon the Company simultaneously with the order of dismissal to apply to this Tribunal for approval of the order of dismissal passed against the petitioner in compliance with the proviso to section 33(2)(b), which the Company did not. At least there is no iota of evidence to support such compliance by the Company. There is nothing to show that the workman was paid or at least tendered one month's wages and an application was made seeking approval of the action so taken against the workman. In paragraph 10 of the Company's written statement it has been stated that there was nothing to do with section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act. The Company has not where stated its compliance with the proviso to section 33(2)(b) of the Industrial Disputes Act. Therefore, I have no hesitation to conclude that there has been contravention of the provisions of section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act by the Company.

It is well settled by the Hon'ble Supreme Court that in an enquiry of this nature, it is the contravention by the employer of the provisions of section 33 giving rise to a cause of action in favour of the workman to approach and to move the authority named in the section and this contravention is the condition precedent to the exercise by the authority concerned of the additional jurisdiction and powers conferred on it by the section. It has also been held that the authority to whom the complaint is made is to decide two issues, viz. -

(1) the fact of contravention and

(2) the merits of the act or order of the employer [vide 1955 L.L.J.(1) 346].

In the case of the Delhi Cloth Mill and General Mills Co. Ltd. (A.I.R. 1961 Supreme Court 689), it has been held by the Hon'ble Court that in an enquiry under section 33A the employee would not succeed in obtaining an order of reinstatement merely by proving contravention of section 33 by the employer. After such contravention is proved it would still be open to the employer to justify the impunged dismissal on the merits. An earlier decision in the case of Punjab National Bank Ltd. reported in A.I.R. 1960 Supreme Court 160, has been referred to. In that case it was observed by Their Lordships that if no enquiry has in fact been held by the employer the issue about the merits of the impunged order of dismissal is at large before the Tribunal and, on the evidence adduced before it, the Tribunal has to decide for itself whether the misconduct alleged is proved, and if yes, what would be the proper order to make.

In the instant case there was no domestic enquiry by the employer. Therefore, it is open to this Tribunal to enquire into the merits of the order of dismissal passed by the Company against the workman. The petitioner has examined himself at length. The employer-opposite party has examined three witnesses and also tendered several documents into evidence. The petitioner Shri P. R. Gurukkal who is a young man, was appointed by the Company (O.P.) as a mechanic from 20th March 1963. He was given facilities for practical training and on completion of training he was confirmed in his job from 1st July 1963. But he was charge-sheeted on 21st November 1963 for gross negligence of his duty (Ext. B is a copy of the charge-sheet). The Company has specified in the charge-sheet the instances wherein his work was found unsatisfactory and negligent to such an extent that the Company's reputation was at stake. The petitioner submitted a written explanation Ext. A on 23rd November 1963. This is the earliest document containing his statements explaining his conduct in the discharge of his duties as a mechanic. Shri Phani Ghosh, the President of the National Union of Mercantile Employees who was authorised by the petitioner to represent his case and who actually conducted the case on behalf of the petitioner has contended that whatever admission the petitioner has made in his written explanation (Ext. A) to the charge-sheet cannot be relied upon in view of the fact that such admission was made by the workman with intent to please the employer and to enlist the employer's sympathy and support. He has relied upon two decisions one is reported in 1961 (II) L.L.J. 472 In that case the Second Labour Court relying upon the recorded admission of guilt by the concerned workman found him guilty. The admission of guilt was recorded by the Enquiring Officer, who is an officer of the Company and it was not in the hand of the workman himself. Therefore, His Lordship was pleased to set aside that award based on the recorded admission of guilt. The other decision is of the Hon'ble Supreme Court reported in 1963(I) L.L.J., page 325. In that case Their Lordships were pleased to observe that when the statements made by the appellant do not amount to a clear and unambiguous guilt, failure to hold a former enquiry would certainly constitute a serious infirmity in the order of dismissal passed against him. It may be noted that this is not a case under the Industrial Disputes Act but one under Article 311(2) of the Constitution of India. However, I find that the facts of these two cases are quite different and distinguishable from the present one, and as such they do not strictly apply to the instant case. In the first case the admission of guilt by the concerned workman was recorded by the Enquiring Officer. It was not in the hand of the workman himself as in the present case and that alleged admission was in course of an enquiry made before the Enqurnig Officer but in the present case the workman made some admission of his guilt in his written explanation to the charge-sheet. So, whatever admission he made in his written reply to the charge-sheet was voluntary, uninfluenced and undisturbed, and probably unaided. He was all to himself when he wrote his explanations at that early stage. So, some truth is expected to come out in these early statements of the concerned workman. Then it may be true that the Company did not hold any enquiry and might have acted on the admission of guilty by the concerned workman. But so far as this Tribunal is concerned an enquiry is being held in which both parties are given equal opportunities and facilities to prove their respective cases, and not only the admission of guilt by the workman in his written explanation Ext. A is being relied upon but also other facts and circumstances on the record are also being considered. The Company has produced two reports (Exts. D/1 and D/2) before the Tribunal. The first one was made by D.W. 2 Shri K. R. K. Menon on 28th August 1963 and the second one by D.W. 3 Shri S. K. Das on 19th August 1963. Shri Phani Ghosh, the learned representative of the petitioner objected to these documents being considered by the Tribunal. His contention is that his client was not furnished with copies of these two reports and without the copies he had no sufficient opportunity to cross-examine the two witnesses who submitted the reports. To support his contention he relied upon a decision reported in 1963 (II) L.L.J., page 371. I am sorry to say again that the decision has been wrongly relied upon. In that case the prepared statements of witnesses taken in absence of the charge-sheeted workman were placed at the enquiry stage and the workman was asked to cross-examine without being furnished copies thereof sufficiently in advance. So, Their Lordships were pleased to hold the enquiry as vitiated by the violation of the principles of natural justice. In the instant case these are not prepared statements recorded in absence of the workman. But these are reports made by other mechanic who actually accompanied the concerned workman and who reported to his knowledge to the employer. The petitioner Shri Gurukkal has admitted in his evidence that he knew Shri S. K. Das another mechanic in the employ of Messrs. Das Zimmerman, the manufacturer of machineries whose selling agent was the present Company. He has further admitted that Shri S. K. Das accompanied him to the factory of Messrs. Kumardhubi Engineering Works on his failure to operate a new machine supplied to that Company. He has admitted that Shri S. K. Das operated that machine and on his return submitted a written report to the Company. He has identified this report as Ext. D It may be noted that Ext. D is a typed copy of the original report Ext. D/2 which has been proved by D.W. 3 Shri S. K. Das. The opposite party not only admitted that he had knowledge of this report from the very beginning, but on his admission the report was exhibited and marked Ext. D on 6th of June 1964. The hearing of this case was concluded on 22nd June 1964 and D.W. 3 Shri S. K. Das was examined on 20th June 1964. Therefore, there is no substance in the allegation that the workman had no opportunity to know the contents of the report Exts. D and D/2 and as such he could not cross-examine the witness on that point. Therefore, the decision he has referred to has no application to the present case. The opposite party has further admitted that he had no ill feeling with D.W. 2 Shri K. R. K. Menon and D.W. 3 Shri S. K Das. The workman has admitted the fact of his knowledge from the very beginning of the report Exts. D and D/2 submitted by Shri S. K. Das, Mechanic. But at the time of his evidence he has stated that the concluding two lines of the report contains wrong statement. It has been stated in the concluding two lines that the machine is working perfectly alright without changing even a single part of it. If the statement was not correct, what prevented the petitioner to object to these statements earlier or in his written explanation Ext. A?

I have already stated that in the charge-sheet Ext. B instances of negligent and unsatisfactory work have been specifically stated. The Petitioner's representative has contended that the charge-sheet is vague because the dates have not been mentioned. I do not think that the petitioner has been prejudiced thereby in any way. He has not raised that plea in his written reply Ext. A. On the contrary, he has admitted in his evidence before the Tribunal that all these instances took place in the month of August 1963. Therefore, there is nothing to show that the charge-sheeted workman was misled by the charge-sheet. His written explanation Ext. A clearly shows that he could easily follow the works complained of as unsatisfactory and negligent. The work of the petitioner was found unsatisfactory on casions more than one. He was deputed to do ne servicing work in the factory of Shalimar Tar oducts Ltd. where due to his negligent work an portant machinery part was damaged which his ployer had to replace at his own cost. The stralon Sheet that was broken by the petitioner an imported article of the value of Rs. 160 as posed by D.W. 1 Shri R. Srinivasan, the Internal les Manager of the Company. This officer of the mpany has further deposed that the Administra- e Officer of Messrs. Shalimar Tar Products report- the fact to the Company over telephone. The stralon Sheet that was damaged by the petitioner account of his careless and negligent work had be replaced by the Company on payment to essrs Das Zimmerman, the supplier. The peti- ner has admitted that he was deputed to do some rk at Messrs. Gayson & Co. In that concern o he rendered similar defective service due to his eless work and defective fitting, one Astralon eet was damaged which had to be replaced and his written explanation he has stated that the nage was due to his overlooking to take proper ps and precaution. On the third instance when was deputed to Messrs. Kumardhubi Engineering rks Ltd. to operate a new machine supplied to t concern by the Company he failed to do so and en the manufacturer's mechanic accompanied n he could do it easily without changing any part the machine. He pointed out to the petitioner t proper care was not taken to clean the Gears d Bushes of the machine which were full of dirt l also completely dry. So, he reported that rukkal had no basic idea of a service mechanic. e petitioner was found lacking in the basic owledge of a mechanic. He was lacking in the owledge of operating a machine after proper aning and oiling. Therefore, on occasions more n one the Company found his work unsatisfac- y, negligent and not up to the mark as a mecha- . Complaints having poured in from customers, Company was in an embarassing position and rt from the fact of its loss of reputation and odwill. D.W. 1 Shri R. Srinivasan the Internal es Manager of the Company has also deposed to that the petitioner Shri Gurukkal approached ssrs. Das Zimmerman and requested them not lodge any complaint against him for not being e to operate the machine at Messrs. Kumardhubi gineering Works Ltd. All these facts were orted to the Sales Director of the Company. So, Company at last thought fit to issue a charge- eet against him. It was really damaging to the ut ation of the firm to retain such a mechanic o proved himself careless and negligent in his rks on occasions more than one. The petitioner l to admit in his written reply Ext. 1 that he not given a very satisfactory service and his rk is not up to the standard as expected. There- e, having considered all the above facts and cumstances I am to conclude that the petitioner s guilty of the charges levelled against him and re was justification for the order of dismissal sed against him by the Company. In such a e when it has been found that there has been ntravention of the provisions of section 33 by the ployer but there was justification for the order dismissal passed against the workman, the breach the provisions of section 33 of the Industrial putes Act may be regarded as a technical breach and may not justify any substantial order of compensation in favour of the employee unless there are compelling facts in favour of the employee. This view has been expressed by Their Lordships of the Supreme Court in a case reported in 1958 (I L.L.J. 793. In that case there was an enquiry under section 23 of the Industrial Disputes (Appellate Tribunal) Act which corresponds to section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947. The order of dismissal passed by the Company against the petitioner having been found justified on merits the contravention by the Company of the provisions of section 33 will be a technical breach but I find that the workman was not paid one month's wages at the time of his dismissal. Therefore, I direct the Company to pay him one month's wages as compensation. This payment be made within a month of publication of the award in the "Calcutta Gazette". The workman is entitled to no other relief. The application is accordingly disposed of.

This is my award.

ANNEXURE

In the matter of an industrial dispute between Messrs. Calcutta Flour Mills, 11 Shib Thakur Lane, Calcutta-7, and their workmen represented by All-Bengal Flour Mills Workers' Union, 63/1 Kali Banerjee Lane, Howrah. (Government Order No. 3712-I.R., dated 3rd August 1963. (VIII-196/63).

BEFORE THE FOURTH INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL.

Present:

Shri R. BHATTACHARYA, Judge, Fourth Industrial Tribunal.

For the Union: Shri Satyendra Nath Banerjee, Advocate.

For the Company: Shri Satish Chandra Sen, Advocate.

On the basis of the Order No. 3712-I.R./IR/11L-152(A)/63, dated 3rd August 1963, of the Government of West Bengal, this reference under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act has been sent to this Tribunal for adjudication of the following issue:

Whether the refusal of employment to the following workmen is justified? To what relief, if any, are they entitled?

(i) Shrimati Sushila Dasi; (ii) Shrimati Sushila Bala Dasi; (iii) Shrimati Kiran Bala Dasi; (iv) Shrimati Sarala Bala Dasi; (v) Shrimati Bina Dasi; (vi) Shrimati Bhagabati Dasi.

The parties are Messrs. Calcutta Flour Mills, 11 Shib Thakur Lane, Calcutta-7, and their workmen represented by All-Bengal Flour Mills Workers' Union, 63/1 Kali Banerjee Lane, Howrah.

The parties filed written statements. In short, the case of the All-Bengal Flour Mills Workers' Union (hereinafter described as the Union) is that the six workers mentioned in the order of reference, viz., Shrimati Sushila Dasi, Shrimati Sushila Bala Dasi, Shrimati Kiran Bala Dasi, Shrimati Sarala Bala Dasi, Shrimati Bina Dasi and Shrimati Bhagabati Dasi were workers of the Calcutta Flour Mills (hereinafter described as the Company). They were being paid remuneration at the rate much lower than the one prescribed by the award of the Tribunal and other settlements between the Company and its workers. These female workers in order to get their legitimate wages filed applications before the Authority under the Payment of Wages Act, West Bengal, and, as a result thereof, the Company being enraged refused employment to them as a vindictive measure. These workers were not allowed to work under the Company on and from the 21st June 1962 without any notice or justification. On the representation of the workmen of the Company the Union took up the dispute and, ultimately, the present reference was made. It has been alleged by the Union that the refusal by the Company to employ these workmen is a case of victimisation and unfair labour practice, and it has been prayed that the workers in question may be directed to be reinstated with full back wages at the rate of the award passed by the Industrial Tribunal.

The Company in its written statement has stated that the six female workmen in question were employed in semi-skilled work as casual workers and that they were not covered by the award of the Industrial Tribunal. The rates of these workm were fixed according to bipartite agreement betwe the Company and the West Bengal Flour Mi Mazdoor Congress, the representative body of t workers. This agreement is dated the 2nd Nove ber 1961. It has been further alleged that the fem workmen started demanding higher rates of wa towards the end of April 1962 and they gave c that they would not do work unless an enhanc rate was allowed to them. The female workm started cases before the Authority under the Payme of Wages Act demanding higher rates of wa according to the award of the Industrial Tribun After this, however, the female workers in questi actually refused to do work when the Compa requisitioned their services and, in fact, they did n report from 21st June 1962 to their work. The ca of the Company is that the workers in questi themselves gave up their service voluntarily and th the Company never refused employment or work them It is also stated that the claims of th workers were refused by the Authority under t Payment of Wages Act. It was also contended in t written statement that the Union before t Tribunal had no locus standi to represent the wo men of this Company and, therefore, it was not industrial dispute.

In this case several witnesses have been examin on the side of the Union and the Company l examined on its side only one witness who is office assistant of the Company. Some docume have been exhibited on both the sides.

During the argument it has not been contend from the side of the Company that the Union bef this Tribunal has no locus standi to represent workmen. P.W. 8 has stated that he is the Presid of the Calcutta Flour Mill Employees Union. Fr his evidence it further appears that there is anot Union in the mill of the Company known as "W Bengal Flour Mills Mazdoor Congress". This witn has also admitted during the cross-examination t All-Bengal Flour Mills Workers' Union also repres a few workers of the mill. The witness of the Co pany has stated nothing about the representat capacity of any labour organisation. There is no c vincing evidence as to which of these three lab organisations already mentioned has the majority the workers under its control. It can therefore presumed that all the three organisations have sha the workers of the Company as their members. Company has not been able to show that the Un before me has no right or authority to represent workmen of the Company. In the absence of material I, therefore, hold that the Union has a ri to expouse the cause of the workmen before me that the present dispute is an industrial dispute.

In the written statement it was alleged by Company that the female workers in question w casual workers. The only witness of the Comp examined in this case has stated that it would apparent from the Wage Register of the Comp that they are casual workers and that separate re ters are maintained for these workers. Admitte no papers of the Company have been produ before me to prove that the female workers be me are casual workers. Moreover, in the writ statement of the Company it has been stated paragraph 2 that the names of the female work were shown, in the Master Roll of the Company, that they were paid by the said mill but they were employed in the sister Mills when there was no work available in the flour mill. The judgments passed by the Authority of the Payment of Wages Act have been filed in this case. They are Exts. B series. In the copies of those judgments it does not appear that at the time of hearing any contention was raised that the female workers were casual workers but, on the other hand, from the reading of the judgments the impression created is that from November 1961 to February 1962 the said workers worked under the Company without any break and accordingly in some cases some reliefs were given. However, this much I should say that there is no convincing and reliable evidence to prove before me that the female workers in question were casual workers.

Whether or not the female workers were casual workers is not an important question before me. This point is admitted by the learned lawyers of both the sides. The only point that has been raised by both the sides is whether the six female workers mentioned in the order of reference, in fact, voluntarily ceased coming to the mill to do their duties. If it is found that the workers of their own accord ceased coming to the mill on and from 21st June 1962, they will not get any relief in this case but if it is proved that the Company prevented them from joining their duties, certainly the workers will get relief. On this point the learned lawyers of both the sides have agreed. Now, I am to ascertain what the fact is. Four of the female workers have been examined in this case, as P.W. 3, P.W. 4, P.W. 5 and P.W. 6. These four workers have stated that they were not allowed by the Company to work in the mill although they went to join their duties. The evidence further shows that after the institution of the case before the Authority under the Payment of Wages Act, these workers were not allowed to join their duties. Admittedly, no work was done by these workers on and from 21st June 1962. Exhibit C series will show that in the month of May 1962 applications were filed by the female workers before the Authority under the Payment of Wages Act. Exhibit 1 is a letter written by the President of the Union to the Labour Commissioner with a copy forwarded to the Company. This letter is dated 18th July 1962. This letter registered a protest against the conduct of the Company for not allowing the workers to work from 21st June 1962. The evidence shows that the female workers attended the mill for several days but they were put off on frivolous pleas. In the circumstances of the case there was no unreasonable delay in lodging the protest in the form of Ext. A. Of course, I cannot place any importance to Ext. 2, a copy of the letter, dated 1st July 1962, alleged to have been sent to the Company by the female workers. There is no convincing proof that, in fact, any such letter was submitted to the Company. Moreover, Ext. 1 says that although such a letter was submitted to the Manager of the Company, the same was returned. No reliable witness has stated that any such letter was returned by any officer of the Company. In this connection I should note that I place no reliance on the oral evidence of Shri Muktipada Banerjee who does not appear to me to be a truthful and straightforward witness. The demeanour of the female workers examined before me and the manner in which they have deposed have convinced me that their evidence regarding refusal of employment to them by the Company is true. I have also considered the evidence of the witness examined by the Company. He has stated that the female workers began absenting themselves and then ceased coming to the mill. It does not appear from the evidence that he has any direct connection with the work of the female workers. It does not appear that he has to do any work of labour in the department where the female workers worked. It is curious to note that the Company produced no papers to show that there is any note in any department stating that the female workers began absenting themselves. If really these workers ceased coming to the mill, certainly the Company would have taken step either by way of issuing notice or by making necessary notes in the department. I have also noted that the company has not examined any supervisor of the department in which these female workers worked. The non-examination of competent persons will certainly raise an adverse inference against the Company, especially when the female workers have reasonably proved their case. The circumstances of this case also go in support of the workmen's case before me. It has been argued from the side of the Company that some of the female workers have stated that they are not willing to work under the Company if they are paid wages less than their demand. It has been argued that this statement and the attitude will prove that the workers voluntarily left their service because they were not getting higher wages according to the award of the Tribunal. I cannot accept this contention. Besides, the evidence shows that the applications were filed before the Authority under the Payment of Wages Act in May 1962. The workers were not working from 21st June 1962. The judgments were passed by the Authority under the Payment of Wages Act in 1963. When the cases were started and the judgments were not delivered, it is not expected that the workers will give up their service without knowing what their fate would be by those judgments. The evidence shows that the cases were fought before the Authority and, therefore, the parties were keen to see the result. In these circumstances, I cannot accept the contention that the female workers while their cases are pending, give up their services simply because they were getting wages at a lesser rate. However, I have considered the evidence both oral and documentary as well as the circumstances of the case and it has been proved that the female workers were prevented from joining their duties in the mill by the Company and this action of the Company is most unreasonable and unjustified. The reason for the attitude taken by the Company is apparent because these female workers started cases claiming their wages at a higher rate before the Authority under the Payment of Wages Act. The attitude of the Company is no doubt vindictive and the refusal of work and employment to the six female workers before me were cases of victimisation. My attention has been drawn to Ext. A containing terms of settlement arrived at by and between the Company and the West Bengal Flour Mills Mazdoor Congress. This document is not of any importance because I am not to decide the rate of wages of these female workers for the first part of the issues. Supporting the female workers in order to give a go-by into file cases before the Authority for the increase of their wages on the basis of the Award of the Industrial Tribunal but on that account can the company take recourse to vindictive action by refusing employment to these workmen? The only answer, I believe, should be in the negative. The workers wanted to interpret the award of the Industrial Tribunal. The Company had a right to defend it. It appears that the workers failed before the Authority under the Payment of Wages Act. The matter ends there. Everybody has right to take recourse to legal action and in the present case the female workers approached the authority. There was no harm in it, and there was no occasion for the Company to be annoyed and to take any vindictive attitude towards them. However, I find as I have already indicated, that it is a case of victimisation and unfair labour practice, and the Company was unjustified in refusing employment and work to the female workers mentioned in the order of reference, viz., Shrimati Sushila Dasi, Shrimati Sushila Bala Dasi, Shrimati Kiran Bala Dasi, Shrimati Sarala Bala Dasi, Shrimati Bina Dasi and Shrimati Bhagabati Dasi.

On the question of relief to be granted in the present case I should hold that the said workers shall be reinstated by the Company in their former position within a month from the date of publication of this award in the "Calcutta Gazette" and within that period the said workers shall be paid at the rates they were entitled to at the time of refusal of work for the period of non-employment. Exhibit B series should be considered in this connection. The period of non-employment should be treated as in continuity of the service of the workers. In the circumstances of this case I further direct that the Company should pay a cost of this proceeding to the Union representing the workmen and the cost is assessed at Rs. 25 in lump.

Present for the Company: Shri P. K. Sen Gupta and Shri Kalyanmay Ganguly, Advocates, instructed by Shri Bisvanath Mitra, an officer of the Company.

Present for the Union: Shri Amar Prosad Chakravorty, Advocate, instructed by Shri Sunil Gupta General Secretary of the Union.

This dispute between Messrs. Sur Iron & Steel Co (P) Ltd., Convent Road, Entally, Calcutta, and their workmen represented by the Sur Iron & Steel Co Sramik Union, 52/7 Bepin Behari Ganguly Street Calcutta-12, and Sur Iron & Steel Employees Association, 118 Middle Road, Calcutta-14, was referred to this Tribunal under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, by the Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, Order No. 3671-I.R. IR/10L-70/62, dated the 18th August 1962 for adjudication upon the issues mentioned below.

Issues

(1) Whether the lock-out of the factory with effect from 22nd April 1962 is justified?

(2) Whether the closure of the factory from 22nd June 1962 is real and bona fide? Whether the closure is beyond the control of the Management and in the circumstances it is justified?

(3) To what relief, if any, are the workers entitled?

The case of the Union as made out in the written statement, shortly stated, is as follows:

Messrs Sur Iron & Steel Company Private Limited is incorporated as a private limited Company, registered under the Indian Companies Act. It employs more than 500 workmen in its factory at Nos. 8 and 9, Canal Street, Entally, Calcutta, and is engaged in the manufacture of stone crusher, granulator, welding transformers, fire fighting equipments and various other articles of similar nature for over 15 years. It is a prosperous concern earning good profit from the business. A Union of the workmen was formed in January 1962, and it was duly registered under the Indian Trade Unions Act in February 1962. The formation of the Union was made known to the Company, but the Company did not take in good grace the formation of the Union. The Company became very much annoyed by the formation of the Union and began to oppress the workmen in various ways. This fact was brought to the notice of the Labour Commissioner, West Bengal, and the Chief Inspector of Factories, West Bengal. Subsequently, the Company suddenly by a notice dated 18th April 1962 changed the duty hours of the workmen from 19th April 1962 with the ulterior object of harassing the workmen. The Union made a vehiment protest against the change of duty hours of the workmen and demanded restoration of the usual duty hours. Thereafter the workmen reported for duty under protest on 21st April 1962 (Saturday), but found to their utter surprise that the factory was closed. The Union wrote to the management enquiring about the reason of the closure of the factory on Saturday, the 21st April 1962, and a copy of that letter was sent to the Hon'ble Labour Minister, and also copies were sent to the Joint Secretary, Labour Department, the Labour Commissioner and the Chief Inspector of Factories. Thereafter the workmen reported for duty on 23rd April 1962, but to their utter surprise they found a notice dated 22nd April 1962 hung up at the entrance of the factory gate to the effect that a lock-out had been declared in the factory from 22nd April 1962. The Union made a representation to the Labour Commissioner, West Bengal, to take immediate action and for a conciliation proceeding for settlement of the dispute. The Labour Commissioner convened a conciliation proceeding on 25th April 1962, but none on behalf of the Company turned up on that date. Subsequently, the Company participated in the conciliation proceedings which continued for some time, but without any result. The Company made desperate attempts to break the morale of the members of the Union and to crush it by any means, fair or foul but was unsuccessful. The Union wrote to the Hon'ble Labour Minister, the Labour Directorate and the police officials and kept them informed about the day to day situation and the unfair and illegal activities of the Company. Subsequently, by a notice dated the 12th June 1962 which was hung up on the factory gate on the 13th June the Company declared the lifting of the lock-out and directed the workmen to join the factory on and from the 18th June 1962 on the basis of an alleged agreement between the Company and another Union which was not in existence at the time when the lock-out was declared. The workmen assembled at the gate of the factory on the 18th June in accordance with the notification dated the 12th June 1962 and offered to join their duties, but they were not allowed to join by the Company. The Company only allowed a group of workers to enter the factory, and not the entire body of workers. The workmen turned up to join their duties on the next day, but they were also not allowed to enter. On the 20th June a notice was seen hung up on the factory gate to the effect that 37 workmen, who were members of the Union, would not be allowed to enter the factory as some of them had been suspended and some would be allowed to join on tendering apology to the Company. The other workmen who were present were also not allowed to enter the factory except a chosen few. The same thing happened on the 21st June 1962 and on the 22nd June the Company declared a closure of the factory for good on and from 22nd June 1962. The closure of the factory is said to be illegal, unjustified and mala fide. The lock-out was never lifted fully, and the lock-out continued till the date of the unjustified closure of the factory. The Company since then has been manufacturing articles similar in nature which it used to manufacture previous to the lock-out and the subsequent closure of the factory, at different places. There has been, it is alleged, no real closure of the factory, and the illegal lock-out declared in the factory has been given a colour of closure with the ulterior motive of crushing the Union and victimising the members of the Union. It is alleged that, in fact, the lock-out is continuing under the garb of alleged closure, and hence the matter has been referred to this Tribunal for adjudication.

The case of the Company, as set forth in its written statement, may be shortly stated as follows:

The Company was incorporated under the Indian Companies Act as a private limited concern in June 1951, and it was registered in September 1951. It started a factory at the premises No. 8/5 and 9, Canal Street, Calcutta, for manufacturing various articles of different nature for supply to the Government of India and other Companies. The Company, from the very beginning, suffered losses up to the financial year 1958-59. In 1960 the Company obtained some urgent orders from the Government of India through its contractors and more workers had to be employed to cope with the work. This continued for some time, but as there was no general market for the products of the Company, it had to be closed down for circumstances which were beyond the control of the Company. It is denied that the Company earned good profits and was in sound financial position. The Company has also denied the allegations made in paragraphs 5, 6, 7, 9, 10, 12, 14, 15, 16, 18, 21, 23, 24, and 25 of the Union's written statement. It is pleaded that the duty hours of the workmen were changed due to restrictions imposed on the supply of electricity, and this was done with notice to the Chief Inspector of Factories, and no objection was raised by him or by the workmen. The change of duty hours was effected by a notice dated the 18th April 1962 without any protest or objection from the workmen. The Company received a letter on the 19th April 1962 from the Calcutta Electricity Corporation Ltd. whereby it was intimated that every Saturday would be an off day. On receipt of this intimation the Company notified to the workmen on the 20th April 1962 that Saturday, the 21st April 1962, would be a holiday, and Sunday next would be a working day instead. The workmen did not turn up to join their duties on Saturday, the 21st April 1962. The workmen also did not join their duties on the 22nd April 1962 in the morning in spite of repeated verbal requests, and the Company was forced to declare a lock-out in the factory at 9-30 a.m. on the same date, as the workmen illegally refused to join their duties. It is pleaded that as there was illegal and unjustified strike by the workmen on 22nd April 1962, the consequent lock-out was justified. The Company attended the conciliation proceedings which were started at the instance of the Conciliation Officer. But due to unreasonable and unjustified demands made by the Union, no conciliation could be effected. Thereafter, at the instance of the Labour Directorate, the Company arrived at an agreement with one of the Unions which claimed to represent a large number of workmen on the 12th June 1962. Thereafter the lock-out was lifted on the 13th June 1962 and the workmen were directed to join their duties in batches from the 18th June 1962. The Company issued notifications in local newspapers intimating that all workers should join their duties except those whose names have been pasted on the notice board. The workmen wanted to join their duties on the date as notified, but the members of the present Union held out threats of violence and assault to them, and thereby they were deterred from joining their duties. The Company made requests to the Labour Directorate and to the police authorities to give protection to the workmen who were willing to join, but nothing was done, and the situation became such that it was not possible to carry on production and normal running of the factory. The Company thereafter decided to close down the factory for good, on and from 22nd June 1962, and a notice to that effect was hung up at the gate, and it was also published in local newspapers. It is alleged that the lock-out was lifted on and from 13th June 1962 till the date of closure on and from 22nd June 1962 which was forced upon the management and for which the leaders of the Union are to blame themselves. It is denied that the lock-out was illegal or that it was given a colour of closure to crush the Union, or its members and organisers. The Company kept the factory open since 13th June 1962, and had to close it down forever on and from 22nd June 1962 on account of circumstances beyond its control, and it was not possible for them to carry on the manufacturing business. It is denied that the lock-out is still continuing in the garb of closure of the factory, and it is pleaded that the Company has closed down the factory on and from 22nd June 1962, and the closure of the factory is bona fide and real. The Company, it is pleaded, is ready and willing to pay to the workers all benefits to which they are entitled under the law on account of the closure.

Messrs Sur Iron & Steel Company (P) Ltd., a company incorporated under the Indian Companies Act, carried on business in manufacturing and sale of various types of articles, such as stone crushers, granulators, welding transformers and fire fighting equipments, etc. It had its factory at 8/5 and 9, Canal Street, Calcutta, and it employed more than 500 workmen for running the factory. It is a common ground that a lock-out in the factory was declared on 22nd April 1962. The lock-out is sought to be justified by the management on the ground that due to restrictions imposed by the State Government on the use of electricity, Saturday was declared as an off day instead of Sunday which was to be a working day. This change of weekly off day was duly notified to the workmen, but this did not satisfy them. They did not attend the factory on 21st April 1962 which was a Saturday. The workmen came and collected near the factory gate on 22nd April 1962 which was a Sunday, but they did not enter the factory to report for duty although requested, and the management had no other alternative but to declare a lock-out in the factory.

On behalf of the Union the lock-out has bee challenged not only as mala fide and unfair, bu illegal on various grounds. I shall deal with the fac leading to a declaration of lock-out in the factory t come to a decision on issue No. 1 under referenc viz., whether the lock-out of the factory with effec from 22nd April 1962 is justified.

It is not disputed and it cannot be disputed that th Company received a letter from the Calcutta Electri Supply Corporation regarding restrictions imposed o the use of electricity by the State Government, an the evidence of O.P.W. 14, who is one of the Direc tors of the Company, is that pursuant to this lette received from the Calcutta Electricity Corporation i was notified to the workmen that Saturday would b an off day instead of Sunday which would be a work ing day. The original letter has been marked Ext. A and the acknowledgment receipt, Ext. A-1, show that it was received by the Company on 19th Apr 1962. It is further stated by O.P.W. 14 that o receipt of the letter, Ext. A, from the Calcutta Elec tric Supply Corporation, notice was issued to th workmen on 20th April 1962 intimating them tha with effect from 21st April 1962, Saturday, instea of Sunday, would be the off day in the factory unti further orders. The notice in Bengali has been pro duced and marked Ext. D-1, and that in English ha been marked Ext. Q. This notice was circulate amongst the workmen on 20th April 1962, as appear from Ext. Q-1. It is also stated b O.P.W 14 that this notice was circulate amongst the Supervisors of different departments i the factory, and the Labour Officer Shri Bisvanat Mitra also explained to the workmen that the factor would remain closed on Saturday, the 21st Apri and would remain open on Sunday, the 22nd Apri until further orders. The notice, Ext. Q-1 bear several initials which indicate that this was circulate amongst the staff, as stated by O.P.W. 14. The Union has examined P.Ws. 6, 12 and 13 who were previously workmen in the factory of the Company P.W. 6 Bhola Singh has denied that notice was issue to the workmen intimating them that Sunday would be the working day and Saturday would be an off day. The other two workmen, viz., Nos. 12 and 13, have not denied that notice was issued to them regarding the change in the weekly off day in the factory. O.P.W. 11, who is an Assistant in the office of the Company, has stated that on 20th April 1962 a notice was shown to him that Saturday would be an off day in the factory and Sunday would be a working day on account of restrictions imposed on the use of electricity by the State Government under the Indian Electricity Act. This witness has corroborated O.P.W. 14 regarding circulation of the notice amongst the workmen regarding the proposed change in the weekly off day in the factory. It also does not stand to reason that the Company on receipt of the letter, Ext. A, from the Calcutta Electric Supply Corporation would make no move in the matter to circulate the same amongst the workmen without any delay. It is only probable that a notice was circulated amongst the workmen regarding change in the weekly off day as stated by O.P.Ws. 11 and 14 which is also corroborated by the notices, Exts. D-1, Q & Q-1. In the letter, Ext. A, which was received y the Company on 19th April 1962, it is clearly ientioned that with effect from 15th April 1962 ere will be no supply of electricity for running of e factory from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. on Saturdays, and aturdays were to be observed as weekly off days. n view of this letter from the Calcutta Electric upply Corporation imposing restrictions on the use electricity by the State Government under the lectricity Act, it was incumbent on the management observe Saturdays as weekly off days instead of ndays, with effect from the 15th April 1962. The ange in the weekly off days was not a voluntary on the part of the management, but it was forced on them due to the restrictions imposed by the ate Government on the use of electricity in the ate That being so, the Company had no other ternative, but to issue notice to the workmen initiating the change in the weekly off day. On the idence on record I have no hesitation in coming the finding that the notice regarding the proposed ange in the weekly off day was duly circulated mongst the workmen on 20th April 1962.

It is now to be considered whether the workmen mplied with the notice which was circulated mongst them on 20th April 1962 regarding the ange in the weekly off day in the factory and in office of the Company. The Company has duced evidence to prove that the workmen did not end the factory on 21st April 1964 in pursuance the notice which was circulated amongst them on h April 1962, and they collected near the factory on 22nd April 1962 which was a Sunday. did not enter the factory to join their duties in te of repeated requests from the management. The dence of O.P.W. 14 is that the workmen did not nd the factory on 21st April 1962 which was a nday O.P.W. 11 has also stated that he did not nd office on 21st April 1962 as Saturday was lated an off day. It is the evidence of O.P.W. 14 on 22nd April 1962, which was a Sunday, at out 8 a.m. the Labour Officer informed him that e workers had collected outside the factory gate, they did not report for duty. This witness and Labour Officer Shri Bisvanath Mitra came out of factory and tried to persuade the workmen to work They succeeded in persuading some of workmen to join, but the other workmen did not them to join, and gave out that they had ded to go on a strike. O.P.W. 11 has stated that ttended office at about 8 a.m. on 22nd April 1962 nday) and while going to office he saw some kmen collected at different places near the fac- and on enquiry the workmen told him that they ld not attend the factory on Sunday. He has stated that he saw the Labour Officer of the tory and O.P.W. 14 talking to some workmen the factory gate. This witness has substantially borated O.P.W. 14. There was no cross-examion of O.P.Ws. 11 and 14 on this point, and their ence, taken along with some other documentary ence, goes to indicate that the workmen were not ng to work on Sunday, and they did not attend factory on 22nd April 1962 although they cted near the factory gate at different places. It e evidence of O.P.W. 14 that three notices in ession were issued to the workmen asking them in their duties between 8 a.m. and 9 a.m. The es have been marked Exts. C, C-1 and C-2. The men did not join and a lock-out was declared in the factory at 9-30 a.m. on 22nd April 1962 by the notice Ext. C-3. It is also stated by O.P.W. 11 that at about 10-15 a.m. the Labour Officer told him that a lock-out had been declared in the factory, and he left office as asked by the Labour Officer. An intimation about the lock-out was sent to the Office of the Labour Commissioner, Government of West Bengal. On 23rd April 1962 the Union addressed a letter to the Company challenging the bona fides and legality of the lock-out. In this letter there is no mention of the fact that the workmen attended the factory as usual on 21st April 1962 (Saturday) but they did not go to the factory for work on 22nd April 1962 which was a Sunday. All that is stated in this letter is that no notice regarding the change of weekly off day was given before hand, and the workmen did not come to work on 22nd April 1962 (Sunday) which was a closed holiday. I have already found that notices about the proposed change of the weekly off day was duly circulated amongst the workmen on 20th April 1962. None of the workmen examined by the Union has stated that he did not come to the factory on 22nd April 1962 which was a Sunday. It is also significant to note that in the letter, Ext. 6, it is not stated that the workmen attended the factory on 21st April 1962 and the evidence of O.P.W. 14 that no workman attended the factory on 21st April 1962 (Saturday) stands unrebutted. The Company addressed a letter to the Labour Commissioner, Government of West Bengal, on 1st May 1962 in which the circumstances under which the lock-out was declared had been specifically set-forth The letter has been marked Ext. R. It is stated in this letter that the illegal strike resorted to by the workmen resulted in a lock-out being declared in the factory. It is also mentioned in the letter that the notice from the Calcutta Electric Supply Corporation was received in the afternoon of the 20th April 1962, and it was circulated amongst the workmen immediately intimating them that Saturday would be an off day. The date regarding the receipt of the letter from the Calcutta Electric Supply Corporation has been given as 20th April 1962 which is apparently not correct in view of the acknowledgment receipt, Ext. A-1. The fact that the notice about the proposed change in the weekly off day was circulated amongst the workmen on 20th April 1962 is mentioned in this letter, and the facts stated in this letter which led to and resulted in the lock out being declared in the factory on 22nd April 1962 appears to be true in view of the facts and circumstances and the evidence adduced on this point.

It has been contended that the change in the weekly off day from Sunday to Saturday, without any notice under section 9A of the Industrial Disputes Act is illegal, and the workmen concerned were within their rights to ignore the notice which is said to have been circulated amongst them intimating them the change in the weekly off day in the factory. This contention does not appear to be well founded as, in my view, the change of weekly off day from Sunday to Saturday is not, strictly speaking, a change in the condition of service. Moreover, the State Government has power under section 9B of the Act to suspend operation of section 9A of the Act in appropriate cases when it thinks fit to do so. A notification was issued by the State Government in the Labour Department dated the 10th April 1962 by which no notice under section 9A was required to be served in respect of the matters specified in items Nos. 4, 6 and 11 of the fourth schedule of the said Act for a period of 3 months from the date of publication of the notification in the "Calcutta Gazette." In view of this notification, the change in the weekly off day notified to the workmen appears to be quite legal. It is clear from the evidence on record that the workmen on a common understanding struck work on Sunday, the 22nd April 1962, and they could not be persuaded to join their duties. The management had thus no other alternative but to declare a lock-out in the factory on account of refusal by the workmen to work on Sunday which the Company was forced to do in view of the restrictions imposed on the use of electricity in the factory by the State Government. In the circumstances, the lock-out which was declared in the factory on 22nd April 1962 is quite justified. This issue is accordingly disposed of.

This issue involves the question as to the bona fides of the closure of the factory with effect from 22nd June 1962. It is a common ground that the factory has been kept closed since the 22nd June 1962. According to the management, the lock-out was lifted with effect from 13th June 1962 in pursuance of an agreement between the management and the Employees' Association, and normal work was to start from 18th June 1962. Notifications were issued in local newspapers and the workers were asked to join in batches. The workmen, however, did not turn up for work between 13th June 1962 and 18th June 1962. Some workmen attended the factory on 20th June 1962 and did some preparatory works for running the factory, but they were assaulted while they were returning home on 21st June 1962 having stayed in the factory on 20th June 1962. The Company waited in vain for the workers to turn up, and ultimately it decided to close the factory for good as it was found impossible to carry on the manufacturing business, and a notice of closure was also duly published in the local newspapers on 23rd June 1962. The alleged circumstances under which the closure of the factory was declared have been denied by the Union. It is contended that the Company followed a policy of pick and choose and did not allow the workmen to join their duties although they were ready and willing to resume their duties, and the closure of the factory is not real and bona fide. A preliminary objection has been raised on behalf of the Company that the Tribunal has no jurisdiction to entertain and decide issue No. 2 regarding the closure of the factory. It is contended that as the factory has been closed, the industry is to be taken as dead in the eye of law, and no dispute could be raised by the workmen in respect of an industry which has ceased to function. There cannot be any doubt that where the closure of an industry is real and bona fide, the Tribunal has no jurisdiction to entertain and adjudicate upon any dispute raised by its workmen. This view finds support in the decision of Pipraich Sugar Mills Ltd. vs. Pipraich Sugar Mills Mazdoor Union 1957-I L.L.J. 235. The question of jurisdiction depends on the decision as to whether the closure is real and bona fide. The contention of the Union is that the lock-a matter of fact, the alleged closure of the factory not real and bona fide. If it is found that th closure of the factory is real and bona fide, then th Tribunal will have no jurisdiction to decide the issu regarding the closure of the factory. If, on the othe hand, it is found that there has been, in fact, no re closure of the factory, the Tribunal will be fully com petent to record its findings on issue No. 2, as framed in the order of reference. It is, therefore, to be con sidered whether the closure of the factory was made under circumstances beyond the control of the management and whether the closure is real and bona fide. In view of the decision reported in 1962-II L.L.J. 227 there cannot be any dispute with the proposition of law that a closure of an undertaking means the closing down of the business itself, and not merely the place of business. The circumstances under which the factory was closed have been set forth in paragraphs 17, 18, 19, 20 and 21 of the written statement filed by the Company. The case of the Union regarding the alleged closure of the factory has been set forth in paragraphs 17, 18, 19 and 20 of the written statement of the Union. It is a common ground that by a notice dated the 12th June 1962 pasted on the factory gate the lock-out was lifted with effect from 13th June 1962. The notice has been marked Ext. D. By this notice all workmen were directed to join their duties on and from the 18th June 1962 except those against whom proceedings were pending, and whose names would be notified. The lifting of the lock-out was also published in local newspapers, as appears from Exts. G G-2 and G-3. There is no dispute that the lock-out was agreed to be lifted with effect from 13th June 1962 in pursuance to an agreement between the management and the workmen, and the real dispute is with regard to the terms and conditions under which the lock-out was agreed to be lifted. In paragraph 18 of the written statement of the Union it is stated that during the conciliation proceedings which followed the lock-out, the Company on 15th June 1962 agreed to lift the lock-out and allow all the workmen to resume their duties, but none on behalf of the Company turned up to sign the agreement on the next date.

The Company in paragraph 17 of its written statement has stated that an agreement was reached between the Company and the Employees' Union on the 17th June 1962 in terms of which the Company lifted the lock-out and directed the workmen to join their duties in batches between the 13th and the 18th June 1962 except those whose names would be notified in the notice board. It is further stated in paragraph 18 of the written statement that the terms of agreement were drafted by Shri N. C. Kundu Deputy Labour Commissioner, in consultation with the representatives of the Sramik Union, and the Employees' Association, and also the representative of the management. But the representative of the Employees' Union did not turn up to finalise the agreement in view of the fact that a previous agreement had been arrived at between the management and this Union on 12th June 1962. The Company has produced the terms of agreement which are said to have been reached between the management and both the Unions, and put into writing by Shri N. C. Kundu. This has been marked Ext. M. The agreeanagement and Sur Iron & Steel Employees' Union s been produced and marked Ext. T. This agree- t cannot be held as binding on the Union in the sent dispute, as it was not a party to the agree- The other agreement which is said to have reached between the management and the ployees' Association, and the Sur Iron & Steel amik Union and which has been marked Ext. M, s been disputed. It is said that though there was agreement between the Sramik Union and the mpany, at the instance of the then Assistant bour Commissioner, Shri N. C. Kundu, the terms that agreement were not reduced to writing in Ext. as alleged by the Company. It is admitted on th hands that the lock-out was agreed to be lifted pursuance of an agreement between the present nion and the Management, and it is pleaded that e terms embodied in the draft agreement, Ext. M, re not recorded at the time of the agreement. The ... therefore, resolves into this—whether the ms embodied in the draft agreement, Ext. M, were terms which were agreed upon by the parties for ... of the lock-out. The evidence of Shri itta Bose, P.W. 11, is that in a meeting held on ... 1962 in the office of the then Assistant bour Commissioner, Shri N. C. Kundu, the lock- ... s agreed to be lifted on certain terms, and it is further agreed that the agreement would be ned by all the parties concerned on the next day. has further stated that the Secretary of the Union Sunil Gupta and he came to the office of Shri ndu on the following day, but none came on alf of the Company. He has further denied that draft of the terms agreed upon by the parties s prepared though he has admitted all the terms the draft agreement, Ext. M, exc the terms con- ed in paragraph 3, were agreed upon by the ties P.W. 5 Shri Sunil Gupta, General Secretary the Union, has admitted that an agreement between Union and the Company was reached and a draft the terms of agreement was made. In view of his dence, there cannot be any doubt that the terms which the lock-out was agreed to be lifted in pur- ance of the agreement, were reduced to writing. d the evidence of P.W. 11 Shri Chitta Bose that draft of the terms agreed upon by the parties was pared does not appear to be true. As regards the ft agreement, Ext. M, it does not bear any date or y signature It is, however, admitted by Chitta se, P.W. 11, that all the terms recorded in the ft agreement, Ext. M, except that in paragraph 3, re agreed upon for the lifting of the lock-out. P.W. 8, Shri Ajit Kumar Saha, who is an Assistant the office of the Labour Commissioner, has proved draft agreement, Ext. M, to be in the handwriting Shri N. C. Kundu. The draft agreement, Ext. M, pears to have been prepared by Shri N. C. Kundu, d there is no reason to hold that the terms con- ned in paragraph 3 of the agreement were put by ri N. C. Kundu, though it was not agreed upon the parties. This document, however, is not ally enforceable as a tripartite agreement as it was signed by the parties concerned as token of ceptance of the terms contained therein. The fact, wever, remains that the lock-out was lifted with ect from the 13th June 1962, and the notice dated th June 1962 regarding the lifting of the lock-out th effect from 13th June 1962 was published in the al newspapers (vide Exts. G, G-2 & G-3). By notice, Ext. D, all the workmen were directed to join their duties on and from 18th June 1962 except those against whom proceedings were pending and whose names would be notified. The Company issued a notice dated 13th June 1962, and two notices on 15th June 1962, directing some workmen to join their duties on the dates mentioned in the notice. Two other notices were also issued on the 17th June 1962, and by the notice Ext. 11, eleven persons named in the notice were suspended with effect from 18th June 1962, and the notice, Ext. 12, contained the names of 26 persons who were asked to tender apology before they would be allowed to resume their duties with effect from 18th June 1962. The issue of these two notices led to the whole trouble and the subsequent events that followed. It is now to be seen whether the management was compelled to close down the factory as a result of the circumstances beyond their control. In other words, whether it was not possible for the management to run the factory under the circumstances which were created following the lifting of the lock-out with effect from 13th June 1962.

The evidence of O.P.W. 14 Shri Priyadarshan Sur, one of the Directors of the Company, is that after the lock-out was lifted on 13th June 1962 no workman attended the factory up to the 19th June 1962. He has further stated as follows: "On 20th June 1962 about 40 workmen attended the factory and they worked under police protection. Some of the workmen, while returning home from work, were assaulted and had to be admitted in hospital. About 30 workers attended the factory on 21st June 1962, and they remained inside the factory during the night as there was some row outside the factory. None of the workmen turned up on 22nd June 1962. A meeting of the Directors was held on 22nd June 1962 and it was decided that the factory should be closed. The factory was actually closed from 22nd June 1962 A notice of closure was hung up on the gate of the factory, and copies of the same were sent to different authorities, and it was also published in some local newspapers". No cross-examination was directed on this part of his evidence. It is in evidence that a police case was started over an incident said to have taken place on 20th June 1962 in which some workmen figured as accused. That case is still pending. There cannot be any doubt that there was an occurrence on 20th June 1962. It is stated by O.P.W 11 Shri Kshitish Chandra Biswas that no workman attended the factory prior to 20th June 1962 when 40 or 45 workmen attended the factory It thus appears from the evidence of O.P.W. 14 and this witness that no workman turned up for work after the lock-out was lifted on 13th June 1962, and there was an incident on 20th June 1962 when some workmen were returning home after the day's work. As against this evidence, there is the evidence of P.W. 6 Shri Bhola Singh, who is an accused in the police case. His evidence is that after the lock-out was lifted, he and other workmen went to the factory gate every day, but they did not get any chance for work as the gate of the factory was kept closed till 19th June 1962. P.W. 5 Shri Sunil Gupta, the General Secretary of the Union, has stated that he did not inform anyone that the workmen, although they were willing to join, were not allowed to join on 18th June 1962. If really the workmen were not allowed to join on 18th June 1962, it can reasonably be expected that this fact would be brought to the notice of the authorities by P.W. 5. The fact that no complaint was made to any quarter that the workmen were not allowed to join, lends support to the evidence of O.P.W. 14 that no workman attended the factory prior to 20th June 1962. It is further stated by P.W. 5 that the factory gate was closed on 20th June 1962 as the other workmen insisted that the order of suspension of some of the workers should be withdrawn. It is clear from his evidence that the management was not willing to allow some workmen who were placed under suspension, pending enquiry, to join their duties, and the workmen insisted that the suspension order should be withdrawn and all the workmen should be allowed to join, and over this issue a situation was created which led the management to declare a closure of the factory with effect from 22nd June 1962. If the workmen were aggrieved that some workmen had been wrongly suspended, that matter could have been taken up before the proper authority for his decision, but that could not be made a ground by the workmen for not joining their duties unless the order of suspension of some of the workmen was withdrawn. The stand taken up by the workmen was not proper, and it amounted to a threat held out to the management. As the lock-out was lifted in pursuance of negotiations, there was nothing to prevent the workmen from joining their duties, and it was not open to them to take up the case of some of the suspended workmen and make it a ground for not joining their duties. As the workmen were bent upon the withdrawal of the suspension order on some of the workmen, and an incident took place on 20th June 1962, the management had no other alternative but to declare a closure of the factory in order to prevent something worse happening. In this view of the matter, it must be held that the management was forced to declare a closure of the factory under circumstances beyond their control, and the closure is accordingly justified.

The next point that arises for consideration is whether the closure is real and bona fide, or that the lock-out is continuing in the garb of a closure, as suggested on behalf of the Union. The evidence of O.P.W. 14 is that the Company is not carrying on any manufacturing business since the closure of the Company's factory on 22nd June 1962. This fact has not been challenged in cross-examination, and it is also not the case of the Union that the Company is manufacturing articles which it used to manufacture at its factory before the closure of the Factory. P.W. 5 Shri Sunil Gupta, has admitted that the Company is not manufacturing articles which it used to manufacture at its factory previously. It has been urged on behalf of the Union that the Company is even now supplying various articles, including stone crushers, and fire fighting equipments, which it used to manufacture at its factory before its closure, to its customers by manufacturing those articles in some other factories at different places which are under the control and management of the Company. It is not disputed that the Company is still supplying manufactured articles which it used to supply to its different customers before the factory was closed. It is stated by O.P.W. 14 that the Company is still supplying various articles which were previously manufactured by it, to Messrs. William Jacks & Co. Ltd. and Indian Oxygen Ltd. by getting those articles manufactured from other factories, viz., Sur Enamel and Stamping Works Ltd., Lilooah Engineering Engineering Agencies and other concerns. He further stated that the Company also gets spare parts manufactured from various factories, but has denied that these Companies have got connection with Sur Iron & Steel (P) Company Limited, or that they are financed by the Company, or by the Directors personally. The evidence of O.P.W. 9, who is in-charge of the factory of Sur Enamel & Stamping Works, 21 Seal Lane, is that jobs for Sur Iron & Steel Company (P) Ltd. are being done in their factory. He has admitted that parts of stone crushers for Sur Iron & Steel Co. (P) Ltd. are manufactured at their factory. But he has denied the fact that the Company has been manufacturing parts of stone crushers in their factory. Evidence has been led by the Union to prove that the Company has been manufacturing some articles, which it used to manufacture in its factory, at different places. The evidence of P.W. 5 is that the Company has set up factories, one at 37 G. T. Road, Belur, Howrah, and another at 3 Chanditolla, Behala, and has been manufacturing articles in these two factories. He has further stated that the Company has been manufacturing welding transformer coils at 37 Ananda Palit Road, and also at Seal Lane, and he has got personal knowledge about it. P.W. 6 Shri Bhola Singh has also stated that the Company has been manufacturing stone crushers and welding machines at Behala and Belur. He has further admitted in cross-examination that he stated that the articles are manufactured by the Company at other places by looking at the signs on the articles. It is in evidence that the articles manufactured by the Company previous to the closure of the factory bore the trade marks "SISCO" and "SURARC", and it is quite possible that the articles which the Company is supplying to its customers by getting them manufactured from other places will bear the same trade marks. The particular trade marks appearing on the articles which are now being supplied by the Company to its different customers does not go to show that these articles are manufactured by the Company. It has been urged that the Company obtained import license in 1963 for importing copper, and this fact clearly indicates that the Company is manufacturing articles which they are now supplying to their customers at other places. O.P.W. 14 has admitted that in 1963 one license for importing copper was obtained by the Company and it was an actual users license. His evidence at best goes to show that a license for importing copper was obtained by the Company. But it is not clear when this application for license was made, nor when the goods imported were actually received by the Company. The Company might have utilised the materials imported against the permit issued to it in the manufacture of articles which it is still now supplying to its customers. If this is a contravention of the Import Control Order, the Company can be held liable for breach of any provision of that order. There is however no satisfactory and sufficient evidence to show that the Company is manufacturing some articles which it used to manufacture previous to the closure of the factory, in different factories which have been set up by them. The Union could have produced documentary evidence to show that the factories at 378 G. T. Road, Belur, Howrah, and 3/1 Chanditolla, Behala, are owned by the Company. But nothing has been done to prove that. It cannot, therefore, be held, on the evidence on record, it the closure of the factory of the Company is not il or bona fide.

I accordingly hold on the materials on record that e closure of Messrs. Sur Iron & Steel Company ivate Limited was on account of unavoidable 'cumstances beyond the control of the management, id the closure was a bona fide one and for valid asons. I am not prepared to believe that the sure was mala fide and the Company closed down manufacturing business with a view to crush the nion and to victimise its workers. Evidence that is been adduced on behalf of the Union is not fficient enough to come to such a finding. The rus is on the Union to prove this by proper evidence. at the evidence as adduced on behalf of the Union nnot be regarded as sufficient and satisfactory.

In view of my finding that the closure of the factory bona fide and real, the preliminary objection ised on behalf of the management that this Tribu- l has no jurisdiction to adjudicate upon the issues ferred to in the order of reference inasmuch as the spute in such a case is not an industrial dispute ust prevail It is well settled that where a business is been closed, and it is found that the closure is al and bona fide, any dispute arising with reference ereto will fall outside the perview of the Industrial sputes Act. In the present case the alleged dispute at has been referred to this Tribunal for adjudica- n arose when the industry was closed and not in istence or, in other words, when it was a dead dustry This view finds support in the decision of e Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Pipraich gar Mills Ltd. vs. Pipraich Sugar Mills Mazdoor nion (Reported in 1957 Vol. I, L.L.J. 235). It ust therefore be held, in view of this decision, that e present dispute is not an industrial dispute as ntemplated under the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947.

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the provisions of section 17 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), the Governor is pleased hereby to publish the said award as shown in the annexure hereto.

ANNEXURE

In the matter of an industrial dispute between Messrs. Hindusthan Lever Ltd., 63 Garden Reach Road, Calcutta-24, and their workmen represented by the Thika Nagda Majdoor Sabha, J535, Paharpur Road, Calcutta-24. Government Order No. 878-I.R., dated 6th March 1963.) (VIII. 36/63).

BEFORE THE FOURTH INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL

Present:

Shri R. BHATTACHARYA, Judge, Fourth Industrial Tribunal.

For the Company: Shri C. Basu and Shri S. Roy Chowdhury.

For Thika Nagda Mazdoor Sabha and for Lever Mazdoor Sabha: Shri N. Das Gupta.

For Hindusthan Lever Mazdoor Sabha: Shri A. C. Majumder.

For Extra Casual Labour Pool: Shri S. B. Kar.

By the Labour Department Order No. 878-I.R./IR/11L-158/62, dated 6th March 1963, the Government of West Bengal has sent this reference to this Tribunal for adjudication. The present dispute is between Messrs. Hindusthan Lever Ltd. (hereinafter described as the Company), 63 Garden Reach Road, Calcutta-24, and their workmen represented by the Thika Nagda Mazdoor Sabha (hereinafter described as Thika Mazdoor Sabha), J535 Paharpur Road, Calcutta-24. The issues framed for adjudication are as follows:

1. Is the Company justified in maintaining the labour pool for casual workmen? If so, what should be extent of the labour force of the pool?
2. To what relief, if any, are the casual workmen of the labour pool entitled for the days of non-employment?

After due notices both the parties appeared and submitted written statements. During the pendency of the proceedings some other Unions, namely, Hindusthan Lever Mazdoor Sabha (hereinafter described as the Sabha), and Lever Mazdoor Sabha (hereinafter referred to as Lever Sabha), applied for being added to this proceeding on the allegation that they were the proper parties to represent the workmen concerned in this case. Three other persons, viz., Abass, Golam Rabbani and Idris, were allowed to be added as party and be heard representing the casual labourers of the labour pool. All the parties filed their written statements in support of their cases.

In short, the case of the Thika Mazdoor Sabha is that the Company is a very flourishing one. Although the Sabha is an all-India organisation of the workmen of the Company, its influence upon the workmen has now waned miserably and a number of rival Trade Unions have been organised in different centres of the Company. In the Garden Reach Factory with which we are concerned, there is a rival Union, namely, Lever Sabha. The Sabha, however, is recognised by the Company. In 1959 a settlement was recorded between the Sabha and the Company and, according to that agreement, 101 workers would be recruited to the permanent staff of the factory out of the casual labour force and in addition a pool of casual workers would be formed consisting of 200 persons. According to the agreement the members of this pool would be given casual work at the factory except in the cases of emergency, according to the principles of rotation and as far as possible work would be equally distributed amongst them. The grievance of the Thika Mazdoor Sabha is that the Company has not honoured the agreement and unlawfully and improperly set up the second casual pool consisting of several other casual labourers and that the Company is allotting works to these casual labourers of second pool without giving any preference to those of the first pool. The action of the Company has been characterised as unjust. The allegation of the Thika Mazdoor Sabha is that the Company is not giving continuous work exclusively to the men of the first labour pool so that they may not be able to get works for 240 days or more in a year to claim certain special benefits and permanency. In order to avoid these claims of the members of the first labour pool the Company is giving works to the labourers of the second pool quite malaciously. This Union wants to say that there is no justification for starting this second labour pool and for maintaining the first labour pool also on the ground that by this time the Company should have absorbed all the members of the original labour pool in its permanent cadre along with the increase of work and production of the Company. Had those men been supplied with sufficient work according to the agreement, they would have been made permanent by this time. In the prayer portion of the written statement the Thika Mazdoor Sabha has prayed for a direction upon the Company to abolish the first labour pool by absorption of all its members in its permanent labour strength, for making full payment of wages to these workmen of the first labour pool for the period of non-employment starting with the 1st of April 1960 and for such other benefits, namely, leave, annual increment, bonus, Provident Fund, etc.

The case of the Sabha, in short, is that it is the recognised Union of the Company and, therefore, the claim of any other Union should not be paid heed to. This Union is always safeguarding the interest the employees of the Company. This Union fou with the Company and in the end on account of endeavour 101 casual workers were made perman and the original labour pool consisting of 200 wo men was formed with effect from 1st April 19 There were subsequently several joint consultati between the Sabha and the Company, and owing the need of more casual workers required by Company an extra pool for casual labourers formed subsequently. The members of the sec pool or extra pool were selected after due test merits. According to the Sabha, the Thika Mazd Sabha has no right to appear in this proceeding a it has also submitted that the present dispute is an industrial dispute. It has also been stated t Shri Narayan Das Gupta has started the agitati through the Thika Mazdoor Sabha illegally and abuse of processes. The actions of Shri Das Gup according to the Sabha as submitted during t argument, were characterised as unwholesome a despotic. On the whole, the case of the Sabha that the creation of the second labour pool w justified and the maintenance of the labour pool f casual workers has been supported. It has be stated, however, that the procedure as to how t pools of the labourers should be utilised should left to be determined by the joint consultatio between the Sabha and the Company. The Sabh wants that the case of Shri Das Gupta on behalf the Thika Mazdoor Sabha should be rejected.

The Lever Sabha has filed the written statemer through Shri Das Gupta who is its President. rather supports the statements of the case of Thik Mazdoor Sabha. Its case is that after agitation b the workmen the Company absorbed 101 casu labourers in its permanent strength and created labour pool of selected 200 workmen, and the Com pany undertook to employ labourers from this poo alone for casual recruitment. It has been stated b the Lever Sabha that according to the terms an conditions of the service the members of this labou pool were alone to be employed so long as worl was available. The Company, however, violated these terms and it did not employ all the members of the labour pool systemetically and, as a result thereof, they remained idle at times. This union has prayed for full wages and other benefits to those members of the labour pool who were kept idle by the Company up to this time. It has also claimed that the strength of the labour pool which were originally created by the company should be limited to 140 members.

The three persons representing the extra casual labour pool also filed a written statement through their lawyer Shri S. B. Kar. These persons, as stated by them, represent a group of workmen employed as casual labourers. A labour pool was started with 200 workers with effect from 1st April 1960 to ensure regular work and facilitate recruitment and selection of casuals. Subsequently, there was increase in production and absenteeism along with the reduction in the strength of the original labour pool. The Company was, therefore, compelled to employ casual labourers from outside the pool to meet its needs. Consequently, to meet those needs the company formed another labour pool commonly known as "extra casual pool" according to the merits. These representatives have challenged the status of the Thika Mazdoor Sabha to represent the casual labourers. The members of the extra casual labour pool should not be deprived of their means of livelihood and opportunity for employment. They have got the same right and previleges as enjoyed by the members of the original labour pool. All the casual labourers should be treated alike. The representatives have stated that in view of the increase in the demand of the Company's casual labour requirement, both the pools would be amalgamated and enlarged into a bigger one to ensure fair opportunity to all the members of the pools. It is claimed that the present labour pool should not be abolished and that the members of the extra casual labour pool should be equally provided with employment.

The Company's case is that the employees of the Company are not concerned with the dispute and that the union supporting the cause of the casual labourers is not a Union of the Company's workmen. The present dispute, according to the Company, is not an industrial dispute. The Company has denied the material allegations made by the Thika Mazdoor Sabha. It is admitted that over the demands made by the Sabha, the recognised Union of the Company, a discussion took place between the parties and ultimately an agreement was arrived at on 5th October 1959. It is also admitted that 101 casual labourers were made permanent and at the same time in order to ensure regular work and facilitate recruitment and selection of casuals a pool of casual workers was formed and made effective from 1st April 1960. Later on, there was temporary increase in production and absenteeism, and the Company's casual labour requirement exceeded 200 and the Company was compelled to employ casuals outside the pool according to its need. A second pool was therefore formed out of casuals who had been working with the Company off and on. With the existence of two pools the Company thought it necessary and fair to distribute employment and opportunity to members of both the pools. The Company did not recognise the Thika Mazdoor Sabha. The Company has denied that sufficient work was available to keep all members of the casual pool employed without any break. The Company also submits that it is not incumbent on the Company to keep any person in employment merely to enable him to claim any especial previlege. The Company has denied that it has any selfish motive or that the casual workers suffer irreparable loss. The submission of the Company, in short, is that the claim of Thika Mazdoor Sabha should be turned down, that no case had been made out to prove industrial dispute and that the casual labourers can get no relief in this case.

Shri Kar, the learned lawyer appearing for the alleged representatives, three in number, on behalf of the extra casual labourers, has submitted that the second pool of casual labourers was necessary and that its formation was justified. On this ground it has been submitted that the extra casual pool should be maintained, otherwise, the members thereof would be left unemployed. On behalf of the Sabha Shri Majumder, learned Advocate attacked Shri Narayan Das Gupta appearing on behalf of Thika Mazdoor Sabha and Lever Sabha on the allegations that he is a self-made leader and has formed, for nothing, his own organisation without any support from the workmen of the Company. It is not necessary to give any detail about the allegations made against Shri Das Gupta but suffice it to say that there is no material evidence before me in support of these allegations. The fact is that Shri Das Gupta has been able to lead Thika Mazdoor Sabha and Lever Sabha and he may be the most outstanding figure in the said two Unions. This does not, however, mean that the two Unions have no existence of their own or that they were improperly constituted. The constitutions of the unions are before me. There is nothing to attack him.

I should, however, consider the relevant allegations raised before me for proper and fair decision. It has been first contended that the Thika Mazdoor Sabha does not represent the casual labourers of the Company. P.W. 1 is the Secretary of the Thika Mazdoor Sabha and the Lever Sabha. P.W. 2, the Vice-President of the Sabha, produced a petition marked Ext. 19. This is the petition signed by a large number of persons alleged to be casual workers stating that they belong to the two labour pools and that they do not belong to the Thika Nagda Mazdoor Sabha. P.W. 2 has stated that some members of the extra casual pool and the casual pool handed over this petition but he does not know the names. Similarly he has stated that he does not know the names of other workers who handed over to him another petition marked Ext. 19(a). Similarly he mentioned Ext. 19(b). I place no importance to the petitions. I cannot say that they are genuine petitions. P.W. 2 though appears on behalf of the Sabha in this case, it appears from his evidence that he had occasions to attend the joint conference between the Union and the Company and on some occasions at least he represented the Company in a joint conference. It is no wonder to suggest that this witness is interested in the affairs of the Company and he has inclination towards it. He cannot identify the signatures and thumb impressions appearing in Exts. 19, 19(a) and 19(b). It is to be noted in this connection that no witness has been examined on behalf of the alleged representatives of the extra casual labourers. None of the said representatives have been examined. There is no evidence to prove that the three persons appearing in this case as the representatives of the extra casual labourers are really representatives of those persons. No labourer has come forward to say that the Thika Mazdoor Sabha does not represent the casual labourers. Exhibit 11 is the letter, dated 15th November 1960, written by the President, Thika Mazdoor Sabha, to the Manager of the Company. It says that the casual workmen, particularly of the first labour pool, were members of the Thika Mazdoor Sabha. I am, however, satisfied in the present case that the Thika Mazdoor Sabha has as its members a substantial portion of the labour force employed by the Company as casual labourers and as competent to represent them in these proceedings. In this connection Ext. 18 series may be considered. I do not find any material worth the name to prove that the three persons appearing in this case as representatives has any locus standi to represent the casual labourers of the Company.

The next question that was raised before me was whether Lever Sabha has any interest in the present dispute or whether they have any locus standi to represent the workmen of the Company. Exhibit 22 is the letter written by the Company to the President of the Lever Sabha. In this letter it has been stated that the Lever Sabha claimed to have 771 members on its roll and would like to be recognised by the Company. In this letter the Company does not challenge the statement that the Lever Sabha had as many as 771 workmen of the Company as members. The Company, however, intended to move the Government to ascertain the relevant membership of the two Unions over the question of recognition. The Vice-President of the Sabha though examined in this case, does not assert during the evidence that the Lever Sabha does not posses as member any workman of the Company. From the facts and circumstances I have no manner of doubt that Lever Sabha has on its roll an appreciable number of workmen of the Company as members. However, I allowed several parties to be added in this proceeding so that all sections of the workmen may be represented before me and may have sufficient opportunities to place their grievance. I added those parties for coming to a fair and just decision. I find, therefore, as indicated above, that the Lever Sabha is entitled to raise an industrial dispute regarding the workmen of the Company.

The next point urged before me is an important one. It has been submitted from the side of the Company and the Sabha that the present dispute being related to the casual workers, there cannot be an industrial dispute in this proceeding because casual labourers are not "workman" according to the provisions of the Industrial Disputes Act and they cannot raise any industrial dispute.

There are two branches of argument. The first is that the casual workers are not workmen according to the definition of the Industrial Disputes Act and therefore the present reference relating to the grievances of the casual labourers cannot be an industrial dispute. The second branch of argument is that the Thika Mazdoor Sabha being a Union of casual labourers has no locus standi to raise or support the present dispute. I shall first deal with the first line of argument. In this connection the decision of the Kerala High Court reported in the West Bengal Labour Gazette of May 1962 at page 485 may be considered as very helpful. The case was between the Travancore Rubber Works Employees' Union and Industrial Tribunal, Trivandrum, and others. In this case the question arose whether the casual employees would be considered to be workmen. Several decisions of the Supreme Court were considered. In the case before me, admittedly, there is a dispute over casual labourers engaged by the Company from time to time. This dispute is between the employers and the casual labourers occasionally employed by the Company as workmen. The dispute is again amongst several unions connected with the Company. The evidence also shows that the dispute or difference is connected with employment and non-employment of some casual labourers registered in a pool who are occasionally employed by the Company in casual vacancies. I am satisfied that the dispute relates to the condition of labour of a person connected with the works of the Company. The above facts are essential to constitute an industrial dispute. The admitted facts in this case are that the company daily recruits a large number of casual labourers in casual vacancies and naturally in the daily routine of works of the Company a large number of casual labourers are engaged as workmen. If, therefore, any dispute is raised regarding the employment or non-employment of the casu labourers working as workmen or regarding th service conditions, certainly that dispute become industrial dispute, and the matter may be support by the workmen. There is community of inter amongst the workers. In this view of the matt I think, the present dispute over the recruitment the casual labourers must be deemed to be an indu trial dispute.

The next question is whether the Thika Mazdo Sabha can represent the casual labourers in this cas I have already indicated that a large number casual laoburers work as workmen under the Com pany every day and it may be that they work in ti casual vacancies but they should be regarded workmen so long as they are employed by the Com pany even temporarily. The evidence shows th the Thika Mazdoor Sabha has as its members a appreciable number of such casual workers. Whe the Government has referred the dispute to the Tribunal, several Unions having substantial numbe of workmen, if any, may be entitled to be added i this proceeding either to support or to oppose an claim of the workmen. In the present case th Lever Sabha having appreciable number of workme has supported, practically speaking, the claims o Thika Mazdoor Sabha. Of course, the Sabha and the Company are opposed to the claim of these tw Unions. For fair and just decision it is necessary that all the parties appearing before me should b heard and I have heard them. I think, therefore, that the Thika Mazdoor Sabha and the Lever Sabha have right to be heard in support of their contentions and they are entitled to support their own claims.

The Thika Mazdoor Sabha and the Lever Sabha submit that the Company, according to the agreement between the workmen and itself, created a labour pool in 1960, and the said pool is commonly known as "casual labour pool." The second pool is known as "extra casual labour pool." It is contended that according to the agreement and promise made by the Company, it was to provide casual employment to the members of the casual labour pool in rotation so long as members of the said pool are available and that if no labour force is available from the casual labour pool, in that case alone the Company is to recruit casual labourers from outside the casual labour pool. The grievance of these two Unions is that the Company knows that if the members of the casual labour pool are alone recruited according to the agreement, they will get work for 240 days and over in a year and they will thus acquire certain privileges. In order to deprive them of such privileges, viz., permanency, Proficient Fund, etc., the company set up in collusion with the Sabha another pool, viz., extra casual labour pool and it favours the said pool by recruiting labourers from it. On account of the recruitment from the extra casual labour pool, the members of the casual labour pool are not getting sufficient work to complete 240 days in a year and they are sitting idle thereby. It is submitted that on account of these mala fide tactics of the Company the members of the casual labour pool have been prevented from earning throughout the year and, as a result thereof, they are suffering financial loss. It has also been urged that on account of the conduct of the Company they have been deprived of the privileges which they could have got, had they been allowed to work for 240 days in year. The claims of the Thika Mazdoor Sabha and the Lever Sabha are that the members of the casual labour pool should be permanent, that they should be given compensation in the form of back wages for the days of non-employment since the date of creation of the pool and that the Company should be directed to recruit the members of the casual labour pool alone to fill up the casual vacancies and not to recruit any other labourers outside, not from the extra casual labour pool even. The Company, the Sabha and Shri Kar on behalf of the other three casual labourers appearing in this case have opposed the contention raised from the side of the Thika Mazdoor Sabha and the Lever Sabha. Their cases had been already stated earlier. In short, it has been submitted that with the increase of production and casual vacancies, the Company after the creation of casual labour pool thought it necessary to create an extra casual labour pool to meet the requirement of the Company, and the members of the extra casual labour pool were recruited according to the merits and in the same way as was done in the case of casual labour pool. For the best interest of the casual labourers as a whole and particularly of wheels, who were not enlisted for the casual labour pool, extra casual labour pool was created so that all casual labourers would be fairly treated with equality to give them similar opportunity. It has been submitted in this connection that the management is entitled to exercise its discretion in the matter of recruitment of casual workmen for its best efficiency and that the Company should not be directed by the workmen as to how recruitment should be made. It is also submitted that the original casual labour pool was started by the Company in consultation with the Sabha, the recognised representative of the workmen and similarly extra casual labour pool was created in consultation with that very Sabha, the representative of the labour force of the Company, and that there cannot be any grievance on the part of the workmen in this respect.

Shri Narayan Das Gupta for the Thika Mazdoor Sabha and the Lever Mazdoor Sabha has relied upon Ext. M, the memorandum of agreement, dated 5th October 1959, in support of his contention. This agreement was entered into between the Company and the Sabha on behalf of the workmen. Term no. 13 of the agreement, at page 3 of Ext. M, relates to casual labour. Under this head it is stated that persons employed on casual basis on jobs of a permanent nature should be taken at permanent pay roll of the Company as per Item No. 10 of the Annexure to the agreement. Item No. 10 of the Annexure speaks about the permanency of 101 persons out of the total number of casual workmen. The decision as to the selection of the permanent hands was left to the hands of the Factory Manager after consulting the Sabha's representatives. Item no. 13 of the agreement refers to the resolution under cover of Sabha's letters, dated 5th December 1958 and 7th February 1958.

Along with the agreement, Ext. M, two other documents, namely, Exts. K and L, the minutes of the joint conference between the Sabha and the Company in connection with casual labourers should be considered. Besides, these documents, there are other minutes of joint conferences between the Sabha and the Company, some of them are Exts. A, B, C and G. Shri Narayan Das Gupta has also relied upon the decision of the Company regarding the recruitment for casual labour pool referred to in paragraph 8 of the written statement filed by Thika Mazdoor Sabha. It is clear from the evidence that the Sabha representing the workmen negotiated with the Company regarding the recruitment of casual workmen and the Company started the casual labour pool for the interest of both the Company and the casual labourers. It was originally decided that the first casual labour pool would consist 200 persons and casual workers would be recruited from the said pool, strictly in rotation and as far as possible work would be distributed to the members of the pool equally during a year. It was also decided that no other individual would obtain casual work in the factory except in the case of emergency. There was no term that the Company would be compelled to make the members of the pool permanent. There was no stipulation that during the period of non-employment of the members of the casual pool any allowance or remuneration would be paid by the Company. The evidence further shows that subsequently there was increase in the number of absentees and requirement of casual labourers. In the meantime, of course, the Thika Mazdoor Sabha or some other Union came into existence and did not agree with the decision of the Sabha which has been all along remaining the recognised Union. There is no evidence also that the Sabha is not the representative body of the majority workers of the Company. It is clear from the facts of the case that the company occasionally consulting the Sabha as the representative of the workmen before coming to any decision regarding the labour policy or changing or amending the previous decision. In the present case in order to meet the requirement of the Company, the Company decided to start another labour pool, viz., extra casual labour pool, after consultation with the Sabha. The creation of the second pool afforded opportunity to other casual labourers who were not included in the first labour pool. The decision of the Company in this respect was supported by the Sabha. It is true that by the creation of the second labour pool the work of the members of the first labour pool has been affected. But the question is whether the creation of the second labour pool is unreasonable or unjustified. The Company at first created the original labour pool after consultation with the Sabha. Again extra casual labour pool has been created and the same has also been approved by the same Sabha. In these circumstances, it cannot be stated that the Company acted illegally. The agreement had been amended so to say and the parties were the same in the matter of the amendment. The next question is whether the creation of the second pool is malacious or unjustified. It appears that there was an increase in the demand of casual labourers and the strength of the first labour pool also decreased to some extent for several reasons. It is stated that at present the strength is 140. But there is no convincing material before me to ascertain the actual strength of first labour pool. By the creation of the extra casual labour pool, besides the members of the casual pool, some others who were excluded from the first labour pool have been given opportunity to earn some livelihood. Of course, on account of this, the monopoly of the first labour pool has gone but this is not unfair. We are concerned with the best interest of the major portions of the labour force. Moreover, the extra casual labour pool has been created with the consent of the Sabha, the recognised Union at the instance of which the first labour pool was created. The very body which desired for the creation of the labour pool now wants the extra casual labour pool and the decision has been made accordingly, and it is no doubt for the better interest of a large number of labour force. I do not find anything which may suggest that the creation of the extra casual labour pool is bad or malacious.

It has been urged by Shri Das Gupta that the decisions referred to in paragraph 8 of the written statement of the Thika Mazdoor Sabha are the terms and conditions of service. I am sorry, I cannot accept this contention. The terms of creation of a pool for casual labourers cannot be called terms of service or service conditions because the casual labourers enlisted in a register for badli or casual employment in future does not mean that those persons are appointed in the service of the Company as workmen. In this connection the decision of the Labour Appellate Tribunal of India in the case of Nellimarla Jute Mills Company Ltd. and another vs. Their workmen may be referred to. This case has been reported in 1953, L.L.J. Vol. II, p. 512. Similarly, the principles laid down by the Punjab High Court in the case of Sukhjit Starch & Chemicals Ltd. vs. The State of Punjab and others reported in 1962, L.L.J. Vol. II, at page 269, are very helpful. The casual labourers registered in the labour pool cannot be called workmen simply because their names have been registered for future employment if occasion arises. They may be workmen when actually employed. These men are workmen during the period they are employed. When they remain idle, they cannot be called workmen employed in the service of the Company, and they cannot get any advantage of the service. In the present case the casual labourers are not seasonal worker. They are not bound to work for the Company whenever they are called upon. They may or may not accept employment when it is offered to them by the Company. Similarly there is no term in any agreement that the Company will be bound to make payment to any of the casual labourer during the period of non-employment. Members of the Labour Pool are simply casual labourers and nothing else. The terms regarding the labour pool cannot be called service conditions as I have already indicated. The Company, in the present case, is distributing work to the casual labourers of both the pools and this action of the Company is being approved by the Sabha, the recognised Union of the workmen. This conduct of the Company or the Sabha does not appear to be unreasonable. The Company in the present case is not bound to supply work to any casual labourer for 240 days or more in a year so that he can claim any special privilege. The casual labourers cannot also demand such privileges in the present case. On consideration of the facts of this case, I therefore hold that the Company is justified in maintaining two labour pools and the extent of the labour pool cannot be fixed by this Tribunal. It will all depend upon the demands for the casual workers to be employed by the Company. It appears that the Company had been consulting with the Sabha before taking any serious step. However, it is expected that the Company will always consider the demand of the workmen either coming through the Sabha or other organisation. Of course, I am making it clear, I am not saying that the Company should withdraw the recognition of the Sabha or recognise some other organisation. It will also again depend on the voice of the labour force, and the Company will act with wise discretion. It appears that the Company has in mind to maintain a single labour pool including the members of the both the pools. This appears to be a reasonable scheme for in that case the Company will find it easier to afford equal opportunity to all the members of the pool in rotation. However, this is a matter to be decided by the Company according to the exigencies. The claim for making the members of the first labour pool permanent in the service of the Company is unacceptable. In this connection the decision reported in 1962, L.L.J. Vol. II, at page 269 is on the point. The decision of the Labour Appellate Tribunal of India in the case of Muir Mills Co. Ltd. vs. Ramlal and another reported in 1956 L.L.J. Vol. II, page 535 is also to be considered. However, the casual labourers are not workmen and the question of permanency does not arise. On the question of back wages, I must say that the casual labourers cannot get any such relief. There was no term or condition for making payment to them during the period of non-employment and moreover the Company acted in good faith to recruit other casual labourers besides those of the original pool. The question of payment of any compensation or wages does not, therefore, arise regarding the persons unemployed. The actual labourers before me are not seasonal workmen who are paid retaining allowances. Being casual labourers they cannot also claim any monetary relief for the period of non-employment. In support of this contention the case of Nellimarla Jute Mills Company Ltd. already mentioned may be referred to.

In view of my findings above with regard to Issue No. 1, I hold that the Company is justified in maintaining the labour pools for casual labourers but the extent of the labour force of the pools should not be rigidly fixed. It will all depend upon the circumstances and requirements. On the Issue No. 2 my decision is that the casual workmen of the labour pool are not entitled to any relief for the days of non-employment. In this connection I should note that there is no evidence before me as to the exact period of non-employment of any of the casual workers. As indicated earlier, I have considered the demands of the casual labourers coming through the Thika Mazdoor Sabha and the Lever Sabha and I find that none of the reliefs claimed can be given to any casual labourer or any casual workman employed by the Company.

The present reference is thus disposed of by this award.

Shri R. BHATTACHARYA, Judge, Fourth Industrial Tribunal.

This reference under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act arises out of Labour Department order No. 1008-I.R./IR/10L-58/63, dated 8th March 1963 of the Government of West Bengal. The dispute lies between Messrs. K. P. Das & Co. (P) Ltd., 163 Netaji Subhas Road, Howrah, and their workmen represented by Howrah District Engineering & Metal Workers' Union, 4 Panchkori Mohanto Lane, Salkia, Howrah. The issues framed are as follows:

(1) Puja bonus for the year 1961 payable in 1962.

(2) Whether the dismissal of Sarbasri Tarapada Patra and Feluram Patra is justified? To what relief, if any, are they entitled?

Both the parties appeared in this case and submitted their written statements. The case reached the stage of hearing and, in fact, the union led some evidence. Earlier a petition of compromise was filed by the parties regarding the Issue No. 1. It was left for consideration at the time of hearing. Ultimately, however, after several attempts a second compromise petition was finally submitted yesterday. It was signed by the President and the Secretary for the Union and the Works Manager on behalf of the company. A petition was filed alleged to have been signed by several workmen for adding the workmen as party to this proceeding. I considered the petitions of compromise and the petition filed yesterday and passed orders rejecting the said petition and accepting the two petitions of compromise. The earlier petition of compromise was filed on 16th November 1963, and the final petition of compromise was filed on 24th June 1964. I heard all the parties and accepted the petitions of compromise. The first petition of compromise, dated 16th November 1963, relates to Issue No. 1 and the petition, dated 24th June 1964, is in respect of Issue No. 2. I have accepted those two petitions as voluntary, reasonable and legal and it was prayed that an award may be passed in terms of those petitions of compromise. In the result, the present case is disposed of by this award on the terms of settlement referred to in the petitions of compromise. The petition of compromise filed on 16th November 1963, the memorandum of settlement attached to the said petition, and the petition of compromise filed on 24th June 1964 do form parts of this award as Annexures "A", "A(1)" and "B", respectively.

And whereas the said Third Industrial Tribunal has ubmitted to the State Government its award on the aid industrial dispute;

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the provisions of ection 17 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV f 1947), the Governor is pleased hereby to publish he said award as shown in the annexure hereto.

Annexure

In the matter of an industrial dispute between Messrs. Ananda Bazar Patrika Private Limited, Ananda Bazar House, 6 Sooterkin Street, Calcutta-1, and their working journalists represented by the Indian Journalists Association 249-B Bipin Behari Ganguly Street, Calcutta-12. (Case No. VIII-160 of 1964.)

BEFORE THE THIRD INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL

Present:

Shri J. N. MANDAL, Judge,
Third Industrial Tribunal

For the Association: Shri Atul Chandra Dey himself.

For the Company: Shri S. Sen, Advocate and Shri Parbatinath Mukherji, Industrial Relations Officer.

AWARD

By order No. 2086-I.R.|IR|13L-11(A)|64, dated the 6th June 1964, the Government of West Bengal, in the Labour Department, referred under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, the industrial dispute between Messrs. Ananda Bazar Patrika Private Limited, Ananda Bazar House, 6 Sooterkin Street, Calcutta-1, and their working journalists represented by the Indian Journalists Association, 249-B Bipin Behari Ganguly Street, Calcutta-12, regarding the matters specified in the schedule, to the Third Industrial Tribunal, constituted under section 7A of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, by notification No. 808-I.R.|IR|3A-2|57, dated the 11th March 1957, for adjudication.

Issues

1. Whether Shri Atul Chandra Dey, Sub-Editor, can be treated as a Working Journalist under the Working Journalists (Conditions of Service) and Miscellaneous Provisions Act, 1955?
2. If the answer to the first issue is in the affirmative, is Shri Atul Chandra Dey entitled to the scale of pay of sub-Editors as laid down in the Wage Order published by the notification of the Government of India in the Ministry of Labour and Employment No. S.O. 1257, dated the 29th May 1959?

The reference relates to an industrial dispute existing between Messrs. Ananda Bazar Patrika Private Limited, Ananda Bazar House, 6 Sooterkin Street, Calcutta-1 (hereinafter referred to as the company) and their working journalists represented by the Indian Journalists Association, 249-B Bipin Behari Ganguly Street, Calcutta-12 (hereinafter referred to as the union).

Immediately after receipt of the reference notices were sent out for service upon the parties who entered their appearances and without any loss of time settled the dispute amicably on terms incorporated in a joint petition filed before this tribunal on 27th June 1964.

The dispute referred to for adjudication is in respect of service conditions of a Sub-Editor Shri Atul Chandra Dey, whose services had to be terminated by the company by letter, dated 16th December 1963 on account of his long absence due to protracted illness. However, the parties appeared before this tribunal to report the terms of settlement as per joint petition of compromise, dated 27th June 1964. I have considered the terms of settlement which are fair and reasonable, so I accept them and make an award on compromise. The joint petition of compromise, dated 27th June 1964 do form a part of the compromise award as annexure together with a letter, dated 16th December 1963 addressed by the Director of the Company to the concerned journalist as appended to the joint petition.

This is my award.

BEFORE THE FOURTH INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL, CALCUTTA

Present:

Shri R. BHATTACHARYA, Judge,
Fourth Industrial Tribunal

This is a reference under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act between Messrs. Kumar Engineering Works (P) Ltd., P-52 Benaras Road, North Bantra, Howrah, and their workmen represented by the Howrah Small Factories Workers' Union, C|o. Shri Anadi Das, M.L.A., Dasnagar, Howrah, arising out of the Labour Department Order No. 930-I.R.|IR|10L-45|64, dated 2nd March 1964 of the Government of West Bengal. The issue relates to bonus payable before the Puja of 1963.

In this case the Howrah Small Factories Workers' Union filed written statements on behalf of the workmen. The company also filed written statements and at the same time the workmen of the company filed a joint petition of compromise on 1st June 1964. Thereafter five workmen filed an application on behalf of the workmen to be added as party. To-day the matter has come up for hearing of the said application. The Secretary of the Union appears before this Tribunal and submits that the dispute referred by the Government has been amicably settled as per terms of settlement contained in the compromise petition, dated 23rd May 1964 filed before this Tribunal on 1st June 1964. Messrs. Kumar Engineering Works (P) Ltd. and the Secretary of the Union on behalf of the workmen have filed a joint petition asking this Tribunal to pass an award in terms of the said settlement. On hearing all the parties before me I do not find it necessary to add any other workman as party in this proceeding and I am satisfied that the dispute has been amicably settled by and between the parties. The petition of compromise filed on 1st June 1964 is voluntary, reasonable and legal. As prayed for by all the parties before me, I pass an award in terms of the compromise petition of the workmen, dated 23rd May 1964 filed on 1st June 1964.

The dispute is thus disposed of and the joint petition filed today and the compromise petition dated 23rd May 1964 filed on 1st June 1964 marked respectively as Annexures 'A' and 'A(1)' shall form part of this award.

Dictated and corrected by me.

(ii) The Company will also pay another ex gratia amount equivalent to their respective wages for 28 days to all workmen except Shri Mohan Bahadur. Shri Modan Mohan Roy, Shri Ajit Kumar Sinha and Shri Hasta Bahadur, who were employed only in January 1964 or afterwards will be paid amount equivalent to their respective wages for 6 days.

(iii) That it is agreed that hereafter the dispute of Bonus if any will be settled in accordance with recommendations of the Bonus Commission of 1964 as will be accepted by the Union Government or State Government as the case may be. Besides this there shall be no more any claim of bonus by the workmen in any form whatsoever.

(6) That in the circumstances it is submitted that workmen of the Company should be deemed to ve settled their dispute with the employers to the tire satisfaction of both the parties.

(7) That your petitioners further submit that if re is anybody seeking or purporting to represent workmen of the Company and making before this n'ble Tribunal any other representation or subssion which is not consistent with this petition or ms of settlement contained herein those should not considered.

(8) That copies of this petition have been issued the Union and the Company in advance.

It is therefore humbly prayed by your petitioners t your Honour may graciously be pleased to pass award in terms of this petition embodying the ms of settlement, as deemed fit and proper by ur Honour.

And your petitioners, as in duty bound, shall ever ay.

BEFORE THE FIFTH INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL.

Present:

Shri K. P. MUKHERJI, Judge, Fifth Industrial Tribunal.

This dispute between Messrs. Radhashyam Ghanshaymdas (Dal Mill), and their workmen was referred to this Tribunal under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, by the Government of West Bengal, Labour Dapartment, Order No. 4565-I.R.|IR|11L-406|63, dated the 8th November 1963, for adjudication upon the issues which are as follows:—

1. Whether the lock-out is justified? To what relief, if any, are the workmen entitled for the period of lock-out?
2. Grades and scales of pay.
3. Dearness allowance.
4. Bonus for the years 1961-62 and 1962-63.
5. Leave.

After receipt of the reference on 14th November 1963, usual notices on the parties were issued and they entered appearance on 11th December 1963. Written statement by the Union was filed on 3rd February 1964. The Company took adjournments for filing written statement, and filed its written statement on 20th April 1964. The parties were directed to file their respective documents by 14th May 1964, but no document was filed by either party. The case was fixed for hearing today. Shri K. K. Moitra is present on behalf of the Company. No one, however, is present on behalf of the Union, and no steps are also taken by the Union. It appears from the record that since the filing of the written statement by the Union on 3rd February 1964, no one on behalf of the Union was present on the subsequent dates. It thus appears that the Union is not taking any interest in the dispute though it was raised by it according to the nature of issues referred for adjudication, and the Union and the concerned workmen are not pursuing the dispute, and have given up the dispute which has thereby become non-existent. It is clear from the conduct of the Union and the workmen concerned that they do not want an adjudication of the dispute. In the circumstances, I find that the Union is not interested in the dispute and the dispute is, therefore, to be deemed to be non-existent and an award it to be made accordingly on the basis that at present there is no subsisting dispute for adjudication. In the result, I make a 'no dispute' award in the case.

AWARD

The present application under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act was filed by Shri Dulal Chandra Karmakar of 3 Nityadhan Mukherjee Road, Howrah, against his employer Messrs. J. N. Roy (owner of Bus No. WBV 48) of 200 Circular Road, Post Santragachi, Howrah, before the First Labour Court, West Bengal, to which an industrial dispute between the said employer and his workmen was referred by the Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, Order No. 5111-I.R.|IR|4L-56|58, dated 2nd December 1958 for adjudication. The said Industrial dispute having already been adjudicated upon and the First Labour Court being since abolished the Government of West Bengal by its Labour Department Order No. 3875-I.R.|IR|4L-2|60. dated the 13th September 1963 transferred the instant application to this court for adjudication.

After receipt of the case record usual notices were duly served on the parties concerned for their appearances and taking necessary steps. But neither of the parties appeared on the date fixed for the purpose. Thereafter several dates were fixed for hearing the case but the parties did not turn up to take any steps whatsoever. In the circumstances I have reasons to conclude that there is no industrial dispute now existing between the parties.

I therefore pass this no dispute award and dispose of the case accordingly.

ANNEXURE

In the matter of an application under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act filed by Shri Sattar Khan, T. No. 340, Carding "B" shift, a workman of Messrs. Kesoram Industries & Cotton Mills Ltd., 42 Garden Reach Road, Calcutta-24, against the aforesaid Company in connection with G.O. No. 7589-I.R./IR/8L-14(E)/61, dated 8th December 1961. (Case No. 128 of 1963 under section 33A.)

BEFORE THE FIRST INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL

Present:

Shri RENUPADA MUKHERJEE, Judge.
First Industrial Tribunal.

This is an application under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act by one Sattar Khan who was a workman under the opposite party Company Messrs. Kesoram Industries & Cotton Mills Ltd The allegation of the workman is that he was a permanent and regular workman of the Company working as a doffer in Line No. 4 of Carding Department sine 1959. The petitioner was refused employment since 2nd August 1963 on various pretext. An industrial dispute was pending between the Company and its workmen at the time of the filing of this application. The petitioner was concerned in this dispute and the Company has illegally and arbitrarily refused employment to the petitioner during the pendency of the dispute in contravention of the provisions of section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act. So the petitioner has prayed for reinstatement to his former job with full compensation for the period of unemployment.

On behalf of the Company a preliminary objection was taken that the petition is not maintainable and the Tribunal has no jurisdiction to entertain the application of the workman inasmuch as from the documents of the Company it would be clear that there has been no violation of any of the provisions of section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act.

When the case was called on for hearing on 27th June 1964, I was informed by the representatives of both parties that the matter has been amicably settled between the Company and the workman who filed the application under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act. On behalf of the workman an application was also filed for withdrawal of his application.

I am satisfied that the workman has amicably settled the matter with the Company and he is not desirous of proceeding with his appliation. He is permitted to withdraw his application.

Taken at my dictation and corrected by me.

Present:

Shri RENUPADA MUKHERJEE, Judge,
First Industrial Tribunal.

This industrial dispute was referred to this Trib nal for adjudication under section 10 of the Indu trial Disputes Act by the Government of We Bengal by its Labour Department order No. 124 I.R./IR/10L-27/64, dated, Calcutta, the 24th Marc 1964. One party to the reference is Messrs. Podd Iron Industries (hereinafter to be described as th Company) and the other party their workmen re presented by Iron & Steel Workmens' Union (here inafter to be described as the Union). The onl issue referred to this Tribunal is the following –

Bonus payable before the Puja of 1963 to al sections of workmen including those re trenched as per notice of the management dated 4th September 1963.

After notices had been issued to the Company and the Union a few adjournments were taken by both sides. The case was adjourned to 25th June 1964 for filing written statement by the Union. Instead of filing any written statement on that date the General Secretary of the Union filed a petition on 13th June 1964 stating that the dispute has been "fully and finally settled amicably out of Court". After hearing the learned representatives of both parties I am satisfied that there has been a fair and bona fide settlement of the dispute. I, therefore pass a no-dispute award in this case. The petition filed on behalf of the Union which has been endorsed by Shri J. R. Jain on behalf of the Company will form an annexure to my award.

BEFORE THE SEVENTH INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL

Present:

Shri S. K. Ray, Judge Seventh Industrial Tribunal.

AWARD

This proceeding arises out of an application under section 33A Industrial Disputes Act filed by the applicant workman, Shri Deo Kumar Show. It is complained in the application that he was refused employment orally on 9th September 1963 when he reported for duty after having returned from home when he went on sanctioned leave from 22nd July 1963. It is alleged that his leave expired on 7th August 1963, but he failed to report for duty on that date, as he was detained at home by his wife's serious illness, and he reported this fact to the Company, on being informed that the Company required him to join his duties immediately, he came back and reported for duty on 9th September 1963, but was refused employment. This happened when the adjudication proceedings of another dispute between the Company and its workmen, referred to this Tribunal by Government Order No. 3537-I.R./IR/10L-97/62, dated the 6th August 1962, were pending, but there was no compliance with the relevant provisions of section 33, Industrial Disputes Act. It is finally contended that the refusal of employment to him was in contravention of the relevant provisions of section 33, Industrial Disputes Act, and was also unjustified and illegal and the Company acted with an ulterior moitve and in a spirit of victimisation in refusing employment to him. He claims reinstatement to service with full wages for the period of unemployment.

The Company has appeared and filed its written statement. The relevant case put forward by the Company is that the Company did not refuse employment to this workman at all, but he resigned from the service of the Company due to his ill-health and the resignation was accepted by the Company and thereafter he accepted all his legal dues from the Company including the provident fund money. It is averred that in these circumstances, there was no contravention of any provision of section 33, Industrial Disputes Act, and the workman is not entitled to any relief.

After preliminary proceedings, the case was first fixed for hearing on 29th June 1964. On that date, none appeared for the applicant and no step was taken on his behalf. In order to give one more chance to the workman to appear and prosecute his application, the Tribunal suo moto adjourned the case to 4th July 1964 with a remark that if there was no appearance by the applicant workman on that date, the case would be disposed of according to law. On 4th July 1964 none appeared for the workman and no step was taken on his behalf. In these circumstances, the case was taken up for hearing in the presence of the Company only. The Company adduced evidence in support of its case. I have already stated above the respective cases of the parties. It would be sufficient only to state here that the workman's case is that he was unjustly and illegally refused employment on 9th September 1963, in contravention of the relevant provisions of section 33, Industrial Disputes Act, which applied to the alleged refusal of employment in view of the pendency of the adjudication proceedings of another dispute between the Company and its workmen, already refused to this Tribunal and, as against this, the Company's clear case is that there was no refusal of employment by the Company to this workman, as alleged, but the workman himself resigned from the Company's service and after his resignation was accepted, he took payment of all his legal dues from the Company, including the provident fund money and went away. The workman has not appeared at all to produce evidence in support of his case. The Company has appeared and produced its evidence, oral and documentary, in support of its case. P.W. 1 Shri Rathindra Nath Ganguli, Labour Officer of the Company, has testified in support of the Company's case and has proved the resignation letter of the workman with the endorsement of acceptance of resignation by the Works Manager [Exts. A and A(1)] and the receipted vouchers showing that after acceptance of the resignation, the workman took payment of all his legal dues from the Company, including the provident fund money [Ext. B to B(2)]. On the Company's evidence, which remains unchallenged and unrebutted, I hold that there was no refusal of employment by the Company to this workman, but he voluntarily resigned from the Company's service and went away taking all his legal dues, including the provident fund money. There could, therefore, be no contravention of any relevant provision of section 33, though the adjudication proceedings of another dispute between the Company and its workmen, referred to this Tribunal, was pending when the resignation took effect and so this application under section 33A is not maintainable and there is also no merits in the applicant's case, because it was not a case of refusal of employment to him but a case of his voluntary resignation. The workman's application must, therefore, fail.

In the result, I reject the workman's application under section 33A and award that the Company did not refuse employment to him, as alleged, but he voluntarily resigned from the Company's services and went away taking payment of all his legal dues from the Company, and so, he is not entitled to any relief.

AWARD

This is a complaint under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act, lodged by a workman Shri Kalpu Koiree against his employer Messrs. Britannia Building and Iron Co. Ltd. (hereinafter be referred to as the Company).

His case in short is that while he was in service of the Company, was granted two months' leave from 8th March 1961 on ground of his mother's illness, that during the period of the leave he himself fell ill and by an application, dated 6th May 1961 applied for extension of the leave for one month. The Company by letter, dated 11th May 1961 directed him to send a medical certificate in suport of his application for extension of the leave, that a medical certificate was sent but in spite of that his name was struck off and he was informed of this by letter, dated 25th May 1961. He returned from home on 5th July 1961 and wanted to resume his duties but he was not allowed to join as his name was already struck off. His grievance is that his name was wrongfully struck off.

The Company—opposite party has resisted the application by filing a written objection in which it has been stated that the wokman having overstayed his leave without permission his service was automatically terminated in accordance with the provisions of the standing order and as such it was not a case of discharge or dismissal to attract the provisions of the proviso to section 33(2)(b) of the Industrial Disputes Act. Therefore, there has been no contravention of the provisions of section 33 as alleged by the Union. The application is accordingly not maintainable.

In an application of this nature two points require to be considered: They are—

(1) whether there has been contravention of the provisions of section 33, and

(2) whether there was justification for order of dismissal or discharge.

It may be noted that the petitioner workman did not care to proceed with the application. He did not turn up on the date fixed for hearing of the application, nor did he take any step. He having been found absent on repeated calls even after waiting for long, there was no other alternative than to dismiss the application for default and for want of proper prosecution. The Company's representative made submissions on the preliminary point raised by the Company in the written objection as to the maintainability of the present appliaction. But I do not propose to go into that question in absence of evidence. But apparently the petitioner went on leave for two months with effect from 8th March 1961. So he was due to resume his duties on 8th May 1961 on the expiry of the leave. But before that date admittedly he applied for extension of the leave by one month more on ground of his own illness (vide para. 8 of the Company's written objection). That application was according to the Company not supported by any medical certificate but according to the petitioner there was a supporting medical certificate subsequently sent. Of course, there is no evidence or no copy of the alleged medical certificate on the record, or no date of the medical certificate or of despatch thereof is mentioned in the application. However, it is admitted that the petitioner applied for extension of the leave before expiry of the leave originally granted to him. So, it is not a case of over-staying without intimation to the employer. But proper intimation was sent of his intended absence for another one month on ground of his own illness. Therefore, it is difficult to treat this case as an automatic termination as per provision in the standing orders. Be that as it may, in absence of any evidence it is not possible to come to any definite conclusion. The petitioner did not care to adduce any evidence or to proceed with the application or to take proper steps in the case. So, I am to dismiss this application for default and for want of proper prosecution.

The Government of West Bengal by its Labour Department Order No. 4541-I.R./IR/11L-377/63, dated 7th November 1963, referred to this Tribunal an indsutrial dispute between Messrs. Chowringhee Bidi Factory, P.O. Contai, district Midnapore, and their workmen represented by Contai Bidi Workers' Union, P.O. Contai, district Midnapore, for adjudication under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act.

The issue framed in this case for adjudication runs as follows:—

Whether the closure of the factory is real and bona fide, is beyond the control of the management and is, in the circumstances, justified?

To what rilef, if any, are the workmen entitled?

AWARD

After receipt of the reference, notices were served on the parties, but neither the Company nor the Union appeared or filed any written statement. Several adjournments were granted, but there was no response from either side. It is presumed that either the case has been compromised out of court, or the parties are not interested in the present case any more. Accordingly, I make a 'no dispute" award in this case.

The issue framed in this case for adjudication runs as follows:—

Is the dismissal of Shri Satyanarain Singh justified? To what relief, if any, is he entitled?

AWARD

After the reference was received, notices were duly served upon the parties to appear and the their respective written statements, and the case was posted for hearing on 26th June 1964. The hearing commended on that date and evidence was recorded in part. The evidence was concluded on 7th July 1964, and argument was resumed on 8th July 1964. Before the conclusion of argument, there was a talk of compromise which materialised in the course of the day, and a joint petition of compromise was filed duly signed by the representatives of the Company and the Union. The terms of compromise are fair and reasonable and are recorded. The workman Shri Satyanarain Singh is entitled to be reinstated with effect from 15th October 1964 and he is to report for work within 7 days of that date. He would not be entitled to any back wages. If he does not report for work within the aforesaid period, he would not be entitled to any relief whatsoever. The petition of compromise will form part of the award as Annexure A.

Issues

1. Whether the closure of the factory is real and bona fide? Whether the closure is beyond the control of the management and in the circumstances it is justified?
2. To what relief, if any, are the workmen entitled?

This reference was received from the Government of West Bengal, in the Labour Department for adjudication of an industrial dispute existing between Messrs. Everest Tools Manufacturing Co, (hereinafter be referred to as the Company) and their workmen represented by Everest Tools Manufacturing Workers' Union (hereinafter be referred to as the Union).

Immediately after receipt of the reference, processes were issued to the parties who entered appearances and filed their written statements. Parties having completed all procedural steps the case was taken up for hearing on 13th July 1964. The learned Advocates representing the two rival parties opened their cases at length. Some evidence was adduced on the side of Union. At this stage there was a talk of compromise. Both parties having expressed sincere desire to settle up the dispute amicably, every opportunity was given to them in the matter of peaceful settlement of the industrial dispute.

I am glad to record that the parties succeeded in settling the dispute under reference to this Tribunal amicably and peacefully. The terms of settlement have been incorporated in a joint petition of compromise filed before this Tribunal on this day (14th July 1964). I have gone through the terms of settlement and I am satisfied that they are fair and reasonable in the present circumstances of the parties. So, I accept the terms of settlement and make a "no dispute" award as prayed for by the parties, on compromise. The joint petition of compromise filed before this Tribunal on this day (14th July 1964) do form part of the compromise award as annexure.

This is my award.

BEFORE THE THIRD INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL

In the matter of an Industrial Dispute

Between

Messrs. Everest Tools Manufacturing Company (hereinafter referred to as the Firm)

And

Their workmen represented by Everest Tools Manufacturing Workers' Union (hereinafter referred to as the Union)

And

In the matter of Government of West Bengal Order of Reference No. 1525-I.R./IR/10L-224/62, dated the 11th April, 1963.

The humble joint petition of both the Firm and the Union referred to above.
Most Respectfully Sheweth:

1. That today is fixed for hearing.

2. That on 13th July 1964 your petitioners started a talk of compromise and the said compromise has been finalised and the terms of the said compromise are as follows: –

(1) That the Firm agrees to pay the earned wages to each of the workmen who had worked in the firm till the last day prior to the date of closure, i.e., on 7th July 1962 the said wages would be paid individually to the concerned workmen on the basis of the Books of Accounts.

(2) That the Firm further agrees to pay ex-gratia amounts of Rs. 20 to each of the said concerned workmen who had worked till the last day prior to the date of closure, i.e., on 7th July 1962.

(3) That the aforesaid payments would be made to the concerned workmen by the Firm within forty-five days from the date in the premises of the Tribunal. The exact date and time of the aforesaid payments would be intimated to the General Secretary of the Union by Registered Post before seven clear days prior to the date of payment, and the concerned workmen would give receipts in acknowledgment of the receipt of the respective payments as stated above.

(4) That any workman who cannot be present himself for receiving his payment on the date may on his or on the Union's request be paid by Money Order to the address supplied to the firm.

(5) That the Union have no other claim against the Firm and shall not interfere in future in any matter.

Under the circumstances both parties agree to pray for an order by Your Honour of 'No Dispute' Award in terms of the settlement as mentioned above.

And for this Your petitioners shall ever pray.

BEFORE THE FOURTH INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL, CALCUTTA.

Present:

For the Company: Shri J. Gupta, Labour Advisor.

For the Union: Shri S. Roy Chowdhury, Vice-President of the Union.

This is a reference under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act over a dispute between Messrs. Power & Machinery Construction Co. (P.) Ltd. and their workmen represented by the West Bengal Engineering Workers' Union, over the following issue for adjudication:—

Issue

Whether the refusal of employment to Shri Satya Ranjan Chakraborty is justified? To what relief, if any, is he entitled?

After receipt of due notices, both the parties submitted their written statements in this case. In short the case of the West Bengal Engineering Workers' Union (hereinafter described as the Union), is that Shri Satya Ranjan Chakraborty was a Turner in the Lathe Machine Department. For a period he was promoted to the rank of a grinder. He was, however, placed in his former position. He fell ill and was treated by an E.S.I. panel doctor from 6th February 1963 to 19th March 1963. On account of illness he could not join the factory. On 20th March 1963 he obtained a fit certificate from the said doctor and went to resume his duties in the factory. The company, however, refused to allow him to work. On the following day he sent a registered letter to the company stating his grievances but the company made no reply to that letter. This refusal of work to Shri Chakraborty was illegal and unjustified. No charge sheet or notice was issued to him. The action of the Power & Machinery Construction Co. (P.) Ltd. (hereinafter described as the company), has been characterised as illegal, mala fide and unjustified.

The company, in its written statement, denied the allegations made by the Union. Its case is that the order of reference is illegal, that the dispute is not an industrial dispute, that the union has no locus standi to represent the workmen concerned, that on 20th March 1963 the workman presented himself at the factory after long absence declined to do any work, collected his dues and left the factory, and that the company never refused to give any work to Shri Chakraborty. In short, the company wants to say that it was the workman concerned who left the service and that even subsequently when the company asked Shri Chakraborty to join the service by a letter, dated 10th July 1963, the offer was refused. The story of illegal, unjustified and mala fide action on the part of the company has been denied.

Several documents have been admitted in evidence on both the sides. On the side of the union the workman in question Shri Chakraborty has been examined as P.W.1, and Shri Sripati Kumar Bhattacharya, the Superintendent of the company, has been examined as O.P.W.1. on the side of the employer.

The first contention raised from the side of the company is that at the time when the reference was made to this Tribunal, there was no dispute between the parties. In order to support this contention Shri Gupta on behalf of the company has referred me to the copy of the letter sent by the company to the workman on 10th July 1963. This is Ext. C. Admittedly, previous to this letter the company's case was that it did not refuse any work to Shri Chakraborty and that story is still continuing even in the present case. The case of the other side is that Shri Chakraborty was refused employment on 20th March 1963 when he went to the factory to join his duties. In Ext. C there is no mention about the wages or compensation from 20th March 1963. Even at present the story of refusal of work to the workman is not admitted. In these circumstances, I must say that there has been always a dispute as to whether or not any work was refused to Shri Chakraborty on and from 20th March 1963. I hold, therefore, that the present dispute has always been there and naturally there was reason for this reference.

The next point canvassed from the side of the company is that the union has no authority to appear on behalf of the workman, and that this is an individual dispute. In this connection the evidence of P.W.1 is to be noted. He has stated that he is a member of the union and other workmen of this company are also members of the same union. Admittedly, this union espoused the cause of the workman of this company. When it has been proved that the workmen of this company are members of this union and that this union has taken up the cause of the workmen, I must hold that the present dispute is an industrial dispute and not an individual dispute. I further find that the union has locus standi and authority to represent the workmen of the company in the present reference.

The third and the last point, I should say the most important point, is whether the company refused employment to Shri Chakraborty or whether Shri Chakraborty of his own accord ceased coming to the factory and gave up the service. Shri Chakraborty has stated on oath that he fell ill and was treated by an E.S.I. panel doctor. He has further stated that he obtained a fit certificate from the said doctor and attended the factory on 20th March 1963 to resume his duty under the company. His evidence further shows that he handed over the fit certificate to the company but Goswami Babu of the company, before whom papers were to be submitted, refused to accept the fit certificate. That certificate has been exhibited in this case. It is marked Ext. 4. It is dated 19th March 1963 and it was issued in the form prescribed by the Employees State Insurance Corporation. There is no evidence adduced on the side of the company to challenge its genuineness. There is no reliable evidence on the side of the company that Shri Chakraborty was not ill from 6th March 1963 to 19th March 1963. P.W.1 has definitely stated that he was not allowed to work in the factory. It appears that he had a talk with some members of the management who also refused to allow him to work in the factory. He has stated that on 20th March 1963 he was offered wages for the month of February. He accepted them and he gave his signature on the record of the company for the month of February 1963. As against the evidence of P.W.1, O.P.W.1 has been examined. He is the Superintendent of the company. He has clearly stated that he has no personal knowledge about Shri Chakraborty's presence in the factory on 20th March 1963. In this case Goswami Babu has not been examined. Nobody has been examined on the side of the company to show that Shri Chakraborty refused to work on 20th March 1963 or on subsequent days or that he was unwilling to work under the company. No reason has been assigned by the company for non-examination of a competent witness to prove that, in fact, Shri Chakraborty was not willing to work under the company. O.P.W.1 has stated in reply to my question that there is no note in any office record to show that Shri Chakraborty refused to work under the company. This statement is significant. Had there been any refusal from Shri Chakraborty to work under the company on 20th March 1963, there would have been some note in the records of the company to that effect. It is also strange that after 20th March 1963 the company did not ask for any explanation from Shri Chakraborty either regarding his absence or his alleged refusal to work under the company. Moreover, P.W.1 sent a registered letter on 21st March 1963, immediately after refusal of work to him. The letter is Ext. 6. The letter was sent under registered post. The acknowledgment receipt is Ext. 5. It was received by the company on 23rd March 1963. It is to be noted again that the company did not care to reply to this letter. The company did not challenge the story immediately after receipt of Ext. 6. In Ext. 6 Shri Chakraborty made a serious complaint to the Director of the Co pany. This letter was left uncared for. In this c nection the provision of the Standing Orders of company should be noted. Section J, at page 14 the Standing Orders, marked Ext. 10, says that investigation is to be made regarding complai arising out of employment including those relating unfair treatment. When Shri Chakraborty made complaint about refusal of work to him, the co pany should have taken steps to enquire into matter. O.P.W.1 has stated that he did not hold a enquiry over the letter. However, there is no evide that any step was taken on Ext. 6. The conduct the company and the circumstances clearly show t the actions of the company were mala fide. T evidence shows that P.W.1 was an organiser of t union. He was also demoted for a period. S Chakraborty protested against such demotion. It very reasonable to hold in the present case that t company and its management were not only unsy pathetic towards Shri Chakraborty, but, in fact, th had antipathy and bore grudge against Shri Chak borty. It is clear from the facts of the case that t company wanted to avoid Shri Chakraborty and g rid of him from the service. I have no manner doubt in my mind to accept the evidence of S Chakraborty and to hold that on 20th March 19 Shri Chakraborty after illness presented the fit cer ficate to resume his duty in the factory but he w not allowed to join his duty. Subsequently howeve the company sent a letter, dated 10th July 1963, copy of which is Ext. C, asking Shri Chakraborty be present at the factory on 15th July 1963 so th suitable work might be allotted to him. It is curio to note that in this letter there is no mention abo the wages from 20th March 1963. There is no mentio in this letter as to whether he would be reinstated his former place or whether he would be employe afresh. This Ext. C is not a straight-forward lett The aggrieved workman on receipt of this lett wanted to know the actual position and sent a lett on 14th July 1963. The company has denied t have received such letter. I cannot accept the versio of the company. Ext. 8 is the copy of the lett Ext. 8(a) is the certificate of posting in respect of th letter. There is no evidence that the address give on the certificate of posting is wrong. In Ext Shri Chakraborty wanted to ascertain as to wheth he would get any remuneration for the period of no employment and whether he would get his form service. The company, I must hold, must hav received this letter but it did not care to reply to th same. This conduct of the company is most un reasonable. This shows the want of bona fides o the part of the company. It is no wonder to hol that the company has been all along harassing Sh Chakraborty. However, on consideration of the ev dence on record and the circumstances of this cas I hold that the company did refuse employment t Shri Chakraborty on and from 20th March 196 The letter, Ext. C, is a camouflage and a mala fid play on the part of the company. The suggestio that Shri Chakraborty did not voluntarily join hi duty ono and from 20th March 1963 is unacceptable This is certainly a case of victimisation and unfai labour practice. The refusal of employment to Shri Chakraborty by the company was illegal, mala fide and unjustified. The next question that arises for consideration relates to the relief to be given to the aggrieved workman. The evidence shows that after being unemployed from 20th March 1963 Shri Chakraborty managed to secure a service elsewhere on and from 1st July 1963, and he was getting better remuneration there. In this company he was getting Rs. 4.50 nP. per day whereas in the new employment he was getting Rs. 5 per day. Shri Chakraborty during the evidence has claimed compensation for the period of non-employment. He does not want reinstatement. This is very natural for Shri Chakraborty. The evidence shows that the company used to pay remuneration to Shri Chakraborty, a permanent workman, on the principles of "no work no pay". In these circumstances, therefore, I allow compensation to Shri Chakraborty payable by the company for the period of non-employment from 20th March 1963 to 31st May 1963 at the rate of Rs. 4.50 nP. for all the working days of the factory during the period. I further allow cost of this proceeding to the union payable by the company. The cost is assessed Rs. 50 in lump. The award must be implemented within a month from the date of publication of this award in the "Calcutta Gazette".

AWARD

This proceeding arises out of an application under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, made by Shri Kanai Chandra Ash, Shri Ram Narayan Mondal and Md. Khalil, workmen under the Opposite Party—Messrs. Aluminium Corporation of India Ltd. at its factory at Jaykaynagar, complaining that they were illegally and unjustifiably suspended from service on false and frivolous ground during the pendency of a dispute and the employer has thereby contravened the provisions of section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947. The allegation made in the petition is that the petitioners were charge-sheeted and were kept under suspension for an indefinite period in violation of established principles of natural justice and this amounted to a change of conditions of service. It is alleged that the suspension was nothing but a mala fide and vindictive punishment inflicted upon them without there being any approved rules or standing orders of the company providing for such punishment. The petitioners have prayed for their reinstatement on the ground that there has been violation of the provision of section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 by their employers during the pendency of an industrial dispute before this Tribunal. The application has been opposed by the employers of the petitioners—Messrs. Aluminium Corporation of India Ltd. on several grounds. It is pleaded that there has been no violation of the provisions of section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 on the part of the company, and as such, the application under section 33A of the Act is bad in law and not maintainable. It is also pleaded that the suspension of the petitioners pending enquiry into the charge-sheets which were issued against them, does not amount to punishment as contemplated under section 33(2)(b) of the Act and that being so, the application under section 33A is misconceived and not maintainable. It is pleaded that the petitioners are not entitled to any relief under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act and the application is liable to be dismissed.

Decision

The undisputed facts which gave rise to this application, shortly stated, are this. The 3 petitioners were employed as Aluminium Charter Drivers in the factory of the Opposite Party Messrs. Aluminium Corporation of India Limited at Jaykaynagar. During the pendency of an industrial dispute between the company and its workmen before this Tribunal, charge-sheet was issued to Md. Khalil on 9th November 1963 and to Kanai Chandra Ash and Ram Narayan Mondal on 12th November 1963. Following the issue of the charge-sheets Md. Khalil and Kanai Chandra Ash were suspended with effect from 13th November 1963 and Ram Narayan Mondal was suspended from 14th November 1963. The workmen concerned submitted replies to the charge-sheets issued to them and an enquiry was held into the charge-sheets and the enquiry officer submitted his report on 12th December 1963. After the enquiry officer submitted his report and before the management considered and took a decision on the report of the enquiry officer, the workmen concerned filed the present application alleging contravention of section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act by their employers. It is now well settled that a dismissed employee would not succeed in obtaining an order of reinstatement under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act merely by proving contravention of section 33 by the employer. It would be still open to employer to justify the impugned order of dismissal on merits because the complaint made by the employee is treated as an industrial dispute. An enquiry under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act is thus not confined only to the determination of the question as to whether the alleged contravention by the employer of the provisions of section 33 has been proved or not. The tribunal would have also to consider whether the impugned orders of dismissal are otherwise justified and whether in the light of the relevant facts and circumstances of each particular case an order of reinstatement should or should not be passed. In order to succeed the petitioners in this case will have in the first place to prove that there has been a contravention by the employer of the provisions of section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act. The statement made in paragraph 3 of the petition is somewhat vague as it does not specifically state which particular provision of section 33 which has been contravened. The allegation made in paragraph 3 is that suspension for an indefinite period of the petitioners is not only illegal but in violation of established principles of natural justice and amounts to a change of condition of service. It is not understood how suspension on the ground of an alleged misconduct amounts to a change of condition of service. It has been submitted by Shri Pathak appearing for the workmen that suspension of the petitioners amounts to punishment which is not provided for in the standing orders of the company and this suspension for an indefinite period amounts to punishments as contemplated in section 33(2)(b) of the Act and there has been violation of section 33 inasmuch as such punishment by way of suspension is not provided in the standing orders of the Company. The contention raised by Shri Pathak does not appear to have much force in it and cannot be accepted. According to him, the Opposite Party has contravened the provisions of section 33(2)(b) of the Act inasmuch as the order of suspension is mala fide and amounts to punishment as contemplated in section 33(2)(b) of the Act. It appears from the order of suspension (Ext. C series) that the petitioners were suspended pending enquiry and final disposal of the cases against them. It has been held in the case of Sasamusa Sugar Works (P.) Ltd., v. Shobrati Khan and others reported in 1959 (II) L.L.J., 388 and in Lakshmi Debi Sugar Mills Ltd. v. Ram Swaroop & ors., reported in 1957 (I) L.L.J., 17, that suspension pending enquiry would not be considered as punishment. In the latter case, it has been held that suspension without pay even for an indefinite period pending enquiry or pending permission of the appropriate Tribunal to dismiss the workmen would not be held to be punishment which would require permission of the Tribunal before the same could be meted out to the workmen. This view is also supported in the case of Jaipur Spinning and Weaving Mills Ltd., and Government of Rajasthan & ors., reported in 1959 (II) L.L.J., 649 wherein it has been held that suspension pending departmental enquiry and pending the necessary permission of the Industrial Tribunal under section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act even though for an indefinite duration cannot be characterised as punishment within the meaning of section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act. It is thus clear from the above mentioned decisions that mere suspension pending enquiry does not amount to punishment so as to attract the provision of section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act. If the petitioners are aggrieved by the order of suspension and consider it to be illegal, they are at liberty to raise a dispute over that issue, but so long as they are not punished by way of discharge or dismissal for any misconduct unconnected with the dispute pending before this Tribunal, it cannot be said that there has been violation of the provisions of section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act. In this view of the matter, I hold that the application is not maintainable in law as the petitioners have failed to prove that there has been contravention of section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act by their employers.

In view of my finding that there has been no contravention of the provisions of section 33 of the Act, it is not necessary for me to consider the merits of the case. The petition is accordingly rejected. This is my award.

For the Company: Shri N. M. Das Gupta, Advocate.

AWARD

By order No. 3094-I.R./IR/11L-217/63, dated the 2nd August 1963, the Government of West Bengal, in Labour Department, referred under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, the industrial dispute between Messrs. P. C. Chandra & Sons, 127/1A Bipin Behari Ganguly Street, Calcutta-12, and their workmen represented by the Calcutta Gold Smithy & Jewellery Workers Union, 16/17 College Street, Room No. 51, Calcutta-12, regarding the matter specified in the schedule, to the Third Industrial Tribunal, constituted under section 7A of the Industrial Disputes Act, by notification No. 808-3. IR 3A-2/57, dated the 11th March 1957, for adjudication.

Issue

Puja bonus payable in 1962.

This reference was received from the Government of West Bengal for adjudication of an industrial dispute said to be existing between Messrs. P. C. Chandra & Sons, 127/1A Bipin Behari Ganguly Street, Calcutta-12 (hereinafter be referred to as the Company), and their workmen represented by the Calcutta Gold Smithy & Jewellery Workers' Union, 16/17 College Street, Room No. 51, Calcutta-12 (hereinafter be referred to as the Union).

As usual, immediately after receipt of the reference notices were issued to both parties for service. They were served and both parties entered their appearances and filed written statements. The case was on the hearing list on 24th March 1964 when the Union asked for an adjournment on the ground that Union's President Shri Anandi Das was not available on that date as he is reported to have resorted to hunger strike and he will break the hunger strike in the evening on that very day. There was an adjournment granted on that ground. The next date was 20th May 1964. On that date the Union did not take any step for hearing of the case. So, the case was adjourned to this day (16th July 1964) for hearing. The Company has come ready for hearing of the case but the Union, as before, does not appear or has not taken any step whatsoever. Therefore, in the circumstances, I am to conclude that the dispute under reference is no longer in existence and accordingly I make a "no dispute" award.

I may, however, observe that the present reference relates to claim of puja bonus payable in 1962 and that claim according to the Union's written statement is only in respect of 11 workmen mentioned in the annexure A to Union's written statement who were employed in the Company's workshop at C.I.T. Road. Company's main business is located in premises No. 127/1A, Bipin Behari Ganguly Street. According to the Company no bonus was paid to the workmen employed in the workshop at C.I.T. Road, and that workshop, according to the written statement of the Company, remains completely paralysed for long because of illegal strike and other subversive activities of the said workmen.

No. 3142-I.R./IR/10L-33(A)/63.—21st July 1964.— Whereas under the Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, Order No. 4277-I.R./IR/10L-33(A)/63, dated the 10th October 1963, the industrial dispute between Messrs. Indian Standard Wagon Company Ltd., P.O. Burnpur, district Burdwan and their workmen represented by the United Iron and Steel Workers' Union, Bari Smriti Bhaban, Subhas Pally, P.O. Burnpur, district Burdwan, regarding the issue mentioned in the said order being a matter specified in the second schedule to the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), was referred for adjudication to the Second Industrial Tribunal;

And whereas the said Second Industrial Tribunal has submitted to the State Government its award on the said industrial dispute;

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the provisions of section 17 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), the Governor is pleased hereby to publish the said award as shown in the annexure hereto.

ANNEXURE

In the matter of an industrial dispute between Messrs. Indian Standard Wagon Company Ltd., P.O. Burnpur, district Burdwan and their workmen represented by United Iron and Steel Workers' Union, Bari Smriti Bhaban, Subhas Pally, P.O. Burnpur, district Burdwan. (Case No. VIII-243/63.)

For the Company—Shri B. B. Ghosh, Advocate of Messrs. Fowler & Co.

For the Union Shri Dwijen Sen Gupta, Advocate.

The Government of West Bengal by its Labour Department Order No. 4277-I.R./IR/10L-33(A)/63, dated 10th October 1963, referred to this Tribunal an industrial dispute between Messrs. Indian Standard Wagon Company Ltd., P.O. Burnpur, district Burdwan (hereinafter referred to as the Company), and their workmen represented by United Iron and Steel Workers' Union, Bari Smriti Bhaban, Subhas Pally, P.O. Burnpur, district Burdwan (hereinafter referred to as the Union), for adjudication under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act.

The only issue framed in this case for adjudication runs as follows: -

Is the superannuation of Shri Abdul Sovan justified? What relief, if any, is he entitled to?

AWARD

Both the parties filed their respective written statements after receipt of notice of this reference, and the matter was fixed for hearing at Asansole Camp. The parties entered appearance through their lawyers and representatives at the hearing. The Union's written statement shows that Abdul Sovan was employed in the Company at Burnpur. He entered the service of the Company in 1945. Subsequently in 1948 his Service Card was prepared showing that he was aged 46 on 27th July 1498. The Company had no age of superannuation when Sovan was appointed. The age of superannuation was introduced subsequently at 60. According to the Company, Sovan attained the age of superannuation on 30th September 1962, and as such a notice was issued to him to retire on that date, and Sovan was given no work thereafter. Sovan complains that he has not attained the age of superannuation. It is not in dispute that the age of superannuation is 60. Sovan's case is that he was born in 1916, and before he entered the service under the Indian Standard Wagon Company, he used to serve in Cossipore Gun and Shell Factory, where his service record was prepared for the first time. Sovan relies upon that service record in support of his age and challenges the superannuation imposed upon him by the Company.

The Company in their written statement submitted that though there was no age of superannuation in 1945 when Sovan entered the service of the Company, there was a census of age and other particulars in respect of all employees of the Company in 1948. On the basis of the aforesaid census, service records of workers were prepared and Sovan's record shows that he was 46 years old on 27th July 1948, and calculating the age of superannuation at 60 Sovan was asked to retire on 30th September 1962. According to the Company, the records were prepared on datas furnished by the workman himself.

Decision

There are certain uncontroversial facts. Sovan was appointed in 1945 at a time when the Company had no age of superannuation. Subsequently, the age of superannuation was fixed at 60. The Union accepts the position that the age of superannuation in the Company is 60. That age of superannuation applies to Sovan and there is no controversy on this point. Sovan alleges that he did not attain the age of superannuation on 30th September 1962 when he was asked to retire. The onus is on the Company to prove that Sovan attained the age of superannuation on the aforesaid date. Let us analyse the evidence on which the Company relies. In 1948, a circular was issued directing a census of workers of the Company. In that circular it was directed that information should be collected in form "A" attached to that circular. The relevant circular is Ext. B and a specimen form is filed. It shows a column as to the age of the workman. There is however no evidence that in fact form "A" was filled by the workmen themselves. O.P.W. 2 Shri Sita Prosad Ghosh, who is an employee of the Company gave evidence on behalf of the Company, but he could not say whether he himself filled up this form "A". In form "A" had been filled up, it is expected that would be on the Company's record. But the form "A" has not been filed in this particular case. There is also no evidence on the side of the Company as to how form "A" was dealt with. It is not in evidence that the filled up "A" forms were destroyed or were lost. I would therefore presume that form "A" had never been filled up by the workmen or at least by Sovan in this particular case. It is the evidence of O.P.W. 1 S. A. Ahmed that the service record of each workman was prepared on the basis of form "A" as filled up by him. The service record of Sovan is Ext. E

It shows Sovan's age as 46 years on 27th July 1947. Shri Ahmed is not competent to say why this record was prepared, because he entered the service of the Company long after its preparation. No. competent officer of the Company was examined to prove that in fact census was taken as directed in Ext. B, and that form "A" was filled up by the workmen or that service records were prepared on the basis statements as furnished by the workers in form "A". Sovan denies that any statement was taken from him at the time of preparation of his service record (Ext. E) in 1948. In Ext. C there was direction of the Company to obtain the signature or thumb-impression of the workmen in the service card of the respective workmen, but peculiarly enough the relevant column of Sovan's service card is blank. There is no reason given as to why Sovans' signature or thumb-impression was not taken on his service card (Ext. E). Had there been any signature of Sovan on his service card, the Company might have contended that the age as recorded by the Company in his service card, was accepted by Soavn. In this particular case, there is no such acceptance of the age as recorded in the service card by Sovan. Moreover, this carelessness on the part of the Company will go to show that the service records were not prepared with any scrupulous care. If the signature can be missing in the appropriate column in violation of the specific directive of the Company, I cannot accept that the age was recorded in the service card emanated from the workman, and it was just an age which was put in the service card irrespective of the actual age and unconnected with any statement made by the workman. The Company has accordingly failed to produce any record to show that Sovan attained the age of superannuation on 30th September 1962 and it thus failed to discharge the onus cast on it. Now I will turn to the evidence adduced by Sovan. He has stated on oath that he gave a correct statement of his age to his previous employer, i.e., Cossipore Gun & Shell Factory, and that age was recorded in the Indian Standard Wagon Company while joining this Company in 1945. There is no competent denial to this evidence of Sovan. Sovan has shown the original certificate granted by the Cossipore Gun & Shell Factory, and it shows that he was 26 years old when he was recruited in that factory in 1942 and his year of birth as recorded in that certificate was 1916. He subsequently joined this Company. The certificate granted by the Cossipore Gun & Shell Factory can be accepted in corroboration of his evidence that he was born in 1916. If Sovan gave a particular age and date of birth in the Cossipore Gun & Shell Factory, there is no reason why he should give a different date of birth, while entering the service of the Indian Standard Wagon Company.

There is some evidence to show that the Company is not favourably disposed towards Sovan. In 1953 his services were terminated along with others, and subsequently all the workers were reinstated after fighting up to the Supreme Court. Those workers were members of the Action Committee, which is the predecessor of the present Union—United Iron & Steel Workers' Union. Shri Ahmed admits that this Union is not recognised by the Company. Sovan is a member of the Executive Committee of that Union, and it is only likely that he incurred the displeasure of the Company because of the active association with this union. The Company's action in superannuating Sovan was prompted for his association with the Union. Considering all the aspects of the case, I come to the conclusion that Sovan did not attain the age of superannuation on 30th September 1962, and as such he should be deemed to have continued in service. The result is that he shall be given emloyment and is entitled to wages for the period from the date of his superannuation (30th September 1962) till the date of his reinstatement.

This is my award, and it will come into operation within one month of its publication in the "Calcutta Gazette".

ANNEXURE

In the matter of an industrial dispute between Messrs. Lakshmi Printing Works Ltd., 370 Upper Chitpur Road, Calcutta-6, and their workmen represented by Press Employees' Association, 249B Bowbazar Street, 1st floor, Calcutta-12. (Case No. VIII-25/64.)

For the Union: Shri Anil Das Chowdhury, Advocate.

The Government of West Bengal by its Labour Department Order No. 256-I.R./IR/13L-5/64, dated 29th January 1964, referred to this Tribunal an industrial dispute between Messrs. Lakshmi Printing Works Ltd., 370 Upper Chitpur Road, Calcutta-6, and their workmen represented by Press Employees' Association, 249B Bowbazar Street, 1st floor, Calcutta-12, for adjudication under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act.

The issue framed in this case for adjudication runs as follows:-

Whether the termination of service of the following workmen is justified? To what relief, if any, they are entitled?

(1) Apurba Kumar Guin.

(2) Paban Kumar Mandal.

(3) Sk. Imambox.

(4) Ashim Kumar Dey.

AWARD

After receipt of the reference, notices were duly served on the parties calling upon them to appear and file their respective written statements. The Union appeared and filed its written statement, but the Company did not. The matter was posted to 7th July 1964 for ex parte hearing. The Union's case is that the four workmen concerned in this dispute were associated with the Union and submitted a charter of demands in July 1963 (Ext. 1). This caused the annoyance of the Company towards these four workmen who took active part in the affairs of the Union. This is the evidence of P.W. 1 Shri Paban Kumar Mandal. His further evidence is that he worked in the Company up to 4th October 1963, and on that very date they were told that their service stood terminated with effect from the next day, i.e., from 5th October 1963, and this was in respect of Apurba, Paban and Imambox. P.W. 1 Shri Paban Kumar Mandal further states that they were victimised because of their association with the Union. No charge sheet was issued against these three workmen, nor was any enquiry held against them. This will appear from the evidence of Paban. That being the evidence on the side of the Union and in the absence of any evidence to the contrary on the side of the Company, the only inevitable conclusion is that Apurba, Paban and Imambox were victimised by the Management and their services were terminated on 5th October 1963 without any justification. They are, therefore, entitled to reinstatement with back wages with effect from 5th October 1963 till the date of their reinstatement, and their service should be deemed to be a continuous one without any break. Paban, Apurba and Imambox would get back wages at the rate of Rs. 70, Rs. 85 and Rs. 75, respectively, and this was their pay at the time of termination of service as stated by P.W. 1 Paban.

With regard to the other workman Shri Ashim Kumar Dey, the Union's written statement is silent as to how his service stood terminated. In paragraph 14 of the Union's written statement, the only allegation is that on a subsequent date his service was terminated. Ashim does not come up before this Tribunal nor does he adduce any evidence in support of his claim. The written statement of the Union as well as the evidence of P.W. 1 Shri Paban Kumar Mandal are silent as to the date of termination of service of Ashim. That being the case, Ashim is not entitled to any relief in this case. This is my award and it will come into operation wthin one month of its publication in the "Calcutta Gazette".

LABOUR DEPARTMENT

ORDERS

No. 3224I.R./IR/10L-149(A)/64.—27th July 1964. —Whereas under the Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, Order No. 3537-I.R./IR/10L-97/62, dated the 6th August 1962 (hereinafter referred to as the said order), the industrial disputes between the employers of the Engineering Establishments mentioned in the List I of the said Order and represented either by themselves or by the organisations mentioned in the List II of the said order on the one hand, and their workmen represented by the Trade Unions mentioned in the List III of the said Order, on the other, regarding the issues mentioned in the said Order, being matters specified in the Third Schedule to the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), was referred to the Seventh Industrial Tribunal for adjudication;

And whereas during the pendency of proceedings before the said Industrial Tribunal Shri Rabindra Nath Das, a workman of Messrs. Industry Side (P) Ltd. 6/B Dihi Serampore Road, P.O. Park Street, Calcutta, one of the companies involved in the said disputes, the said Company made a complaint in writing to the said Industrial Tribunal against the said Company alleging that the said Company had terminated the services of the said workman concerned in such dispute;

And whereas in exercise of the powers conferred by section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), the said Industrial Tribunal has adjudicated upon the said complaint and submitted its award to the State Government;

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the provisions of section 17 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), the Governor is pleased hereby to publish the said award as shown in the annexure hereto.

ANNEXURE

In the matter of a complaint under section 33A, Industrial Disputes Act, by Shri Rabindra Nath Das, a workman of Messrs. Industry Side (P.) Ltd. of 6/B Dihi Serampore Road, P.O. Park Street, Calcutta. (Address: 40 Babu Bagan, P.O. Dhakuria, Calcutta) (Case No. 53 of 1964 under section 33A.)

BEFORE THE SEVENTH INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL

PRESENT:

Shri S. K. RAY, Judge, Seventh Industrial Tribunal

For the Workman: None.

For the Company: Shri J. R. Jain, Labour Adviser.

Award

This proceeding arises out of an application under section 33A, Industrial Disputes Act, made by Shri Rabindra Nath Das, a workman of Messrs. Industry Side (P) Ltd., complaining that his services were all on a sudden wrongfully terminated by the Company by its letter, dated 30th January 1964, on a vague charge of misconduct during the pendency of the adjudication proceedings of another dispute between the Company and its workmen, referred to this Tribunal by Government Order No. 3537-I.R./IR/10L-97/62, dated 6th August 1962.

The Company appeared and took some adjournments for filing its written statement. The last adjourned date for filing written satement by the Company was 24th June 1964. On that date, the Company applied for another adjournment for filing its written statement, but the workman filed a verified petition stating that he did not like to pursue his complaint any further, as the case had been amicably settled out of court and praying that his application under section 33A might be treated as withdrawn. This petition was filed after the Company had already filed its petition for adjournment and the case had been adjourned to 9th July 1962 for filing written statement by the Company. So, the workman's petition was also ordered to be put up on the next adjourned date (9th July 1964). On 9th July 1964 the Company's representative was present, but none appeared for the workman. The workman's petition filed on 24th June 1964 was considered and award was reserved.

When the applicant workman has stated by a verified petition that he does not want to pursue this complaint and the case may be disposed of as withdrawn and when no other step was taken on 9th July 1964, the date fixed for consideration of this petition on behalf of the workman, it is to be considered that the applicant workman sticks to his petition, dated 24th June 1964, and does not want to pursue his complaint and wants it to be disposed of as withdrawn. The case is accordingly to be disposed of on the basis of that petition.

In the result, I dispose of this case as withdrawn by the applicant in terms of his petition, dated 24th June 1964, and award accordingly. A copy of the applicant's petition, dated 6th July 1964 is made a part of the award as an Annexure.

AWARD

After service of usual notices on the parties, both the Union and the employers filed their written statements setting forth their respective cases. The written statement of the Union was filed by Dhapa Mazdoor Sabha which claims to represent the workmen. Shri Dhirendra Nath Sen, Shri Jitendra Nath Sen and Shri Bishnu Charan Sen were the Lessees of Dhapa Square Miles under the Corporation of Calcutta. It was the duty of the Lessees to unload the garbage from the railway wagons of the Calcutta Corporation which are placed at various points of Dhapa Square Miles. For the purpose of unloading the garbage the Lessees settled a large number of scavengers in hutments built by them on the Corporation land in the Dhapa Area. The scavengers are residing there for 15/20 years. They used to be paid at the rate of As. 12 per head per diem for the work of unloading the garbage. They worked from 6 a.m. to 2 p.m. The Union was formed in 1962 and it submitted a charter of demands. There was an agreement between the employers and the Dhapa Mazdoor Sabha on 13th June 1962. By another agreement, the workers were paid Rs 1/8 per head per diem as wages. The formation of the Union was viewed with disfavour by the employers. The employers through their agent Shri Jadu Nandan Singh started torturing the workmen. In the morning on 5th September 1962 about 200 armed men raided the hutments of these scavengers and assaulted everyone including the womenfolk, demolished their huts and looted the belongings of the workmen. The authorities of the Calcutta Corporation and Government intervened and stopped exodus of workers from the Dhapa Area. As a temporary measure, the Calcutta Corporation took over the management from the Lessees, and continued it up to 30th October 1962. On 1st November 1962 the Lessees' men again took charge of the work, but refused to give employment to the 65 workmen named in the order of reference. This is a case of victimisation of the loyal men to the Union, as the Lessees are recruiting new men from outside for their work.

The employers filed a written statement wherein they also raised a preliminary objection that it is not an industrial dispute. Their first contention is that there is no relationship of employer and employee between the Lessees and the 65 men listed in the order of reference. The Lessees employed the workmen casually and not permanently. It is also contended that the Union which is representing the workmen in this case has no locus standi. Some of the workmen are still working under the Lessees. There is in fact no refusal of employment to any one, but the listed workmen themselves did not turn up for work. The practice is that women work on each wagon, and the number of men required for unloading the garbage depends on the number of wagons which arrive for clearance each day. There are 400 families of scavengers residing in the Dhapa Area, and the daily requirement is barely 200 men, and sometimes it is even less.

Decision

The first question is whether it is an industrial dispute. I will consider this question in its different aspects. The first question is whether the present Union can represent the workmen listed in the order of reference. The employers entered into an agreement with the Dhapa Mazdoor Sabha on the point of wages of the workmen, and that agreement is dated 13th June 1962. About the formation of the Union, there is abundant evidence, and in particular I may refer to the evidence of P.W. 2 Shri Pashan. There is no evidence that there is any other Union there. Even conceding that this is the sole Union in the Dhapa Area, the point further to be investigated is whether the present dispute, i.e., the question of refusal of employment to the 65 workmen, has been espoused by an appreciable number of workmen. It is the evidence of P.W. 2 Shri Pashan that he is a member of the Executive Committee of the Union, and that Union has 256 members. He also states that the dismissed workmen are also members of this Union. He stated at page 4 of his evidence that he informed the Union about refusal of work to him by the Lessees' men, but he could not say if the other dismissed workmen have acted like him. He further added that he does not know if the other workmen concerned in this dispute gave any authority in writing to the Union to take up their case. Lastly he added that those workmen told the Union to take up their case, and this they did in his presence. Of the 65 workmen who are alleged to have been dismissed, only three workmen P.W. 2 Shri Pashan, P.W. 3 Shri Madhab and P.W. 4 Shri Kuran gave evidence in this case, and none of them besides Pashan stated that the Union was authorised to take up their case. There is no paper or document to show that the Union was authorised in this respect by even the dismissed workmen, not to speak of an appreciable number of workmen. According to the Union, there are 250 persons who are employed, and of them only Pashan stated that he authorised the Union to take up his case of refusal of employment by the Lessees. On the other hand, the employers examined two of the alleged dismissed workmen, and they are O.P.W. 3 Shri Ghamandi and O.P.W. 4 Shri Bandhan. They stated in their evidence that they did not authorise the Union to champion their case. Bandhan stated in his evidence that he is still working under the Lessees. This is the position in relation to the dismissed workmen. There is no evidence that any other workmen excluding the dismissed workmen authorised the Union to take up the present dispute. In the present state of evidence, the argument advanced on the side of the employers is that the Union has no authority to espouse the cause of the alleged dismissed workmen, because there is no evidence that an appreciable number of workmen authorised the Union in this respect. In this view of the matter, there is no industrial dispute; and if any dispute exists it is an individual dispute in respect of Shri Pashan and two others who gave evidence in this case. None of the other workmen were examined before this Tribunal.

Another aspect of the case is whether the workmen listed in the order of reference are the employees of the Lessees, i.e., whether they are workmen within the definition of section 2(s) of the Act and whether it is an industrial dispute within the meaning of clause (k) of the said section. This point is argued with some emphasis on the side of the Lessees, who are the employers. The following facts emerged from evidence. The Sen Babus are the Lessees of the Calcutta Corporation under a Registered Deed of Lease (Ext. 4). There are 14 lease-holders, and only three of them have been mentioned in the order of reference. I do not think that it is a fatal defect. The Lessees enjoy several acres of land in Dhapa area in lieu of cash rent as also a duty cast upon them to clear the garbage from the wagons which daily arrive at Dhapa carrying municipal garbage. The system is that the Lessees employ scavengers for unloading of wagons and they engage two men for each wagon. The Lessees built several hutments in the Dhapa area where 400 families reside. They are all scavengers and their duty is to unload the garbage. Wages are paid daily at the rate of Rs. 1/8 per diem per head. About 70 to 80 wagons loaded with garbage arrive daily at the Dhapa area, and double the number of men are employed for clearing the same. 50/60 men are employed for carrying drinking water and spreading the garbage over the field. Usually 200 men used to get work daily. Thus out of 400 men the daily requirement was for 200 men. The system of employment can be found in the evidence of P.W. 1 Shri Panchu Gopal Dey (who supervised the work of the scavengers on behalf of the Calcutta Corporation for a couple of months) and from the evidence of other witnesses also. The work of supervision in respect of clearing of garbage by the scavengers from the railway wagons used to be conducted by the Lessees. There was a severe riot on 5th September 1962 in the Dhapa area, and the scavengers were the victims of riot at the hands of the Lessees' men. There had been a criminal case over that occurrence, but we are not concerned so much with that. As a result of the riot, the scavengers fled away, and they were induced by the authorities of the Calcutta Corporation to return to work, and during September and October 1962 the Calcutta Corporation itself took over the work of supervision. During Corporation period, Shri Panchu Gopal Dey, who is a Permanent Way Inspector of the said Corporation, was put in charge of supervision of the work of the scavengers. The Corporation, however, left on 1st November 1962 making over the charge of supervision to the Lessees again. Shri Dey's evidence is that he maintained a list of workers who worked during Corporation period (Ext. 1) and employed men who reported for work. According to him, about 300 people used to come for work, and none of them was refused employment. The list (Ext. 1) was not, however, signed by the Lessees' men. The practice of employment was that about 200 people out of 400 residents used to be employed daily, and in fact a larger number of workmen than the actual requirement used to turn up for work. Those who could not be given any work on the day they presented themselves for work, were given employment on the next day. Thus there was no fixed number of men working regularly, and there was no obligation on the part of the men living in the Dhapa area to turn up for work. Pashan wanted to say that those who were unwilling to work were forcibly engaged in work by the Lessees. This is unbelievable, because more than the required number of men used to report for work each day. His further evidence is that the workmen did not apply for leave of absence to the Lessees. There was no obligation for the absentees to apply for leave. Another workman P.W. 4 Shri Kuran stated the same thing. He also added that they did not get any wages for the days they did not work. It cannot, therefore, be said that the 65 workmen named in the order of reference had any right to be employed every day or on fixed days, nor had they any obligation to turn up for work on any particular hour on any particular day. The position accordingly is that the employer was free to appoint any number of workmen out of 400 scavengers residing in the Dhapa area according to requirement depending on arrival of wagons for clearance. Thus no fixed set of men had any right of employment on any particular day. When a worker was appointed, his employment was for that day only, and he had no right of employment on the next day or on any fixed date thereafter. The contract of labour was on the basis of daily wages for the day of appointment only. The above facts will lead to the only conclusion that there was no relationship of master and servant between the Lessees and the concerned persons who used to turn up for work along with others, and if the employers did not appoint them on any particular day, they had no right to force employment upon the employers. In a case reported in 1962 I L.L.J. page 119, the Hon'ble Supreme Court made the following observations:

> "It is true that piece-rated workers or part-time workers could be workers within the definition of worker in the Act. But they must be regular workers and not workers who come and work according to their sweet will, or they must have under their contract of service an obligation to work either for fixed period or between fixed hours. The whole conception of service does not fit in well with a 'servant who has full liberty to attend to his work according to his pleasure and not according to the orders of his master'."

In the present case, the right of control undoubtedly was with the Lessees for the day of employment. But it does not mean that the Lessees had control over each one of the 400 scavengers residing in the area to join work, as by the very nature of work the Lessees require only 200/250 men each day. My conclusion accordingly is that the 65 workmen mentioned in the order of reference are not "workmen" within the definition of the Act, nor is it an industrial dispute within the definition of section 2(s) of the Act, because there is no relationship of master and servant as contemplated under the Act. That being the position, the instant dispute is not an industrial dispute, and the reference is bad in law. Since the reference is incompetent, it is not necessary for the Tribunal to go into the merits of the alleged refusal of employment by the employers to the workmen concerned. I may also point out that the 65 workmen named cannot force employment upon the Lessees, as they have no right of employment, and even if the Lessees refused employment to them, the said refusal cannot be held to be unjustified. I accordingly decide the present dispute in favour of the Lessees, and no relief can be given to the workmen.

This is my award.

No. 3272-I.R./IR/11L-416/63. 28th July 1964.— Whereas under the Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, Order No. 4454-I.R./IR/11L-416/63, dated the 4th November 1963, the industrial dispute between Messrs. Britannia Biscuit Co. Ltd., 15 Taratolla Road, Alipore, Calcutta-27, and their workmen represented by the Britannia Biscuit Co. Employees' Union, 15 Taratolla Road, Calcutta-27, regarding the issue mentioned in the said order being a matter specified in the second schedule to the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), was referred for adjudication to the Fifth Industrial Tribunal;

And whereas the said Fifth Industrial Tribunal has submitted to the State Government its award on the said industrial dispute;

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the provisions of section 17 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), the Governor is pleased hereby to publish the said award as shown in the annexure hereto.

ANNEXURE

In the matter of an industrial dispute between Messrs. Britannia Biscuit Co. Ltd., 15 Taratolla Road, Alipore, Calcutta-27, and their workmen represented by the Britannia Biscuit Co. Employees' Union, 15 Taratolla Road, Calcutta-27. (Case No. 256 of 1963.)

BEFORE THE FIFTH INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL

Present:

Shri K. P. MUKHERJI, Judge,
Fifth Industrial Tribunal.

Present for the Company: Shri S. K. Mukherji, Personnel Officer of the Company.

Present for the Union: Shri Sundari Mohan Chatterjee, the concerned workman himself.

This dispute between Messrs. Britannia Biscuit Co. Ltd. and their workmen was referred to this Tribunal under Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, Order No. 4454-I.R./IR/11L-416 63, dated the 4th November 1963, under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, for adjudication upon the only issue which is as follows:

Whether the dismissal of Shri Sundari Mohan Chatterjee, a Van Clerk of the Company, is justified? To what relief, if any, is he entitled?

After receipt of the order of reference on 7th November 1963, usual notices were issued to both the parties fixing 23rd November 1963 for appearance and filing of the written statement by the Union. The Union filed its written statement on 21st November 1963 and the Company filed its written statement on 26th December 1963. After several adjournments the case was fixed for hearing on 29th July 1964. On 15th July 1964 the workman concerned appeared and put in a petition stating that the dispute with the Company has been amicably settled out of Court, and he did not want to proceed with the case and did not press for his reinstatement. The workman concerned has been identified by the Personnel Officer of the Company. It is stated by the workman concerned that he does not claim reinstatement as the dispute has been amicably settled. In view of the petition filed and the statement made by the workman concerned, it is clear that the workman concerned does not want an adjudication of the dispute as it has been amicably settled. The dispute is, therefore, to be deemed to be non-existent and an award is to be made accordingly, on the basis that at present there is no subsisting dispute for adjudication as stated in the petition. In the result, I make a "no dispute" award in the case.

AWARD

The above dispute over the issues given in the order of reference and reproduced below was referred for adjudication to this Tribunal by the much with that. As a result of the riot, the scavengers fled away, and they were induced by the authorities of the Calcutta Corporation to return to work, and during September and October 1962 the Calcutta Corporation itself took over the work of supervision. By order of the Governor,

No. 3272-I.R./IR/11L-416/63. 28th July 1964.— Whereas under the Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, Order No. 4454-I.R./IR/11L-416/63, dated the 4th November 1963, the industrial dispute between Messrs. Britannia Biscuit Co. Ltd., 15 Taratolla Road, Alipore, Calcutta-27, and their workmen represented by the Britannia Biscuit Co. And whereas the said Fifth Industrial Tribunal has submitted to the State Government its award on the said industrial dispute; workmen stated in the Union's written statement. With these observations regarding the general allegations made by the Union, I proceed to consider the cases of the workmen in this dispute on merits.

The relevant facts and circumstances connected with the case of each workman and the relevant cases of the parties on disputed points regarding each workman will appear from the following discussions for determination of the issues.

I will now proceed to consider and decide the case of each workman separately under each issue.

Issue No. 1:

Shri Samar Rakshit (serial No. 1) and Shri Gobardhan Barik (serial No. 5)

It is proved on the Company's side by the evidence of O.P.W. 2 Shri A. P. Banerji, the Senior Partner of the Company, and by Exts. K and K(1) that these two workmen have settled their disputes with the Company and have taken payments of all their dues from the Company in full and final settlement of their accounts, stating that they have no other claims or dues against the Company. There is practically no challenge to this evidence on the Company's side. None of these two workmen has come forward to deny the Company's evidence regarding them. There is no reason to disbelieve this evidence on the Company's side. Exhibits K and K(1), the receipts of these two workmen, clearly establish the position that they have settled their disputes with the Company and have received full payments of their dues and they have no further claims against the Company. Accordingly, there is to be a "no dispute" award in respect of these two workmen. So, at once I make a "no dispute" award regarding these two workmen on the footing that no dispute for adjudication exists in regard to them.

Shri Tapan Banerjee (serial No. 2):

The Union's case in respect of this workman is contained in paragraph (17) of the Union's written statement and the Company's case in regard to him is to be found in paragraph (12) of its written statement. The Union's case is simply this: He was a typist-cum-clerk and was served with a notice of termination of service by the Company's letter, dated 13th February 1962, on the ground that there was no work. The Company's case is as follows: The service of this workman was retrenched, as he was found surplus to the Company's requirements and he was offered all his legal dues personally on the day of retrenchment and Government was also informed. This workman refused to accept his legal dues even though these were sent to him by M.O. The Company acted bona fide in retrenching him.

Coming to the evidence regarding the case of this workman, I find that there is practically no evidence on the side of the Union while there is evidence on the Company's side to prove that this workman was retrenched, as he became surplus to the Company's requirements and he was offered all his dues, including the retrenchment compensation at first by cheque and this offer having been refused, the money was sent to him by M.O. and this also came back as refused. O.P.W. 2 Shri A. P. Banerjee has proved this case of the Company in his evidence practically without any challenge from the side of the Union in cross-examination. His evidence stands as follows: "Tapan Banerjee was retrenched for insufficient work by a letter. This is a copy of the letter (Ext. L). We offered him retrenchment compensation by cheque, but he refused to accept the cheque. Then we sent compensation to him by M.O., but this was also refused. This is the cheque and this is the refused M.O. [Exts. M and M(1)] We sent this notice of retrenchment in P form to the Labour Directorate. [Proves copy of the notice with receipt, Exts. N and N(1)]. The exhibits referred to in his evidence fully support his testimony. The evidence practically stands ex-parte and unchallenged and there is no reason why it should not be accepted. Accordingly, I accept the Company's case regarding this workman and hold that he was legally retrenched on being considered surplus to the Company's requirements on account of insufficiency of work and he was offered full retrenchment compensation and the Company fully complied with the requirements of clauses (a) to (c) of section 25F, Industrial Disputes Act. It appears from Ext. L that his retrenchment became necessary because the post that he was holding was abolished. The Company has certainly the right to decide whether it should maintain any post in its establishment and there is nothing to show that the Company's decision in the matter of the abolition of the post of this workman was mala fide or motivated by any vindictive bias against this workman. This workman himself has not come forward to challenge his retrenchment as unnecessary and mala fide. In the result, I hold upon the evidence that this workman was validly and legally retrenched and the Company acted bona fide and for sufficient reason in retrenching him and all the formalities of clauses (a) to (c) of section 25F were complied within the matter of his retrenchment. Though he refused the offer of notice pay and retrenchment compensation made by the Company, [vide refused M.O. form Ext. M(1)] he is still at liberty to take payment of the money from the Company.

Accordingly, I hold in his case that his service was terminated by valid and legal retrenchment and he is not entitled to any relief. He may, however, draw one month's wages and retrenchment compensation from the Company, as already offered to him.

Shri Aloke Barik (serial No. 3) and Shri Druba Barik (serial No. 4)

The common case of both parties in respect of these two workmen as follows: Each of them was charge-sheeted on 8th February 1962 for refusing to carry out the order of his superior officer, Shri G. K. Sinha, to deliver some materials to the D.C.O.S, S. E. Railway, at Shalimar, in company with Shri Dulal Bhattacharjee and also behaving roughly with the said superior officer. Exhibits B and B(1) are the admitted charge-sheets. Each of them submitted his reply to the charge-sheet. Exhibit C is Druba Barik's reply to the charge-sheet and Ext. C(1) is Aloke Barik's reply to the charge-sheet. In both these replies, both of them denied the charge of refusing to go to Shalimar according to the orders of Shri G. K. Sinha and further alleged that they were not allowed to do their normal duties since 29th January 1962, when the Union called off the strike. A domestic enquiry was held after notice to these workmen. The enquiry commenced on 14th February 1962 and after partial enquiry, the proceedings were adojurned to 17th February 1962 and were concluded on that date. Exhibit D series are the notices of the enquiry dates, 14th February 1962 and 17th February 1962, given to these workmen. According to the Union, the enquiry was adjourned to 17th February 1962, as the witnesses did not make statements in support of the charge. The Union has also asserted that no representative of the workmen was allowed to take part in the enquiry in spite of repeated requests. The enquiry was conducted in Bengali and so a representative was necessary. After the enquiry, the workmen were dismissed by the Company's letters, dated 20th February 1962. The Company's case is that quite a fair and proper enquiry was held regarding the charge against these workmen and a joint enquiry was held because the charge against each was the same and at the enquiry both of them were present and they were given full opportunity to meet the charge and defend themselves. The enquiry officer found them guilty of the charge and thereupon the Company dismissed them. The crucial point to be decided in the case of these two workmen upon the facts admitted by both parties is whether a fair and proper enquiry according to the principles of natural justice was held by offering them full liberty to meet the charge and defend themselves. The enquiry was held by Shri Paresh Chandra Aich, Accountant of the Company. He has given evidence (O.P.W. 1). Exhibit E constitutes the recorded enquiry proceedings. It shows that the enquiry commenced on 14th February 1962 and the superior officer Shri G. K. Sinha, whose order to carry some materials to Shalimar was said to have been disobeyed by these two workmen, was examined on that date and thereafter the enquiry was adjourned to 17th Febraury 1962, on which date some other witnesses were examined and the statements of the charge-sheeted workmen were recorded. It further appears that the enquiry was conducted in Bengali and the proceedings were also recorded in Bengali. It is recorded in the enquiry proceedings that both the workmen were asked to cross-examine each witness, but they declined and they were also asked to produce witness, if any, on their side, but they declined to produce any witness. The fact of their refusal to produce any witness is recorded in the enquiry proceedings held both on 14th February 1962 and on 17th February 1962 (vide page 2 of the proceedings of 14th February 1962 and also page 2 of the proceedings of 17th February 1962 in Ext. E). O.P.W. 1 Shri Paresh Chandra Aich, the enquiry officer, has proved the relevant documents including the recorded enquiry proceedings. His evidence is substantially in accord with the recorded proceedings. Only in one respect I find some difference between his statement and the recorded enquiry proceedings. The enquiry proceedings, dated 17th February 1962, show that both these two workmen made some statements and these are recorded. But in his evidence, Shri Paresh Chandra Aich has stated that none of the charge-sheeted workmen made any statement, though he asked them to make any statement if they desired. I think it was nothing but a mistake due to lapse of memory on his part. The recorded enquiry proceedings cannot be rejected simply on this ground. None of these concerned workmen has come forward to give evidence against the enquiry proceedings. There is no word of challenge against the bona fides and correctness of the proceedings as recorded in Ext. E. I am fully satisfied from Ext. E and the evidence of O.P.W. 1 Shri Paresh Chandra Aich that there was a fair and proper enquiry according to the principles of natural justice and in this enquiry both the workmen were given every liberty and opportunity to cross-examine the Company's witnesses who were examined in their presence and they were also asked to produce their witnesses, if any, but they declined to produce any witness. I am further satisfied that the Company acted bona fide and without any spirit of victimisation or any trace of unfair labour practice and there was no basic error or violation of any principle of natural justice in the matter of holding the enquiry. There is absolutely no evidence before me to justify the contention made in the Union's written statement that the enquiry was adjourned from 14th February 1962 to 17th February 1962 simply because the witness did not make statements according to the Company's instructions. On 14th February 1962 only Shri G. K. Sinha was examined and he fully supported the charge and on 17th February 1962, two other Company's witnesses were examined and they also supported the charge. It is to be noted that in the statements made by these two workmen at the enquiry, they were asked why they did not take the materials to Shalimar and both of them stated that it was not possible to do all works at all times. This was not certainly a plausible and acceptable defence to the charge of disobeying the lawful orders of a superior officer to perform their duty of taking some materials to Shalimar. Exhibit F is the report of Shri G. K. Sinha upon which the charge-sheets were issued. Exhibit G is the report of the enquiry officer in which he found both the workmen guilty of the charge. I have considered the evidence produced at the enquiry and I find that the finding of the enquiry officer was not perverse or baseless. There was certainly sufficient materials upon which he could make such a finding. On the aforesaid findings about the enquiry regarding the charge-sheets to these two workmen, I must accept the enquiry and the report as correct and bona fide. After this, I would have no justification or jurisdiction to cancel the enquiry and the report and go independently into the merits of the charge against these workmen. They were certainly guilty of a gross misconduct in that they refused to obey the lawful orders of their superior officer in respect of performance of their duties and such misconduct certainly merited the punishment of dismissal. Accordingly, I find in the case of these two workmen that they were dismissed on a charge of gross misconduct after a fair and proper enquiry according to the principles of natural justice and the Company acted bona fide and without any trace of unfair labour practice in dismissing them on the basis of the enquiry report, which was certainly not perverse or baseless. They are, therefore, not entitled to any relief. I award accordingly in their case.

Shri Nathuni Jha (serial No. 6)

The Union's case in respect of this workman is given in paragraphs 20 and 21 of its written statement. It is that he was given a notice of termination of service by the Company's letter, dated 23rd February 1962. This letter was duly replied to and the charge made in the Company's letter was denied. The matter was taken up for conciliation, but the Company did not attend the conciliation meetings called by the Conciliation Officer. The Company's case in respect of this workman is contained in paragraph 13 of its written statement. The Company has alleged as follows: He was working as a mazdoor under the Company. He absented himself suddenly from 4th June 1962 simply on verbal intimation to his co-worker. He was granted seven days' leave by the Company's letter, dated 5th June 1962. The leave expired on 11th June 1962. Thereafter, he did not join his duty, nor gave any information to the Company. As he overstayed his sanctioned leave by more than 10 days, it was deemed that he had voluntarily left the Company's service and his name was struck off from the Company's record and a letter was issued to him on 22nd June 1962 terminating his services according to the Company's rules and regulations. Nathuni Jha appeared to give evidence in support of his case. In fact, he is the only witness examined by the Union. It is not disputed that he was at the relevant time working as a labourer. Exhibit A is the written application for leave. In this application, leave was asked for from the date of the letter, i.e., 2nd June 1962 up to 26th June 1962, on the ground that his wife was seriously ill at home and he had received a telegram to that effect. Nathuni has stated that he personally tendered this letter to Shri A. P. Banerjee, the Senior Partner, and he verbally permitted him to go home that very day. The evidence of Shri A. P. Banerjee on this point is that he never came to him with the letter, Ext. A, nor did he tell him anything about the leave and he did not turn up for work from 5th June 1962 (Monday) and one of his co-workers gave him the letter, Ext. A. His further evidence is that Nathuni left his work on Saturday, 3rd June 1962, and he got the letter, Ext. A, on 5th June 1962. The letter, however, bears the seal of the Company, dated 4th June 1962. I think he has made a confusion about the dates. Fifth June 1962 was not a Monday it was a Tuesday and 4th June 1962 was a Monday. It is clear, therefore, that he received the letter on 4th June 1962. However, his evidence is that this workman left work on 3rd June 1962 without handing over this letter to him or taking any permission from him and he got this letter from some of his co-workers on 5th June 1962. I think this date should be 4th June 1962. After considering the evidence of Nathuni Jha and Shri A. P. Banerjee, I prefer to accept the evidence of Shri A. P. Banerjee and I hold thereon that this workman did not take any verbal permission from Shri A. P. Banerjee before he left work on the basis of the application for leave (Ext. A) and this letter was presented to Shri A. P. Banerjee on 4th June 1962 by a co-worker of this workman who had then already left work. It comes to this, therefore, that this workman, left work and went away without getting any permission from Shri A. P. Banerjee or any other competent officer. It is further proved by the evidence of Shri A. P. Banerjee that after getting the letter, Ext. A, the Company sent the letter, Ext. H, to his home address informing him that his application for leave had been considered and he had been allowed seven days' leave and he was to join positively on 11th June 1962. This letter was sent under certificate of posting [Ext. H(1)]. It is to be presumed that it reached Nathuni Jha. Admittedly, he did not come back to duty on 11th June 1962. The Company waited for eleven days more and then issued the letter, Ext. 1, dated 22nd February 1962, terminating the services of this workman on the ground that he had not only not joned on 11th June 1962, but had also remained absent from duty unauthorisedly for over ten days and according to the Company's rules such absence was to result in automatic termination of his service. It appears that Nathuni Jha sent a reply to this letter on 22nd June 1962, and his reply was considered by the Company and then the reply, Ext. J, dated 3rd July 1962, was sent to him. In this reply, all the pleas taken in Nathuni's reply were denied. Some of these pleas have also been taken here on behalf of Nathuni. In the Company's letter, dated 3rd July 1962, the Company clearly stated the case now alleged in the written statement in respect of this workman. Exhibit I is the standing rules and regulations relating inter alia to service conditions of the workmen of this Company. According to rule 21, if an employee remains absent without report consecutively for a week, his services may be terminated without giivng him a notice. The Company claims to have acted under this rule. After considering the entire evidence and circumstances of the case bearing on Nathuni, I find that really he left work on 3rd June 1962 without taking any permission, verbal or written, and the leave application (Ext. A) was received by Shri A. P. Banerjee on 4th June 1962 and on this application, he was granted seven days' leave and was asked to report on 11th June 1962, but he did not report for duty on that date, and continued to be absent from duty up to 22nd June 1962 and on this date, the Company treated his service as terminated according to rule 21 of the standing rules and regulations, and accordingly issued the letter, Ext. 1, to him. His remaining away from duty in spite of this Company's letter asking him to join on 11th June 1962 after expiry of seven days' leave granted to him, certainly amounted to unauthorised absence and it continued for about eleven days, and so the Company was quite within its legal rights in treating his service as terminated according to rule 21 of its standing rules. It has been vehemently urged before me by the Union's representative that the Company should have acted with some humane consideration and allowed him leave for a sufficient period to enable him to attend to his ailing wife at home and, in any case, the Company was not justified in giving him only seven days' leave when his going to and coming from home in Darbhanga district would take about four days. I have given careful consideration to this argument. It is to be noted that this workman left work without any verbal or written permission simply by leaving an application for leave with some co-worker on the plea of his wife's illness at home. It is said that he received a telegram and produced it before Shri A.

P. Banerjee. Shri A. P. Banerjee has denied that any telegram was produced before him. No such telegram has been produced before this Tribunal. Considering the overall facts and circumstances, I cannot say that the Company acted with a mala fide motive and with a spirit of victimisation in granting him only seven days' leave and then terminating his service on his failure to come back to duty after seven days and remaining absent for more than ten days after the expiry of the leave. The Company is fully entitled to act according to its rules and any termination of service made strictly according to rules cannot be negatived by the Tribunal simply on some humanitarian ground, as alleged. The workman should have applied for extension of leave for seven days allowed by the Company on receipt of the Company's letter, Ext. H, but he did nothing of the kind. On all the above considerations, I hold upon a direct and independent enquiry into the matter of termination of service of this workman that the Company acted bona fide according to its rules in terminating the service of this workman and he is not entitled to any relief. No doubt no charge-sheet was issued to this workman for the unauthorised absence in violation of rule 21 of the standing rules of the Company and no enquiry was held. In such a case the Tribunal must look into the merits of the case upon the evidence produced before it and it cannot straightaway declare the Company's action as mala fide and illegal simply because no charge-sheet was given and no enquiry was held. In such a case, the whole matter is at large and open before the Tribunal and the Tribunal must decide the matter independently upon the evidence produced before it. This is what I have done in the present case. In the result, I find that the termination of service of this workman was justified and he is not entitled to any relief. I award accordingly in his case.

Issue No. 2:

Shri Arun Basu Mullick (serial No. 2) and Shri Amar Dutta (serial No. 3)

These two workmen have amicably settled their disputes with the Company and have taken payment of all their dues from the Company in full and final settlement of their accounts and have no further claims against the Company. Exhibits K(2) and K(3) are the receipts granted by Shri Arun Basu Mullick (serial No. 2) and Shri Amar Dutta (serial No. 3), respectively, after accepting payment of their dues from the Company in full and final settlement of their claims and on relinquishment of any further claims against the Company. It appears that these two workmen also jointly filed an application before this Tribunal on 25th January 1964, stating that they had settled their case amicably with the Company and had received the amounts mentioned in Exts. K(2) and K(3) and they had no further grievance against or dispute with the Company. Copies of Exts. K(2) and K(3) were filed along with this application. None of these two workmen has come forward to give evidence in this case. On the above facts and circumstances, I hold that the dispute in respect of these two workmen has been amicably settled and there is now no existence of any dispute concerning these two workmen requiring adjudication. Accordingly, I make a "no dispute" award in respect of these two workmen on the footing that the dispute concerning them has ceased to exist.

Shri Ram Ch. Jha (serial No. 1), Shri Ajoy Mittei (serial No. 4) and Shri Misir Shah (serial No. 5)

The Union's case in respect of these three workmen is contained in paragraph 22 of its written statement, while the Company's case in respect of them is contained in paragraph 14 of its written statement. The Union's case is that they were not allowed to resume duties when the Union called off the strike by its letter, dated 27th January 1962, and with effect from 28th January 1962. The Union wrote a letter, dated 1st February 1962, to the Company regarding these workmen. The Company's case is that these three workmen worked for short periods of 89, 119 and 185 days respectively under the Company as casual and daily-rated workmen on "no work no pay" basis. They were so employed as mazdoors. As there was no work for them after the said periods, they did not report themselves for work after 3rd October 1962 and subsequently they took payment of all their dues in full settlement of their claims. No other workmen have been engaged by the Company after this.

I now come to the evidence in respect of the case concerning these three workmen. None of them has come forward to give evidence in support of the Union's case that they were not allowed to resume their work after the strike was called off. There is no other evidence on the Union's side in support of this case also. The only witness for the Union, P.W. 1 Shri Nathuni Jha, has not said a word about the case of these three workmen. On the other hand, O.P.W. 2 Shri A. P. Banerjee, the Senior Partner of the Company, has in his evidence supported the Company's case. The entries in the attendance registers [Exts. O to O(2)] have also been proved in support of the Company's case that they worked only for short periods as daily-rated casual workers. Shri A. P. Banerjee has denied that any of them was dismissed for Union activities. So, the position in respect of the evidence is that there is practically ex-parte and unrebutted evidence on the Company's side in support of its case concerning these workmen as against no evidence on the side of the Union. There is no reason why I should not accept the ex-parte and unrebutted evidence of the Company. Accordingly, I accept the Company's evidence and hold that these three workmen were employed as daily-rated casual workmen for short periods, each less than two hundred and forty days and they ceased to work when there was no more work for them. The Company's evidence is also that they took full payments of all their dues for their short periods of work. As each of them worked for less than two hundred and forty days, they are not entitled to any notice wages or retrenchment compensation, even if it assumed that the termination of their services amounted to retrenchment. In view of the above facts, I find that these three workmen who were daily-rated temporary and casual workers and had worked for short periods less than two hundred and forty days each were discharged for want of sufficient work, but they are not entitled to any notice wages or compensation, because none of them had completed two hundred and forty days of continuous service. I also hold that they left service on discharge on taking full payment of all their actual dues for the working periods. Their discharge was justified and they are not entitled to any further relief. I award accordingly in their case.

This finishes my award.

For the Company: Shri R. Goswami, Assistant Labour Adviser of Bengal Chamber of Commerce.

AWARD

The above dispute over the issue given in the order of reference and reproduced below was referred for adjudication to this Tribunal by the Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, order No. 2735-I.R./IR/11L-94(A)/63, dated the 11th July 1963.

Issue

Whether the retrenchment of Shri Anil Kuma Bhowmick and Shri Mir Jinnat Ali is justified What relief, if any, are they entitled to?

The material and relevant facts of the case an the respective cases of the parties on the disputed points will appear from the following discussions fo determination of the issue.

The issue relates to the retrenchment of two work men of the Company, Shri Anil Kumar Bhowmick and Shri Mir Jinnat Ali. It is an admitted position that these two workmen were retrenched by th Company with effect from 1st January 1963 under notices, dated 28th December 1962, and that at tha time, they were attached to the Stationery Depart ment of the Company at the head office in Calcutta Shri Anil Kumar Bhaumick was the clerk and Shr Mir Jinnat Ali was one of the two duftries attached to that department. Exhibits E and 5 are respec tively the retrenchment notices issued to Mir Jinna Ali and Shri Anil Kumar Bhaumick. The reason fo retrenchment given in both the notices is substan tially that the Company had decided to reorganise its establishment by decentralising the Stationery Department, which was then located at the Head Office and as a result of such reorganisation, both these workmen were surplus to the Company's requirements and so it had become necessary to retrench them. I quote below the common relevan portion of the two notices of retrenchment:

> "In order to obtain better results and to effec economy we have decided to decentralise th Stationery Department which is at presen located at Head Office. As a result of this reorganisation, your services are found surplus to our requirements and therefore it has become necessary to retrench you from our service as from the close of business on 31st December 1962."

In accordance with these notices, these workmen were retrenched with effect from 1st January 1963 It is also an admitted position before me that one month's wages in lieu of notice and retrenchment compensation under clauses (a) and (b) of section 25F, Industrial Disputes Act, were offered to these workmen, but they refused to accept the moneys offered. I am also satisfied from the evidence of P.W. 1 Shri D. A. MacGillivray, the Staff Manager of the Company, and Ext. D that the required notice of the retrenchment of these workmen in Form P under Rule 77 of the West Bengal Industrial Disputes Rules, 1958, was duly given to the Government in compliance with clause (c) of section 25F. So, it was a case of undisputed retrenchment of these two workmen and in effecting the retrenchment, the requirements of clauses (a) to (c) of section 25F, Industrial Disputes Act, were complied with. But the retrenchment itself has been challenged by the concerned Union as unjustified and a clear violation of the principle of natural justice, and it is also contended that the normal rule of "last come first go" was not at all observed in retrenching these workmen and so, there was clear violation of the provisions of section 25G, Industrial Disputes Act. It is alleged that there are still many clerks who are junior to Shri Anil Kumar Bhaumick and there are also employees junior to Shri Mir Jinnat Ali.

I will first deal with the question of justification of retrenchment itself. It will appear from the reason for retrenchment as given in the retrenchment notices, Exts. E and 5, that the only reason for retrenchment was that owing to reorganisation of the Company's establishment resulting in decentralisation of the Stationery Department which at that time was located at the Head Office, it was not necessary to employ all the workers in the Stationery Department and in view of this position, these two workers were considered surplus to the Company's requirements. It has been proved by the evidence of the Company's witness, Shri D. A. MacGillivray, the Staff Manager of the Company, without any challenge on the side of the Union that really there was reorganisation of the Stationery Department of the Company and by reorganisation, the Central Stationery Office which was located at the Head Office in Calcutta and which exclusively catered to the stationery requirements of all the Company's depots in various places, e.g., Bombay, Madras, etc., and its only factory at Sibpore was decentralised by giving power to the various depots and the factory to purchase their own items of stationery to a large extent. It cannot be gainsaid that as a result of such decentralisation by way of reorganisation of the Stationery Department of the Company, the work burden of the Central Stationery Department which originally catered to all the stationery needs of the various depots and the factory was certainly reduced and on account of such reduction of the work burden it was open to the Company to reduce its staff. The Company has pleaded that after such reorganisation of the Stationery Department, it considered reduction of the staff of the Central Stationery establishment necessary on the ground that the strength of the staff had become surplus to its requirements and so it retrenched these two workmen holding them to be surplus to its requirements. It is now well settled that an employer has the right to reorganise its business in any fashion he likes for the purpose of economy and convenience and to effect retrenchment on the ground of such organisation by way of economy or convenience and nobody has the right to question the propriety of such a course and the only limitation of the right of the employer in this respect is that he should effect the reorganisation bona fide and not with the ulterior object of victimising his employees so as to get rid of their services which would not otherwise be permissible and if an employer acts within the limits of bona fide exercise of discretion, it is not for the court or Tribunal to find fault with the discretion and condemn the scheme of reorganisation. This principle was laid down in the case of Parry & Co. vs. P. C. Paul & Ors. [1964(8) F.L.R., page 183]. This principle had already been laid down in two other cases reported in A.I.R., 1958, SC 102 and 56 C.W.N. 186. Dealing with the question of retrenchment itself in the present case, I must say at once that the Company was fully entitled in exercise of its inherent right of directing its own internal administration to reorganise the Stationery Department by decentralising it for the sake of convenience and economy and to effect retrenchment of personnel as a result of the reorganisation, if considered necessary. When the workload of the Central Stationery Department was substantially reduced by such decentralisation, the Company could effect retrenchment pari passu with the reduction of workload. In the matter of such reorganisation, the question of the financial position of the Company would be absolutely immaterial. The Company was certainly entitled to effect such reorganisation for the purpose of achieving economy and convenience. In the present case, there is no plea that the reorganisation was effect on account of stringent financial position of the Company and there is also no evidence to prove that the reorganisation was necessitated by poor trading results of the Company. In the above view of the relevant facts and circumstances of the case bearing on the question of retrenchment itself, I have no hesitation to hold that the Company was fully entitled to effect retrenchment of its staff after reorganisation of the stationery department by decentralising it and the idea of retrenchment itself was quite bona fide. There is no material before me upon which it can be held that the Company conceived and gave effect to the reorganisation of the Stationery Department with the mala fide motive of victimising its workman so as to get rid of their services which would not be otherwise possible.

In spite of the above position regarding the retrenchment itself, the Tribunal will also have to consider whether the retrenchment of these two workmen was effected strictly according to law and principles of social and natural justice. Here comes the question of observance or non-observance of the principle of "last come first go", which has been prescribed by the statute as the mandatory normal procedure under section 25G, Industrial Disputes Act. In fact, the retrenchment in question has been practically challenged at the hearing only on the ground that it was in violation of the provisions of section 25G, Industrial Disputes Act. The evidence of P.W. 1 Shri Anil Kumar Bhaumick is a clear indication of this position. He has mainly testified to facts bearing on violation of the principle of "last come first go". Section 25 further lays down that if there is any deviation from the mandatory normal procedure prescribed therein, the reasons therefor are to be recorded. The Union has strongly contended that in Company's establishment, there are still many clerks junior to Shri Anil Kumar Bhaumick. For the present, I will confine myself to the case of Shri Anil Kumar Bhaumick. Evidence discloses that the position of Shri Anil Kumar Bhaumick was that of a clerk in the Stationery Department at the time of his retrenchment and he was assigned to this department with effect from 12th January 1960 (vide Ext. 4) and before that he worked in some other positions since his appointment with effect from 28th May 1954 (Ext. 1). It appears that Shri Bhaumick was on first appointment posted as an assistant to Shri A. N. Munshi in the Sales Department. Exhibit B is Shri Bhaumick's own letter to the Company showing this and it is produced by the Company itself. In this letter, after stating that he had been posted on first appointment as an assistant to Shri Munshi, Shri Bhaumick asked for an appointment letter confirming his service. Exhibit 2 is a copy of the letter of confirmation issued to this workman, dated 21st June 1955. It may quite reasonably be said to have been issued in response to the letter, Ext. B. Exhibits A and 3 show that from 8th August 1958 this workman was deputed to assist Shri N. C. Chakravarty in the Accounts Department in addition to his other routine duties. He was appointed as a clerk and his services were utilized as a clerk in more than one department, viz., Sales Department and Accounts Department, before he was posted in the Stationery Department. No doubt, he was the only clerk in the Stationery Department at the time of his retrenchment. The evidence discloses that at that time the Central Stationery Department consisted of one or two officers, only one clerk Shri Bhaumick and two duftries. It cannot be gainsaid that he was retrenched as a clerk to which category he belonged since his appointment and in spite of his service in some other departments. He must be placed in the category of clerks along with all other clerks of the establishment. Section 25G lays down that when any workman is to be retrenched and he belongs to a particular category of workmen in that establishment, the employer shall ordinarily retrench the workmen who was last employed in that category, unless for reasons to be recorded any other workman is retrenched. The term "establishment" as used in this section must be taken to mean the general establishment and not a particular department unless it is a specialised or technical department, or an absolutely separate water-tight department having no connection with other departments. A stationery department cannot be said to be a specialised or technical department. An attempt was made by the Company to prove by evidence that the work of the concerned clerk, Shri Bhaumick was of a specialised nature. P.W. 1 Shri MacGillivary deposed to that effect. He gave reasons for considering the work of this clerk as a specialised work by saying that his duties included keeping the books of accounts and buying stationery articles whenever necessary and these might be called some sort of specialised work. I am unable to accept this contention. Keeping books of accounts of a Stationery Department and buying stationery articles cannot certainly be considered to be specialised work. Moreover, this plea of the work of this clerk having been of a specialised nature is nowhere to be found in the written statement filed by the Company. It is clearly an after-thought. I hold that there is no substance in the belated plea raised by the Company at the time of the hearing that the work of this clerk, Shri Bhaumick, in the Stationery Department from where he was retrenched, was of a specialised nature and that isolated him from the category of clerks. I hold on the contrary that even when he was acting as a clerk and the only clerk of the Stationery Department, he was nothing other than a general clerk and included in the general category of clerks in the whole establishment, including other departments. I am also unable to hold that the Stationery Department was an absolutely separate watertight department in the general establishment. I have already indicated above that this clerk had come to this department after working as a general clerk in several other departments. The nature of work in a Stationery Department cannot certainly constitute it a separate watertight department from other departments of the general establishment. There are some statements in the evidence of P.W. 1 Shri MacGillivary himself to support this position. His evidence is as follows: "We have attendance register of our clerks. Our attendance register will not show that there was a separate Stationery Department. The attendance registers are only books where clerks attending sign their names. It would not be possible to ascertain by going through attendance register which clerk is attached to which department. We maintain only one register for all our employees in the Head Office—clerks and subordinate staff." So, there is only one general attendance register for all clerks of the Head Office establishment, including the Stationery Department which is treated as a part of the general establishment. So, in effecting retrenchment of his post in the Stationery Department, the question of his seniority in the category of clerks should have been considered and the normal principle of "last come first go" in the category of clerks should have been strictly followed in selecting the person for retrenchment. It is pleaded in the Union's written statement and proved by the unchallenged evidence of O.P.W. 1 Shri Anil Kumar Bhaumick that there are a number of clerks in the Accounts Department who are all junior to him. He has named all these junior clerks in his evidence. His statement in this respect has not at all been challenged in cross-examination. So, the position was that at the time of retrenchment Shri Bhaumick was nothing but a general clerk in the Stationery Department which formed part of the general establishment of the Company at the Head Office and there were a number of clerks junior to him in some other departments of the establishment. In this position, the Company should have certainly given effect to the principle of "last come first go" in effecting retrenchment and when there are clerks junior to him in the establishment, he should not have been retrenched. Exactly similar decision was made by the Labour Appellate Tribunal in the case of Sandersan Banerjee and Ors. vs. McLeod & Co. [LLJ 1954(I), 174]. It was held in that case that for effecting retrenchment, the whole clerical staff employed in the various departments of the Head Office of the Company must be taken as a unit and the juniormost in each particular category must be retrenched. Accordingly, I find upon the facts proved in the present case that the Company did not follow the normal mandatory principle of "last come first go" in retrenching Shri Bhaumick after reorganisation of the Stationery Department without assigning any sufficient reason and his retrenchment was illegal for that reason. His retrenchment being illegal because of violation of the statutory principle laid down in section 25G, Industrial Disputes Act, cannot be supported and maintained in the present case and it must be held to be unjustified on that ground alone. On this basis, I hold that the retrenchment of Shri Anil Kumar Bhaumick was not justified, though on principle the action of the Company in taking steps for retrenchment was justified, as already indicated above. As the retrenchment of Shri Anil Kumar Bhaumick has been found to be unjustified on the ground that it was in violation of the principles of section 25G, Industrial Disputes Act, he is to get appropriate reliefs. I think there is no reason to deny him the normal relief of reinstatement with some back wages. In the overall circumstances of the case, I would allow him 50 per cent. of the back wages for the period between his retrenchment and reinstatement. This finishes the case of Shri Anil Kumar Bhaumick.

I now come to the case of the duftry Shri Mir Jinnat Ali. I have already held that in principle the Company was justified in effecting retrenchment in the Stationery Department on the ground of reorganisation. The evidence discloses that there were two duftries in the department and he was the junior of the two. There is no sufficient evidence before me to prove that there was any Duftry in any other department of the Company's general establishment who was junior to him at that time. This being the factual position, it cannot be considered that his retrenchment was in violation of the principle enacted in section 25G, Industrial Disputes Act. I have already indicated above that in effecting retrenchment, the Company complied with the requirements of clauses (a) to (c) of section 25F, Industrial Disputes Act, by offering the retrenched personnel wages for one month and statutory retrenchment compensation also by giving notice to the Government under Rule 77 of the West Bengal Industrial Disputes Rules. So, I hold that the retrenchment of Shri Mir Jinnat Ali was justified and he is not entitled to any relief.

On all the findings and for the reasons recorded above, I award as follows:

The retrenchment of Shri Anil Kumar Bhaumick was not justified. The Company shall reinstate him on his reporting for duty within 15 days from the publication of the award. The Company shall also pay 50 per cent. of his normal wages for the period from the date of retrenchment to reinstatement within a month from the publication of the award, on his reporting for duty in accordance with this award.

The retrenchment of Shri Mir Jinnat Ali was justified and he is not entitled to any relief.

This finishes my award.

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the provisions of section 17 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), the Governor is pleased hereby to publish the said award as shown in the annexure hereto.

ANNEXURE

In the matter of an industrial dispute between Messrs. Manalal M. Varma & Co. Ltd. and their associated Companies, viz., (1) Messrs. M. K. Varma & Sons (P) Ltd., (2) Messrs. Associated Pioneer Traders (P) Ltd., all of 135 Canning Street, Calcutta-1, on the one hand and their employees represented by Messrs. Nanalal M. Varma & Co. (P) Ltd. & its Associated Companies' Employees' Union, c/o Shri Subrata Sen, 49/1/A Harish Mukherjee Road, Calcutta-25. (Case No. VIII-135 of 1963.)

BEFORE THE FIRST INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL

PRESENT:

Shri RENUPADA MUKHERJEE, Judge, First Industrial Tribunal

For the Companies: Shri P. P. Ginwala, Counsel, instructed by Shri B. B. Choudhury, Counsel.

For the Union: Shri P. P. Pathak, assisted by Shri Sailendra Nath Chakraborty.

By its Labour Department Order No. 2620-I.R./IR/11L-75/63, dated Calcutta, the 4th July 1963, this industrial dispute was referred to this Tribunal by the Government of West Bengal for adjudication under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act. One party to the reference is three Companies bearing names (1) Nanalal M. Varma & Co. (P) Ltd., (2) Messrs. M. K. Varma & Sons (P) Ltd., (3) Messrs. Associated Pioneer Traders (P) Ltd. and the other party is the employees of these three Companies represented by Messrs. Nanalal M. Varma & Co. (P) Ltd. and its Associate Companies' Employees' Union. This Union will henceforth be described simply as the Union and the three Companies will be hereinafter described as the first Company, the second Company and the third Company respectively.

The only issue referred for adjudication is the following:

Whether the management are justified in transferring the following employees from Calcutta Office to other offices of the Company outside Calcutta? To what relief, if any, are they entitled?

(1) Shri Kashinath Banerjee,
(2) Shri Harish Chandra Roy,
(3) Shri Sunil Kumar Mitra,
(4) Shri Ashutosh Mukherjee,
(5) Shri R. K. Ghosh and
(6) Shri S. S. Guha.

Notices were issued in due course to the three Companies and the Union for filing their written statements. The written statement of the Union was filed on 14th August 1963 and thereafter the three Companies filed their written statements separately.

The following is a brief summary of the written statement of the Union. The first Company Messrs. Nanalal M. Varma & Co. (P) Ltd. and the other two associated Companies virtually form one establishment and they are housed in the same premises and are under one common control. The six workmen concerned in this dispute are all permanent workmen having varied periods of service to their credit. All these employees were recruited for working at Calcutta Office and they have all along been serving there. On 18th March 1963 these employees were served with an illegal orders of transfer to different places outside Calcutta. The employees of these Companies have recently organised themselves and formed a Union and this activity of theirs is not viewed with favour by the Companies. Apart from the present dispute several other disputes between these Companies and their workmen are pending before the Conciliation Officers and these transfers have been effected for the purpose of handicapping thes employees in pursuing the conciliation proceedings. The orders of transfer are illegal and mala fide and were were made with the ulterior motive of compelling the workmen to give up their legitimate Trade Union activities. So it is prayed on behalf of the Union that the Companies may be asked to withdraw the orders of transfer and to pay full compensation to the employees for the loss sustained by them.

Three separate written statements were filed on behalf of the three Companies. The tenor of all the written statements is very much the same. On behalf of Messrs. Nanalal M. Varma & Co. (P) Ltd. which is the first Company it was stated that this Company carried on business of dealing in coal from its registered office at 135 Canning Street, Calcutta. Owing to difficult conditions through which the coal industry has been passing the Directors of the Company considered that its business can be more efficiently and economically conducted and supervised at an office situate in or near the coal fields and accordingly at a meeting of the Board of Directors held on 15th February 1963 it was resolved that a special resolution of the board to the effect that the registered office of the Company be shifted to Sitarampore with effect from 18th March 1963 should be placed before the share-holders. This was done and the special resolution was carried unanimously at an extraordinary general meeting of the share-holders of this Company on 11th March 1963. The entire business of the Company was thus transferred from Calcutta to Sitarampore and the majority of the Calcutta employees reported for duty at Sitarampore Office. Three of the Calcutta employees, namely, Sarbasri Ashutosh Mukherjee, R. K. Ghose and S. S. Guha whose names figure in this reference did not join at Sitarampore. As the entire business of the Company was transferred from Calcutta these workmen are not entitled to claim employment in Calcutta. The impugned order does not amount to an order of transfer of any particular employee or employees but it amounts to a transfer of the entire office and the entire business. There was no move on the part of the Company to cause any injury or prejudice to these workmen and so they are not entitled to get any relief.

This Company also raised a legal objection to the effect that three separate disputes involving three separate Companies have been combined in one single reference and this is not permissible. It is also stated by the Company that the disputes are individual disputes between the Companies and their employees and so they cannot be a subject-matter of a reference under the Industrial Disputes Act.

The second Company, namely, Messrs. M. K. Varma & Sons (P) Ltd. has stated in its written statement that this Company deals in machinery and plant used in collieries and its Head Office was at Sitarampore and it has got a branch office at Dhansar near Dhanbad. For convenience of business the Board of Directors decided at a meeting held on 8th March 1963 to transfer the Calcutta Office with its staff to Dhansar. As the entire office with its business was transferred, the only employee of Calcutta Office Shri Kashinath Banerjee who is involved in this reference is not entitled to get any relief. The legal objections taken by the first Company are also supported by this Company.

The written statement of the third Company, namely, Messrs. Associated Pioneer Traders (P) Ltd. is to the same effect as the written statement of the other two Companies. It is stated that this Company carries on business in plant, machinery and stores used for collieries and for convenience of business the board of directors pased a resolution on 20th February 1963 for shifting its registered office from Calcutta to Sitarampore with effect from 18th March 1963. This resolution was approved at an extraordinary general meeting of the share-holders. After the transfer of the registered office to Sitarampore the work previously carried on in Calcutta Office was carried on from Dhansar Office near Dhanbad. The majority of Calcutta employees reported for duty at Dhansar, excepting Sarbasri Harish Chandra Roy and Sunil Kumar Mitra who are involved in this reference and who refrained from doing so. The transfer of entire office and of the business carried on from that office was a bona fide one and there was no motive on the part of the company to cause any inconvenience or prejudice to the workmen.

Before I enter into the merits of the case I shall deal with the legal objections taken by Shri Ginwalla on behalf of the Companies. He contended, in the first place, that this dispute has been raised by individual workmen for redressing their individual grievances and so this Tribunal has got no jurisdiction to entertain the dispute. There is no substance in this contention. It has been proved by Shri Sailendra Nath Chakraborty, the Secretary of the Union, that the Union was formed in February 1963, i.e., before the present dispute arose. The Union took up the cause of these workmen in conciliation proceedings. There is no suggestion that the Union is a fictitious one. As the Union has sponsored the cause of the workmen, the dispute has acquired the status of an industrial dispute. So I negative the conention of Shri Ginwalla that the dispute is not an industrial dispute.

Shri Ginwalla argued in the next place that three separate Companies are involved in this reference and three separate sets of employees of these Companies are claiming redress. He submitted that a dispute of this description is incapable of being combined into a single dispute. This argument of Shri Ginwalla is not well founded because the dispute raised on behalf of the workmen of three separate Companies is of a similar nature and no prejudice has been caused to any party by combining such separate disputes in a single reference. This objection of Shri Ginwalla is also negatived.

After having disposed of all the preliminary legal objections raised on behalf of the three companies, I now pass on to consider the case on its merits.

Altogether six employees of three Companies are involved in this reference. Their names are the following:

(1) Shri Kashinath Banerjee.
(2) Shri Harish Chandra Roy.
(3) Shri Sunil Kumar Mitra.
(4) Shri Ashutosh Mukherjee.
(5) Shri R. K. Ghose.
(6) Shri S. S. Guha.

Out of these six workmen Shri Kashinath Banerjee, serial No. 1, was the employee of Messrs. M. K. Varma & Sons (P) Ltd. which is the second Company. Sarbasri Harish Chandra Roy, serial No. (2), and Sunil Kumar Mitra, serial No. 3, were employees of Messrs. Associated Pioneer Traders (P) Ltd., the third Company and the remaining employees Sarbasri (4) Ashutosh Mukherjee, (5) R. K. Ghose and (6) S. S Guha were employees of Nanalal M. Varma & Co. (P) Ltd., the first Company.

I shall separately deal with the cases of these three groups of workmen.

I first deal with the case of Shri Kashi Nath Banerjee who was an employee of Messrs. M. K. Varma & Sons (P) Ltd., the second Company. It is the case of this Company that Kashinath was the only employee of its Calcutta Office and by a resolution of the Board of Directors passed on 8th March 1963 the Calcutta Office with its staff was shifted to Dhansar near Dhanbad with immediate effect. As the entire business was transferred from Calcutta, the workman is not entitled to make any grievance and the company was within its right to transfer its business to a place which it considers to be suitable. The resolutioon of the Board of Directors has been marked Ext. GG. It runs to the following effect:

"Resolved that the Calcutta Office with all staffs be and is hereby shifted to Dhansar (Dhanbad) with immediate effect".

Kashinath was the only employee of Calcutta and apparently the Company was of opinion that it was not profitable or useful to keep an office in Calcutta. A small Branch Office consisting of two employees was being maintained at Dhansar [vide acquittance roll Ext. KK(1)]. The existence of that office could not be questioned on behalf of the Union. This is proved by several documents marked Exts HH, HH(1), HH(2), HH(3), HH(4), JJ and JJ(1). Kashinath did not appear before this Tribunal and there is not an iota of evidence from the side of the Union to show that after the transfer of Calcutta Office this Company has kept any staff in that office or is carrying on any business from that office. This transfer, in my judgment, was not a pretence or a matter of show nor was it effected for the purpose of putting Kashinath to trouble. As the office of the Company was shifted to Dhansar Kashinath was bound, in the absence of any contract to the contrary, to join at Dhansar. As he did not do so, he is not entitled to any relief.

I now deal with the case of Sarbasri Harish Chandra Roy and Sunil Kumar Mitra who were employees of Messrs. Associated Pioneer Traders (P) Ltd., the third Company.

The case of the third Company was that the registered office of this Company and also its entire business were shifted from Calcutta to Sitarampore and as a result of this shifting the Calcutta employees were asked to report for duty at Dhansar near Dhanbad where this Company had an office from before. Shri Babulal Madhabji Varma (O.P.W. 6) who is one of the Directors of this Company stated in his evidence that the reason for transferring the registered office was unfavourable market condition prevailing at the relevant time. He further deposed that in February 1963 one of the Directors made a proposal for appointing a representative in the coal field for canvassing where the Company has got most of its business. It was further stated by this witness that as a result of the discussion of this proposal it was settled to transfer the registered office to Sitarampore. In this connection the minutes of the proceedings of a meeting of the Board of Directors held on 20th February 1963 were proved. The minutes were marked HHH. The Board of Directors took a resolution in this meeting that the registered office of the Company be shifted to Sitarampore with effect from 18th March 1963. An extraordinary general meeting of the shareholders followed the above meeting and the shareholders passed a resolution on March 15, 1963, in accordance with the resolution of the Board of Directors [vide Minutes IIHH(1)].

According to the case of the Union there were seven members on the Calcutta staff of this Company prior to the shifting of the office. They were Sarbasri M. A. Jiwani, Sunil Mitra, Ram Ekbal Singh, Harish Ch. Roy, Chhabilal Chaprasi, Rajani Kanta Roy and Prohlad Shyamal. According to the case of the Company the last named three persons Chhabilal, Rajani and Prohlad Shyamal were not on the staff of the Company in Calcutta at the relevant time. In this connection an acquittance roll has been filed on behalf of the Company. It was marked Ext. FFF. It purports to show that for the months of January and February 1963 there were only four employees in the Calcutta Staff of this Company, viz., Sunil Kumar Mitra, M. A. Jiwani, Harish Ch. Roy and Ram Ekbal Singh. The names of Chhabilal, Rajani and Prohlad do not figure there. In the acquittance roll for the month of March, we find the names of Sarbasri M. A. Jiwani and Ram Ekbal Singh only because Harish Roy and Sunil Mitra did not admittedly report themselves at Dhansar after the office was transferred on 18th March 1963. From April onwards the names of employees of Dhansar Office who had been working from before also figure in the acquittance roll. Tis book was inspected by an Inspecting Officer under the Provisions of Bihar Shops and Establishments Act on 4th November 1963 [vide endorsement Ext. FFF(1)]. So there is no reason to hold that this acquittance roll is a fabricated or manufactured document. I hold that at the relevant time, namely, March 1963 there were only four employees in the Calcutta Office of this Company, namely, Sarbasri Sunil Mitra, M. A. Jiwani, Ram Ekbal Singh and Harish Ch. Roy. Of those four persons Sarbasri M. A. Jiwani and Ram Ekbal Singh obeyed the order of the Company. Sunil Mitra refused to carry out the order at first. But he has settled his dispute with the Company and reported himself at Dhansar. He sent a letter to this Tribunal in a registered cover on 12th March 1964 stating that he never authorised the Union to take up his dispute and his name may be expunged from the order of reference. Sunil Mitra gave evidence before this Tribunal stating that he has joined at Dhansar on 16th March 1964. In his cross examination this witness declined to answer the question whether he has been a daily passenger from his village home at Haripal to Calcutta for the last three months. He also declined to produce the contents of his pocket in which his monthly ticket was said to have been kept. Shri Pathak argued from this conduct of Shri Sunil Mitra that he is still serving in the Calcutta Office of this Company. I am not inclined to accept this contention of Shri Pathak because in his examination-in-chief this witness stated specifically that he joined at Dhansar on 16th March 1964. His attendance is recorded at Dhansar office from that date (vide Ext. 000). It does not appear to me that this attendance register is a false and fabricated document. I am rather of opinion that by keeping silent this witness who at one time refused to carry out the order of the Company attempted to lend some support indirectly to the case of the Union.

That the registered office of this third Company was transferred to Sitarampore cannot be seriously questioned. Notice of this transfer was given to the Registrar of Companies (vide Ext. III). I have already mentioned that resolutions were duly passed by the Directors and the share-holders for transferring the office. Some notice and other papers produced in this Tribunal for the purpose of showing that an office of this Company had been functioning at Dhansar (vide Exts. KKK, series LLL and NNN series). It would be meaningless on the part of the Company to make a show of transferring their registered office from Calcutta to Sitarampore simply for the purpose of putting some employees to trouble. There is not an iota of evidence to show that after the transfer of the registered office to Sitarampore this Company transacted any item of business from Calcutta Office. The notice marked Ext. JJJ by the Company would show that their Calcutta Office was closed with effect from 19th March 1963. In these circumstances the transfer of the Calcutta Office to Dhansar was not a transfer of employees in the ordinary acceptance of the term. It was the inevitable result of the shifting of the registered office from Calcutta to Sitarampore and the Company was justified in directing its Calcutta employees to join at Dhansar where an office of the Company had been functioning from before. In these circumstances the Union is not justified in questioning the propriety of the order of transfer. Harish Ch. Roy is not, therefore entitled to get any relief. As regards Sunil Mitra I shall pass a "no dispute" award.

I now take up the case of the remaining three workmen who were employees of Messrs. Nanalal M. Varma & Co. (P) Ltd., the first Company. They are Sarbasri Ashutosh Mukherjee, R. K. Ghosh and S. S. Guha.

The claim of this Company that its entire Calcutta Office was shifted to Sitarampore was very hotly debated from the side of the Union. Besides the three employees of this Company whose names I have just mentioned there were seven other employees in Calcutta Office whose names are given below:

(1) S. K. Majhi, (2) Sew Narayan Ghosh, (3) Santi Lal Damji, (4) S. R. Chakraborty, (5) Prodyot Kumar Chatterjee, (6) Debarshi Vegaud and (7) Raghu Singh.

Of these seven persons Debarshi Vegaud gave up the services of the Company at the time of the alleged transfer of the office. This is admitted by both parties. The acquittance roll shows that the other six employees obeyed the transfer order and they joined at Sitarampore Office. The local name of the place where this office has been transferred is Kankarsole but Sitarampore being a prominent place, the Company has led evidence to the effect that the office has been shifted to Sitarampore. The case of the Company is that this is not a case of transfer of individual employees but a transfer of the registered office and the entire business of the Company. In this connection two resolutions — one passed by the Board of Directors on 15th February 1963 and another by the share-holders on 11th March 1963—were placed before me on behalf of the Company. The resolutions have been marked Exts. Z and Z(1). They are to the effect that the registered office of the Company would be shifted to Sitarampore with effect from 18th March 1963. The Calcutta employees were accordingly advised to report themselves at Sitarampore Office. The acquittance roll of the Company to which I have already referred would show that six of the employees obeyed this order but the three employees involved in this reference refused to carry out the order. The tenth employee, namely, the stenographer Debarshi Vegaud left the Company.

On behalf of the Union some evidence was adduced in this case for the purpose of showing that this Company is still carrying on some business from its previous Calcutta Office. The case of the Company is that it has shifted its business to Sitarampore but kept a representative in Calcutta for the purpose of looking after its outstanding work. In this connection a resolution of the Board of Directors, dated 8th April 1963 (Ext. Z2), was placed before me. The resolution is to the following effect.

> "Resolved that Shri T. R. Varma, a relative of the Directors, be and is hereby authorised to manage the day-to-day affairs of the Company at Calcutta with a remuneration in the grade of Rs. 500—30—800 (consolidated)".

The Managing Director of the first Company was examined in this Tribunal. He is Shri Ramdas M. Varma (O.P.W. 5). He deposed to the effect that the office of the Company was shifted for convenience of business. This Company purchases coal from Raniganj coal field. Coal is despatched by wagons supplied by the railway. The wagons are loaded in Raniganj and Jharia coal fields. Indent for wagons has to be made at Asansole and the despatch of wagons has got to be supervised by the Company on behalf of customers. According to the case of the Company all these works could not be properly managed from Calcutta Office and so the Company shifted its office to Sitarampore.

Shri Pathak submitted on behalf of the Union that substantial business of the Company is still being carried on from Calcutta Office and the statement in the written statement of the Company that its entire business has been transferred to Sitarampore is absolutely incorrect. In this connection I may refer to the oral evidence of Shri Sailendra Nath Chakraborty, P.W. 2, the Secretary of the Union. In his examination-in-chief ,he said that Prodyot Chatterjee, S. R. Chakraborty and Sudhir Majhi are still working in Calcutta Office. But in cross-examination he stated that he has heard this from the abovementioned employees and has seen them at the office gate in Calcutta. Sudhir Manjhi was examined on behalf of the Company. He stated that he and the two other persons named by Sailendra Nath Chakraborty are working at Sitarampore and not in Calcutta. The acquittance roll which shows this was inspected by a Government Officer (vide signature marked Ext. H1). So I do not believe the evidence of Shri Sailendra Nath Chakraborty on this point.

Much reliance was placed by the Union on a so-called newspaper advertisement in a newspaper called "Gallary". The newspaper is dated 1st February 1964. In one sheet of this paper there is the following advertisement:

> "With compliments of:
> M/s. Nanalal M. Varma & Co.
> (Pvt.) Limited,
> 135 Canning Street,
> Calcutta-1."

On behalf of the Company it was strongly contended that the Company was not responsible for this publication and it must have been inspired by some interested party. This publication appeared during the pendency of the reference case. It is not at all probable that the first Company would be so unwise as to publish any such avdertisement which would be damaging to its own case. So no importance should be attached to this advertisement and I hold that it was not put in at the instance of the first Company.

Although the Company stated in its written statement that it is not carrying on any business from its Calcutta Office I am of opinion that some business is being done on behalf of the Company by its representative Shri T. R. Varma. Covers of some registered letters filed on behalf of the Union would show that letters are coming from cutomers to the Calcutta address of the Company after the transfer of Calcutta Office (vide Exts. 7, 8, 9 and 10). The Union has somehow secured the covers of the registered letters. The Company has not produced the contents of these covers. So it may be presumed that the registered letters were sent to this Company in connection with business dealings. In this connection two letters said to have been written to the Coal Controller by one Sakuja on behalf of the first Company were produced by the Union. They were marked Exts. 19 and 19(a).

Both of them are dated 8th May 1963. The letters purported to say that this Company agreed to supply a number of wagons of coal to Calcutta Electric Supply Corporation Ltd. They are addressed to the Coal Controller. The originals of these two letters were called for from the office of Coal Controller and a clerk of that office Shri Bhupendra Nath Biswas (P.W. 1) deposed that the originals could not be found in spite of thorough search. Shri Ginwallah contended that these letters, in the absence of the originals, are not admissible in evidence and that they are spurious documents which have been manufactured on some paper bearing letter head of the Company. The Managing Director Shri Ramdas M. Varma stated in his evidence that Shri Sakuja, the alleged signatory of these two letters, was never an officer of this Company. It is difficult to believe that Shri Ramdas is telling a deliberate falsehood. I am not prepared to place any reliance on these letters. Even assuming that they are genuine they would show at best that the Company's representative Shri T. R. Varma is still doing some business for the Company in Calcutta. The case of the Company that the entire business has been shifted to Sitarampore may not be true but there is no reason to doubt that the registered office of the Company and also its main business were transferred to Sitarampore as alleged by the Company.

Shri Pathak on behalf of the Union contended that the employees of the first Company and its associated Companies had formed a Union before the present dispute arose and this move for ostensible transfer of the Head Office of the first Company was taken for the purpose of nipping the activities of the Union in the bud. Reference was made by Shri Pathak to a letter marked Ext. 14. It is dated 4th March 1963. It was addressed to the Regional Labour Commissioner (Central) and it contains an allegation that the management of the first Company was threatening the employees and had already discharged an employee named Shri A. K. Chakraborty and was also forcing the employees to sign statements and registers against the interest of the employees. It would, however, appear that the Board of Directors had taken a resolution to transfer the office on 15th February 1963, i.e., about three weeks before the Union sent its letter to the Regional Labour Commissioner. That this Company genuinely transferred its head office to Sitarampore is evidenced by two notices given to the Registrar of Companies (Exts. B1 and B2), some certificates of Banks [Exts. C1, C2 and C3] and an order of Commercial Tax Officer Ext. E1. That a substantial section of Calcutta employees is working at Sitarampore office cannot be questioned. The contention of the Union was that this Compar has not really transferred its business to Sitaran pore and is carrying on the same from its Calcut Office. If this contention were to be accepte then it must be held that the Company has bee unnecessarily maintaining a staff and office Sitarampore simply for the purpose of putting th dissentent employees to trouble. This would b against the pecuniary interest of the Company an would also be prejudicial to their business interes If the Company never meant to transfer its busine to Sitarampore then the Company would have bee landed in a very unenviable position if the entir staff had obeyed the order of transfer. Considerin all these facts and circumstances I am of opinio that the Company really meant to transfer its hea office to Sitarampore and it has transferred t that place factually. It is true that the Compan has kept a representative in its Calcutta premises That representative Shri T. R. Varma is lookin after the outstanding work of the Company an also some Railway Contracts. This does not mean that the Company has not transferred its head office and at least a principle part of its business to Sitarampore. On the evidence adduced before me I hold that the head office of the Company and a principal part of its business have been transferred to Sitarampore and so Shri Ashutosh Mukherjee, Shri R. K. Ghose and Shri S. S. Guha were bound to abode the order of transfer passed on them. As they did not do so, they are not entitled to claim any relief.

In the result I hold that the managements of the three Companies involved in this reference were justified in transferring the six employees mentioned in the order of reference to the respective places where the Calcutta Officers of the Companies have been transferred. As regards Shri Sunil Mitra who has settled his dispute with his employer, I pass a "no dispute" award. As regards the remaining five employees I hold that they are not entitled to any relief in this reference.

This is my adjudication and award.

Present:

Shri A. P. BHATTACHARYA, Judge

Appearances:

For the Applicant: Shri R. N. Basu Mullick, Secretary, General Electric Company Staff Union

For the Opp. Party: Shri B. B. Ghose, Advocate.

Award

This is an application under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, filed by Shri Shamsed Ali, an employee of Messrs. The General Electric Company of India Private Limited, against the said Company in connection with Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, Order of Reference No. 5388I.R./IR/10L-123(B)/63, dated 23rd December 1963.

After the application was received, notices were issued to the parties concerned and instead of filing written statement the parties appeared before me with a joint petition of compromise. The terms of settlement are fair and reasonable and the workman signed the compromise petition in my presence.

An award is accordingly made in terms of the said petition of compromise. The compromise petition forms Annexure to the award.

AWARD

The Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, by Order No. 4401-I.R./IR/11L-386/63, dated the 18th October 1963, referred under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), the abovementioned dispute to this Tribunal for adjudication.

Issue

Whether the termination of service of Shri Sarju Prasad Tewari is justified? To what relief, if any, is he entitled?

An industrial dispute was referred for adjudication the order, dated 18th October 1963. After notices ere served on the parties they appeared and filed ritten statement. The matter was posted to 15th ily 1964 for hearing. The Company turned up with representative. The Union's representative was esent. The Secretary of the Union as well as the orkman concerned were absent. The Union's law- r states that he had talks with the Secretary of the nion who lost all touch with the workmen. The nion's lawyer accordingly pleads wants of instruc- on. I think the workman is not interested in the spute, and as such, a "no-dispute" award should be ade.

the matter of a complaint under section 33A, Indian Disputes Act, filed by Shri Basdeb Singh, 34 Jaya Bibi Road, Bhot Bagan, Ghusuri, Howrah, against Messrs. Golden Steel Corporation, 64 G. T. Road (North), Lillooah, Howrah. (Case No. 146/63 under section 33A.)

BEFORE THE SEVENTH INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL

Present:

Shri S. K. RAY, Judge, Seventh Industrial Tribunal.

AWARD

This proceeding arises out of an application under section 33A, Industrial Disputes Act, made by the applicant workman, Shri Basdeb Singh, against the O. P. Company, Messrs. Golden Steel Corporation, complaining of his alleged wrongful and illegal dismissal from service in contravention of the relevant provisions of section 33, Industrial Disputes Act, during the pendency of the adjudication proceedings of another dispute between the Company and its workmen, referred to this Tribunal by Government Order No. 3537-I.R., dated 6th August 1962.

It is alleged that a charge-sheet, dated 24th/25th June 1963, containing some false and baseless charges was issued against him and he replied to the charge-sheet and then the Company issued a notice of enquiry but no enquiry was at all held according to the notice, though he attended the factory in response to the notice and ultimately he was dismissed without any enquiry.

The Company has filed its rejoinder to the workman's application admitting the dismissal of the workman during the pendency of the adjudication proceedings of the dispute between the Company and its workmen, referred to this Tribunal by Government Order No. 3537-I.R., dated 6th August 1962, and stating that the dismissal was effected after charge-sheet and after a fair and proper enquiry regarding the charge-sheet after notice to the workman and in his presence and with his participation and he was found guilty of the charges by the enquiry officer and accordingly, he was dismissed from service in accordance with the provisions of section 33(2)(b), Industrial Disputes Act, and an application for approval of the dismissal has already been made to the Tribunal.

After preliminary proceedings and some adjournments, the case was fixed for hearing on 24th July 1964. On the previous date (13th June 1964) the parties took an adjournment on the ground that a talk of compromise was going on. On 24th July 1964 the applicant workman filed a petition stating that the connected case under section 33(2)(b), Industrial Disputes Act, arising out of his dismissal has been amicably settled as per joint petition filed therein and in view of the compromise in that case, he might be permitted to withdraw the present application under section 33A. I have looked into the record of the connected case under section 33(2)(b), Industrial Disputes Act (case No. 277 of 1963), and I find that this case relating to the dismissal covered by the present case under section 33A has been amicably settled as per terms of the joint petition of the parties filed therein. It is thus clear that he parties have settled their dispute regarding the dismissal and so the applicant workman does not want to proceed with this application under section 33A, Industrial Disputes Act. In these circumstances, his prayer for withdrawal of the application should be granted and the case should be disposed of as withdrawn on compromise.

In the result, I permit the workman to withdraw his application under section 33A and dispose of the case as withdrawn on compromise. I award accordingly.

ANNEXURE

BEFORE THE SEVENTH INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL

Present:

Shri S. K. RAY, Judge, Seventh Industrial Tribunal

Award

This proceeding arises out of an application under section 33A, Industrial Disputes Act, made by Shri Khagendra Lall Barua, a workman of the opposite party Company, Messrs. Banerjee Cycle Industries, complaining of his alleged unjust, mala fide and vindictive dismissal with effect from 8th August 1963, during the pendency of the adjudication proceedings of another dispute between the Company and its workmen, referred to this Tribunal by Government Order No. 3537I.R., dated the 6th August 1962, and in contravention of the relevant provisions of section 33, Industrial Disputes Act.

The relevant case put forward in the application is that as the applicant was an active worker of the Union and did not comply with the Management's direction for making adverse report against the workmen in course of his supervision work, he was falsely and maliciously charge-sheeted on 31st July 1963 and he submitted his reply to the charge-sheet on 1st August 1963 but the receipt of the reply was not acknowledged by the Management and then he sent a copy of the reply to the Management by registered post on 7th August 1963 and thereafter when he went to resume his duties on 8th August 1963, he was finally told that he had been dismissed from service. It is alleged that he went to resume his duty earlier from day to day after the charge-sheet, but he was not allowed to do any work and finally on 8th August 1963 he was told that he had been dismissed from service. The dismissal was effected without any notice or enquiry.

The Company has filed a rejoinder to the workman's application denying all the material allegations made against the Company. The substance of the relevant case of the Company is that this workman was charge-sheeted thrice—on 31st July 1963, 1st August 1963 and 9th September 1963—for commission of major misconducts. He replied only to the charge-sheet, dated 31st July 1963. The other two charge-sheets were sent to him by registered post, but they were returned as refused. On 31st August 1963 the Company issued a notice by registered post to the workman intimating that 18th September 1963 had been fixed as the date of enquiry regarding the charge-sheet. But, this notice was also returned as refused. As no other communication was received from the workman and he never appeared before the Company, the enquiry regarding the charge-sheets was held ex parte on 18th September 1963. Witnesses were examined at the enquiry. The workman was found guilty of the charges by the enquiry officer in his report and on the basis of this report, he was dismissed from the Company's service by a letter which was issued to him on 26th September 1963 by registered post, but this letter also came back as refused. The Company acted bona fide, as the dismissal was justified.

After preliminary proceedings, the case was fixed for hearing on 11th June 1964. On that date, the Company's representative appeared but none appeared for the workman and no step was taken on his behalf. The Tribunal suo moto adjourned the case to 14th July 1964 for hearing and disposal according to law. On 14th July 1964 neither party appeared and no step was taken for either of the parties. From the absence of the applicant workman on two successive dates of hearing and further from the absence of the Company also on the final date of hearing it is clear that the applicant workman is not pursuing the dispute and the present application under section 33A and the dispute has ceased to exist. Accordingly, the application is to be dismissed for non-prosecution and on the ground that the dispute is not being pursued.

In the result, I dismiss this application for non-prosecution and on the ground that the dispute has ceased to exist. I award accordingly.

No. 3401-I.R./IR/11L-41(A)/61. — 4th August 1964. Whereas under the Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, Order No. 3140-I.R./IR/11L-41(A)/61, dated the 13th June 1961, read with Corrigendum No. 4854-I.R./IR/11L-41(A)/61, dated 5th August 1961, the industrial dispute between the C.R.O. Canteen Committee of Messrs. Imperial Chemical Industries (India) Private Ltd., 18 Strand Road, Calcutta, and their Canteen staff represented by Shri Mrinal Kanti Bose and six other canteen staff, 34 Chowringhee Road, Calcutta-16, regarding the issue mentioned in the said order being a matter specified in the second schedule to the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), was referred for adjudication to the Fourth Industrial Tribunal;

And whereas the said Fourth Industrial Tribunal has submitted to the State Government its award on the said industrial dispute;

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the provisions of section 17 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), the Governor is pleased hereby to publish the said award as shown in the annexure hereto.

ANNEXURE

In the matter of an industrial dispute between the Head Office Canteen Committee of Messrs. Imperial Chemical Industries (India) Private Ltd., 34 Chowringhee Road, Calcutta-16, subsequently substituted by C.R.O. Canteen Committee of Messrs. Imperial Chemical Industries (India) Private Ltd., 18 Strand Road, Calcutta, and their Canteen Staff represented by Shri Mrinal Kanti Bose and six other Canteen staff, 34 Chowringhee Road, Calcutta-16. (VIII-213 61.)

BEFORE THE FOURTH INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL

Present:

Shri R. BHATTACHARYA, Judge,
Fourth Industrial Tribunal.

For the Canteen Staff: Shri P. K. Sanyal, Advocate.
For the Company: Shri N. M. Das Gupta, Advocate.

This is a reference under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act arising out of Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, Order No. 3140-I.R./IR/11L-41(A) 61, dated 13th June 1961, followed by Corrigendum of the State Government No. 4854-I.R./IR/11L-41(A)/61, dated the 5th August 1961.

Notices were duly served and the parties entered their appearances and submitted written statements of their claims and cases.

A preliminary point on the question of jurisdiction was taken up by C.R.O. Canteen Committee of Messrs. Imperial Chemical Industries (India) Private Ltd. (hereinafter described as the C.R.O. Canteen Committee), on the allegations that the present reference based upon a corrigendum issued by the Labour Department is not maintainable in law and that this Tribunal has no jurisdiction to act upon the said corrigendum. The contention of the C.R.O. Canteen Committee is that the original reference cannot be cancelled, rescinded, amended or substituted by any corrigendum, and that the present corrigendum has changed the character of the original reference. On the other hand, the workmen appearing on behalf of the Canteen staff submitted that by the corrigendum there has been no substantial change in the original reference in that the corrigendum has simply corrected the name of one of the parties mentioned in the original reference. The argument was that the corrigendum is legal and that the Tribunal should adjudicate upon the issue involved in the original reference duly rectified by the corrigendum issued by the Labour Department of the State Government.

On the date fixed for hearing on the preliminary point raised, neither party adduced any evidence. They relied upon their argument advanced upon the points raised. In order to appreciate the contention raised, I should state, in short, the relevant fact. The State Government by a Notification dated 13th June 1961, sent an industrial dispute under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act existing between the Head Office Canteen Committee of Messrs. Imperial Chemical Industries (India) Private Ltd., 34 Chowringhee Road, Calcutta-16, and their Canteen staff represented by Shri Mrinal Kanti Bose and six others of the Canteen staff, 34 Chowringhee Road, Calcutta-16 relating to the following issue:

Is the dismissal of Shri Ramananda Bose justified? To what relief, if any, is he entitled?

Subsequently, by way of corrigendum the Government issued another Notification, dated 5th August 1961, in the following terms:

"In the preamble to the Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, Order No. 3140-I.R./IR/11L-41(A)/61, dated the 13th June 1961, for 'Head Office Canteen Committee of Messrs. Imperial Chemical Industries (India) Private Ltd., 34 Chowringhee Road, Calcutta-16', read 'C.R.O. Canteen Committee of Messrs. Imperial Chemical Industries (India) Private Ltd., 18 Strand Road, Calcutta.'"

There is no dispute before me at the time of argument that there is one Head Office Canteen Committee of Messrs. Imperial Chemical Industries (India) Private Ltd. at 34 Chowringhee Road, Calcutta-16, and that there is another Canteen Committee known as "C.R.O. Canteen Committee of Messrs. Imperial Chemical Industries (India) Private Ltd. at 18 Strand Road, Calcutta." There are, therefore, two separate canteens—one at 34 Chowringhee Road, Calcutta, and another at 18 Strand Road, Calcutta—under the management of two distinct committees. There is no dispute before me that the present issue relates to the management of C.R.O. Canteen Committee at 18 Strand Road, Calcutta. Admittedly, the issue, in fact, does not relate to the Head Office Canteen Committee of Messrs. Imperial Chemical Industries (India) Private Ltd. (hereinafter referred to as the Company).

In the original reference, dated 15th June 1961, the parties to the dispute were the Head Office Canteen Committee of the Company and their Canteen staff. The Government of West Bengal subsequently inserted by the corrigendum the name of C.R.O. Canteen Committee of 18 Strand Road in place of the Head Office Canteen Committee of the Company of 34 Chowringhee Road, Calcutta-16. Shri Das Gupta, on behalf of the Canteen Committee, has argued that the Government has no power to issue any Notification by way of corrigendum to cancel or rescind or amend or alter or rectify the first reference, and that by the corrigendum, dated 5th August 1961, the original reference has been virtually cancelled, or rescinded or altered on material particulars, and that this act of the Government was illegal. In connection with this contention Shri Das Gupta has referred to the cases reported in 1958 L.L.J. Vol. II, at page 634, 1962 F.L.R. at page 308 and 1960 F.L.R. at page 60. The first case between the State of Bihar and D. N. Ganguli and others was decided by the Supreme Court. In this case several provisions of law were considered, particularly, section 21 of the General Clauses Act, sections 10, 20, 17A, 19 and 12(5) of the Industrial Disputes Act. On consideration of all the points raised, it was decided by the Hon'ble Judges of the Supreme Court that the order of reference made by the appropriate Government under section 10(1) of the Industrial Disputes Act cannot be cancelled or superseded by a subsequent Notification. Such cancellation is invalid and ultra vires.

In the case of Keshoram Cotton Mills versus The Second Labour Court and others, reported in 1962, F.L.R. at page 308. Mr. Justice Banerjee has held that the State Government has no power to add party to the reference except under section 10(5) of the Industrial Disputes Act. At the same time it has been, however, stated that if there is any apparent error in the order of reference and if there is no question of supersession, cancellation or modification of or addition to the original reference, such error may be corrected by way of corrigendum. The Madras High Court in the case of the management of Thambi Service, Salem versus The Presiding Officer, Labour Court, Coimbatore and another, reported in 1960 F.L.R. p. 60, has held that the Government has no power to cancel, or modify the reference once made under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act. This decision is, of course, based upon the decision of the Supreme Court, just mentioned hereinbefore.

Shri Sanyal for the workmen has submitted at first that the Canteen Committee cannot take up the objection now after so much delay. This matter went up to the Hon'ble High Court in connection with an interlocutory matter. Before the Hon'ble High Court the Canteen Committee did not take up this point when the matter came up for hearing under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. An attempt has been made to argue that when this point was not taken up earlier, the Tribunal should not allow C.R.O. Canteen Committee to pursue this point. I cannot accept this contention. In the written statement this specific point was taken up by the C.R.O. Canteen Committee. Before the Hon'ble High Court the matter was taken in connection with another point and in that proceeding there was no occasion to take up this plea. Before the actual hearing either of the parties can certainly raise any preliminary or jurisdictional point and there can be no objection to it. There can be no question of estoppel, acquiescence and waiver. The point of law which goes to the very root of the case can certainly be taken up not only by the parties but also by the Tribunal, if not taken by the parties.

The next point taken up by the workmen is that Sec. 21 of the General Clauses Act allows the Government to issue corrigendum for correction, and amendment of the original reference. As had already been decided by the Hon'ble Supreme Court, I must hold that this ground cannot support the workmen. This provision cannot be applicable in the case of Industrial Disputes Act regarding cancellation or rescission of the original order of reference made under section 10(1) of the Industrial Disputes Act as in the present case. Virtually speaking and for all practical purposes, the corrigendum issued by the State Government in the present case has changed the entire character of the original reference by deleting the name of the Head Office Canteen Committee and by substituting in its place the name of C.R.O. Canteen Committee of 18 Strand Road. This is not a case under section 10(5) of the Industrial Disputes Act for adding parties. After substitution of the new name of a different committee, the character and nature of the original reference has completely changed. In the original reference the dispute was between the Head Office Canteen Committee at 34 Chowringhee Road, and their Canteen staff, 34 Chowringhee Road, whereas by the corrigendum the dispute has become between C.R.O. Canteen Committee of 18 Strand Road and their staff, 34 Chowringhee Road. This is not a simple amendment or rectification of an apparent mistake. There has been by the corrigendum a material change, nay a new dispute between two different parties, not mentioned in the original reference. In this connection it has been argued from the side of the workmen that the subsequent notification simply sought to remove a mitsake which was apparent on the face of it. As I have already discussed, I cannot accept this argument. Shri Sanyal for the workmen has cited before me a Bombay Case, reported in 1961, L.L.J. Vol. II, p. 732, to argue that the Government can certainly correct the mistakes which have been made in the original reference. In that case the fact shows that there was no cancellation of the original order and that there was a simple mistake. I do not think that the mistake crept in the original reference of that case was substantial or changed the character of the reference. The case relied upon by Shri Sanyal is, therefore, of no avail. The other case relied upon by Shri Sanyal is reported in 1961, F.L.R., p. 186, to show that the government by a corrigendum can correct the original reference made under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act. In this case there was some addition to the issue mentioned in the reference, and this was done by a corrigendum. This case again does not support the workmen in the case before me because simple addition of something to the issue did not change the character of the original reference in the case just cited. On consideration of the facts and circumstances of this case, I hold that the Government by way of corrigendum changed the original reference completely by substituting a new party. This action of the Government is cancellation or rescission which has been done illegally.

In view of my findings above, the corrigendum issued by the State Government affecting the original reference was illegal and ultra vires and this Tribunal has no jurisdiction to adjudicate upon the issue between the parties after substitution of new party by the corrigendum.

The next question that arises for consideration is what should be the procedure at this stage to be followed by this Tribunal. When I have found that the corrigendum issued by the Government by the Notification, dated 5th August 1961, is ineffective and bad in law, the original reference arising out of Notification of the Labour Department of the State Government No. 3140-I.R./IR/11L-41(A)/61, dated 13th June 1961, stands good. Admittedly, there is, in fact, no dispute before me between the Head Office Canteen Committee of Messrs. Imperial Chemical Industries (India) Private Ltd., 34 Chowringhee Road, Calcutta-16, and their staff, and that is why the name of the Head Office Canteen Committee has been removed by the corrigendum. When this is a fact, I cannot hold that there is any industrial dispute between the Head Office Canteen Committee of the Company and their staff or workmen. There is no occasion for adjudication of any issue mentioned in the original reference as between the parties named therein.

In the result, I find no dispute existing between the Head Office Canteen Committee of Messrs. Imperial Chemical Industries (India) Private Ltd., 34 Chowringhee Road, Calcutta-16, and their Canteen staff mentioned therein, and that this Tribunal has no jurisdiction to decide the dispute mentioned in the original order of reference as between the C.R.O. Canteen Committee of Messrs. Imperial Chemical Industries (India) Private Ltd., 8 Strand Road, Calcutta, and the canteen staff mentioned in the order of reference as the corrigendum, dated 5th August 1961, is invalid, ineffective and ultra vires.

The award is passed accordingly.

ANNEXURE

In the matter of an industrial dispute existing between Messrs. Instrument Research Laboratory Ltd., 22 Prince Anwar Shah Road, Calcutta-33, and their workmen represented by Instrument Research Laboratory Ltd. Employees' Union, 40/1 Prince Anwar Shah Road, Tollygunge, Calcutta-33. (Case No. 282 of 1963.)

Present:

Shri K. P. MUKHERJI, Judge,
Fifth Industrial Tribunal.

This dispute between Messrs. Instrument Research Laboratory Ltd., 22 Prince Anwar Shah Road, Calcutta-33, and their workmen represented by Instrument Research Laboratory Ltd. Employees' Union, 40/1 Prince Anwar Shah Road, Calcutta-33, was referred to this Tribunal under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, by the Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, Order No. 4712-I.R./IR/10L-226/63, dated the 22nd November 1963, for adjudication upon the only issue which is as follows:

Whether the dismissal of Shri Gouri Sankar Ghosh is justified? To what relief, if any, is he entitled?

This reference was received on 27th November 1963 and notices were issued to the parties fixing 17th December 1963 for appearance and filing of the written statement by the Union. The Company entered appearance on 17th December 1963, and after several adjournments it filed its written statement on 22nd February 1964. The parties were asked to file their respective documents on 10th March 1964. The case was thereafter fixed for hearing on 29th June 1964. On that date the parties appeared and stated that a talk of compromise was going on between the parties for settlement of the dispute amicably. On that ground the parties took time and ultimately on 18th July 1964 a joint petition of compromise was filed by the parties embodying therein the terms of settlement. I have perused the petition of compromise and I am satisfied that the settlement is bona fide and the terms of settlement are fair and reasonable. The settlement is therefore recorded and an award be passed in terms thereof. The joint petition of compromise do form part of the award as Annexure A.

ANNEXURE

In the matter of an industrial dispute existing between Messrs. Hindusthan Development Corporation Ltd. Engineering Factory, 38 Tiljala Road, Calcutta-39, and their workmen represented by the Hindusthan Development Corporation Ltd. Engineering Factory Employees Union, 88 Picnic Garden Road, Calcutta-39 (Case No. 231 of 1963.)

BEFORE THE FIFTH INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL

Present:

Shri K. P. MUKHERJI, Judge, Fifth Industrial Tribunal.

Present for the Company: Shri J. N. Chatterji, Deputy Labour Adviser of Indian Engineering Association.

Present for the Union: Shri Nikhil Roy and Shri Shyam Sundar Choudhury, Advocates.

This dispute between Messrs. Hindusthan Development Corporation Ltd. Engineering Factory and their workmen was referred to this Tribunal under G.O. No. 4124-I.R./IR/10L-115/63, dated the 1st October 1963, for adjudication upon the only issue which is as follows:

Is the dismissal of Sarvashri Sudhir Kumar Ganguly and Dukhi Ahir justified? To what relief, if any, are they entitled?

The case of the Union, shortly, stated is as follows: Messrs. Hindusthan Development Corporation Ltd. Engineering Factory is a prosperous concern and it maintains a factory at 38 Tiljala Road. There are two Unions of the workmen —one is a Communist-cum-R.S.P. Union, known as the Hindusthan Development Workers Union, and the other known as Hindusthan Development Corporation Ltd. Engineering Factory Employees' Union under the banner of the Indian National Trade Union Congress. Shri Sudhir Kumar Ganguly and Shri Dukhi Ahir, who were members of the Workers' Union severed their connection with that Union and took active part in the formation of the Employees' Union. The management, however, did not take in good grace the formation of the Employees' Union, and consequently the Trade Union activities of these two workmen. Shri Sudhir Ganguly was given a charge-sheet on 21st January 1963 untruly alleging that he disobeyed the order of the General Manager by absenting himself from his duty on 20th January 1963. He submitted his explanation. He was given notice of an enquiry to be held against him on 28th January 1963, but on that date no enquiry was held, and another charge-sheet was given to him. Shri Ganguly submitted his explanation on 29th January 1963 denying the charges brought against him. Then, after a so-called enquiry he was dismissed from service with effect from 1st March 1963.

The management issued a charge-sheet to Shri Dukhi Ahir on 24th January 1963 on a false allegation. He submitted a reply in which he denied the charge that was brought against him. Thereafter the management, after a sham enquiry and without giving him any opportunity to defend himself, dismissed him from service with retrospective effect from 24th January 1963. The dismissal of this workman with retrospective effect has been challenged by the Union as illegal and inoperative. It is stated that the dismissal of these two workmen has been wholly unjustified, unfair and mala fide, and in violation of the principles of natural justice with ulterior motive and for extraneous consideration. The workmen have prayed for their reinstatement to their former posts and also for their full wages and allowances during the period of their wrongful non-employment.

The case of the Company as made out in its written statement may shortly be stated as follows: Shri Sudhir Kumar Ganguly was a compounder in the First Aid Dispensary of the Company, and Dukhi Ahir was employed in the Sleeper Department of the Company. The workmen by and large voluntarily agreed to work on any Sunday and to contribute their earnings on that date to the National Defence Fund. This agreement was made with the recognised Union, and the Company issued a notice on 19th January 1963 directing the workmen to attend to their duties on Sunday, the 20th January 1963 to enable them to contribute their earnings of that date to the Defence Fund. Shri Ganguly deliberately absented himself from duty on 20th January 1963 and a charge-sheet was issued to him. He submitted a reply to the charge-sheet. Another charge-sheet was issued to him on 28th January 1963 alleging that he tried to dissuade other workers from attending the factory on 20th January 1963. He submitted a reply to the charge-sheet, and after a proper enquiry into the charge-sheets the management came to the bona fide conclusion that he was guilty of gross misconduct which warranted his dismissal. He was accordingly dismissed from service with effect from 28th February 1963.

Shri Dukhi Ahir also did not attend his duty on 20th January 1963 as directed by the General Manager of the Company. He also insisted other workmen not to work on 20th January 1963 and also held threats to other workers and abused them. A charge-sheet was issued to him for misconduct, and after a proper domestic enquiry the management found him guilty of gross misconduct, and accordingly dismissed him from service. It is said that the dismissal of both these workmen is just and proper and bona fide, and they are not entitled to any relief, as prayed for.

AWARD

The only issue for adjudication in this case relates to the dismissal of Sarvasri Sudhir Kumar Ganguly and Dukhi Ahir. The dispute between Shri S. K. Ganguly and the Company has been settled amicably out of Court and a joint petition to that effect has been filed by the parties. The terms of compromise as stated in the petition appear to be quite fair and reasonable and there is no reason to suspect the bona fides of the settlement. Shri Ganguly has given up his claim for reinstatement in lieu of a lump sum ex-gratia payment of Rs. 1,700 and a receipt has also been filed to show payment of this amount to him. The dispute, so far as Shri Ganguly is concerned, has become non-existent, and no adjudication of his dispute is called for.

I shall now deal with the dispute of Dukhi Ahir. The undisputed facts bearing on his dismissal are these:

He was given a charge sheet on 24th January 1963, the charge against him being that he wilfully disobeyed the order of the General Manager by absenting himself from duty on 20th January 1963, and also threatened and abused Nagina Singh, a workman of the Company, which constituted a major misconduct on his part. He submitted a reply to the charge-sheet denying the charges brought against him. Thereafter an enquiry was held into the charge-sheet issued to him and, as a result of the enquiry he was dismissed from service with retrospective effect from 24th January 1963. The dismissal of this workman has been challenged on two grounds, in the first place it is contended that the order of dismissal with retrospective effect is illegal and as such the order of dismissal cannot be allowed to stand. In the next place, it has been urged that the finding of the enquiring officer cannot be said to be a reasonable one in view of the evidence which was adduced by him, and his finding also suffers from this infirmity that he did not weigh and consider the evidence that was produced before him. Admittedly, a charge-sheet was issued to Dukhi Ahir on 24th January 1963, and he was suspended with immediate effect pending enquiry (vide charge-sheet Ext. A). Thereafter, by the letter, Ext. C, he was dismissed from service with effect from the date of his suspension, i.e., 24th January 1963. It is now well settled by a series of decisions that suspension or dismissal or removal from service with retrospective effect is illegal and invalid. In the case of Satyendra Kumar Dutta, and Administrator, District Board (1959-I L.L.J. 585) it has been held that the order of dismissal with retrospective effect must be held to be an illegal order and consequently dismissal must be held to be wrongful. The same view has been taken in the recent case of Sudhir Ranjan Haldar and the State of West Bengal and another, reported in F.L.R. 1961, p. 98. In view of these decisions it must be held that the dismissal of Dukhi Ahir with retrospective effect from 24th January 1963 is illegal and cannot stand. This workman is, therefore, entitled to the reliefs claimed on this ground alone.

I now propose to deal with the merits of the case as arguments have been advanced by the learned representatives of both sides. It is an admitted fact that an enquiry was held on 4th February 1963 into the charge-sheet, Ext. A, which was issued to the workman. It is also not disputed that the workman Dukhi Ahir was present at the enquiry and he also put his signature on the enquiry proceedings which have been marked Ext. D. O.P.W. 1 Shri Santimoy Mukherji, who was formerly the Labour Officer of the Company, has been examined. It is stated by him that Dukhi Ahir was given opportunity to cross-examine the witnesses examined at the enquiry on behalf of the Company, but he declined to do so. He also did not want to examine any witness on his behalf. It is further stated by this witness that the statements of the witnesses were explained to them in presence of Dukhi Ahir. There was no cross-examination of this witness on this point, and the endorsement in the enquiry proceedings also supports the statement. It is, therefore, difficult to believe that the workmen concerned was not given opportunity to defend himself, or that he did not understand the contents of the proceedings. It is admitted by this workman that he did not make any complaint in writing to the Company regarding the enquiry made against him. The Secretary of the Union also did not inform the Company regarding the unsatisfactory nature of the enquiry. It is stated by Dukhi Ahir that he told the Union Secretary that the proceedings of the enquiry were not explained to him, and that he was not allowed time to examine witnesses from Barrackpore whom he wanted to examine. The Secretary of the Union, P.W. 1, does not corroborate him. In view of the evidence on record, it must be held that there was a fair and proper enquiry against the workman concerned, and he was also given full opportunity to defend himself. It has been urged that the finding of the enquiring officer cannot be regarded as reasonable in view of the fact that the witnesses named in the complaint, Ext. F, made by Nagina against Dukhi Ahir, on the basis of which the charge-sheet was issued against Dukhi Ahir, were not examined at the enquiry. It is true that except Jagadish Tewari, the two other witnesses named in the complaint of Nagina, viz., Gurudas Chatterji and Musafir Roy, have not been examined at the enquiry. Jagadish Tewari, although named as a witness to the incident, has denied having seen any occurrence. Besides Jagadish, the other witnesses examined at the enquiry are Nagina Singh, Sadhu Charan and Nandalal Purkayet. They have deposed to prove the charge brought against Dukhi Ahir. They were not cross-examined by Dukhi Ahir although he was given opportunity to cross-examine them, and their evidence stands unchallenged. It is no doubt true that the witnesses mentioned in the complaint, Ext. F, made by Nagina would have been the best person to prove the alleged occurrence. But the evidence that was adduced before the enquiring officer and recorded by him was considered as sufficient to prove the charge against him, and on the evidence on record it cannot be said that the finding arrived at by the enquiring officer is perverse or such a finding could not be arrived at by a prudent man. I accordingly hold that the charge against Dukhi Ahir was established at the domestic enquiry, which enquiry was fair and proper. In view of the fact, however, that the order of dismissal was not legal and valid inasmuch as it was given retrospective effect, the order of dismissal cannot be maintained and is liable to be set aside. In the result, the order of dismissal of Dukhi Ahir, the workman concerned, is set aside. The Company is directed to reinstate him and to pay him back wages from the date of his suspension till the date of his reinstatement within a month from the date of publication of this award in the Calcutta Gazette. This is my award.

No. 3467I.R./IR/13L-41/63.—6th August 1964.—Whereas an industrial dispute between Messrs. Rolls Print Co., 1/2 New Taratalla Road, Calcutta-27, and their workmen represented by the Press Employees' Association, 249B Bipin Behari Ganguly Street, Calcutta-12, relating to the matter specified in the Second Schedule to the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), was referred by the employer and the workmen to arbitration by the Arbitrator named in the Arbitration Agreement published under the Government of West Bengal, Labour Department Order No. 57-I.R./IR/13L-41/63, dated the 10th January 1964;

And whereas the arbitration award on the said industrial dispute given by the said Arbitrator was received by the State Government on the 3rd August 1964;

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the provisions of sub-section (1) of section 17 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), the Governor is pleased hereby to publish the said award as shown in the annexure hereto.

ANNEXURE

Arbitration award in the matter of an industrial dispute between Messrs. Rolls Print Co. (P) Ltd., 1/2 Taratolla Road, Calcutta-27, and their workmen represented by Press Employees' Association, 249B Bipin Behari Ganguly Street, Calcutta-12.

BEFORE THE ARBITRATOR

PRESENT:

Shri H. M. GHOSH, Deputy Labour Commissioner—Arbitrator.

For the Association: Shri Anil Das Chowdhury, Vice-President, Press Employees' Association.

For the Company: Shri Satish Krishen, In-charge, Factory Administration.
Shri Lahiri, Legal representative of the Company.

Government of West Bengal in the Labour Department by Order No. 57-I.R./IR/13L-41/63, dated 10th January 1964, published the Arbitration Agreement as shown in the annexure hereto, under sub-section 3 of section 10A of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), in respect of the industrial dispute between Messrs. Rolls Print Co. (P.) Ltd., 1/2 Taratolla Road, Calcutta-27, hereinafter referred to as the employer and their workmen represented by Press Employees' Association, 249B Bipin Behari Ganguly Street, Calcutta-12, hereinafter referred to as the Association, and the said dispute was referred to Arbitration by the employer and the workmen under sub-section (1) of section 10A of the said Act.

The Arbitration Agreement between the employer and the workmen referred the following specific matters of dispute to me for arbitration:

Whether the dismissal of Bachha Singh (Watchman) is justified? To what relief he is entitled?

The above reference was received on 18th January 1964. The employer and the Association were requested to submit written statements and the employer's written statement was received in the last week of February 1964 and the Association's written statement was received earlier. The written statements submitted by the parties were respectively sent to the opposite party for information and comments, if any. The parties submitted their further comments in the second week of March 1964. The date for hearing of the representatives of both the parties was fixed on 23rd March 1964 and examination of witnesses and arguments were heid on 6th April 1964, 17th April 1964, 12th May 1964, 22nd May 1964 and 5th June 1964. These dates were fixed to suit the convenience of the parties in consultation with them.

The Association's case as per written statement is that the employer is a very old, big and prosperous printing concern, engaged in quality work of a very high order and is a regular printer of State Bus tickets, Telegram papers, Brooke Bond label, etc. The prosperity and the reputation of the employer have been built up through the efficient, hard and loyal services of the workmen and that notwithstanding the steady progress and prosperity the workmen are subjected to various kinds of exploitation. For the purpose of collective bargaining the workmen joined the Union which was not to the liking of the Company. Shri Bachha Singh was an active member of the Union who has served the Company as Durwan for long six years with clean service to his credit, but the Company by way of victimization illegally suspended and framed charge-sheet against him on 27th August 1963 bringing false and vague allegations which were denied by Shri Bachha Singh in his explanation, dated 28th August 1963. The Company, therefore, without holding any enquiry and actuated by mala fide intention terminated the services of Shri Bachha Singh in gross violation of the principle of natural justice. As the termination of services of Shri Bachha Singh was unjustified, illegal, mala fide and in act of victimization, the Association claimed reinstatement with all back wages including bonus, leave wages for the period of unemployment and other relief as may be deemed fit and proper.

The employer's case is as follows:

Shri Bachha Singh was employed as a Watchman in the factory at Taratolla Road and his duty included inter alia to keep watch at the gate of the factory so that no goods could pass out of the factory without verification of the goods as per the Gate Pass issued for the purpose. On 27th August 1963, while Shri Bachha Singh was on duty at the gate, Shri Santoshi Yadav, an employee of General Timber Works, 50/2 Hazra Road, took delivery of certain corrugated iron sheets from the employer's factory and proceeded with the goods loaded on a handcart drawn by a handcart puller towards the factory gate at about 4 p.m. Shri Santoshi Yadav was given a Gate Pass so that the watchman on the strength of the Gate Pass would allow the goods to be taken out of the factory after verifying the contents mentioned in the Gate Pass. Shri Santoshi Yadav on reaching the gate produced the Gate Pass and handed over the same to the Watchman Shri Bachha Singh. Bachha Singh demanded Rs. 5 from Shri Santoshi Yadav as "baksis" for opening the gate for him and allowing the goods to be taken out. Santoshi Yadav refused to pay and there was a hot altercation between Santoshi Yadav and Bachha Singh over this, which drew attention of some employees of the factory who came to the gate. Santoshi Yadav thereafter reported the matter to Shri Satish Krishen, In-charge of the Factory Administration. At the intervention of Shri Satish Krishen, Santoshi Yadav was allowed to take the goods out of the factory. Shri Satish Krishen asked Bachha Singh and the employees who reported the matter to him to submit their statements in writing. While two employees submitted their statements under their signature, Bachha Singh refused to do so and insisted that it was his right to claim such "baksis." Thereupon a charge-sheet was issued on the same date to Bachha Singh and a letter suspending him was also issued to him on the same date. At first he refused to accept this letter in presence of witnesses. However, he later accepted the letter but refused to give acknowledgement receipt. Bachha Singh submitted his explanation on the next day denying the charges. On 28th August 1963 the proprietor of General Timber Works, employer of Santoshi Yadav, forwarded a letter of the same date through Shri Santoshi Yadav to the Company and Santoshi Yadav was asked to submit his written complaint which he did under his signature, although the Management issued charge-sheet to Bachha Singh and received his explanation and the verbal complaint of Shri Yadav which was confirmed in writing under his signature. The Management on receipt of signed statements from witnesses decided not to continue disciplinary proceedings any further as pursuing the disciplinary proceedings might lead to Bachha Singh's dismissal which in turn would affect his future career. The Management, therefore, taking compassionate view decided to terminate his services by way of discharge simplicitor and offered one month's wages in lieu of notice. The employer denied that Bachha Singh was dismissed by way of punishment or that they acted in a mala fide manner which amounted to unfair labour practice or victimization. It was contended that the observance of the principle of natural justice which was initiated was dropped in the interest of the employee concerned. With these arguments the employer denied liability for grant of any relief whatsoever as the workman is not entitled to any relief.

It appears from documents exhibited before me during arbitration that the letter, dated 27th August 1963, asking Bachha Singh to explain, runs as follows:

> "You are hereby asked for explanation that why you have not allowed the cart at 4 p.m. today when he approaches to the gate to go out of the factory although the necessary Gate Pass has been duly signed by me. You are advised to give reply within 24 hours on receipt of this letter."

In the second letter, dated 27th August 1963, his services were suspended from the same date until further notice.

Extract from Bachha Singh's written explanation is quoted below:

"I deny the allegation that I did not allow the cart to go out. When the Gate Pass was shown to me by the cartman I started immediately verifying the Gate Pass with the actual count of the empty tins which the cartman was carrying in the cart. This was necessitated in the interest of the Company as in the Gate Pass the size and the number of the tin containers were mentioned and I wanted to have it verified. My action in counting the containers was justified lest I would have been held responsible if the number of tins mentioned in the Gate Pass did not tally with the number actually being carried in the cart. The cartman unnecessarily got irritated and shouted at me to allow him to go without verification. When I refused to oblige him he threatened that he would go to the office and complain against me that I refused to allow him to go out.

I deeply regret that for carrying out my duties I have been put under suspension. Under the circumstances mentioned above I feel sure that you will kindly withdraw the charge-sheet and also the suspension order and allow me to resume my duty with full wages for the period of suspension."

The Management's letter, dated 2nd September 1963, addressed to Bachha Singh, runs as follows:

"We are in receipt of your reply, dated 28th August 1963.

Immediately after the incident you were questioned in the presence of responsible persons about your action, when you clearly admitted having demanded money from the handcart man despite his producing a genuine Gate Pass and contended that there was nothing wrong in it. You also admitted that this practice was followed by you all along. You also alleged that other Durwans do the same thing.

This action on your part is a clear case of taking illegal gratifications in which you have been indulging in all along and constitutes a misconduct deserving immediate dismissal without notice.

Your services are therefore terminated forthwith but considering the length of service you will be paid a month's salary in lieu without prejudice or precedence.

You may collect your dues from this office at any time on any working day during office hours."

The receipt of this letter, dated 2nd September 1963, by Bachha Singh has been denied by the Association on behalf of Shri Singh.

During the course of hearing the employer produced four witnesses, namely, Shri Satish Krishen, In-charge, Factory Administration, Shri P. C. Sharma, Chief Engineer, Shri Tapan Kumar Banerjee, Assistant, Time Office and Shri Santoshi Yadav, who came with the handcart on behalf of General Timbers to take delivery of goods on 27th August 1963. They were all cross-examined by the Association's representative. The Association produced Shri Bachha Singh, Durwan, who was also cross-examined by the employer's representative. The employer at a later stage submitted through their legal representative written statements of Santoshi Yadav, a letter dated 28th August 1963, from General Timber Works signed statement of Shri P. C. Sharma, dated 29th August 1963, statement of Shri Tapan Kumar Banerjee, dated 27th August 1963. The Association's representative, however, did not admit these letters as they were not produced by persons concerned but submitted through Company's representative.

The issue for arbitration before me is: "Whether the dismissal of Bachha Singh (Watchman) is justified? To what relief he is entitled?" and the issue for arbitration was agreed upon by both the employer as well as the Association.

The employer's plea that it was a case of "discharge simplicitor" cannot be accepted as it would appear from the charge-sheet issued to Bachha Singh, dated 27th August 1963, and also the letter, dated 2nd September 1963, purported to have been issued to Bachha Singh that the termination of service is punitive and the Management had the intention to punish Bachha Singh for misconduct and it is not a bona fide exercise of the employer's right to terminate the services of an employee on payment of a month's notice as per condition of service and the order or discharge is in effect an order of dismissal and in the present case thus dismissal has been effected without proper enquiry with the result that the employee concerned has been denied natural justice.

It is a well-settled principle that in cases where an industrial dispute is raised on the ground of dismissal and is referred to a Tribunal or an arbitrator, the arbitrator or Tribunal would naturally want to know whether the impugned dismissal was preceded by a proper enquiry or not or in other words whether natural justice by way of proper enquiry into the charges levelled against the employee concerned, was shown and the charges were ultimately proved through such enquiry. In the event the charge levelled are proved through proper enquiry, it would be open for the employer to award such disciplinary punishment as may be deemed fit by them and the industrial tribunal or adjudicator should not sit in appeal over the findings recorded and should not normally interfere with the Management's decision. The tribunal or the arbitrator could, however, interfere where there is want of good faith, where there is victimization or unfair labour practice or the Management is guilty of basic error for violation of the principle of natural justice. It follows, therefore that the issue about the merit of the impugned order of termination of service is at large before me as an Adjudicator and on the basis of facts and evidences revealed before me it would have to be decided whether the termination is justified and if not, what would be the proper order to make in this case. It is well settled that where no proper domestic enquiry has been held the employer can lead evidence before the arbitrator and justify his action and the case has to be considered on its own merit and the arbitrator should come to its own conclusion without having any regard for the stand taken by either parties.

During arbitration proceedings before me both the employer's as well as the Association's representatives were given full opportunity to lead evidences in support of their respective claim and stand and to cross-examine the witnesses produced by either parties.

I now propose to deal with the depositions made before me by the witnesses on behalf of the employer.

Shri P. C. Sharma, Chief Engineer, stated before me that when he went to the factory gate on 27th August 1963 hearing some "golmal" he was told by Shri Yadav that the Durwan refused to open the gate demanding money and when he asked Bachha Singh what all these were, Bachha Singh told him that all the Company's men pay him "baksis." Shri P. C. Sharma further stated that he told Bachha Singh that it was not proper and reasonable and he took Santoshi Yadav to Shri Satish Krishen, In-charge, Factory Administration, and asked Shri Satish Krishen to see the "golmal" at the gate.

Shri Santoshi Yadav during deposition before me stated that the Durwan asked him to give Rs. 5. Shri Yadav told him that he was an employee and he would report to his employer and if the employer paid the money he would pay him. Then the Durwan asked Yadav to promise that he would come following day to give him Rs. 5 if the amount was not then with him and the Durwan told him that unless he assured this he would not open the gate. Thereafter Shri Yadav asked the Durwan that as he had produced the necessary Gate Pass and the goods were counted he should open the gate and some altercation ensued. Shri Yadav also stated that Shri Sharma asked him to report the matter to Shri Satish Krishen "Barra Saheb" and he went to him and explained to him that the Durwan was demanding Rs. 5 which he could not pay because he had no money. He also reported the matter to his own employer and with a letter from his employer he again reported to the Factory on 28th August 1963 and gave a statement to Shri Satish Krishen explaining the incident and also signed a written statement. He said that even when Bachha Singh was asked by Shri Satish Krishen to open the gate, Bachha Singh did not do so and another man opened the gate.

Shri Tapan Kumar Banerjee, an assistant of the Company, during deposition before me stated that on 27th August 1963 on hearing "golmal" at the gate at about 4 p.m. he went to the gate and heard that Bachha Singh was demanding Rs. 5 from the man accompanying the handcart. He said that he heard clearly Bachha Singh saying that unless he was paid Rs. 5 he would not allow the cart to go out. Bachha Singh at the same time told the man that if he promised to pay him next day then he would allow him to go out of the gate. He also said that he heard Bachha Singh telling the man that the money he asked for was his "hak" and it would not affect the Company in any way. He asserted that the written statement given by him regarding the incident to the Management is correct.

Shri Satish Krishen, In-charge, Factory Administration, corroborated that Shri P. C. Sharma and Shri M. Bhargava along with Shri Yadav at about 4 p.m. on 27th August 1963 reported the incident at the gate. During deposition he corroborated the statements of the other witnesses regarding demand of money by Bachha Singh. He also confirmed that after going to the gate he ordered Bachha Singh to open the gate and allow the cart to go out. But Bachha Singh did not obey him. In the meantime he found another Durwan coming towards the gate and ordered him to allow the cart to go out of the gate and this Durwan, viz., Hari Singh opened the gate. He said further that termination of services of Bachha Singh was for demanding money but the Company offered one month's wages to him.

Shri Bachha Singh during his deposition before me denied that he asked any "bakshis" from Shri Yadav or having told anybody that it was a practice for Durwans to take "baksis". He said that he wanted to check the goods before the cart was allowed to go out. At this the cartman went to the office. He denied having received any order of dismissal but said that he was verbally told so. Bachha Singh, during cross-examination by the Company's representative, however, admitted that he was staying inside the factory premises but after he was suspended he was asked to stay out of the factory premises. He further admitted that he did not communicate to the Company any address where he could be found. He admitted that he was told by Shri Satish Krishen whom he met at the gate that he would receive a letter at his home address and he has been dismissed. During cross-examination he denied that Shri Satish Krishen, Bhargava and Sharma went to the gate with Shri Yadav on that date. Bachha Singh admitted that there was no enmity between him and others of the Company or Shri Yadav.

From facts and circumstances as revealed before me during arbitration it has been proved through corroborative evidences beyond doubt that on 27th August 1963 the Durwan in question did not allow the handcart of Shri Santoshi Yadav to go out of the factory by opening the gate and when Shri Satish Krishen, In-charge, Factory Administration, asked the Durwan to open the gate, he also did not obey him and the gate had to be opened by another Durwan. Shri Bachha Singh in his explanation stated that while he was counting the articles Shri Yadav got unnecessarily irritated and shouted at him to allow him to go without verification but when he refused he threatened to lodge a complaint against him. Shri Satish Krishen, In-charge, Factory Administration, in his deposition has stated that on receipt of the complaint he himself went to the gate and ordered Bachha Singh to open the gate but he did not obey him and in the meantime another Durwan came near the gate and he opened the gate after which the cart passed away. There is no corroborative evidence to show that Shri Yadav behaved in the manner stated by Shri Bachha Singh.

Shri P. C. Sharma in his deposition also stated that when he went to the gate hearing the "golmal" Shri Yadav reported to him about Bachha Singh's demand of money.

Shri Tapan Kumar Banerjee in his evidence stated that Shri Hari Singh, Durwan (not Bachha Singh) opened the gate for the cart to pass.

Shri Bachha Singh during cross-examination admitted that he had no enmity with any employee or Shri Yadav. There is also no proof before me to show that the management bore any grudge against Bachha Singh for his Trade Union activities or for any other thing. There is, therefore, hardly any reasonable ground to disbelieve the statements of all these witnesses who deposed against Bachha Singh.

The Management's representative during argument before me stated that Bachha Singh is a Durwan and he has lost the confidence of the management and opposed the claim for reinstatement in the interest of administration and discipline. There is weighty reason behind this argument of the management, particularly in the case of a Watch and Ward Staff who should enjoy the confidence of the management as they are entrusted with the duties of protection of employer's property.

The Association on behalf of the employee has mainly contended that natural justice has been denied to the employee concerned by the Management that the charges levelled against him is vague, that he has been victimised for Trade Union activities; further that he was suspended not pending enquiry and, therefore, termination of services for the same offence tantamounts to double punishment for the same offence which, therefore, is unreasonable. The Association has also urged that Bachha Singh's services were verbally terminated as he has not received the Company's letter, dated 2nd September 1963, purported to have been issued to him and has suggested that the charges of illegal gratification levelled against Bachha Singh is an after-thought and the Company was actuated by mala fide intention. With these arguments the Association urged reinstatement with back wages, etc., as the proper relief. There is no proof that Shri Singh was victimised for Trade Union activites. In the absence of any proof of ill motive against Bachha Singh on the part of other employees, the Association's contention that the Management was actuated by mala fide intention should fail. The employer by not holding proper enquiry into the charges denied natural justice to Bachha Singh but what was denied to him by the employer was made available to him during arbitration proceedings and had the Management conducted the enquiries properly, the misconduct could have been established.

With regard to the Association's argument that accusation of llegal gratification against Bachha Singh is an after-thought, it is a fact that in the letter of the Company, dated 27th August 1963, addressed to Bachha Singh, no mention of the illegal gratification was there and only in the letter of 2nd September 1963 stated to have been issued to Bachha Singh (the receipt of which has been denied by the Association) this accusation of illegal gratification was used. He did not receive the letter of termination dated 2nd September 1963 from the Management was due to the fact that Shri Singh did not communicate his address to the Management after his suspension. But since the Management has not made proper enquiries into the charges, the question posed strictly speaking is not very relevant.

From the facts and circumstances as revealed before me during arbitration, it has been proved beyond doubt that Shri Bachha Singh did not allow the handcart of Shri Yadav to go out of the factory by opening the gate on the day in question because his demand for "Bakshis" was not met and this is a misconduct of serious nature—the gravity of this misconduct has become all the more serious when the motive behind his conduct is taken into consideration.

In giving a decision in a case like this the Arbitrator is expected to see that fair-play is meted out to the employee on the one hand and consideration of discipline in the establishment is also not ignored. It is, therefore, obvious that there could be no hard and fast rule in this regard.

In reaching the final decision an attempt has to be made to reconcile the conflicting claims made on behalf of the employee and the employer. I do realise that the employee in question is entitled to security of service and should be protected from unfair practices on the part of the Management, but nevertheless the interest of administration and discipline in the establishment should not be lost sight of.

After careful consideration of the case from all aspects I am of the opinion that the employer's action in dismissing the service of Shri Bachha Singh cannot be called unjustified and it would not be fair and reasonable in the interest of the employee as well as the employer to direct reinstatement. An employee belonging to the Watch and Ward Cadre who, it appears, no more enjoys the confidence of the Management could not be considered to be a suitable person for reinstatement and having regard to all the circumstances involved in this case, I am of the opinion that the ends of justice would be met if I award six months' wages (basic and D.A.) to Shri Bachha Singh as compensation in view of his six years of service over and above one month's wages already offered to Shri Bachha Singh by the Management in their letter, dated 2nd September 1963, and I direct the employer to pay the sum within 15 days of the publication of this award

It appeared that suspension order was issued against Shri Bachha Singh on receipt of the verbal complaint. Substantive punishment of termination of service was awarded only on completion of such enquiries as the Management thought fit to make. It appears however that there is no certified Standing Order enforceable in this concern providing for suspension without wages. As such, suspension without wages for whatever reason it might be, does not seem to be justified, and I, therefore, award that the wages for the period of suspension, viz., from 27th August 1963 till 2nd September 1963 be paid to Shri Bachha Singh in addition to the compensation awarded by me earlier and this payment should be made along with the compensation awarded.
This is my award.

Talpukur, 24-rganas, and (4) Britannia Engineering Workers' nion, Sramik Shivir, Talpukur, 24-Parganas (hereinter referred to as the Unions), for adjudication der section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act.

The issue framed in this case for adjudication runs as follows:

Whether the workmen are entitled to profit sharing bonus on the profits of 1961 payable in 1962? If so, what should be the quantum?

AWARD

The question involved in this case is whether the workmen are entitled to profit sharing bonus for the year 1961. Admittedly, there had been previous references by the Government to the Tribunal over the same dispute in respect of bonus for previous years, and one such reference was before my predecessor Shri Pal which ended in an award, in respect of which an appeal is pending before the Supreme Court, and this was in respect of bonus for the year 1959. Previous to that, there was a reference in respect of bonus for six years, namely, for the years 1952, 1953, 1954, 1955, 1957 and 1958. Available surplus was found only in respect of two years, i.e., for 1952 and 1955 by Shri Sarkar who awarded two months' basic wages as bonus for the year 1952 and three months' basic wages for the year 1955. The claim for bonus for other years was disallowed by Shri Sarkar. This is the background of the present reference for bonus for the year 1961.

The Union and the Company filed their respective written statements on the above issue. The Union states that the Company earned huge profits in 1961, and the workmen are entitled to a share of the profits equivalent to five months' basic wages. This was the demand of the Union, to which the Company did not agree. The profit and loss account and the balance-sheet of the Company for the year 1961 are challanged by the Union on the ground of inclusion of certain items of unjust expenditure and capital expenditure being shown as revenue expenditure calculated to reduce the profits. The plants and machineries of the Company are adequately rehabilitated through repairs, and as such the Company does not need any further rehabilitation. The Company is using the same plants and machineries and building for the last forty-four years, and there had been not a single replacement in respect of machineries. Purchase of machineries and construction of buildings by the Company was for the purpose of expansion. Rehabilitation charges awarded to the Company in the previous awards were not utilised for this specific purpose. The Company has a large amount of money by way of depreciation, reserves and surplus, etc., which can meet the cost of rehabilitation adequately.

The amount of reserves and surplus remained unspent and was not utilised as working capital. So, no return on the said amount can be claimed by the Company.

The workmen accordingly claim five months' basis earnings as bonus for the year 1961.

The Company in its written statement denied all the allegations made by the Union. The Company contends that it did not earn huge profits as alleged During conciliation proceedings, the Company agreed to pay one month's basic wages as bonus for the year 1961, though on proper calculation according to bonus formula no such amount could be paid.

The balance-sheet and the profit and loss account of the Company do not show any item of unjust expenditure or capital expenditure as revenue expenditure. The Company is entitled to claim deduction for rehabilitation of its fixed assets.

The Company also contends that reserves and surplus were utilised as working capital during the trading year 1961, and so it is entitled to a fair return thereon. On calculation according to the Full Bench Formula, no available surplus would be found for distribution as bonus for the year 1961.

Decision

Both the Union and the Company filed calculation sheets in conformity with the Full Bench Formula of the Labour Appellate Tribunal reported in 1950 L.L.J. II, page 1247 in respect of the relevant year 1961. The financial year of the Company follows English Calendar year. The Company has filed the balance-sheet of the year 1961 and also some balance-sheets in respect of previous years. It has also submitted a detailed statement showing calculation of available surplus. The broad calculation will appear in Ext. A. The details are worked out in the successive exhibits of the Company. The Union's calculation will appear in Ext. 1.

First of all, I will turn to the balance-sheet for the year 1961, which is the bonus year in question. The profit and loss account shows the balance of Rs. 7,48,142 as the net profit of the Company for the year 1961. This figure is not challenged on behalf of the Union. The Company added back to this amount provision for taxation, which is Rs. 4 lakhs according to the balance-sheet. This adding back will also appear in the Union's calculation, and there is no controversy over it.

The next item which is to be added back is provision for depreciation, and it is Rs. 9,05,135 according to the balance-sheet. This figure is not also in controversy, and the Union's calculation shows that this amount was also added back. This is how the figure of Rs. 20,53,277 is arrived at. There is no quarrel with this figure.

On the side of the Union it is contended that some other figures should be added back so as to inflate the above figure, to which the Company takes exception. It is the argument on the side of the Union that the Company included several items of unjust expenditure on the debit side of the balance-sheet in order to reduce the profits of the year in question. This argument will have to be examined on the evidence on record—item by item. Exhibit 1 should be looked into in this respect. The first item added back by the Union is profit bonus paid for the years 1952 and 1955 as per award, dated 22nd May 1961, passed by Shri Sarker mentioned before. The total amount which was debited to the profit and loss account of 1961 is Rs. 5,28,476. According to the Union, this was not an expenditure on account of trading for the year 1961, and as such it should not be debited to the trading account of 1961. It cannot be disputed by the Company that this expenditure was unrelated to the trading of the year 1961, and so it cannot be gain said that this was an expenditure of previous years having relation to the trading results of this particular year 1961. On this point, there is decision of the Labour Appellate Tribunal reported in 1955 I L.L.J., page 430. It was decided in that case that bonus for the previous year, though paid during the year in question, cannot be recorded as an item of expenditure in the trading result of the year in question. On the authority of the decision, I support the Union's calculation in adding back the said amount. It was therefore correctly added back by the Union.

The next item added back by the Union is Rs. 86,180. It was an expenditure debited in the profit and loss account. It was a workmen and staff welfare expenditure. On behalf of the Union, it is argued that it was an unjust expenditure incurred by the Company, if at all the amount was expended, and as such it should be added back. The Company submitted a break-up of this figure in Ext. Z-5, which shows that the expenditure on medical treatment is Rs. 25,000 roughly, and Rs. 58,000 is the expense for welfare and tiffin, etc. The Union witness P.W. 1 Shri Bimal Mitra in his evidence at page 3 stated that the expenditure incurred for staff welfare should not be debited, because it is not a prior charge. He does not challenge that this expenditure was not incurred, but he wants to add it back by saying that it was not a prior charge. I think, Shri Mitra is confused over the expression of prior charge. If it is a just and legitimate expenditure and if it is debited by the Company in the profit and loss account, it cannot be added back. O.P.W. 3 Shri R. S. Jain, Commercial Manager, explained in his evidence at page 2 the particulars of staff welfare expenses. There was subsidy to canteen to the tune of Rs. 1,500 per month, and on calculation the money spent on this score during the relevant year 1961 would be Rs. 18,000. He further explained that expenses were incurred for daily tiffin to officers and senior staff and also for refreshments given to visitors who paid visit to the factory for promotion of sale and collaboration. The cost of uniform to Watch and Ward Staff was also included in the same item. The Union representative Shri Pandey contends that the expense incurred for entertainment of the visitors was not a legitimate one. But as the visitors came to the factory for promotion of sale and collaboration their entertainment cost must go towards trading expenses of the year. It was therefore correctly debited in the profit and loss account, and I am unable to accept the view of the Union that it should be added back.

The next item of Ext. 1 which is sought to be added back is the sum of Rs. 5,15,056, and it is an expenditure for capital work in progress. Now I will turn to the profit and loss account at page 11 of the balance-sheet. It shows on the credit side the value of work in progress, and it is remarked that the amount includes Rs. 5,15,056 which is capital work in progress. The Unions suggests that this was capital expenditure, and so it should be added back. This figure has been shown on the credit side in the profit and loss account. Had it been shown on the debit side, I would have appreciated the argument advanced on the side of the Union. The amount has already been credited, and as such no question of adding back this amount can arise. The learned representative of the Union finally conceded that this figure should not be added back.

Next I come to the expenses on account of repair of buildings, plants and machineries and others, and the sum is Rs. 1,51,878 which was debited in the profit and loss account. On the side of the Union it is argued that this expenditure which is roughly to the tune of Rs. 1½ lakhs should not be accepted as repair—pure and simple, but it should be regarded as expenses towards rehabilitation, it being a heavy amount on account of repair. There is no break-up given by the Company in respect of this sum. The fact is that this expenditure was incurred for repair work as vouchsafed in the audited accounts. Shri Bimal Mitra on behalf of the Union cannot deny that there was no such repair. The value of fixed assets in the beginning of the year was roughly Rs. 1,30,00,000. Ordinary repair of the blocks worth Rs. 1,30,00,000 cannot in any event be less than Rs. 1½ lakhs annually. The expenditure on account of repair therefore cannot be said to be a heavy or unduly inflated one, having regard to the huge amount of blocks which are required to be maintained in proper order for proper running of the factory. This is a revenue expenditure, and it would be idle to characterise it as a capital expenditure, or as a sum which would reduce the rehabilitation charges. It is a revenue expenditure which is not to be added back.

The next item is rent. In the profit and loss account Rs. 1,16,000 is shown as expenses on account of rent. The Union wants to add back Rs. 15,000 out of it without assigning any reason. It is the evidence of Shri Mitra on behalf of the Union that he was under the impression that the Company did not spend so much on account of rent. His impression cannot cast any adverse notion on the audited accounts of the Company. The Commercial Manager Shri Jain stated in his evidence that rent is to be paid for the Head Office, and House Allowance is payable to the senior staff, the Company being under contractual obligation in this respect. This amount cannot, therefore, be added back.

Next I come to the miscellaneous expenditure which is to the tune of Rs. 7,58,000 roughly. The break-up of this figure can be found in Ext. X of the Company. It includes various items of expenditure as detailed therein. There is expenditure on account of travelling, stationery, telephone, etc. On the side of the Union, it is argued that the expenditure incurred by the Company on account of fuel or purchase of motor car and motor lorry or repair thereof is not a justified one. The profit and loss account shows separate items of expenditure on account of fuel and repair, and it is suggested that the expenditure on account of motor car and motor lorry as in Ext. X is likely to include the same amount twice. O.P.W. 1 Shri Jyoti Prasanna Moulik (Accountant of the Company) who was examined on the side of the Company, has stated that the balance-sheet of the Company was prepared with reference to Company's books of accounts maintained regularly, and the auditor examined those records for preparing the balance-sheet. He gave evidence on several items of expenditures as also on miscellaneous expenditure, and his statement on this point will appear at page 2 of his evidence. Nothing was put to this witness on behalf of the Union with reference to Ext. X which he proved in order to elicit from him any clarification on the items of motor lorries and motor cars so as to form the basis of the argument now advanced before me. Questions ought to have been put on the individual items of Ext. X to this witness (Shri Moulik) who was competent to explain the same, if it was the desire of the Union to challenge the varacity of the figures shown in this document. But this was not done. So, the Union cannot build the argument merely on the description of expenditures as given in Ext. X. It cannot be said that the expenditure on account of purchase of motor car and motor lorry was capital expenditure. Miscellaneous expenditures incurred by the Company have been allowed by the Supreme Court to be debited, as will appear from the calculation in the case reported in 1964 L.L.J. I, page 370. The relevant portion can be found at page 376. The Supreme Court considered the question of adding back the miscellaneous expenses, and accepted the argument that it was unreasonable to think that the same voucher had been accepted by the auditors in support of entries of expenditures under two different heads. The freight and shipping charges which were separtely shown were also included in miscellaneous expenses, and the Tribunal was held to be wrong in adding back the same. The break-up of Ext. X however, shows that Rs. 21,000 was expended as donation. This amount should be added back, and in support of the same authority can be found in the case reported in 1960 L.L.J. II, page 34 where it has been observed by the Supreme Court that a donation however charitable or philanthropic it may be, is to be added back for the purpose of arriving at the available surplus. The amount of Rs. 21,000 out of miscellaneous expenses should therefore be added back.

The next item which was added back by the Union is contribution towards provident fund. The contribution made by the Company towards provident fund has been debited in the profit and loss account, as it is a statutory obligation under the Provident Fund Act. P.W. 3 Shri Rao gave evidence on this point at page 7. It is an actual contribution by the Company towards Provident Fund and so it must be debited to the trading account of the relevant year 1961. The Company will have no control over the said sum, and it would remain under the control of the Trustees constituted under the Act. On this point, reference may be made to the case reported in 1964 L.L.J. I, page 370 at page 375, where the Supreme Court held that the Tribunal fell in error in adding back the sum of Rs. 10 lakhs and odd which was paid during the year by the Company to the Trustees of the Provident Fund. The amount was kept apart by the employer himself, so that he would be able to make payment in future year when payment would become due. This payment of contribution towards provident fund was regarded by the Supreme Court as payment made for a demand to liability of the year in question, and it was not added back to the net profits of the year to ascertain the gross profits. The provident fund contribution made by the Company for the year 1961 cannot, therefore, be added back.

The next item is gratuity actually paid. This expenditure was incurred justly and legitimately, and as such it was rightly debited in the profit and loss account, and cannot be added back.

The above discussions exhaust the calculation of adding back by the Union in Ext. 1.

Now I will turn to the Company's deductions before arriving at the gross profits in Ext. A. The Company deducted Rs. 83,667 as provision for liabilities no longer required. I will turn to the profit and loss account at page 10. There is a credit of Rs. 83,667 during the year as provision for liabilities no longer required written back. The Company argues that this was done as the amount of provision was no longer required, and since the amount was written back it was credited. This amount had nothing to do with the trading results for the year 1961. It is not an earning on account of trade for that year. It should, therefore, be deducted in calculating the gross profits. There is considerable force in the argument advanced since the above sum was not the earning of the trading of the year. It cannot be considered in arriving at the gross profits. It was credited in the profit and loss account, and for our present purpose it should be deducted as has been done by the Company. The Union cannot successfully assail the said deduction. The Company, therefore, rightly deducted this sum of Rs. 83,667.

There is another item of deduction made by the Company, and it is extraneous receipts of Rs. 16,162. It was credited in the profit and loss account as miscellaneous receipts. Though it was credited in the profit and loss account, it was not a profit earned out of trading. It was receipt in respect of transfer fee of share and sale proceeds of drums and barrels, and as such this amount should be taken out from the gross profits of the year. The Company's Commercial Manager Shri Jain (O.P.W. 3) gave evidence on this point. He stated that this amount came from transfer fees of share scripts and sale of empty drums and barrels. There is no break up of this figure showing which portion came from receipt of transfer fees and which portion from sale of empty drums and barrels. The drums undoubtedly were part of the trading and the sale proceeds of the same should come in the trading account. The drums are not capital goods. They were purchased with the materials as containers and as such they form part of the price of the articles purchased. If the sale proceeds of such drums should come in the trading account of that year, it should not be deducted in calculating the gross profits.

The above discussion leads to our conclusion in respect of the amount of gross profits which stands thus:

	Rs.
Net profit as per profit and loss Acounts	7,48,142
Provision for taxation ...	4,00,000
Provision for depreciation ...	9,05,135
	20,53,277
Add Back
Profit bonus paid as per tribunal award for the years 1952 and 1955 and settlement in the year 1960 ...	5,28,476
	25,81,753
Donation in Ext. X out of miscellaneous expenses	21,000
	26,02,753
Deduct
Provision for liabilities no longer required written back	83,667
	25,19,086

This is the amount of gross profits from which prior charges are to be deducted. Now I will proceed to determine the said prior charges. The first item is notional normal and multiple shift depreciation as per Income-tax Rules. The Company deducted a sum of Rs. 8,83,751 towards depreciation. The break-up will appear from Exts. Z-6 and Z-7, the summary of which can be found in Ext. O. The Union's calculation of notional normal depreciation appears in Ext. 1.1, and it is Rs. 5,38,829. Thus there is difference between the Company and the Union on this important point. In the previous award of Shri Sarkar, the Union and the Company accepted the figure of notional normal depreciation in Exts. Z-6 and Z-7. The written down value of plants and machineries, buildings and other fixed assets of the Company are stated in the first column, and additions during the year in respect of the same are shown in the second column together with the rates of deduction according to Income-tax Rules. It is 10 per cent. in respect of plants and machineries, and 50 per cent. in respect of multiple shifts. In respect of plants and machineries, all of them are worked on in two shifts as will appear from the evidence of the Works Manager Shri Rao (O.P.W. 4). He stated that about 60/70 per cent. of the machineries were running in 3 shifts. It is therefore clear from his evidence that all the machineries are run at least in 2 shifts. The Company is therefore entitled to multiple shift deduction in respect of depreciation. It is 50 per cent. of 10 per cent. in addition to 10 per cent. With regard to machineries which were acquired during the year up to June, 10 per cent depreciation is claimed, and in respect of machineries acquired between July to November in 1961, 50 per cent. of 10 per cent. is claimed, as depreciation. In respect of machineries acquired in December of that year, there is no claim for depreciation. Shri Pandey on behalf of the Union argues unsuccessfully, contrary to the Income-tax Rules, that no depreciation is to be allowed for machineries acquired during the year. This argument cannot be accepted in view of the Income-tax Rules to the contrary. The calculation of depreciation in Exts. Z-6 and Z-7 cannot therefore be challenged on that ground. The rates of depreciation were also challenged on behalf of the Union, but the Company satisfied me as to the rates by referring to the Income-tax Rules. The calculation of notional normal depreciation in Exts. Z-6 and Z-7 cannot therefore be successfully challenged on behalf of the Union, though Shri Pandey strongly argues against it. The written down value of the assets given in Z-6 and Z-7 will appear partly from the income-tax return submitted by the Company and accepted by the Income-tax Authority for assessment. I am unable to appreciate the calculation of depreciation made on the side of the Union in Ext. 1/1. The calculation of depreciation in Exts. Z-6 and Z-7 is summarised in Ext. O and is accepted being founded upon proper mode of calculation according to Income-tax Rules. The prior charge to be deducted on account of depreciation will therefore be Rs. 3,83,781.

The next item of prior charge is notional income-tax. The amount has been calculated by the Company at Rs. 5,34,848. It is calculated at 50 per cent. on adjusted profits less depreciation in Ext. B. Adjusted profit was calculated by the Company in Ext. A at Rs. 19,53,448. The printed calculation in Ext. B was wrong according to the Company, and I took the new calculation in pencil against the respective items. The figures in Ext. B as well as the figure of notional income-tax in Ext. A stand correct on that line. Since the adjusted profit which I accepted is a different sum, the calculation will have to be modified again. According to my calculation, the adjusted profit is Rs. 25,19,086. The calculation of notional income-tax is made therefrom. The adjusted profit comes to Rs. 16,35,335 deducting depreciation of Rs. 8,83,751. Income-tax at 50 per cent. on the above sum would be Rs. 8,17,667. The Union has calculated this figure at Rs. 15 lakhs and odd at 45 per cent. of the adjusted profits. The adjusted profit being high according to the Union, the amount of notional income-tax was proportionately high. The Union's calculation was wrong in taking 45 per cent. It is argued on the side of the Union that 45 per cent. had been calculated as notional income-tax by the Supreme Court in many cases. The income-tax rate is 50 per cent. for the year 1961, and so the calculation in other years when the rate was 45 per cent. cannot be taken into consideration for our present purpose. I accordingly accept the rate as 50 per cent. for the purpose of calculation of notional income-tax.

The next item of prior charge is return on paid-up capital. The amount of paid-up capital is Rs. 56,94,800, out of which Rs. 5 lakhs consists of ordinary shares of Rs. 10 each and preferential shares of Rs. 6,94,800. The point of dispute is the return which is to be paid on ordinary shares and preferential shares. The Company has filed a break up for the amount claimed as return in Ext. C. The total amount claimed is Rs. 4,91,727. Return on ordinary shares is claimed at 8.57 per cent., and return on preferential shares at 9.10 per cent. It is the established principle that ordinary shares should get 6 per cent. return. On the side of the Company it is argued that under the Preferential Shares Regulations on Dividend Act of 1960, the Company would be liable to pay 30 per cent. as income-tax on dividend declared before the payment or dividend is made, and as such if dividend is paid at 6 per cent., the net return to the ordinary shareholders would be 4.2 per cent. If the ordinary shareholders are to receive the net return of 6 per cent., the Company will have to declare bonus on ordinary shares at 8.57 per cent. This is why a higher percentage of dividend is claimed for this purpose. Similarly, in the case of preferential shares in order to ensure 7 per cent. net dividend to the preferential shareholders as contracted, the Company will have to declare 9.10 per cent. as dividend in order the meet the requirement of 30 per cent. under the Preferential Shares Regulations on Dividend Act. This matter came before the Supreme Court in a case reported in 1964 L.L.J. I, page 370, and there the following observations occur at page 376:

> "We see no reason also to disturb the tribunal's findings that the rate of 7 per cent. of preferential shares being a contractual one should not be diminished, and that an increase of 30 per cent. was also liable under section 3(1) of the Preference Shares (Regulation on Dividends) Act of 1960. We are of opinion that the Tribunal was also right in holding that such an increase was not admissible in respect of ordinary shares."

In view of the observations of the Supreme Court and having regard to the fact that preferential shares carry with them a contractual liability to pay 7 per cent. dividend, I accept the Company's contention that return is to be calculated at 9.10 per cent. in order to ensure 7 per cent. net to the preferential shareholders. Following the said authority and having regard to the fact that there is no such contractual liability in respect of ordinary shares, I would allow only 6 per cent. return on paid-up capital of Rs. 50 lakhs. The amount on calculation would be Rs. 3 lakhs. So, the total amount of return on paid-up capital is calculated in the following manner:

Return on ordinary shares of Rs. 50 lakhs at 6 per cent.	Rs. 3,00,000
Cumulative return on preferential shares of Rs. 6,94,800 at Rs. 9.10 per cent.	Rs. 63,227
	Rs. 3,63,227

The next item of prior charge which requires deduction is return on working capital. It is the case of the Company that Rs. 46,71,717 which constitutes reserves and surplus in the beginning of the year 1961 is shown in Schedule B of the balance-sheet of that year, and this amount was utilised as working capital during the year 1961, and accordingly the Company is entitled to 4 per cent. return thereon. On the side of the union it is argued that this amount was never utilised as working capital, and as such no return is to be allowed thereon. It is the settled principle of law that unless reserves and surplus are utilised as working capital, the Company can claim no return thereon. On the side of the Company the balance-sheet is placed before the Tribunal. On a consideration of the balance-sheet along with the evidence of the Accountant of the Company Shri Jyoti Prasanna Maulik (O.P.W. 1) I am asked to conclude that the amount of reserves and surplus was utilised as working capital during the trading year 1961. The working capital may be defined as the excess of current and liquid assets over the current liabilities. From Schedule H of the balance-sheet of 1961, current assets at the beginning of the year can be gathered. It is rupees two crores and 57¼ lakhs roughly. Schedule E to the balance-sheet shows the current liabilities at the beginning of the year, and it is roughly Rs. 67 lakhs. There is over draft account with the State Bank of India from which loan is incurred by bank over draft, and the balance of each year is shown in Ext. W. In the beginning of the year, the bank over draft stood at Rs. 1 crore 25 lakhs roughly. I have taken this figure as the amount of loan taken by the company by bank over draft for the trading of the year. This figure will come under the head 'current liabilities'. Debentures are long term loans, and as such they cannot be classed in the category of current liabilities. The total figure of current liabilities is accordingly Rs. 1 crore 91 lakhs roughly. By deducting current liabilities from current assets, the working capital is found to be Rs. 66½ lakhs roughly. Now I will come to the evidence of the Commercial Manager Shri Jain. In his evidence he stated that the working capital in 1961 was roughly Rs. 68 lakhs, and this is at page 6 of his evidence. His evidence is also to the fact that working capital would be current assets minus current liabilities. He further added that bank over draft should be considered as current liabilities. From the above figure, it is argued on the side of the Company that out of the working capital of Rs. 67 lakhs, the Company utilised reserves and surplus to the tune of Rs. 47 lakhs roughly. This utilisation, according to the Company, is writ large in the balance-sheet. If this argument is accepted, the question arises as to wherefrom the balance of working capital of Rs. 20 lakhs came. This is the question posed on behalf of the union. The union further argues that reserves and surplus were utilised for purchasing fixed assets and never used as working capital. Both the branches of union's argument should be considered. For this we should turn to the fixed assets in the balance-sheet and the value of the same. Coming to the question of the source of 20 lakhs of working capital, an argument is advanced on the side of the Company that this amount came out of share capital and debentures. The share capital in the beginning of the year is Rs. 97 lakhs roughly, and Rs. 41 lakhs roughly is the total debenture in the beginning of the year (vide Schedule C of the balance-sheet). The total amount is Rs. 98 lakhs, which is the amount available to the Company for purchase of fixed assets. The written down value of fixed assets as will appear from Schedule F of the balance-sheet is Rs. 77 lakhs. This figure is mentioned in the balance-sheet at page 9. By deducting the balance of depreciation of Rs. 55 lakhs roughly from the value of fixed assets at the beginning of the year, i.e., Rs. 1 crore 30 lakhs as shown in Schedule F of the balance-sheet, the difference between the two figures, namely, 99 lakhs and 77 lakhs would be roughly Rs. 20 lakhs which was available to the Company for being utilised as working capital in addition to reserves and surplus. The line of argument advanced on the side of the Company is quite convincing. It shows that the Company not only utilised reserves and surplus in full, but it had further working capital of Rs. 20 lakhs secured from share capital and debentures. This amount was available to the Company on balancing the value of the fixed assets as well.

The next question to be considered is whether the amount of reserves and surplus had been utilised in acquiring fixed blocks during the year 1961. It is true that in the year 1961, fixed blocks worth Rs. 30 lakhs were acquired as will appear from Col. 9 of Schedule F of the balance-sheet. Now let us see if the Company had any other money besides reserves and surplus to acquire this amount of fixed assets. I have already pointed out that Rs. 20 lakhs were available to the Company from share capital and debentures for purchase of fixed assets during the trading year. An amount of Rs. 9 lakhs were taken off as depreciation for the year in Col. 14 of Schedule F of the balance-sheet. The two figures would make up the fixed assets of Rs. 30 lakhs roughly. The learned representative for the union Shri Pandey refers to a case reported in 1963 III L.L.J. S.C., page 1, wherein it has been observed that in the absence of other evidence, mere statement in the balance-sheet as regards current assets and current liabilities cannot be taken as sacrosanct for the purpose of bonus formula. It was further observed that the correctness of the figures as shown in the balance-sheet itself is to be established by proper evidence in court by those responsible for preparing the balance-sheet or other competent witness. It is necessary and proper that the Accountant or other competent officer of the Company should come into the witness box and assist the tribunal in coming to a satisfactory conclusion on the question. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the absence of proper evidence, did not go by the statements in the balance-sheet in justification of the claim for return on reserves utilised as working capital. In the present case, however, the Company did not rely upon the balance-sheet alone, but put in the witness box O.P.W. 1 Shri Jyoti Prasanna Maulik, who is Accountant of the Company. His evidence is that the balance-sheet was prepared from the books of accounts regularly maintained. The schedules were also prepared from the record. The Accountant was examined in detail by Shri Pandey. His evidence is that reserves and surplus were utilised as working capital throughout the year. He further added that this money was utilised in full, and there had been borrowings from bank. He also stated that the Company would not have gone to borrow money from bank paying interest at 6 per cent. without utilising reserves and surplus. The evidence of the Accountant cannot be successfully challenged on the side of the Union. The balance-sheet is supported by the evidence of the Accountant, and in the line of discussion which I have already made the Company succeeds in proving that the amount of reserves and surplus was fully utilised as working capital during the year 1961.

The next question is whether the Company is entitled to a return of 4 per cent. as claimed. Shri Pandey points out that in Textile industry, the Full Bench granted 2 per cent. return on working capital

Shri Pandey refers to cases of 1951 and 1952 when the bank rate was 3 per cent. The Company was borrowing money on over draft at 6 per cent. and above in 1961, and they used their reserves as working capital. So, they should be allowed a return not much lower than the bank rate. The Company claims 4 per cent. return, which I think is fair. The Supreme Court allowed 4 per cent. return on working capital in several recent decisions. So, a fair return on working capital should be allowed to the Company. I consider 4 per cent. as a fair return on working capital and I allow the same. The amount is Rs. 1,86,868.

Next I will turn to the rehabilitation charge. The Company calculates the figure of rehabilitation charge at Rs. 15,99,000 roughly. The claim is challenged on the side of the union, and it is said that the Company is not entitled to any rehabilitation charge, as no rehabilitation is necessary. It is initially argued on the side of the union that the Company's plants and machineries purchased originally are still working well, and they do not require rehabilitation or replacement. The same comment is made about buildings also. Ext. F is the Company's chart showing gross rehabilitation in respect of plants and machineries divided in different blocks for a span of years showing therein the annual rehabilitation charge as well. I will consider the figures in Ext. F in respect of plants and machineries first. A company is undoubtedly entitled to rehabilitation charge under the Full Bench Formula, and the method of calculation is also laid down in several decision of the Supreme Court explaining the said formula. The onus is undoubtedly on the Company to prove by sufficient and clear evidence as to the annual rehabilitation charge required. The need for rehabilitation arises because of several times rise in the cost price of machines after the last World War. The machinery which was purchased by the Company in 1918 will cost several times more when it requires replacement in future. The Tribunal is to adopt a suitable multiplier in respect of the rise in the price of the Blocks. There is controversy as to the extent of rise in such cases. On behalf of the union, certain quotations have been filed (Ext. 2 series) from some manufacturers of machines in Howrah. With regard to those machines, the Company's evidence is that they are not worth anything, and the Company could not purchase those machines whose efficiency is untried. The Works Manager of the Company Shri Rao (O.P.W. 4) gave evidence on the point of plants and machineries. He admits that the machines mentioned in Ext. 2 were not tried, but he gave opinion that those machines could not stand continuous heavy duty work. The price mentioned in Ext. 2 series goes to show that in some cases the price of certain machines has gone down. Shri Bimal Mitra (P.W. 1) in his evidence could not connect the machines mentioned in union's quotations (Ext. 2 series) with the types of machines used in the Company. He could not also vouchsafe the efficiency of those machines. None is examined on behalf of the union to prove that those machines mentioned in Ext. 2 series were tried and found to be working well. In the absence of any such evidence, it cannot be said that the Company did not purposely purchase those machines. The Company runs in 3 shift, and the efficiency of the machine is, therefore, a paramount consideration for the purchaser. The Company cannot be blamed for not using the machines the price of which are quoted in Ext. 2 series. I accordingly discard the price quotation of the union.

Next I come to the price quotation of the Company (Ext. B series). Their quotations comprise of different types of machines. The Company has given a break-up of the figures of Ext. E in Exts. G, H, I and J. Plants and machineries are divided into blocks according to year, i.e., pre-1939 block, blocks acquired in 1940-1944, 1945-1948, 1949-1954, 1955-1958 and 1959-1960. The quotations given by the company are challenged on the side of the union, and they are characterised as collusive inflations of the price with a view to obtain greater rehabilitation charge for the purpose of bonus formula. A statement is filed (Ext. 6) by the union showing that Company's quotations are inflated in several cases with regard to pre-1939 blocks, and they are to be found in serials 1—9 in Ext. G filed by the Company. Serial Nos. 2, 5, 6 and 8 are included in the list marked Ext. 6. Purchase of machines as shown in Ext. R series of the Company was made in case of serial No. 3 in 1961 for Rs. 41,000 though the quotation in 1963 is Rs. 46,000. Similarly purchase was made in case of serial No. 5 in 1961 for Rs. 23,000 while the quoted price in 1963 is Rs. 44,000. These quotations show the inflated amounts. In the same way, the Company quoted price in 1963 at a rate much higher than the rate at which the Company purchased the same machine in 1961. This is also the case in respect of serial No. 10 of the machines purchased in 1940-44 and also in 1959. Similarly, my attention was drawn to serial Nos. 13, 22, 23 and 17. In the previous bonus case before Shri Pal the above quotations were must less in case of serial Nos. 7, 3 and 11. That was a case which was decided by Shri Pal in 1962 in respect of bonus for 1959. The quotations which are filed by the Company, should not therefore be accepted in toto. There is also another factor to be considered. From the evidence of the Works Manager Shri Rao (O.P.W. 4) it will appear that the machineries of which quotations are given, are not the exact machineries which are replaced. New machineries would be more efficient and modernised and so greater production can be had from the use of those machines. The specifications of machineries quoted in Ext. B series do not also exactly tally with the specifications of machineries which are to be rehabilitated. The old machines driven by belt are in most cases replaced by machines driven by motor. Of course, rehabilitation means not only replacement but also modernisation. It has been observed by the Supreme Court in the A.C.C. case that the problem of determining the probable cost of replacement is very difficult, but the difficulty is immeasureably increased when it is remembered that the claim for rehabilitation covers not only the case of replacement—pure and simple—but rehabilitation and modernisation also. In the context, rehabilitation is distinguished from ordinary repairs which could come into the working expenses of the industry. It is also distinguished from replacement. It is quite conceiveable that certain parts of machines which consist of block may need rehabilitation, though the block itself may carry for a number of years. Expansion of plants and machineries is not included in this item, but in several cases it is not easy to distinguish between modernisation of the plant and machinery and its expansion. By the introduction of modern plants and machineries, the production capacity of the industry appreciably increases. Having considered all these factors, the multiplier that is taken by the Company should be reduced to some extent. Previously, there had been a bonus case before my predecessor Shri Sarkar, and the award is filed before me. The award was published in the "Calcutta Gazette" in May 1961. This award was in respect of bonus for several years up to 1958. Shri Sarkar considered the question of rehabilitation in paragraph 18. Having considered all the factors before him, Shri Sarkar came to the conclusion that the multiplier of pre-1939 block would be 5, for 1940-1944 block and 1945-1948 block it would be 3, and for 1949-1954 block it would be 1.5. This multiplier was arrived at in a previous award and was accepted by both the parties, and so it should not be easily disturbed. In this connection, I may refer to the case reported in 1964 L.L.J. I, page 370, wherein it has been observed that once the question as to what was ncesseary for rehabilitation and for how many years it should be spread, has been decided by the industrial adjudication after proper investigation and careful scrutiny of the eivdence adduced in any one year, the assessment thus made ought not to be lightly disturbed when the question comes up again in any future year in respect of rehabilitation. In the A.C.C. case reported in 1959 I L.L.J. S.C., Page 644 at page 668, it has been observed that the tribunal should not confine itself to the price level prevailing in the bonus year. But the price level should be projected into the future in the light of the subsequent price level. Shri Sarkar was conscious of this principle when he was deciding the case in 1961, and he considered the price level of 1960 in respect of which quotations were filed. He made his award in 1961. In the bonus case, which I am deciding, I should also take into consideration the projected price level of 1962 and 1963. In the present case the clear evidence is that price has gone higher in 1962 and 1963 than the price level of 1960 and 1961. I should accept the multiplier on which Shri Sarkar proceeded in calculating the rehabilitation cost. For the reasons recorded above, my finding in this case is that the multiplier for pre-1939 block would be 5, for 1940-1944 block and 1945-1948 block it would be 3 and for 1949-1954 block it would be 1.5. With regard to the block 1955-1958, I think, the same rate of multiplier would apply, i.e., 1.5. Calculations are to be made on that basis.

The next question to be considered is the life of the machineries and the block. The Company has taken the average life of the machineries at 25 years. On this point, the Company examined its Works Manager Shri Rao (O.P.W. 4). The evidence of Shri Rao is that light machines give precision work for 5 years, while heavy machines give it for 12/15 years, and comparatively less precision work can be obtained for 3/4 years more. If that is the evidence, I fail to understand why 25 years was taken as the average life of the machines by the Company. There is however no such evidence that at interval of such period, the machines were rehabilitated in the past. There is no evidence as to how many machines are heavy and how many are light. The Commercial Manager of the Company Shri Jain attempted to say in his evidence that some of the machines are working for the last 15 years. Shri Sarkar in his previous award took the average life of the machines at 25 years, and I should not disturb that finding. On the evidence before me, that finding can be upheld. The average life of the machines is therefore taken at 25 years.

Next I turn to buildings. Exhibit K shows the details of rehabilitation charges in respect of buildings divided into several blocks, and the blocks are pre-1939 block, 1940-1948 block, 1949-1954 block and 1955-60 block. 3.5 is the multiplier taken for pre-1939 block, 2 is the multiplier for 1940-1948 block, 1.5 for 1949-1954 block and 1.25 for 1955-1960 block. The break-up of these figures can be found in Exts. L., M. and N. The Company's Civil Engineer Shri Gopalan was examined on this point. He stated that the cost of construction was 300 to 400 per cent. higher than what it was in 1938/1939. The multiplier for pre-1939 block can therefore be taken as 3. It was the same multiplier taken by Shri Sarkar in his previous award. With regard to the multiplier 2 for 1940-1948 block, it appears to be reasonable, having regard to the rise in the price of building materials and labour. It is argued that there has been rise in the cost of construction in respect of that block. But there is no cogent evidence that the multiplier would be 2. I reduce it to 1.5. With regard to 1949-1954 block, the multiplier is similarly reduced to 1.25 instead of 1.5. The multiplier for 1955-1960 block remains the same.

The next question is the average life of the buildings. Buildings consist of factory sheds and other structures inside the factory area. The average life of the buildings has been calculated at 30 years by the Company. Shri Sarkar in his previous award came to the finding that 30 years should be taken as the average life of the buildings and sheds of the Company. On the side of the Union, it is argued that the average life of the buildings would be much more. It is significant to point out that the office building inside the factory area is also liable to damage owing to vibration of heavy machines, and the Civil Engineer Shri Gopalan gave evidence to that effect. The average life of 30 years in respect of buildings should therefore be accepted for the purpose of the present case. The calculation of rehabilitation charge for plants and machineries on that basis is tabled below. The chart for calculation in respect of buildings follows immediately after.

From the above figures we can get the total requirement for replacement of the plants and machineries and buildings as well. We have also got the original cost of the said blocks. Now I will come to the question of deduction from the total replacement cost of the said blocks. It is argued on the side of the Union that the Company has a reserve of Rs. 46.71 lakhs which is to be deducted from the total rehabilitation charge. It is further argued on behalf of the Union that the total depreciation on different blocks should also be deducted. The balance-sheet at page 17 shows that accumulated depreciation as per last account was Rs. 55,16,684, and the depreciation written off during the year was Rs. 9,05,135. It is argued on behalf of the Union that the total amount of depreciation lying in the hands of the Company for the purpose of rehabilitation would be Rs. 64,21,819. The learned representative on behalf of the Union Shri Pandey relies on Saxby & Farmer case reported in 1955 L.A.C., page 707. The relevant portion appears at page 711. Shri Basu, learned Counsel for the Company, challenges the authority of that proposition, and submits that the accumulated depreciation of Rs. 55 lakhs cannot be deducted, because it was not available to the Company for rehabilitation at the end of the year. I think, there is considerable force in the argument advanced on behalf of the Company. In order to deduct the accumulated depreciation, it must be shown that the said amount is available for rehabilitation. The evidence adduced on behalf of the Company is that the accumulated depreciation was not available to the Company in view of the fact that the said amount had already been utilised in acquiring fixed assets. The balance-sheet should be looked into in support of the said argument. The balance-sheet shows in Schedule F, which is a Schedule of fixed assets, that the total cost of block assets is roughly Rs. 1 crore 30 lakhs. It is the evidence of Shri Jain that during the year 1961 fixed assets worth Rs. 30,00,000 had been acquired. Thus the total value of fixed assets was Rs. 1 crore 60 lakhs. It is the evidence of Shri Jain that fixed assets were purchased out of share capital, debentures and depreciation fund, i.e., the accumulated depreciation up to the end of 1960. The total amount of share capital is Rs. 57 lakhs, debentures 41 lakhs and accumulated depreciation 55 lakhs. The total is about Rs. 154 lakhs as deposed by Shri Jain. Fixed assets worth Rs. 1 crore 60 lakhs were acquired with the said resources including accumulated depreciation. There is no other money available to the Company for acquiring the extent of fixed assets shown in the balance-sheet. It is therefore obvious that the accumulated depreciation was not available to the Company during the bonus year for rehabilitation, because it has already been applied in acquiring fixed assets. The case of Saxby & Farmer relied on by the learned representative for the Union, stands on a different footing. In that case, the accumulated depreciation was available for rehabilitation. But in the present case, it is not available, and as such the question of deduction does not arise. Here, I may refer to the calculation at page 681 of the A.C.C. case reported in 1959 I. L.L.J., page 644. In that case only reserves were deducted and not accumulated depreciation. Depreciation for 1961 should however be deducted. In the balance-sheet, the depreciation for the year is Rs. 9 lakhs roughly. But it will appear from Ext. O which is a detailed statement of depreciation for the year 1961 that depreciation on account of plants and machineries would include the following figures, i.e., Rs. 5,19,433 on account of plants and machineries, Rs. 6,696 on account of tubewell and Rs. 33,994 on account of electric installations. The total figure is Rs. 5,60,123 on account of plants and machineries. On account of building, the figure of depreciation is Rs. 24,589. The other amounts are in respect of furniture, railway siding, motor lorry, etc., which are not to be taken into account as relating to plants and machineries and buildings. Shri Sarkar in his previous award took identical figures for the purpose of calculating depreciation. These figures are to be deducted from annual depreciation calculated in the tables already shown.

The next question is whether I should deduct the amount of reserves and surplus. I have already found that the amount of reserves and surplus was utilised as working capital during the year. The principle which governs deduction in this respect was elucidated in a recent case reported in 1963 L.L.J. II, page 358 (Titaghur Paper Mills case). The relevant discussion occurs at page 364, and may be quoted thus:

"As we have already pointed out, the amount of working capital thus arrived at, if there is evidence that it was actually used as working capital for the year, may be allowed interest in accordance with the Full Bench Formula. But then we come to the end of the year, i.e., 31st March 1956. At that time, we have again to see what the position of the reserves is. The reserves may be again in the form of cash reserves or investments or advances and also in the form of raw materials, etc. From these reserves working capital for the next year may have to be calculated and if evidence is given that it has been actually used, interest may have to be allowed on it; but that is no reason for not deducting that part of the reserves which is in the shape of cash reserve, investments or advances on the ground that it is not available for rehabilitation, as it may be used as working capital for the year 1956-57. Only that part of the reserves which is earmarked as indicated already, cannot be deducted for purposes of rehabilitation, for it will not be aavilable for that purpose and would be consumed or sold during the course of the next year or used for a specific purpose. But all other reserves are available for rehabilitation on 31st March 1956 and have to be deducted from the gross rehabilitation amount for the year. The tribunal in this case however has not followed this principle on a misappreciation of the effect of the judgment of this Court in Khandesh Spinning and Weaving Mills Company case (1960 I, L.L.J. 541 vide supra). All that that decision lays down is that that part of the reserves which go to make up the working capital which is in the shape of raw materials, etc., or earmarked reserve, will not be deducted from the gross rehabilitation amount; it does not lay down that all cash reserves in the shape of depreciation reserve, general reserve, renewal reserve and so on and also in the share of investments and advances cannot be deducted from the gross rehabilitation amount as they may be used as working capital next year. This means that the Tribunal has to recalculate the rehabilitation amount due in view of what we have said above."

Thus the part of the reserve which is not in the shape of raw material or earmarked reserve available at the end of the year 1961, would have to be deducted. The Company did not make any deduction in respect of general liquid reserve, because it is the evidence of the Accountant that no such liquid reserve, was available to the Company. I will now examine the position at the end of the year 1961, and see if there is any liquid reserve which was available to the Company and not in the shape of raw materials, etc. Schedule H shows that current asset at the end of the year was Rs. 2.72 crores roughly. The amount of miscellaneous expenditure of Schedule I should be considered as current assets. The figure in this respect is about Rs. 2 lakhs. So, the total figure of current assets is Rs. 2.74 crores. Now the current liabilities at the end of the year can be found by totalling Schedule E, i.e., current liabilities and bank overdraft in Schedule C. The two figures are Rs. 1.04 crores and Rs. 1.23 crores. The total is Rs. 2.27 crores. This is current liability. The difference of current asset and current liability is accordingly Rs. 47 lakhs, which would be working capital in the next year. Now the question is whether this amount of current asset is in liquid form or in the form of cash receipt and is invested in raw materials, etc. For this the balance-sheet may be again looked into. The balance-sheet shows that the share capital is Rs. 57 lakhs at the end of the year and the debenture is Rs. 37 lakhs at the end of the year. The total is Rs. 94 lakhs. This amount equates approximately the value of fixed assets at the end of the year, which is Rs. 98 lakhs roughly. The reserve at the end of the year as per Schedule B would be Rs. 48 lakhs, secured loan Rs. 1.61 crore, unsecured loans about Rs. 1 lakh, current liabilities Rs. 1.05 crore, and the total is Rs. 3.50 crores. Debenture being long-term loan should be excluded from the figure of secured loans in the balance-sheet. The total is therefore Rs. 2.78 crores. At the end of the year these are the liabilities of the Company. I have examined the figure of current asset which is Rs. 2.74 crores. From a comparison of the two figures it can be concluded that the Company has no substantial cash reserve, and that all the resources of the Company are in the form of raw materials and similar current assets. Ext. H which is schedule of current assets may also be looked into in this respect. Only the cash balance of the Company would total about Rs. 1 lakh. This amount was kept in the bank on different accounts, namely, 'work at hand', 'dividend account' and 'savings account'. The amount is also not a substantial one, and no useful purpose would be served by deducting it from the gross cost of rehabilitation.

The Union asks me to deduct rehabilitation grants of the previous years awarded by Shri Sarkar and Shri Pal from the annual rehabilitation which I may grant during the year 1961. Shri Sarkar's award shows that he deducted rehabilitation grant of each year from the rehabilitation grant of the successive year. Shri Pal in calculating bonus for 1959 also allowed rehabilitation grant, and it was Rs. 1.96 crores roughly. Coming to the question of principle, it was laid down in the A.C.C. case that the rehabilitation amount which had been allowed to the employer in previous years would also have to be deducted. The A.C.C. case is reported in 1959 I L.L.J., page 644. The relevant portion of the discussion appears at page 670, and may be quoted here:

"Before actually awarding an appropriate amount in respect of rehabilitation for the bonus year certain deductions have to be made. The first deduction is made on account of the break-down value of the plant and machinery which is uusually calculated at the rate of 5 per cent. of the cost price of the block in question. Then the depreciation and general liquid reserves available to the employer are deducted. The reserves which have already been reasonably earmarked for specific purposes of the industry are, however, not taken into account in this connection. Last of all, the rehabilitation amount which may have been allowed to the employer in previous years would also have to be deducted if it appears that the amount was available at the time when it was awarded in the past and that it had not been used for rehabilitation purposes in the meanwhile. These are the broad features of the steps which have to be taken in deciding the employer's claim for rehabilitation under the working of the formula."

From the above quotation, it will appear that various deductions as indicated therein are to be made from the gross rehabilitation grant. The first deduction is 5 per cent. of the scrap value. Then there is depreciation. Thirdly there is general liquid reserve available to the employer, and last of all, rehabilitation amount which may have been allowed to the employer in previous years would also have to be deducted. It is therefore clear that all these deductions are to be made from the gross rehabilitation amount and not from the annual rehabilitation grant, as has been contended on behalf of the Union and also not in the manner as deducted by Shri Sarkar in his previous award. In a subsequent case of the Hon'ble Supreme Court reported in 1963 II L.L.J., page 358, this point was also considered at page 363. In this reported case, the net figure arrived at for rehabilitation for that year, namely, for 1954-55 was Rs. 33 lakhs. In that case after deducting other prior charges (except rehabilitation charge) Rs. 24 lakhs was the available surplus. But the Tribunal did not grant any bonus as the amount was falling short of the rehabilitation grant. So, it was clear in that case that Rs. 24 lakhs out of rehabilitation amount of Rs. 33 lakhs was left in the hands of the employer as rehabilitation amount. The Tribunal in that case ignored this fact altogether in calculating the rehabilitation amount for the year in dispute. In quoting the A.C.C. case it was further observed that all the rehabilitation amount which may have been allowed to the employer for rehabilitation in previous years but remained unused for rehabilitation in the mean time, has to be taken into account in arriving at the amount required for rehabilitation. In my judgment, such rehabilitation amount remaining unused for rehabilitation, will have to be taken into account by deducting from the gross rehabilitation grant, and it would be absurd to deduct it from the annual rehabilitation figure. This is clearly indicated in the A.C.C. case which I have quoted and discussed above. Now the question is what is the amount of rehabilitation grant in the different awards of Shri Pal and Shri Sarkar in previous years, but remained unused for the purpose of rehabilitation. The award of Shri Sarkar will show that the rehabilitation grant was as follows:

1953	...	Rs. 2,19,214
1954	..	Rs. 2,98,995
1955	..	Rs. 2,41,004
(Shri Pal's award) 1959	...	Rs. 1,76,067
Total amount awarded	...	Rs. 14,66,486

Now with regard to the year 1953, though the rehabilitation grant by Shri Sarkar was Rs. 2 lakhs and odd as quoted above, in fact he found that the gross profit after deducting other prior charges was Rs. 1,69,038. So, that should be the amount taken as rehabilitation grant for that year. The total figure therefore comes down to Rs. 14,16,310 (roughly Rs. 14 lakhs). The Company must prove that the rehabilitation allowed in those awards has been used for the purpose of rehabilitation. It is true that the Company filed statements to show that assets worth Rs. 30 lakhs were acquired in 1961. The mere fact that blocks were acquired during the years subsequent to 1959, will not prove that those blocks were acquired by way of rehabilitation. There is no satisfactory evidence that the amount awarded for rehabilitation had been used for that purpose. I therefore find that Rs. 14 lakhs and odd should be deducted from the gross rehabilitation figure.

Now I will come to the calculation of available surplus. I have already found that the adjusted profits comes to Rs. 25,19,086. The prior charges are tabled below:

Notional normal depreciation		Rs. 8,83,751
Notional income-tax	...	Rs. 8,17,667
Return on paid up capital	...	Rs. 3,63,227
Return on working capital	..	Rs. 1,86,868
		Rs. 22,51,513

The total of prior charges comes to Rs. 22,51,513. Thus the available surplus without even calculating the rehabilitation charges comes to Rs. 2,67,573 (Rs. 25,19,086 minus Rs. 22,51,513).

Now I will turn to rehabilitation charges. The tables given hereinabove will show that the total rehabilitation charge of machineries is Rs. 1,26,41,403, and the annual rehabilitation charge after 5 per cent is deducted as scrap value is Rs. 12,88,322. This is for plants and machineries. With regard to buildings, the total rehabilitation is Rs. 50,67,952, and the annual rehabilitation works out to Rs. 2,96,215. Depreciation on blocks on which rehabilitation is calculated is to be deducted. For machineries it is Rs. 5,60,123 and for buildings it is Rs. 2,24,589. The net rehabilitation charge required on that calculation is Rs. 7,28,199 for machineries plus Rs. 71,626 for buildings i.e. Rs. 7,99,825 in total. Now I deduct from gross rehabilitation the sum of Rs. 14,16,310. The amount of annual rehabilitation would be reduced by a small sum, and on calculation it comes to Rs. 7,35,655. Thus the total rehabilitation charge would be Rs. 7 lakhs and odd. In the award of Shri Sarkar, the rehabilitation charge calculated was Rs. 5 lakhs and odd. But since the award was made, there had been some additional blocks and there had been also some rise in the price, the annual rehabilitation for 1961 is expected to go high to some extent.

The surplus in the hands of the Company is not sufficient to meet the rehabilitation charge as calculated by me. Even if I accept the Union's contention that the gross rehabilitation charge should be reduced by the amount of reserves and surplus in the hands of the Company at the end of the year 1961 accepting the contention that it was not in the form of raw materials, the figure works out at Rs. 46 lakhs roughly. The annual rehabilitation charge would be reduced by one-fourth of the figure calculated above. The amount would be approximately Rs. 2 laks for the purpose of rehabilitation. The surplus in the hands of the Company before meeting the rehabilitation charges is Rs. 2 lakhs and odd, and accordingly after meeting the rehabilitation charge as calculated in the manner suggested by the Union, no surplus would be available for distribution as bonus. In any event, there is no available surplus in 1961 from which bonus may be given to the workmen for that year.

This is my award.

No. 3134I.R./IR/4L-9 A)/63. 6th August 1964.—Whereas under the Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, order No. 6436I.R /IR/4L-33/62, dated the 17th November 1962, the industrial dispute between Messrs. Calcutta State Transport Corporation, 5 Nilgunj Road, Belghoria, 24-Parganas,, on the one hand and their workmen represented by State Transport Employees' Union, 13A Creek Lane, Calcutta-14, Paschim Banga Paribahan Karmi Sangha, 86 Cossipore Road, Calcutta-2, Kolkata Rastriya Paribahan Karmachari Samity, 3 Nityadhan Mukherjee Road, Howrah, and Calcutta State Transport Workers' Union, 109/L Ultadanga Main Road, Calcutta-4, on the other regarding the issue mentioned in the said order, being a matter specified in the Third Schedule to the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), was referred to the First Industrial Tribunal, for adjudication;

And whereas during the pendency of proceedings before the said Industrial Tribunal Shri Pradip Chandra Das, a workman of the said company, made a complaint in writing to the said Industrial Tribunal against the said company alleging that the said company had discharged the said workman concerned in such dispute;

And whereas in exercise of the powers conferred by section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), the said Industrial Tribunal has adjudicated upon the said complaint and submitted its award to the State Government;

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the provisions of section 17 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), the Governor is pleased hereby to publish the said award as shown in the annexure hereto.

ANNEXURE

In the matter of an application under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act filed by Shri Prodip Chandra Das, Conductor, C/71 Bagha Jatin Palli, Calcutta-32, an employee of Calcutta State Transport Corporation, 5 Nilganj Road, Belghoria, 24-Parganas, against the aforesaid Corporation (Case No. 85 of 1963, under section 33A.)

BEFORE THE FIRST INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL

PRESENT:

Shri RENUPADA MUKHERJEE, Judge, First Industrial Tribunal

This is an application under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act by one Prodip Chandra Das who was a conductor under Calcutta State Transport Corporation, respondent of this petition. His allegation was that while in the service of the Corporation he was illegally discharged with effect from 27th November 1962 and his name was removed from the roll of the Corporation.

A written statement was filed on behalf of the Corporation in which it was contended that the petitioner was a Badli conductor in the employment of the Corporation and his name was lawfully removed from the panel of Badli workers after a proper enquiry was made into some misconduct committed by the petitioner.

The original reference out of which the present application arose was made under Government Order No. 6436I.R./IR/4L-33/62, dated 12th November 1962.

Award

I need not go into details regarding allegations and counter allegations of the parties. The petitioner filed a verified application on 13th July 1964 withdrawing his application. It has been stated in that petition that he has made an appeal to the Chief Executive Officer of the Corporation for re-absorption and he has been told that his prayer for re-absorption will be considered after he withdraws his application under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act. Along with the application for withdrawal the petitioner has filed a copy of a letter of the Chief Executive Officer. On a consideration of that letter and after hearing the workman in person as also the representative of the Corporation I am of opinion that there is a bona fide attempt at settlement and the petitioner should be permitted to withdraw his application. I, accordingly, permit the petitioner to withdraw the application which he made under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act.

RENUPADA MUKHERJEE,
Judge,
First Industrial Tribunal.

The 31st July 1964.

By order of the Governor,
S. C. MUKHERJEE, Asst. Secy.

No. 3410-I.R./IR/11L-107/63.—5th August 1964.—Whereas under the Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, Order No. 3682-I.R./IR/11L-107/63, dated the 31st August 1963, the industrial dispute between Messrs. New Cinema Kumari Talkie House, P.O. Bankura, and their workmen represented by Bengal Motion Picture Employees' Union, Bankura Branch, Jinasini Lane, P.O. and district Bankura, regarding the issue mentioned in the said order being a matter specified in the second schedule to the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), was referred for adjudication to the Third Industrial Tribunal;

And whereas the said Third Industrial Tribunal has submitted to the State Government its award on the said industrial dispute;

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the provisions of section 17 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), the Governor is pleased hereby to publish the said award as shown in the annexure hereto.

ANNEXURE

In the matter of an industrial dispute between Messrs. New Cinema Kumari Talkie House, P.O. Bishnupur, district Bankura, and their workmen represented by Bishnupur Branch of Bengal Motion Picture Employees' Union, c/o Shri Sakharam Gain, Manashatala, Jeliapara, Bishnupur, district Bankura. BEFORE THE THIRD INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL

Present:

Shri J. N. MANDAL, Judge, Third Industrial Tribunal.

For the Union: Shri Shibnath Chatterji, Secretary, Bengal Motion Picture Employees' Union.

For the Company: None.

AWARD

By Order No. 3682-I.R./IR/11L-107/63, dated the 31st August 1963, the Government of West Bengal, in the Labour Department, referred under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, the industrial dispute between Messrs. New Cinema Kumari Talkie House, P.O. Bishnupur, district Bankura, and their workmen represented by Bishnupur Branch of Bengal Motion Picture Employees' Union, c/o Shri Sakharam Gain, Manashatala, Jeliapara, Bishnupur, district Bankura, regarding the matter specified in the schedule to the Third Industrial Tribunal, constituted under section 7A of the Industrial Disputes Act, by Notification No. 808-I.R./IR/3A-2/57, dated the 11th March 1957, for adjudication.

Issue

Whether the dismissal of Shri Dinesh Chandra Daw is justified? What relief, if any, is he entitled to?

This is a reference made by the Government of West Bengal, in their Labour Department, for adjudication of an industrial dispute then existing between Messrs. New Cinema Kumari Talkie House, P.O. Bishnupur, district Bankura (hereinafter be referred as the Talkie House), and their workmen represented by Bishnupur Branch of Bengal Motion Picture Employees' Union, c/o Shri Sakharam Gain, Manashatala, Jeliapara, Bishnupur, district Bankura (hereinafter be referred as the Union).

It may be noted at the outset that it was a defective reference in as much as addresses of both the parties were mentioned incorrectly in the order of reference which had to be corrected by this Tribunal after reference made to the Government and also to the Bengal Motion Picture Employees' Union at Calcutta. In the order of reference the New Cinema Kumari Talkie House has been described to be of P.O. Bankura and the workmen have been described as represented by Bengal Motion Picture Employees' Union, Bankura Branch, Jinasini Lane, P.O. and district Bankura, but the above addresses of both the parties are incorrect and inaccurate. The Talkie House is situated in Bishnupur under P.O. Bishnupur in the district Bankura and the workmen are really represented by Bishnupur Branch of Bengal Motion Picture Employees' Union under the care of Shri Sakharam Gain, Manashatala, Jeliapara, P.O. Bishnupur, district Bankura. Such material inaccuracies and defects should not have crept into the reference. This should be avoided by all means. However, after ascertainment of the correct addresses of the parties usual procedure was followed. The Union filed written statement but before the Company could file any the dispute under reference was settled amicably. The dispute was in connection with dismissal of Shri Dinesh Chandra Daw.

Both parties have filed a joint petition of compromise on 27th July 1964. In terms of the settlement the workman Dinesh Chandra Daw has been reinstated with wages and the period of his unemployment will be treated as on leave. The terms of settlement on the whole are satisfactory. So, I accept them and make an award on compromise in terms thereof. The joint petition will do form part of the compromise award as annexure thereto.

AWARD

By Order No. 6326-I.R./IR/10L-5(D)/62, dated the 13th November 1962, the Government of West Bengal, in the Labour Department, referred under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, the industrial dispute between Messrs. Calcutta Electric Supply Corporation, Victoria House, Calcutta, and their workmen represented by Bijli Mazdoor Union, 7B Rani Rashmoni Road, Calcutta-13, regarding the matter specified in the schedule, to the Third Industrial Tribunal, constituted under section 7A of the Industrial Disputes Act, by notification No. 808-I.R./IR/3A-2/57, dated the 11th March 1957, for adjudication.

Issue

Whether the termination of service of the following workmen is justified? To what relief, if any, are they entitled?-

(i) Ramlagan Ram, Durwan, Head Office.

(ii) Lalta Prasad, Assistant Boiler Attendant of Southern Generating Station.

(iii) Jagat Singh, Lamp Lighter, Howrah.

This is a reference under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, made by the Government of West Bengal, in their Labour Department, for adjudication of an industrial dispute relating to dismissal of three workmen by the employer. The dispute under reference was raised by the workmen of Messrs. Calcutta Electric Supply Corporation, Calcutta, represented by Bijli Mazdoor Union, 7B Rani Rashmoni Road, Calcutta-13 (hereinafter be referred to as the Union), against their employer, viz., Messrs. Calcutta Electric Supply Corporation (hereinafter be referred to as the Company).

Both parties appeared before the Tribunal on receipt of notices issued to them and filed their respective written statements.

Briefly stated, the Union's case in the written statement is that the Company with the support of its recognised Workers' Union created a very unfavourable position for the workmen. So, a new Union was formed in 1960 with a view to ameliorate the poor service conditions of the workmen. The newly formed Union goes by the name "Bijli Mazdoor Union" (C.E.S.C.). The Company was annoyed at this formation of a new Union and started to victimise the members of the new Union. Workman Ramlagan was employed as a durwan in the Head Office of the Company where he was the only member-organiser of the new Union. He was appointed as durwan in 1952 after relinquishment of his employment in the Calcutta Police. In October 1960 he was in the grip of stomach pain as a result of a previous operation. He was first treated by the Company's doctor but subsequently on the advice of the Company's doctor he was sent to the Medical College, Calcutta, for proper treatment. The Medical College doctor recommended light duty for Ramlagan. But the recommendation was ignored by the Company's Deputy Commercial Manager. So, he had to move in the matter to the Labour Commissioner, Government of West Bengal, through his Union. His grievances were placed before the Labour Commissioner by letter, dated 7th March 1961. Thereupon the Conciliation Officer invited the employer's comments on the representation of the workman. The Company replied by letter, dated 29th March 1961. On the same day workman Ramlagan was asked by the Company to show cause why he would not be proceeded against for abusing and threatening Bachittar Singh. The workman replied to the said show cause notice. But the Company framed charges against him and proceeded to hold an enquiry. In the enquiry he was not allowed to produce his witnesses and cross-examine the witnesses of the Company. Moreover, he was not allowed to have his nominees in the Enquiry Committee. So, it was an arbitrary and unfair enquiry. He having preferred an appeal to the Commercial Manager against the finding of the Enquiry Officer, was not allowed to make his submission before the Appellate Officer. So, it was an illegal and wrongful order of dismissal passed against him. He is, therefore, entitled to reinstatement with full wages for the period of forced unemployment.

Another workman Lalta Prasad while on duty on 29th April 1961, fell sick and reported according and returned to his quarters. He became very sick and applied for sick leave but no reply was received from the Company. After about two months he fully recovered and on 29th June 1961 he presented himself for resumption of duty. A medical certificate of fitness was produced from a registered doctor but he was not allowed to join his duties and was told that his services had already terminated automatically under clause 13(a)(e) of the Standing Orders. The workman having not yet accepted the provident fund money and retiral benefits is entitled to reinstatement in as much as his absence for two months was covered by a medical certificate which he produced when he came back to resume his duties. So, he should be reinstated.

There was another workman Jagat Singh who went on casual leave but himself having fallen ill went to his native village. The Company by a letter, dated 24th August 1961, intimated him about automatic termination of his employment under clause 13(e) of the Standing Orders. The workman having applied for sick leave for the period of his absence, his service was not liable to be terminated automatically under the provisions of the Standing Orders. Therefore, he should also be reinstated with full wages for the period of unemployment.

The Company's case in the written statement is that before the present Union came into existence as alleged by the Union, about the middle of 1960 there had been in existence three more Unions of the workmen of the Company, of which the C. E. S. Workers' Union which has been in existence from before 1947 represents the majority of the workmen and, therefore, it was recognised by the Company and that recognition still continues. The workman Ramlagan was a member of that Union and it is not known to the Company when he left that Union and became a member of Bijli Mazdoor Union. This workman was discharged from West Bengal Police on invalid pension. Thereafter he was appointed by the Company on a temporary basis as a durwan from 13th of November 1952. He was a recipient of several warnings, some are verbal and some are in writing. So, he was not confirmed until 1st April 1955. He was given the first warning on 9th June 1954 and the second one on 30th August 1960. Of course, by operation of the provisions of clause 14(c) of the Standing Orders of the Company the first warning be cancelled and the second written warning be treated as the first in view of the fact that there was no fresh record against the workman for three years. This workman frequently availed of sick leave and other kinds of leave and lastly he took sick leave for forty-three days from 8th October 1960 to 7th December 1960. During this period of leave he received treatment from the Medical College Hospitals at Company's cost and was also under observation of the Company's medical department. He resumed work on 8th December 1960 but again he went on leave on ground of illness for sixty-nine days ending on the 22nd March 1961. During all these periods of leave he was never without pay at any time. He resumed his normal work on 23rd March 1961 and subsequently availed of casual leave for seven days from 20th June to 26th June 1961. On the 27th June 1961 he was on duty at the Company's cash office. On 29th June 1961 he was directed by the Caretaker whose normal duty is to prepare the durwan's duty roster, to be on duty at the eastern gate of the Company's Victoria House. The Havildar Bachchittar Singh asked him to perform his duty at the eastern gate which not only he refused to comply but also he misbehaved with the Havildar who was his superior officer and also threatened him with violence in presence of some respectable persons. So, he was immeditely asked to show cause why a disciplinary action should not be taken against him. His explanation was found unsatisfactory. So, he was charge-sheeted for misconduct. There was a domestic enquiry into the charges against him by a Committee headed by the Assistant Commercial Manager-in-charge of that department. The workman Ramlagan attended the enquiry and he cross-examined some of the witnesses of the Company and he examined two witnesses to support his case. The Committee of Enquiry considered the evidence and found him guilty of the charges. The Senior Deputy Commercial Manager, on acceptance of the findings, directed his dismissal from service and order was duly communicated to him. He had opportunity to appeal to the Commerecial Manager which he actually did but his appeal was rejected.

As regards the other two workmen—Lalta Prosad and Jagat Singh—their services terminated automatically on the expiry of thirty days' continuous absence without leave in terms of service conditions as provided in clause 13(e) of the Company's Standing Orders. The workman Lalta Prosad absented himself without any leave or intimation for a continuous period of over two months since 29th April 1961. Therefore, by operation of the provisions of clause 13(e) of the Standing Orders his service terminated automatically on the expiry of thirty days' continuous absence without leave.

The other workman Jagat Singh took casual leave for a period of seven days from 15th to 20th April 1961. On the expiry of the leave he failed to report himself for duty on and from 22nd April 1961 and absented without any further leave or intimation to the Company from 22nd April 1961. On the 11th May 1961 a letter was addressed to him by the Company informing him about his absence without leave and he was asked to report for duty within a week, failing which his services would be terminated. There was no compliance. So his services stood terminated automatically on the expiry of thirty days' unauthorised absence in accordance with the provisions of clause 13(e) of the Company's Standing Orders. Therefore, none of the workmen is entitled to reinstatement or to any other relief.

Decision

Issue No. 1

(i) Ramlagan

Admittedly this workman was a durwan attached to Company's Head Office in the Victoria House at Calcutta. He was dismissed from service by the Company's letter, dated 13th of July 1961 [Ext. 5(h)]. This is a case of dismissal of a durwan by the employer for misconduct following the charge-sheet against him and a finding of guilty of misconduct arrived at by a domestic tribunal consisting of Assistant Commercial Manager (Shri S. K. Mitra) and two representatives selected by and from the workmen in the department in which the concerned workman was employed.

Admittedly the workman was asked by a notice, dated 29th of June 1961, to show cause why action should not be taken against him in accordance with the provisions of the Standing Orders. This is Ext. 5. Cause was shown by him on 1st of July 1961, copy thereof is Ext. 5(a). The Company was not satisfied with the explanations offered by the workman. So, there was a charge-sheet against him issued on 4th July 1961 [Ext. 5(e)]. The workman was charged under clause 15(a)(i) for the wilful insubordination and under clause 15(a)(v) for disorderly behaviour and acts subversive of discipline. The workman was also informed of the date, time and place of enquiry into the charges against him by an Enquiry Committee. The Company simultaneously issued a notice to all the employees of the Commercial Department in which the concerned workman was also employed to select two representatives to serve as members of the Enquiry Committee [vide Ext. 5(f)]. Accordingly two representatives were selected and their names were submitted to the Assistant Commercial Manager (vide Exts. I, I/1 and I/2). On the appointed day, the enquiry was held by the Committee. The workman himself participated in the enquiry. He cross-examined some of the Company's witnesses and himself tendered two witnesses—Parameswar Singh and Deo Kumar Singh. The Enquiry Officer Shri S. K. Mitra, Assistant Commercial Manager, gave evidence before the Tribunal. He has proved the enquiry proceeding (Ext. F) which he recorded in his own hand and there was a unanimous finding of guilty by the Chairman as well as by the two representatives of the workmen who were in the Enquiry Committee. The enquiry proceeding together with the finding was forwarded to the Deputy Commercial Manager by letter, dated 10th July 1961 (vide Ext. F/1). The Senior Deputy Commercial Manager accepted the findings and awarded the punishment of dismissal against the workman Ramlagan Ram by letter, dated 11th July 1961 (Ext. F/2), and also advised the Assistant Commercial Manager-in-charge of the department to communicate the decision to the concerned workman. This was done accordingly by letter, dated 13th of July 1961 [Ext. 5(h)]. By the same letter attention of the workman was also drawn to the provisions of clause 15(c) of the Standing Orders for appeal against the decision of the Deputy Commercial Manager. The workman accordingly preferred an appeal to the Commercial Manager on 17th July 1961 (Ext. 6 is a copy of the Memo. of Appeal). The appeal was heard on 27th of July 1961 at 3-30 p.m. [vide Ext. 5(k)]. The result of the appeal was communicated to the workman by letter, dated 17th August 1961 [Ext. 5(l)]. The appeal was dismissed. Exhibit G is the decision of the Appellate Officer, dated 12th August 1961. So, the order of dismissal of the workman passed by the Senior Deputy Commercial Manager stood.

The grievance of the Union is that it was a mala fide action of the Company against the workman Ramlagan with whom the Company was not at all satisfied because of his Trade Union activities. The evidence of the workman Ramlagan (P.W. 3) on this point is that he was not in the good book of the Company since he became a member of the present Union sometimes after its formation in 1960. He has further said that the Company was also very much annoyed with him as he was constantly insisting on light duty being given to him as was advised by the doctors.

As regards the first allegation I find from the evidence which I shall presently discuss, hardly there is any truth in it. The present Union was formed about the middle of 1960 as stated by the Union in paragraph 2 of the written statement and according to the Company the workman Ramlagan was a member of the Workers' Union. It had no knowledge when he left that to become a member of the present Union. The workman Ramlagan (P.W. 3) has admitted this fact in his evidence before this Tribunal. He has further deposed that he was the only member of the Bijli Mazdoor Union employed at the Head Office of the Company. So, he was the solitary worker out of several hundreds employed in the Commercial Department of the Company at the Head Office who became a member of the Union. Therefore, it is difficult to believe that he had trade union activities in the Head Office of the Company or he was actively organising for his Union. The Union was formed in 1960 and he was charge-sheeded in July 1961 and during this period only one worker out of several hundreds empolyed in the Commercial Department at the Head Office of the Company became a member of the Union and that member was he himself. Therefore, this is a stale stereotyped allegation without any truth in it. The evidence of D.W. 6 Shri S. K. Mitra, the Assistant Commercial Manager-in-charge of the Commercial Department, is that he had no knowledge of any Trade Union activity of the workman Ramlagan. The workman himself has failed to prove his alleged Trade Union activities in the Head Office. Admittedly this workman Ramlagan served as a Police Constable for several years, which job he had to quit for reasons of health on invalid pension. Thereafter he was engaged by the Company as a durwan about the end of 1952. But since then he frequently availed of long leave, presumably on ground of health. This fact finds support from entries in his service record (Ext. H). This document shows that he was appointed as durwan on 13th November 1952. He received a warning in June 1954. So, he was not confirmed till 1st April 1955. Second warning came in 1960 but in view of the provisions of clause 14(c) of the Standing Orders the first warning was treated as cancelled because of three years' clean record of service. This fact was admitted by the Company in its letter, dated 9th February 1961, to Ramlagan [Ext. 5(d)]. This admission, of course, followed only after the Union's communication on the subject on 7th February 1961 [Ext. 7(a)]. The workman Ramlagan (P.W. 3) served as a Police Constable for a long period. He admits to have served for twenty-four years four months in that capacity before he was found unfit to carry on any further. He had to retire on invalid pension. In that poor state of health he came over to serve the Company as a durwan. So, it was also against all probability that he would work as an active organiser of his Union. There is no evidence of his alleged activity.

He was the only member of the Union in the Head Office out of several hundreds of employees in the Head Office. It may be true that he was liking light work as he was frequently suffering and was at times availing of long leave as is apparent from his service record (Ext. H). It has been alleged in the written statement that he was forced to go on leave without pay which allegation was stoutly denied by the Company. Workman Ramlagan himself had to admit in his evidence before this Tribunal that he was never granted any leave without pay. Leave was granted to him whenever he asked for it sometimes on half-pay and sometimes with full pay. Therefore, this allegation against the Company is also without any substance. His service record Ext. H shows that in July 1959 he availed of privilege leave for forty-eight days and in continuation thereof he again availed of sick leave for two months. Then in 1960 and 1961 he availed of sick leave on several occasions. The Company granted the leave ungrudingly and unconditionally. It might have been possible for the Company to remove him from service on ground of physical infirmity as he was frequently proceeding on sick leave for considerable periods. But the Company did not do that. On the other hand, Company allowed him to join and somehow to carry on. He was serving as durwan and according to Shri S. K. Mitra (D.W. 6), the Assistant Commercial Manager-in-charge of the Commercial Department, durwan's duty is the lightest. There is no other duty in their office lighter than that of a durwan. As the workman was frequently suffering and sometimes very seriously, the Company made arrangement for better treatment in the Medical College Hospital where he was treated at the Company's expenses and at the same time he was enjoying leave not without pay. The Company's doctor as well as the doctor of the Medical College under whose treatment he was recommended light work for him. This fact is not denied by Company and is also proved from the documents (Exts. 4 series). The Company has, of course, produced some medical slips granted by the Medical Officer of the Company to the workman Ramlagan which are Ext. K series to show no such recommendation but recommendation for leave. A light work was recommended for him by the Medical College doctor under whose treatment he was placed. The Union also brought this fact to the notice of the Company by some letter Ext. 7(a). But the Company was helpless in the matter as there was no other duty lighter than that of a durwan as has been deposed by the Assistant Commercial Manager who is in charge of the department. He has not been cross-examined on this point. It is clear from the evidence of the workman Ramlagan that he wanted to be on duty of cash collection from city collection offices or duty at night to be performed by sitting on a stool. But he himself had to admit that there is no difference between the duty at the gate and the duty in the cash office. If that is so, why he was so keen to have duty in the cash office. His service record shows that he was on casual leave for seven days from 20th June to 26th June 1961. He joined on the 27th when he was asked to do his duty in the cash office which he did all right but as soon as he was asked to do his duty at the east gate of the Head Office, he revolted and created troubles with the Havildar who was his immediate superior in the matter of allocation of duties. The Havildar was Bachhittar Singh who under order of Mr. Howard the then Caretaker directed Ramlagan to be on duty at the eastern gate of the Victoria House on the 29th of June 1961 in place of Lal Singh. D.W. 6 Shri S. K. Mitra, the Assistant Commercial Manager of the department, has deposed that the duty of a durwan is the lightest in his office and there is no other lighter job. Therefore, the question of giving Ramlagan light work did not require special consideration of the authorities. The workman's evidence is that he saw the Deputy Commercial Manager in this connection. But according to him he did not receive any sympathetic consideration. He could have represented his matter in writing to the Commercial Manager but he did not. I have already observed that the workman has failed to point out what was lighter job in the office which the Company could have given to him. As there was none, the Company was ready to grant him leave if asked for and, as a matter of fact, the Company was granting his leave liberally without depriving him the benefit of pay altogether. As the work of a durwan was the lightest and there was hardly any difference in the work wherever he may be placed on duty, there was no point in pressing for duty in the cash collection office. In such circumstances, the employer cannot be said to have done wrong or injustice by not allowing him to do duties in the cash collection office for all time to come. There may be cogent reasons for the employer frequently to change guards to be on duty in the cash collection office. Therefore, there was no justification for his claim of being placed on duty in the cash collection office for all time to come.

So, Union's grievances are imaginary, unreal and insubstantial.

The workman Ramlagan was found by the domestic tribunal guilty of the two charges levelled against him in the charge-sheet [Ext. 5(e)]. Exhibit F is the enquiry proceeding with the unanimous findings of the enquiry committee. The Committee found the workman guilty of both the charges. Senior Deputy Commercial Manager accepted the findings and awarded the punishment of dismissal as provided in the Company's Standing Orders (Ext. L).

It is well-settled that in such a case of dismissal or misconduct a Tribunal has only limited jurisdiction and it does not act as a Court of Appeal, and substitute its own judgment for that of the management. It can interfere only—

(1) when there is want of good faith;

(2) when there is victimisation or unfair labour practice;

(3) when the management has been guilty of basic error or violation of principles of natural justice; and

(4) when on the materials the finding is completely baseless or perverse. (Vide 1958 I L.L.J. 260; and 1961 I L.L.J. 511.)

In the instant case the Union has questioned the fairness of the enquiry. I have already found that the allegations of victimisation and unfair labour practice are unsubstantial and untrue.

It has been contended by the Union that there has been violation of the principles of natural justice in as much as the Officer who drew up the charge-sheet was also appointed the Chairman of the Enquiry Committee and that the workman was not allowed to cross-examine the witnesses of the Company and to examine his own witnesses to support his case.

As to the second part of the allegation I find there is hardly any truth in it. The workman Ramlagan (P.W. 3) had to admit in his evidence before this Tribunal that he supplied names of three witnesses of his who are Parsuram Roy, Parmeswar Singh and Deo Kumar Singh. Two of them Parmeswar and Deo Kumar Singh gave evidence before the Enquiry Committee and the third man did not attend. Therefore it is a lie to say that he had no opportunity to examine his witness before the Enquiry Committee. Then again the workman admits to have attended the enquiry and it appears from the enquiry proceeding Ext. F that he cross-examined some of the witnesses of the Company. Witnesses P.C. Mukherji and Seukaran Singh were cross-examined by him and he refused to cross-examine the other witnesses. Therefore, this allegation is without any truth. Of course, there is some substance in the contention that the Officer who drew up the charge-sheet was the Chairman of the Enquiry Committee. Admittedly the show cause notice, dated 29th June 1961 (Ext. 5), was issued by the Assistant Commercial Manager Shri S. K. Mitra. He also drew up the charge-sheet Ext. 5(e) on 4th July 1961 and at the same time became the Chairman of the Enquiry Committee. It is well settled in the case of Nageswara Rao vs. State of Andhra Pradesh (A.I.R. 1959 Supreme Court 1376 at page 1378) that the principles governing "the doctrine of bias" vis a vis Judicial Tribunals are that (1) no man should be a judge in his own cause, and that (2) justice should not only be done, but manifestly and undoubtedly seem to be done. It has also been held in that case that the said principles are equally applicable to authorities, though they are not courts of justice or judicial tribunals, who have to act judically in deciding the rights of others, i.e., the authorities who are empowered to discharge quasi-judicial functions. Therefore, Shri Mitra, the Assistant Commercial Manager, in all fairness should not have acted as Chairman of the Enquiry Committee in respect of the charges levelled against the workman by himeslf. Then again it has been held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Sur Enamel & Stamping Works Ltd., and their workmen (1963 II L.L.J. 376) that an enquiry in order to be fair among other things, the Enquiry Officer must record his findings with reasons for the same in his report. But in the present case the Enquiry Committee did not strictly comply with this requirement of a just and fair enquiry. The members of the Enquiry Committee no doubt recorded their findings but reasons for the conclusions arrived at not recorded in the report. Therefore, I am to hold that the principles of natural justice have not been strictly observed although I must point out that there is no evidence to show any mala fide in the conduct of Shri Mitra in holding the enquiry in the very presence of the concerned workman. Moreover, he was not the sole judge but there were two other members in the Enquiry Committee who were representatives of the workmen. There was an unanimous finding and there is nothing to show that Shri Mitra unduly influenced or prevailed upon the other members to come to the agreed findings However, assuming in the circumstances that principles of natural justice have been violated and there was some apprehension of failure of justice in the mind of the concerned workman, what the Tribunal should do in such circumstances is to consider the evidence adduced by both the parties before it and to come to its own conclusion. It is well settled in the case of Ritz Theatre (Private) Ltd., Delhi, and its workmen (1962 II L.L.J. 498) that in such a case where the enquiry held was not fair and proper, or the findings recorded are perverse, the whole issue is at large before the Tribunal and the Tribunal will have jurisdiction to deal with the merits of the dispute. So, I propose to go into the merits of the case and to deal with the charges levelled against the workman. Both parties examined several witnesses. The Union examined four persons and the Company six witnesses, besides a number of documents exhibited on either side. Exhibit 5 is the show cause notice issued to the workman Ramlagan on 29th of June 1961 by Shri Mitra, the Assistant Commercial Manager. By this notice he was asked to show cause why he will not be proceeded against in accordance with the provisions of the Standing Orders of the Company for his misbehaviour with Havildar Bachchittar Singh who was abused and threatened with physical violence on that very day at about 9 a.m. in front of lift No. 2 at Victoria House. Admittedly Havildar Bachchittar Singh was the immediate superior officer of all the durwans and guards. He was under the Caretaker of the building who was then Mr. Howard. Exhibit 5(a) is the written explanations submitted by the workman on 1st July 1961. The Assistant Commercial Manager could not be satisfied with the explanations offered by the workman. So, there was a charge-sheet Ext. 5(e) against the workman for wilful insubordination and disorderly behavour and act subversive of discipline. The workman Ramlagan has admitted in his evidence that the Caretaker Mr. Howard has already retired and has gone home in U.K The Havildar Bachchittar Singh has also left after having retired from service. Both of them were, of course, in service at the time of the domestic enquiry and they gave evidence before the Enquiry Committee. The incident took place in front of lift No. 2 at Victoria House at about 9 a.m. on 29th June 196 The liftman was Seukaran Singh. He is D.W. Another officer of the Company was present there a that particular point of time as he was about to ente into the lift for going upstairs. He is D.W. 5 Shr P. K. Mukherji, Assistant Chief Inspector of Meter Both of them submitted written reports of the occu rence and they also gave evidence before the Enquir Committee. Their written reports are Exts. E, E/ On the side of the Union there is evidence of th workman himself and of no other person on thi point. I have considered his evidence and also his explanations in Ext. 5(a). He could not deny the occurrence. It is clear from the evidence o D.W. 4 Shri Seukaran Singh and D.W. 5 Shri P. K Mukherji that the workman Ramlagan indulged in abuses and unseemly conduct in attempting to assault his immediate superior officer Shr Bachchittar Singh. He created that ugly scene in front of lift No. 2 at a pick time when superio officers and other respectable persons were rushing into the lift in order to attend their offices located in the upper flats of the massive building known as Victoria House which is also the Company's Head Office. The reports Exts. E, E/1 will show that Mr Bawnass of Messrs. W.T. Glover & Co. was one of them. Shri Bachchittar Singh asked the workman to be on guard duty at the eastern gate of Victoria House. This duty was allotted to him by Mr. Howard, the Caretaker. What the Havildar did, he simply communicated the order of his superior officer. The workman flared up and indulged in abusing his superior officer and behaved with him in a most objectionable manner in presence of some respectable persons and officers of the Company. Surely his conduct was against the code of discipline. He went so far to attend physical violence and all these facts have been clearly established from the evidence of D.Ws. 4 and 5 and also from the documents Exts E and E 1. The Tribunal had opportunity to see the workman in the witness box for some hours and this much can be said about this man that he has yet to forget his past position as a typical Police Constable in which capacity he served for 24 years and his attitude is anything but fair and polite which also lends strong support to the probability of the case There is no reason to disbelieve the evidence of D.Ws. 4 and 5 and also their earlier statements Exts. E and E/1. I have already found that there was no motive for punishing this workman and removing him from service by making false charges against him. On the other hand, I have already discussed and found that he was being very sympathetically treated by the Company. He was frequently being granted long leave but never without pay, and he was also provided with all sorts of facilities for medical treatment not only by Company's doctor but also in the Medical College Hospital entirely at Company's cost. Therefore, after due consideration of the evidence on the record adduced by both parties I am led to the conclusion that the workman was guilty of both charges levelled against him in the charge-sheet and he was rightly punished by dismissal from service in accordance with the Company's Standing Orders Ext. L. I find no extenuating circumstances to award a lesser punishment than dismissal. Therefore, the said workman Ramlagan is entitled to no relief.

(ii) Lalta Prasad:

He was an Assistant Boiler Attendant employed in the Southern Generating Station of the Company. He having absented from duty without leave, permission or any information whatsoever for two months from 29th of April 1961 to 29th of June 1961 his service terminated automatically in accordance with the provisions of clause 13(e) of the Company's Standing Orders (Ext. L). After two months unauthorised absence from duty this workman applied to the Company on 29th June 1961 for permission to resume his duty. This application was supported by a medical certificate. Exhibit J is the said application. But long before that the Company wrote to him drawing his attention to his absence without intimation since 29th April 1961 and also to the provisions of clause 13(e) of the Company's Standing Orders whereby his service stood automatically terminated on the expiry of 30 days' continuous absence without leave. This letter Ext A 3 is dated 3rd June 1961. After this letter the Company received a letter from the workman Lalta Prasad which is Ext. D. By this letter he requested the Company to remit his Provident Fund money and other dues, if any. This letter was addressed to the Station Superintendent, 28 Garden Reach Road. D.W. 3 Daya Kissen Saxena is a clerk attached to that office. He received this letter Ext. D of the workman Lalta Prasad. The letter was then forwarded to the Head Office on 23rd June 1961 with a request to do the needful. Exhibit A/4 is that letter of the Station Superintendent. Action was taken on this letter and Lalta Prasad was informed by the Head Office of the Company by letter, dated 22nd July 1961 (Ext. 3), the amount of Provident Fund money due to him. Of course, his evidence is that he has not yet withdrawn the amount. There is also no denial to this fact by the Company. The evidence of this workman Lalta Prasad (P.W. 1) is that on 29th April 1961 he attended the generating station and gave a sick report to the Assistant Shift Charge Engineer Mr. Rabeiro. It was a about 7 a.m. But according to him he was asked to come again at 12 noon on that day. He says he could not do that as his condition deteriorated due to acute pain in the stomach So on that very day he was being taken to his native village by his friend Mongru Prasad who is a workman of Girmit Colliery and at that time he was residing with him in his quarters provided by the Company. He could not go up to his village but alighted from the Station at Asansol and went to Girmit Colliery where he was admitted in the Colliery Hospital. His friend Mongru Prasad with whom he was putting up and who escorted him from Calcutta to Girmit Colliery where he was employed, is said to have written a letter to the company informing Lalta Prasad's illness. But this story of the workman Lalta Prasad has not been supported or corroborated or substantiated by any satisfactory evidence other than his oral testimony. He admits in his cross-examination that on 29th April 1961 he was living in the Company's quarters along with two other friends of his who are Mongru Prasad and Chhedi Lal. The last man was an employee of the Company. Neither Mongru Prasad nor Chhedi Lal comes to corroborate him about his alleged illness. He admits that the Company has elaborate arrangements of medical treatment of sick employees by the Company's doctors as well as in the city's hospitals. If he was really so sick, why he would leave for his native village instead of availing of the medical facilities provided by the employer. So, it is hardly believable that on account of his illness he went to Girmit Colliery where his friend Mongru Prasad was employed. There is also nothing to show that he was admitted into the Colliery Hospital. On the contrary, he after absenting for two months without leave or any intimation to the employer suddenly appeared and applied for permission to resume his duty with a medical certificate purported to have been granted by a private doctor of unknown and undisclosed place (vide Ext. J). That certificate shows that he was advised to take complete rest. It does not disclose seriousness of any disease if he was suffering from. Naturally the Company refused to reconsider his case. The workman's story, as told before this Tribunal about his illness and his leaving on that ground for his native village but ultimately going over to Girmit Colliery for treatment seemed to border on the incredible. It is all an afterthought. He left his job without any intimation whatsoever to the employer. He has deposed falsely to say that he gave sick report to Mr. Rebeiro. It is abundantly clear from the evidence of D.W. 2 Mr. Rebeiro that he was not at all contacted on 29th April 1961 and no report was given to him by Lalta Prasad. His evidence is that any report of sickness by a workman is always recorded in the Shift Strength Book which is Ext. C. But there is no such entry in this register which is duly and properly maintained at the Generating Station. Lalta Prasad says that he instructed his friend Mongra Prasad to give information to his employer but he is not sure if any such information was at all supplied to the Company and if so when and whether by post. The Union does not examine Mongru Prasad or Chhedi Lal or does not assign any reason for not bringing them to support the story of the workman. He already applied for withdrawing the amount of his provident fund money by letter Ext. D to the Station Superintendent, who in due course forwarded the same to the Head Office for necessary action. The workman Lalta Prasad at first admitted his signature on this letter but after some hesitation he denied. I am unable to give credence to his oral testimony. Therefore, I find there was no satisfactory explanation of his absence for two months without leave, permission or any intimation whatsoever to the employer. Such an irresponsible act and conduct on the part of a workman of an Electric Generating Station cannot be overlooked or lightly brushed aside So, I find no justification for interference with the automatic termination of his service by operation of the Company's Standing Orders which represent the relevant terms and conditions of service in a statutory form and they are binding on the parties. In the result, the workman Lalta Prasad is not entitled to any relief.

(iii) Jagat Singh

This workman Jagat Singh was employed as a Lamp Lighter and was attached to the Company's District Engineer's Office at Howrah. Admittedly he was granted casual leave for seven days from 15th April 1961 to 21st April 1961 (vide Exts. J, J/1. He was to resume his duty on 22nd of April 1961, but he did not, nor did he apply for extension of leave. He continued his unauthorised absence for months together. It appears from the District Engineer's Report to the Main Superintendent Ext. B, dated 23rd August 1961, that on 17th August 1961 he suddenly appeared before the District Engineer and produced certain documents which revealed that the workman was involved in a criminal case but was released on bail and he approached the District Engineer for a certificate of his employment under the Company. D.W. 1 Shri P. N. Banerji is the said District Engineer. His evidence is that he refused to give a certificate as his service had already been terminated automatically under the provisions of clause 13(e) of the Company's Standing Orders. P.W. 2 Jagat Singh has admitted that he was involved in some litigations during his stay in the village. The workman started absenting without leave or permission from 22nd April 1961. Thereupon the Company wrote to him on 11th May 1961 (vide Ext. A) directing him to furnish satisfactory reasons for his absence within a week from the date of receipt of this letter, failing which he will be marked as "labour terminated." On the report of the District Engineer contained in his letter, dated 23rd August 1961 (Ext. B), the Main Superintendent addressed a letter to the workman Jagat Singh on 21st August 1961 informing him that he having absented from duty without leave since 22nd April 1961 his service was automatically terminated under clause 13(e) of the Company's Standing Orders. This letter is Ext. A/1. It was sent to him by registered post. So, the Company waited for long four months since he commenced absenting without leave, or permission and then invoked provisions of clause 13(e) of the Standing Orders which provided for automatic termination of his services for his unauthorised absence for more than 30 days and in the present case for four months. Sometimes after its communication the workman appeared for permission to resume his duty. He says that he sent a medical certificate to the Company on 25th August 1961 but there is nothing to prove this fact. The Company has denied to have received any such medical certificate after his four months' unauthorised absence. The workman's evidence is that he came to Calcutta on 9th September 1961 and produced medical certificate to the District Engineer but he refused to accept. This workman has subsequently said that he produced not one but two medical certificates. These are Exts. 9 and 9(a). He has stated in the cross-examination that during the five months of his unauthorised absence from work he lived in Muzaffarpur town and so he produced certificate from doctors of that town. But he has contradicted himself to say that while he was residing in his village he was involved in some litigations. Therefore, it is difficult to believe his oral testimony. The two medical certificates Exts. 9, 9(a) which he produced before the Tribunal at late stage of the hearing of the case, may be seen. One doctor of Muzaffarpur granted the certificate Ext. 9 on 25th August 1961 in which he has stated that Jagat Singh of village Pourah was under his treatment from 20th April to 24th of August 1961 and he received certificate to the effect that the patient was cured completely and can join his duty. The other certificate Ext. 9(a) shows that the workman placed himself under his treatment from 25th of August 1961 and he was found fit to resume his duties on 9th September 1961, i.e., one doctor who certified him to be completely cured and found fit to join his duties on 25th August 1961, the other doctor treated him as his patient from that very day till 9th September 1961 and it is the evidence of the workman he came to Calcutta on 9th September 1961. Therefore, in the conflicting circumstances I feel difficulty to rely on these certificates. If the man was really suffering for over four months and was having a medical treatment by doctors of Muzaffarpur town how he could he say that during his stay in the village he was involved in litigations and it transpires from the evidence of the District Engineer before whom he actually appeared on 17th August 1961 that he was involved in criminal litigations and in which connection he wanted a certificate from him to show his employment under the Company, when he was clearly told that his services automatically terminated under clause 13(e) of the Standing Orders. So, on his return home he brought in medical certificates Exts. 9, 9(a), which are conflicting in nature. Therefore, I find there was no satisfactory reason for his unauthorised absence for nearly five months from 22nd April 1961 up to middle of September 1961. Hence, I find no justification for interference with the termniation of his services which he sustained automatically on account of his irresponsible conduct. It appears from the document Ext. J/4 that this workman was reported against by the District Engineer to the Main Superintendent as a "habitual absentee". However, the fact remains that he was long in service of the Company for 19 years which fact is not denied by the Company. Of course, being an old employee of the Company he ought to have been more responsible to guard against unauthorised absenteeism for unreasonably long period. That shows that he would hardly mend his ways. Whatever that might be but in consideration of the fact that he rendered 19 years' services to the Company and for a foolish action of his he has lost his job at a very hard time. Therefore, I direct that the Company in all fairness should pay to the workman six months' wages as compensation for loss of employment in addition to other dues to which he is entitled. This compensation should be paid within a month of publication of the award in the Calcutta Gazette.

This is my award.

By order of the Governor,
S. C. MUKHERJEE, Asst. Secy.

No. 3454-I.R.|IR|11L-76|60.—8th August 1964.—Whereas under the Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, Order No. 6057-I.R.|IR|11L-76|60, dated the 22nd November 1960, read with its Addenda Nos. 468-I.R.|IR|11L-76|60, dated the 3rd February 1961, and 1222-I.R.|IR|11L-76|60, dated the 14th March 1961, the industrial dispute between Messrs. Balmer Lawrie and Company Limited, 21 Netaji Subhas Road, Calcutta-1, and their workmen represented by Balmer Lawrie Employees' Association, 23 Netaji Subhas Road, Calcutta-1, and

Messrs. Balmer Lawrie and Company Limited Employees' Union, 19 Strand Road, Calcutta, regarding the issues mentioned in the said order being matters specified in the second and the third schedules to the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (Act 14 of 1947), was referred to the First Industrial Tribunal for adjudication;

And whereas on appeal filed against the award made by the said First Industrial Tribunal on the aforesaid dispute, the Honourable Supreme Court of India sent back the case on remand for fresh hearing of Issue No. 1 mentioned in the said order;

And whereas the said First Industrial Tribunal heard the case on merit and submitted its award to the State Government on the said issue;

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the provisions of section 17 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (Act 14 of 1947), the Governor is pleased hereby to publish the said award as shown in the annexure hereto.

ANNEXURE

In the matter of an industrial dispute between Messrs. Balmer Lawrie & Co. Ltd., 21 Netaji Subhas Road, Calcutta-1, and their workmen represented by Balmer Lawrie Employees' Association, 23 Netaji Subhas Road, Calcutta-1, and Messrs. Balmer Lawrie & Co. Ltd. Employees' Union, 19 Strand Road, Calcutta. (Case No. VIII-608 of 1960.)

BEFORE THE FIRST INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL

Present:

Shri RENUPADA MUKHERJEE, Judge,
First Industrial Tribunal.

This was a reference of an industrial dispute under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act made by the Government of West Bengal by its Labour Department Order No. 6057-I.R.|IR|11L-76|60, dated Calcutta, the 22nd November 1960. One party to the reference was Messrs. Balmer Lawrie & Co. Ltd. (hereinafter to be described as the Company) and the other party consisted of workmen, represented by two Unions (1) Balmer Lawrie Employees' Association and (2) Messrs. Balmer Lawrie & Co. Ltd. Employees' Union.

Altogether four issues were referred for adjudication:

1. Grades and scales of pay.
2. Privilege leave.
3. Medical leave.
4. Retiring age.

The case was duly heard by Shri S. N. Guha Roy, my predecessor-in-office, and he delivered an award on 29th June 1961. An appeal was taken to the Supreme Court by the workmen of Messrs. Balmer Lawrie & Co. Ltd. represented by Balmer Lawrie Employees' Association. Their Lordships of the Supreme Court have remanded the case for fresh hearing of issue No. 1 regarding grades and scales of pay. The remaining three issues have been finally disposed of by the judgment of Their Lordships.

In pursuance of the order of remand this Tribunal admitted some additional evidence adduced on behalf of Balmer Lawrie Employees' Association. Thereafter the parties took some time for compromise. Compromise petitions were separately filed by the two Unions on 6th July 1964, and the Company was a consenting party to both the petitions. It is refreshing to see that the parties concerned have settled their differences for maintaining industrial peace and harmony. In my opinion the terms of settlement are reasonable and fair and I accept them. As a supplement to the previous award passed by Shri S. N. Guha Roy on 29th June 1961 as modified by the Supreme Court, I pass this award in terms of the two joint petitions of parties filed by the Company and the two Unions. The joint petitions together with their annexures shall form a part to my award.

Taken at my dictation and corrected by me.

ANNEXURE

Terms of Settlement

1. The grades and scales of pay for the clerical and subordinate staff shall be revised with effect from 1st March 1964. The revised grades and scales of pay are shown in Appendix "A".

2. The clerical staff who are in grades II and III at present shall be fitted into revised grade II and those who are in the present grades IV and V shall be similarly fitted into revised grade III. The present grade IB shall be revised and redesignated as grade I and the employees who are in grade IB shall be fitted into the revised and redesignated grade I.

3. Typists, Comptometer Operators, Hollerith Punchers and Verifiers, Hollerith Accounts Coders, Remington Machine Operators and Gestetner Duplicating Machine Operators shall be placed in revised grade II.

4. The starting salary for Stenographers shall be Rs. 110 in the revised grade II and on completion of six years they will automatically be promoted to revised grade III on a salary of Rs. 170 provided they are regarded as being satisfactory Stenographers by the Departmental Head and subject to their passing a test from an approved Institute. Otherwise, they shall continue to be in revised grade II until such time the Management is satisfied that they are fit for promotion to revised grade III.

5. All members of the clerical and subordinate staff will be fitted into the revised grades with effect from 1st March 1964. In cases where the existing pay of an employee does not coincide with the appropriate stage in the revised scales of pay as shown in Appendix "A", the employee concerned shall be placed at a stage in the revised scales of pay which is immediately above the existing pay of the employee.

6. Any employee who has been at the top of his existing grade for two or more years and who does not receive any increase in pay by virtue of fitting into the new scale, will be given one ad hoc increment in the revised grade from 1st March 1964 and his future 'anniversary' date i.e., the date for increment, if applicable, will be the 1st March each year.

7. The revised grades and scales of pay shall be in operation for a period of 5 years from 1st March 1964 to 28th February 1969.

No. 3461-I.R.|IR|11L-263|63.—8th August 1964. —Whereas under the Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, order No. 3265-I.R.|IR|11L-263|63, dated the 10th August 1963, the industrial dispute between Messrs. Calcutta Cork Industries, Cossipore, Calcutta-2, and their workmen represented by Calcutta Cork Industries Mazdoor Union, 33 Manicktolla Main Road, Calcutta-11, regarding the issues mentioned in the said order being matters specified in the third schedule to the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), was referred for adjudication to the Third Industrial Tribunal;

And whereas the said Third Industrial Tribunal has submitted to the State Government its award on the said industrial dispute;

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the provisions of section 17 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), the Governor is pleased hereby to publish the said award as shown in the annexure hereto.

ANNEXURE

In the matter of an industrial dispute between Messrs. Calcutta Cork Industries, Cossipore, Calcuatta-2, and their workmen represented by Calcutta Cork Industries Mazdoor Union, 33 Manicktolla Main Road, Calcutta-11. (Case No. VIII-156 of 1963.)

BEFORE THE THIRD INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL

Present:

For the Union: Shri Mani Mukherjee, General Secretary.

AWARD

The Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, by Order No. 3265-I.R.|IR|11L-263|63, dated the 10th August 1963, referred under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, the abovementioned dispute to this Tribunal for its adjudication.

The issues are as follows:—

Issues

(1) Wages,

(2) Retiring benefit.

This reference relates to two items of industrial disputes then existing between Messrs. Calcutta Cork Industries, Cossipore, Calcutta-2 (hereinafter referred to as "the Company"), and their workmen, represented by Calcutta Cork Industries Mazdoor Union, 33 Manicktolla Main Road, Calcutta-11 (hereinafter referred to as "the Union").

As usual, on receipt of the reference, both parties were summoned to appear and file their respective written statement. Both parties actually appeared and did file their written statement. As this is a new industry of its kind in India, both parties were heard at length, and they were encouraged to carry on peacefully in order to make progress and improvement in the new venture. I am glad to record that both the parties made sincere attempts to solve the disputes and the one in respect of wages was immediately settled and a joint petition of compromise, dated 23rd October 1963, was filed as early on 5th November 1963 incorporating therein the terms, and the other regarding retiring benefits has also been amicably and peacefully settled though a little late and just on the date fixed for final hearing of the case, i.e., on 30th July 1964, and both parties filed another joint petition of compromise in which the terms of settlement have been set out. I have considered both the petitions of compromise, the one, dated 23rd October 1963, and the other one, dated 30th July 1964.

Regarding wages of the workmen numbering 14 in all have been increased to a certain extent agreed upon between the parties. The increment of wages is to take effect from 14th October 1963 as they have agreed jointly.

As to the retiring benefits, they have mutually agreed that the workmen will be entitled to gratuity at the rate of four days' wages for each completed year of service from the date of their respective appointments. A workman will be eligible to this benefit even in case of retrenchment and/or termination of services other than dismissal for misconduct. A workman resigning in job after five years' continuous service will also be entitled to the aforesaid retiral benefit. These terms of settlement appear to me to be fair and reasonable. I therefore accept the terms and make an award of compromise in terms made and contained in the two joint petitions, dated 23rd October 1963, and 30th July 1964, which do form part of the compromise award as Annexures "A" and "B" thereto.

This is my award.
Dictated and corrected by me.

BEFORE THE FIRST INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL

Present:

Shri RENUPADA MUKHERJEE, Judge, First Industrial Tribunal.

This dispute was referred to me by the Government of West Bengal by its Labour Department Order No. 1134I.R./IR/8L-39/63, dated Calcutta, the 12th March 1964, under section 10A of the Industrial Disputes Act on the basis of an Arbitration Agreement filed by the parties. The parties who agreed to refer the dispute to my arbitration are Messrs. Eastern Belting and Cotton Mills Ltd. and Eastern Belting Mazdoor Union. The specific matter in dispute was:

Whether the workmen are entitled to an increase of Rs. 15 as dearness allowance under the present condition of the company?

Notices were duly served upon the parties and they filed their written statements in due course. After the case had proceeded for some time the parties filed a compromise petition on 8th July 1964. The main clause of the compromise petition with which we are concerned in the present proceedings is that all the workmen will get an increase of Rs. 10 per month on the existing total emoluments and this will be given retrospective effect from 1st April 1964. After hearing the learned representatives of both parties I am satisfied that the compromise is a reasonable and fair one. I, therefore, pass an arbitration award in terms of the joint petition of compromise filed by the parties which shall form a part of my award.

The humble petition of both parties

Most respectfully sheweth:

(1) That the parties hereto have settled the matter out of court amicably on the following terms:

(a) That all the workmen will get an increase of Rs. 10 per month on the existing total emoluments. This will be given retrospective effect from 1st April 1964.

(b) That in the event of subsequent increase in wages or D.A. or total emoluments, if any, as a result of negotiation that is going on between Indegeneous Belting Industries Association and the Belting Workers' Federation, the same will also be made applicable to the workmen concerned in the present dispute from the date and terms as may be agreed by them.

(2) That the payment as per clause 1(a) be made on 10th July 1964.

In the circumstances, your petitioners pray that your Honour will be pleased to pass an award in terms aforesaid and this petition be made a part of the award.

2. For the Union: Shri Kali Chakraborty

The abovenamed parties by an arbitration agreement, dated 21st August 1963, under section 10A of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, agreed with my consent to refer the following issue for my arbitration and submitted a copy of the said agreement to the Government. The agreement was duly published under Government Notification No. 4429I.R., dated the 21st October 1963.

The issue thus referred is:

Whether the dismissal of Shri Gopal Acharyya is justified? To what relief, he is entitled?

After submission of written statements by the parties concerned, a date was fixed on 21st January 1963, for hearing of the case. Both parties were present and they jointly prayed for a short adjournment for compromise at bipartite level, which was allowed. On 24th January 1964, the parties again appeared before me and submitted a compromise petition. It was found bona fide, reasonable and fair in my view. I accept the compromise agreement which forms a part of my award and is appended as annexure.

This is my award.

ANNEXURE

In the matter of an industrial dispute between Messrs. Western India Theatres Ltd., Minerva Theatre, 5|1 Chowringhee Place, Calcutta-13, and their workmen represented by the Bengal Motion Picture Employees' Union, 126|A Dharamtala Street, Calcutta-13. (Govt. Order No. 1858-I.R., dated 8th May 1963.) (VIII-96|63.)

BEFORE THE FOURTH INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL.

Present:

Shri R. Bhattacharya, Judge, Fourth Industrial Tribunal.

For the Union: Shri A. Dutta, Counsel.

For the Company: Shri P. R. Mukherjee.

This is a reference under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act arising out of the Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, Order No. 1858-I.R./IR/11L-155/63, dated the 8th May 1963. The dispute is between Messrs. Western India Theatres Ltd., Minerva Theatre, 5/1 Chowringhee Place, Calctta-13, and their workmen represented by the Bengal Motion Picture Employees' Union, 126/A Dharamtala Street, Calcutta-13. The issue relates to the bonus payable in 1962.

After due notices the parties appeared and filed their respective written statements. The Bengal Motion Picture Employees' Union (hereinafter referred to as the Union), filed its written statement on 17th June 1963. In it, it was stated that the Western India Theatres Ltd. carries on the cinema exhibition business in the name and style of "Minerva Theatre" or "Minerva Cinema" in Calcutta and that this business is a separate, independent and self-contained industrial concern. It is alleged that there is an agreed custom in the cinema trade in West Bengal according to which the Minerva Cinema workmen are entitled to two months' basic wages as bonus before the Pujas irrespective of profit or loss. This puja bonus has become a customary practice throughout West Bengal. It is further alleged that the Minerva Theatre has earned huge profit justifying the payment of bonus to the workmen, and that the employer intentionally failed to place the real statements of account before the workmen. It has been further stated that in the matter of finance and employment the Minerva Theatre is a distinct, seperate and independent unit or entity. Minerva Theatre exists conveniently and reasonably without depending on any other Exhibition House. In the matter of capital, staff, management, income or expenditure this Cinema house runs as a clearly distinct industrial undertaking. The Union claims at least two months' wages as bonus payable in 1962.

The Western India Treatres Ltd. representing the Minerva Theatre filed the written statements on 22nd August 1963. Its case is that the Western India Theatres Ltd. is a public limited concern. It mainly does the business of exhibiting pictures in threatres owned or leased in several cities of India like Bombay, Calcutta, Delhi, Madras, etc. It also owns a studio but the Company has no film productive activities of its own. During the relevant year, namely, 1961-62, the studio was given out on a lease and licence basis. The Company has the activity of distribution of pictures. The pictures for the purpose of exhibition are booked at Bombay where the Company has its Registered Office. They are booked for all the theatres of the Company situated at different places in India. The Head Office controls all the activities of all the different theatres situated at different places. Cheques for major disbursement are sent from Bombay. The cheques relate to wages of employees working at different places. The different theatres at different places are units of the same Company and in these different theatres there is unity of ownership, unity of management and control, unity of finance, unity of labour, unity of employment and unity of functional integration. The case of the Company is that all the different theatres at different places of the Company form one part of single industry for all purposes. The control of all affairs from the Head Office reduces the managerial expenses. The Company's financial year runs from April to March. For the year ended 31st March 1962, the Company's balance sheet shows a loss of Rs. 85,210.32 nP., and there is no provision for depreciation, taxation, divident, etc. The Company has denied the allegations made by the Union. The existence about the custom of paying bonus to the workmen has been denied. The Company, in short, has stated that the workmen can claim no bonus on any account.

At the hearing stage the Union filed one additional written statement. In this statement it has been alleged that exhibition side of the business of the Company consisting of the cinema halls forms an independent and separate business or undertaking without functional integrity or interdependence with any other branch of the Company's business or undertaking. It has been stated further that the workmen of the Minerva Theatre are entitled to bonus out of the profits of the exhibition side of the Company's business. The Union has further attacked the item of bad debts mentioned in the Profit and Loss Accounts and characterised it as mala fide and without any material. As against this additional written statement the Company also filed an additional statement of claim challenging the statements made by the Union. It has been alleged that the Company mainly does the business of exhibition, that the exhibition side is not a seperate business and that the balance sheet and the Profit and Loss Accounts of the Company for the year 1961-62 reveal the true state of affairs.

Today the matter has been taken up for hearing. The Union does not lead any evidence, oral or documentary, on the side of the workmen. The Western India Theatres Ltd. representing the Minerva Theatre produced the balance sheet for the relevant year, as evidence. A copy of the same has been supplied to the workmen. The report and the balance sheet is audited and certified. It is marked Ext. A. The Company does not want to examine any witness. I have heard the argument advanced from both the sides.

The first contention raised from the side of the workmen by Shri Dutta is that the Minerva Theatre at Calcutta though a seperate unit of Western India Theatres Ltd., is an independent business concern. The second point raised by Snri Dutta is that even if the Minerva Theatre is taken as a branch and a part of the Western India Treatres Ltd. having its Head Office in Bombay, its exhibition and distribution side are to be treated as distinct and independent business and that the profits of the two separate sides of the business should have been kept separtely. These two points raised from the side of the workmen being inter-connected, I shall consider them together. It is to be noted that in the present case the workmen have deliberately refrained from adducing any evidence either oral or documentary before this Tribunal in support of their written statement. On the other hand, the Western India Theatres Ltd. (hereinafter referred to as the Company) has produced the balance sheet for the relevant year to show the financial position and also to show that the Company has no separate entity of different cities in India, and that the exhibition side of the Company's business is a part and parcel of the Company having different sides of business interconnected with each other. The Company has not adduced any oral evidence on the ground that the workmen have not let in any evidence on its side. Shri Dutta has argued that the Company has several units of its business in different cities in India, that the Minerva Theatre at Calcutta is one of such unit, that the function of the Minerva Theatre is not dependent on the Head Office or any other unit of the Company and that the Minerva Theatre is but an exhibiting unit of the Company though the Head Office is the distributing agency. With regard to the control by the Head Office, it has been contended from the side of the workmen that the Head Office may control the policy of the Company regarding the type of pictures exhibited here. The second contention as I have already stated is that the Minerva Theatre is but a branch of the Head Office, if at all, having the exhibition side of the business whereas the distribution side lies with the Head Office. It has been urged that the Head Office has no control over the exhibiting side of the business at Calcutta, controlled by the Calcutta staff. It is very difficult to accept the contention of Shri Dutta because unforunately there is no material in support of the contention raised. There is no documentary evidence on the side of the workmen. None of the workmen has come forward to adduce evidence before this Tribunal in support of the case made out in the written statement. When there is no material in support of the argument of Shri Dutta, it must be said that the argument of Shri Dutta simply floats in the air, without any substance. There is no evidence before me that the Minerva Theatre at Calcutta is an independent busniess or a separate unit as stated by Shri Dutta. The balance sheet and the Profit and Loss Account, Ext. A, will show the earnings from different sources of the Company's business. The earnings come from the exhibition side of business, house-rent, ditribution commission and some other sources mentioned in schedule F to the Ext. A. From the reading of the entire accounts given in Ext. A, it will be clear that the Company has no separate business either for distribution or exhibition, that there was no independent unit of business at different cities of India and that the Minerva Theatre at Calcutta is a separate unit of business with separate accounts, capital, management, etc. Shri Dutta has referred me to the case of Protap Press, 1960, L.L.J. Vol. I, at page 497. Shri Mukherjee for the Company has, on the other hand, relied upon the two case laws—one reported in 1957, L.L.J. Vol. I, page 8, and the other 1961, L.L.J. Vol. I, page 415. In the case of Protap Press the facts are different. In that case an owner was engaged in different industrial units. In the present case the Western India Theatres Ltd. is the Company and it has different sides or departments of business at different places. All the sides or the departments of the Company are controlled and managed by the Head Office at Bombay, finances are distributed from the Head Office, earnings are collected from different places and brought to the Head Office, and proper accountings are made treating the activities of the Comapny at different places as the business of the Company, viz., the Western India Theatres Ltd. Whether the business activities or centres are to be treated as separate or not will depend upon the facts and circumstances of each case. There is not a bit of material before me to suggest even that the Minerva Theatre Ltd. at Calcutta is an independent or a separate unit of business having separate management or financial control. On the other hand, Ext. A supports the contention of the Company that the Minerva Theatre has been treated as a part of the business of the Western India Theatres Ltd. having its Head Office at Bombay. I cannot hold that the Minerva Theatre is a branch of the Company's Head Office carrying on exhibition business independently and without any control from the Company. It should be mentioned in this connection that the Union inspected during the pendency of this case some papers of accounts lying with the Minerva Theatre. The Union did not make any attempt to call for any document from the possession of the Minerva Theatre or of the Company to suggest that the Minerva Theater is a distinct industrial concern managed by an independent staff having separate accounts of its own. The Union failed to produce any evidence at the time of hearing of this case. In connection with the interlocutory order, the Company filed an affidavit on 15th October 1963 stating that the Miner Theatre has no independent existence as separate from the Company, that the Company maintains one consolidated accounts of all its activities, that all the theatres of the Company form one part of single industry for all purposes and there is functional integration. The Union did not file any affidavit challenging these statements. However, in the absence of proper material I say that the first two contentions raised from the side of the workmen are without any subsatnce. I hold that the Minerva Theatre at Calcutta is but a part of the Company which controls the finance, management and its distribution of films and that the accounts of the Company show that the Minerva Theatre has never been treated as a separate business. The description of this employer in order of reference supports my findings.

I will now deal with the last contention raised from the side of the workmen. It has been argued that the balance sheet, Ext. A, does not represent the correct state of affairs because the item of bad debts to the extent of Rs. 6,39,476.94 nP. mentioned at page 10 is unbelieveable and not supported by any reliable evidence of the Company. The Union had every right to inspect the account-papers relating to bad debts mentioned in the balance sheet. The Union received a copy of the balance sheet earlier. There is no evidence from the side of the Union challenging this item in the balance sheet. On the other hand, Ext. A shows that in the previous year also the bad debts amounted to Rs. 5,57,052.72 nP. This is not a new thing to the Company. Exhibit A is duly audited and certified. In these circumstances I cannot accept the argument of Shri Dutta that bad debts mentioned in Ext. A is prima facie unacceptable. Shri Dutta, of course, does not challenge any other item of Ext. A. Exhibit A shows that during the financial year of the Company ended 31st March 1963 its loss was to the extent of Rs. 85,210.32 nP. I find nothing to disbelieve the statement in Ext. A. In view of my findings above, I should hold that the workmen are not entitled to any profit bonus in the present case. Shri Dutta has not pursued the case of customary bonus pleaded in the original written statement. That has been given up at the time of hearing. Moreover, there is no evidence in support of that contention.

In view of my findings above, the reference is disposed of in favour of the Western India Theatres Ltd. representing its Minerva Theatre at Calcutta. The workmen are not entitled any bonus payable in 1962.

AWARD

This application which purports to be one under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, has been filed by Sarvasree Mihir Mukherjee, Bijoy Chatterjee and Rajendra Singh against their employers Messrs. Aluminium Corporation of India Ltd. on the following allegations:

The petitioners and the Company opposite party are parties to an industrial dispute pending before this Tribunal for adjudication. During the pendency of the aforesaid proceeding the Company O.P. refused to give work to the petitioners on 7th December 1963 and subsequently on or about 24th December 1963 intimated them that their services had been terminated. This act on the part of the opposite party is illegal on account of contravention of section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act and the petitioners have prayed for a direction upon the opposite party for their reinstatement and payment of full compensation for the period of their forced unemployment.

The Company opposite party has appeared and opposed the application by filing a written statement in reply to the written statement of the petitioners. It is alleged by the Company that the petitioners were appointed as temporary workmen in the Electric Department for some extra work in the said department and their services had been terminated with effect from 10th December 1963 after the work for which they were engaged was completed. They were offered one month's wages in lieu of notice and retrenchment compensation in accordance with the provisions of the Industrial Disputes Act. It is pleaded that there has been no contravention of section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act inasmuch as the services of the petitioners were terminated by way of retrenchment and that being so, they are not entitled to any relief under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act. It is further pleaded that the application under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act is not maintainable as there has been no contravention of section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act.

Decision

It is an admitted fact that the petitioners were employed as workmen under the opposite party Aluminium Corporation of India Ltd. at its factory at Jaykaynagar. Shri Bijoy Chatterjee and Rajendra Singh worked as ordinary labourers and Mihir Mukherjee as an electrician in the Electrical Department in the factory. They joined their duties on 5th December 1963 but they were not allowed to join their duties on and from 7th December 1963 and subsequently their services were terminated. There is, however, some dispute with regard to the date on which the services of the three workmen were terminated. The evidence of the workman Shri Bejoy Chatterjee P.W. 1 is that on 24th December 1963, the Labour Officer of the Company informed him and the other two workmen, that their services had been terminated. He has further stated that they did not receive any notice of termination of their services from the Company at any time. As against this there is evidence of Shri Subodh Chandra Das Gupta, O.P.W. 1, who is in-charge of the Electrical Department in the factory of the Company at Jaykaynagar. The petitioners worked under him and his evidence is that the services of the petitioners were terminated with effect from 10th March 1963 as their services were no longer required. The evidence of O.P.W. 2 Shri Bhupal Nandy, the Labour Welfare Officer of the Company, is that copies of notices of retrenchment of the petitioners were hung up in the notice board of the Company and the copy of the notice was also sent to the Labour Commissioner on 9th December 1963. The copy of the notice of retrenchment has been marked Ext. C and Ext. B is the copy of the notice which was sent to the Assistant Labour Commissioner, Asansol, and the Labour Commissioner, Government of West Bengal. Though the parties are at dispute regarding the date of the termination of the services of the petitioners, there cannot be any dispute that the services of the petitioners were terminated. It is clear from the petition filed by the workmen that the petitioners were refused to work on 7th December 1963 and subsequently, on or about 24th December 1963 they were told that their services had been terminated and this act on the part of the Company opposite party is in contravention of section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act which entitles the petitioners to the reliefs claimed in the petition. There is no allegation in the petition that the petitioners were discharged or dismissed from service by way of punishment for any misconduct unconnected with the pending dispute. It is also not stated in the petition as to which particular provision of section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act has been contravened by the Company. It is now well settled by a series of decisions that in order to invoke the aid of section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, a workman has in the first place to prove that there has been a contravention of section 33A which gives jurisdiction to the Tribunal to entertain the application. It is therefore to be seen whether the petitioners have been able to prove that there has been contravention of section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act. The petitioners were appointed as temporary hands for extra job as appears from the enrolment forms Exts. A, A-1 and A-2 in which the terms and conditions of services of the petitioners have been incorporated. Paragraph 6 of the general conditions of services in the enrolment forms gives the employers full right of terminating the services of the petitioners without any notice on completion of the work for which they were enrolled or even before completion of the extra job. The enrolment forms relating to the petitioners make it abundantly clear that they were temporarily appointed for some extra job and their services were liable to be terminated without any notice at any time. There is evidence of O.P.W. 1 under whom the petitioners worked, that the services of the petitioners were terminated after the expansion work for which they were recruited was completed although they were retained in service for some time more for the proper working and maintenance of the work for which they were engaged. This evidence is fully supported by the enrolment forms and a reading of the petition makes it clear that the services of the petitioners were terminated by way of retrenchment on completion of the extra job for which they were appointed was completed. There cannot be any dispute that section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act is not attracted in case of retrenchment of workmen and the case made out by the petitioners in their petition is clearly a case of termination of service by way of retrenchment and the provision of section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act is therefore not attracted. The petitioners have therefore failed to prove that there has been any contravention of section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act by the Company opposite party and as such, the application under section 33A is not maintainable and they are not entitled to any relief in this case. The petition is accordingly rejected.

BEFORE THE SECOND INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL

PRESENT:

Shri A. P. BHATTACHARYA, Judge

Appearances:

For the Company: Shri Jagannath Bhattacharjee, Advocate.

For the Union: Shri Narayan Das Gupta, President of the Union.

The Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, by Order No. 3998I.R./IR/10L-111(A)/63, dated 20th September 1963, referred under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), the abovementioned dispute to this Tribunal for its adjudication.

The issue for consideration is as follows:

Issue

"Profit Bonus for the year 1961".

AWARD

The reference was received on 9th November 1963 and after notices to the parties written statements were filed by them. After some adjournments, the case was fixed for hearing on 13th July 1964. Both parties examined witnesses and exhibited documents on either side and addressed arguments before the tribunal.

The Union's case is that the Company is a prosperous concern being the sole agent of Messrs. Ashok Leyland Ltd. of Madras for their products in West Bengal and Bihar. The Company also repairs Leyland vehicles and manufactures bodies. The Company has a workshop at Thakurpukur. It has also branches at Patna and Muzaffurpur. The Company pays very low rate of wages to its workmen. A chart has been filed showing the wages to different categories of workmen paid by the Company. The wages paid are for below living wages. The Company has available surplus out of which bonus can be paid to its workmen. The profits earned by the Company in 1961 justifies payment of three months' wages as bonus. The Company, however, paid only one month's wages as bonus for that year. This is the genesis of the dispute which ultimately was referred to the tribunal.

The Company filed a written statement. It is admitted that the Company is sole agent of Ashok Leyland and it is further admitted that the Company repairs all sorts of Leyland vehicles. The Company, however, denies that it pays low rate of wages to its workmen. The Company further denies that it makes huge profits and that the profits earned in 1961 would justify payment of bonus to the extent of three months' wages. The Company has no available surplus to justify such payment. The Company, however, paid one month's wages as ex-gratia payment before the Puja.

The issue referred to the tribunal has already been set forth.

Findings

The Union claims bonus equivalent to three months wages for 1961. The wage chart of the Union is Ext. 1 and it shows payment of wages which can hardly be said to be even near approach to living wages. There are two conditions for claiming bonus. The first condition is that the wages must fall short of living standard. In the instant case, the union has satisfied this condition. The second condition is available surplus. The payment of profit bonus in the instant case, therefore, depends on surplus of trading profits available on calculation according to the Full Bench Formula enunciated by the Full Bench of the Labour Appellate Tribunal in the Bombay Mill Owners' Case reported in 1950 (I) L.L.J., page 1247, popularly known as Full Bench Formula. That Full Bench Formula has been accepted by the Hon'ble Supreme Court with certain elucidations in the case reported in 1959(II) Supreme Court Appeal, page 280, corresponding to 1959(I) L.L.J., page 644, known as Associated Cement Company's case. According to the principles ennunciated in the above case, available surplus is to be calculated in the following manner.

The balance sheet of the Company should be accepted for calculation of the available surplus unless any item of expenditure in the Profit and Loss Account is challenged by the Union. The balancesheet is Ext. A for the year 1961 in respect of which the available surplus is being calculated. The year should be taken as a separate unit and the trading results for that year are to be looked into. The Profit and Loss Account will show the amount of net profit at Rs. 1,62,485. The following items should be added back to arrive at the gross profit:

Depreciation provided in the balance sheet is Rs. 19,101. From the Profit and Loss Account, it would appear that there had been donation of a sum of Rs. 463 and charity of Rs. 691. The amount of donation and charity should be added back, as they cannot be said to be expenditure on trading account. The Profit and Loss Account further shows that a sum of Rs. 21,874 had been paid as bonus. This amount should also be added back. On adding back those four items, the total figure comes to Rs. 2,04,614. It is to be noted that the Profit and Loss Account does not make any provision for income tax but provision for such income tax has been made in a separate account. That being so, there is no question of adding back the income tax. The amount of gross profit is accordingly Rs. 2,04,614. According to the Full Bench Formula as clarified by the decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in A.C.C. case the following prior charges are to be deducted before the available surplus is arrived at. The first item of prior charge is the amount of depreciation, namely, Rs. 19,101. This amount is to be deducted. The next item is taxation. The amount of Notional Income Tax must be deducted as a prior charge. In order to calculate the amount of Notional Income Tax, we must deduct from the gross profit the following items in the following maner:

		Rs.
Gross Profit	...	2,04,614
Less: Depreciation	...	19,101
Development Rebate Reserve ...	...	11,924
		1,73,589

50 per cent of the above sum would be the Notional amount of income tax. The figure is Rs. 86,795. The Company, however, provided for income tax to the extent of Rs. 75,300 but that provision of income tax actually made has no relation to the working out of a Full Bench Formula in which the Company is entitled to deduct Notional Income Tax on its earnings as prior charge, and accordingly, I have deducted Rs. 86,795 towards income tax as prior charge.

The next item of prior charge is return on paid-up capital. According to the Full Bench Formula as clarified by the Supreme Court in A.C.C. case, the amount of return should be 6 per cent on subscribed capital. The learned Advocate appearing for the Company claims that this rule should not be applied to Private Limited Companies, in view of certain provisions of Income Tax Act. The learned Advocate refers me to sections 104, 108 and 109 of the Income Tax Act. It is urged on the side of the Company that under section 109 of the Income Tax Act, 60 per cent of distributable income of the Company shall be payable to shareholders. It is said to be a statutory obligation, non-compliance of which is attended with a penalty. This is evidence of the Company's witness Mr. Abraham who is a Director of the Company and Shri A. S. Guha, the Secretary of the Company. The Company proposed to pay 44 per cent. as dividend on subscribed capital.. This appears from the balance sheet at page 7. The total amount of proposed dividend is accordingly Rs. 52,800. On the side of the Company, the above amount is sought to be deducted as prior charge. The figure which is worked out at 6 per cent. on subscribed capital is, however, Rs. 7,200. Even if the Income Tax Act provides that 60 per cent. of distributable income shall be paid to the shareholders, the question remains as to what should be the amount of distributable income. The figure of distributable income can only be arrived at after deducting the amount of bonus which is payable to the workmen. Such payment of bonus is an allowable expenditure under Income Tax Act on the part of the Company and the distributable income can be arrived at after deducting the amount of bonus so payable. It would be wrong to calculate the figure of distributable income without deducting the amount of bonus which the workmen would be entitled. The payment of proposed dividend at 44 per cent. cannot be held to be a prior charge by calculating it from the earnings of the Company before deducting the bonus. 60 per cent of the distributable income may be even less than 6 per cent on subscribed captial if the amount of distributable income is calculated after payment of bonus. Company's distributable income cannot be arrived at without calculating the amoung of bonus which would be payable to the workmen. The decision on the part of the management to the proposed dividend at 44 per cent by deducting only one month's bonus cannot, therefore, be accepted as authorised by law. The payment of bonus cannot be adversely affected by such an action of the management in declaring dividend at 44 per cent. There may not be any violation of the statute by payment of 6 per cent as dividend if 60 per cent of distributable income comes to the said figure. For the purpose of bonus formula, 6 per cent on subscribed capital is the rigid rule and this is not flexible and this method of calculation cannot be said to be in violation of the provisions of Income Tax Act.

In the A.C.C. case, reported in 1959 (I) L.L.J., page 644 and at page 666, the question of return on paid-up capital was considered. I accordingly accept that 6 per cent on paid-up capital should be allowed as prior charge and the amount works out at Rs. 7,200.

The next question is whether the Company is entitled to any return on the working capital. The Company must show that it had reserve which was used as working capital during the year 1961. If the concern utilises liquid funds available in its hands for the purpose of meeting its working expenses, it is entitled to claim some reasonable return on the funds thus used. The Company must prove that such liquid funds were, in fact, available and that it has actually been used as working capital during the bonus year. Let me first of all turn to the balance sheet.

The Company had no reserve before 1961 and it created a reserve fund for the first time in the balance sheet of 1961. From the balance sheet at page 1, the Company urges that in the beginning of 1961, the Company had 29,000 and odd in liquid fund which was utilised during the year as working capital. The Company must prove that this amount was utilised as working capital during 1961. The balance sheet by itself would be no proof of that fact. There is no other evidence on which I can rely in coming to the conclusion that the liquid cash available to the company was utilised as working capital. On the contrary, the Schedule B of the balance sheet at page 11, shows that at the end of 1961, the Company had cash and bank balance of Rs. 1,42,000. If that is so, how can it be said that the amount of Rs. 29,000 and odd had been, in fact, utilised as working capital instead of being kept in the bank. Utilisation of funds available to the Company as working capital during 1961 has not been proved by cogent and convincing evidence. That being so, the Company is not entitled to any return on any such sum as working capital. The available surplus is accordingly calculated in the following manner:

		Rs.
Gros Profit ...	...	2,04,614
Prior charges to be deducted from Gross Profit:
(1) Depreciation	...	19,101
(2) Return on paid-up capital at 6 per cent	...	7,200
(3) Notional Income Tax	...	86,795
Surplus	...	91,518

No rehabilitation charge is claimed by the Company.

Now as to the above calculation the Company makes three-fold objections and claims that from the gross profit should be deducted the following figures:

The amount of over-riding commission shown at page 4 of the balance sheet as Rs. 55,930 should not be taken as profit of the trading year in view of the fact that it is extraneous income earned by the Company without the aid of labour and the workmen had no contribution towards the earning of that profit. There are two other items, namely, dividend earned by the Company from its shares with Ashok Leyland and Usha Martin. That figure is Rs. 177. Lastly, it is contended that the advance from customers as shown at page 1 of the balance sheet should get some return, say at 3 per cent. The amount of such advance at the beginning of the year was Rs. 4,20,786. These are three-fold deductions which are claimed by the Company from the gross profits on the basis that they embody profits earned without the effort of labour in the year 1961.

First of all, I will take the case of over-riding commission which is the most controvertial point. In this respect, an agreement (Ext. 2) is to be looked into. This is an agreement between Ashok Leyland and the present Company. There are several clauses. The Company became the main dealer of Ashok Leyland for West Bengal and Bihar. In clause 2, sub-clause (b), it was provided that Ashok would have the right to make direct sales of its products to any purchaser within the territory without having any obligation to pay the main dealer any commission upon such sales. It was provided, however, that Ashok might in its sole discretion pay to the main dealer such commission in respect of the products so sold as Ashok might decide. In sub-clause (c) the effect of direct sale on main dealer's quotas was provided. The direct sale will not be considered as part of the agreed yearly quota of products representing the main dealer's minimum sales as provided in clause 5. The schedule to the agreement will show the quota of sale by the Company. The over riding commission was earned as commission for direct sale of vehicles by Ashok Leyland. The credit notes (Ext. C series) are filed to show how this commission was earned by the Company. Now the question is whether this amount of commission earned by the Company was extraneous income of the Company. I would first of all refer to the A.C.C. case at page 662. The following observation of the Supreme Court may be quoted in this connexion:

> "It would likewise be open to the parties to claim the exclusion of items either on the credit or on the debit side on the ground that the impunged items are wholly extraneous and entirely unrelated to the trading profits of the year. In considering such a plea the tribunal must resist the temptation of dissecting the balancesheet too minutely or of attempting to reconstruct it in any manner. It is only in glaring cases where the impugned item may be patently and obviously extraneous that a plea for its exclusion should be encertained. Where the employer makes profits in the course of carrying on his trade or business, it would be unreasonable to inquire whether each one of the items of the said profit is related to the contribution made by labour. In such matters the tribunal must take an overall, practical and common sense view."

This point has been further clarified in the Tata Oil Mills case reported in 1959(II), L.L.J., page 250. I would refer to page 253 and a portion of the Supreme Court decision may be quoted in this connexion:

> "It is only when profits are made that profit bonus can be awarded, subject to the further conditions, namely:
> (1) wages fall short of the living standard, and
> (2) the industry makes large profits part of which are due to the contribution which the workmen make in production.
> It is this last condition which seems to have been relied upon by industrial tribunals in holding that there must be direct connexion between the efforts of labour and the profits, and unless that direct connexion is established the profits must be treated as unrelated to the efforts of labour and thus become extraneous income. There is no doubt that there must be contribution of the workmen in earning profits before they are entitled to profit bonus; but it was not laid down in the Muir Mills case [1955-I L.L.J., 1] (supra) that direct connexion between the efforts of the workmen and the particular item of profit earned must be established before the profit can be taken into account for the purposes of arriving at the available surplus. An industrial concern carries on a certain business. In carrying on that business it employs capital as well as labour, and generally speaking, the profits earned in the normal course of business at the end of year are the result of the joint effort of capital and labour. Even so, it may be recognized that there may be instances of extraneous income for the purpose of the Full Bench Formula due-

(i) either to some part of the profits not having been earned in that year, or

(ii) to some part of profits arising out of fortuitous circumstances altogether unconnected with the efforts of labour."

The Company as main dealer earned regular commission from Ashok Leyland and the amount of such commission is a very considerable sum. The income is earned during the year 1962 in the normal course of business, of the concern. I cannot call it extraneous merely on the ground that no direct connection between the efforts of labour and the accrual of the income has been established. This amount earned a commission as a single item swells the figure of profit to a very considerable extent. It is not extraneous income of the Company, as it is earned in normal course of business of the Company. In my considered opinion, the commission earned by the Company in 1961 was earned in regular normal course of business and it does not arise out of fortuitous circumstances altogether unconnected with the efforts of labour. This amount cannot, therefore, be deducted as urged on the side of the Company. With regard to the dividend of Rs. 177, it is a minor sum and it is a dividend earned out of investment appearing at page 2. The investments were made in Usha Martin and Ashok Leyland. There is no evidence as to the sources of money out of which these investments were made. I am unable to hold that the dividend earned by the Company in normal course of business out of investment should be called an extraneous income.

Lastly, I would come to the Company's case of advance from customers. The evidence is that customers make advances by way of deposit with the Company for supply of Leyland vehicles. Such advances are adjusted towards the prices. The amount of advance coming into the hands of the Company is utilised in the trading of the Company and is included in the figure of current assets and liabilities. This is not Company's money on which interests can be claimed. It is not a reserve money of the Company utilised as working capital so as to merit a return thereon. In my opinion, the advances paid by customers cannot get a return of 3 per cent. as claimed by the company.

On the side of the Company, another point is taken, namely, that the amount of Development Rebate Reserve should be deducted as prior charge. There is such a reserve as Development Rebate Reserve at page 7 of the balance sheet. The question is whether it should be deducted as prior charge. On the side of the Union this claim is resisted and a case reported in 1962 (I) L.L.J., page 223 is cited before me. My attention is drawn to pages 231 and 232. A similar argument was made before the Supreme Court. It was urged before the Hon'ble Supreme Court that the statutory provision prohibited the employer from distributing the development rebate amount allowed to him by way of profit. The Supreme Court has observed that there is no substance in this argument. The statute prohibits the distribution of amount in question by way of dividends to the shareholders or profits to the partners. It was further observed that the amount of bonus paid by the employer to its employees is allowed to be treated as admissible expenses under section 10(2)(x) of the Income Tax Act. It is clear that the Development Rebate allowed is in part recognition of the claim for depreciation and the provision in question cannot, therefore, be treated as constituting a bar to taking the said amount into consideration in ascertaining the available surplus in hands of the employer during the year in question. The argument which was urged before the Supreme Court in respect of the Development Rebate was not upheld. The contentions thus advanced on the side of the Company having failed, I come to the amount of available surplus as Rs. 91,518.

The A.C.C. case has laid down the principles of distribution of available surplus. Three parties would be entitled to claim shares therein, i.e., (i) labour's claim for bonus, (ii) industry's claim for the purpose of expansion and other needs and (iii) shareholders' claim for additional return on the capital invested by them. In the matter of distribution of available surplus money, among the aforesaid parties there is hardly any rigid rule. In this connexion, Hon'ble Supreme Court observed in A.C.C. case, that there cannot be any general rule as to the ratio or proportion in which the available surplus would be distributed. It would depend upon various facts, like the extent of available surplus, existing wages of the workmen, the extent of gap between the exitsing wages and the living wages and whether there exists any gratuity fund and whether the industry has entered upon the immediate programme of expansion and the extent of dividend actually paid to the employer. In the present case, the wage chart of the Company's workmen shows that they are paid wages which are far below the living wages and there is no evidence that there is any gratuity fund or that the industry has entered upon any programme of expansion. The Company earns huge amount of profit yearly as main dealer of Ashok Leyland without much efforts on their part towards earning of that profit. There are only three share-holders and out of them one is the Director and another Managing Director. Between them, they enjoy about 44 thousand rupees as their annual remuneration. As whole time workers they claim the aforesaid sum as remuneration. There is only one share-holder left.

Considering all these circumstances, I am of opinion that the workers are entitled to three months' wages as bonus. The amount of wages according to the calculation of the Company is Rs. 21,874. It is to be multiplied by three times to come to the figure of three months' bonus. The amount is Rs. 65,622. The Company submits that this figure includes the pay of some officers, Managers and persons drawing salary above Rs. 500. The total amount of such pay of officers would be about Rs. 4,000 per year. So, out of the above figure, Rs. 4,000 are to be deducted The workers' wages for three months would be Rs. 60,000 roughly. By paying this amount as bonus to the workers, the total earnings of the Company would be reduced to that extent so that there would be income tax rebate of 50 per cent of the sum. It is Rs. 30,000 roughly. The residuary profits in the hands of the Company would accordingly be Rs. 60,000. The Company claims to open a reserve of Rs. 29,000. This claim of the Company can be satisfied from the residuary profits even after payment of three months' bonus to the workmen.

The Company has already paid one month's wages as bonus to the workmen. The Company will now pay further two months' wages as bonus to the workmen in full satisfaction of the Union's claim for bonus. This is my award which is to be implemented within thirty days of the publication of the award in the Calcutta Gazette.

ANNEXURE

In the matter of complaints under section 33A Industrial Disputes Act by Shri Nirmal Se Gupta of 16|2K Beleghata Main Road, Calcutta 10, against Messrs. British Electrical and Pump Private Limited of 17 Taratala Road, Calcutta Head Office at 1-1B, Mission Row, Calcutta-1 (Case Nos. 139 and 169 of 1963, under sectio 33A.)

BEFORE THE SEVENTH INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL

Present:

Shri S. K. Ray, Judge, Seventh Industrial Tribunal.

For the applicant workman: The applicant workman, Shri Nirmal Sen Gupta, himself.

For the employer Company: Shri N. Das Gupta, Advocate.

AWARD

These two proceedings arise out of two applications by the same employee, Shri Nirmal Sen Gupta, against his employer, British Electrical and Pumps Private Limited, under section 33A, Industrial Disputes Act, and both are directed against termination of his service under the Company by a letter, dated 3rd August 1963, when the adjudication proceedings of another dispute between the Company and its workmen, referred to this Tribunal by Government Order No. 3537-I.R., dated 6th August 1962 were pending.

In both these applications, the applicant employee has challenged his termination of service by the letter, dated 3rd August 1963 as a wrongful and illegal punishment inflicted upon him without any proper reason and in violation of the relevant provisions of section 33, Industrial Disputes Act.

He has claimed the reliefs of withdrawal of the Company's letter of termination of his service and allowing him to resume his normal duties under the Company by way of reinstatement to his service under the Company, payment of his monthly salary by the Company for the period between the termination of his service and reinstatement, and also payment of bonus and other benefits to him. In fact, the prayer for payment of bonus has been made in the second application and the second application is nothing but a repetition of the first application with the added prayer for payment of bonus.

Both these applications are contested by the Company, Opposite Party. It has filed a written statement in reply to the employee's application in each case.

Both the cases have been heard analogously, as they are practically identical and this order will govern them both.

The relevant facts of the case and the respective contentions of the parties on disputed points will appear from the following discussions.

It is an admitted position that this employee was appointed under the Company as a probationer for six months on a monthly basic pay of Rs 400 and a monthly D.A. of Rs. 100 by a letter, dated 14th December 1962, on the terms and conditions appearing on the reverse of the letter. Ext. A is an admitted copy of that letter. It contains an endorsement by the employee to the effect that he had read and fully understood the terms and conditions of the letter and had accepted and agreed to be bound by the same. Among the conditions of his appointment given on the reverse of the letter, we are mainly concerned with the condition No. 5, which runs as follows:

"At the end of the probationary period of six months, if his services are to be retained, he will be eligible for confirmation in employment in a Permanent Post. This responsibility for obtaining confirmation rests with him and he cannot be considered as confirmed in his post until such confirmation in writing has been obtained from the Company. Only after issue of such confirmation in writing will he be considered as employed in accordance with the conditions attaching to 'Permanent Posts'."

His probationary service commenced from 17th December 1962. After the probationary period of six months referred to in the letter of appointment, there, was no order by the Company, either confirming him or extending his period of probation, or terminating his probationary service. According to the evidence of the employee, he joined service on 17th December 1962. The employee continued to work even after the expiry of six months from the date of his joining service. On 3rd August 1963, however, the Company issued a letter to him terminating his probationary appointment with the Company with immediate effect and offering him one day's salary in lieu of notice as per terms of his probationary appointment. He was also required by this letter to collect his dues, if any, from the office. Ext. B is an admitted copy of this letter. He was, however, finally paid one month's additional wages in lieu of only one day's notice wages in terms of his probationary appointment. There was a letter, dated 27th September 1963 from this employee to the Director of the Company asking the latter to pay him one month's salary in lieu of notice pay for one day in consideration of his financial difficulties. Ext. C is a copy of that admitted letter. It is an admitted position that the employee was paid and he accepted one month's additional wages. But, he has put forward the case that he was compelled to write the letter, Ext. C, and to accept one month's ages on the insistence of the General Manager, who told him that unless he signed such a letter, he would not be paid even his due wages for actual working days. The main contention of the workman in respect of the termination of his service by the Company's letter, dated 3rd August 1963 is, however, that he attained the status of a permanent employee just after the expiry of the probationary period of six minths, in the absence of any order by the Company terminating his probationary appointment. He has also contended that that was the legal position, though the Company had not issued any formal order confirming him. He pleads that by allowing him to work beyond the fixed probationary period of six months, the Company automatically admitted him to be a permanent employee and as such, the Company had no right to terminate his services as a probationer by its letter, dated 3rd August 1963. He has further pleaded that this termination was mala fide and was nothing but a punishment inflicted upon him. He put forward these contentions in a letter, dated 3rd September 1963, addressed to the Director of the Company. Ext. 1 is a copy of that letter. Ext. 1(a) is the postal acknowledgment of that letter. He also wrote a letter protesting against his termination of service as a probationer by the Company's letter, dated 3rd August 1963 on that very day and a copy of this letter is Ext. 2. The Company's whole contention is that he was appointed as a probationer strictly on the terms and conditions of the letter of appointment, dated 14th December 1962 (Ext. A) and his probationary status continued even after the fixed period of six months in the absence of any action on the part of the Company confirming him as a permanent employee and the Company had every legal right to terminate his probationary appointment as a part of its internal administration and without assigning any reason whatsoever.

It cannot be gainsaid that this employee was appointed as a probationer initially for a period of six months on the terms and conditions of the letter, Ext. A. Condition No. 5 of this letter clearly indicated that he could not be considered as confirmed in this post unless such confirmation in writing had been obtained from the Company and only after issue of such confirmation in writing he would be considered as employed in a permanent post. According to this specific condition of his probationary appointment, this employee cannot claim that he automatically became permanent on the expiry of the initial probationary period of six months and the legal position according to this condition of appointment must be deemed to be that he continued to be in the category of a probationer after the expiry of the initial probationary period of six months notwithstanding that the Company did not issue any order either terminating his probationary appointment or confirming him in a permanent post, but allowed him to continue to work as before. So, the present contention of this employee that he automatically attained status of a permanent employee after the expiry of six months is directly negatived by the aforesaid condition of his probationary appointment. Apart from the aforesaid specific condition of his probationary appointment, the same legal position arose according to precise judicial decisions on this subject. In the case of Caltex (India) Ltd. versus Second Industrial Tribunal, West Bengal, and others [1962(5) F.L.R., page 275], the decision of the Calcutta High Court in a similar case where the concerned workman had been employed on probation for a period of six months was as follows:

> "Moreover, a probationer does not automatically attain permanent status on the expiry of his period of probationership. If he is neither discharged nor confirmed, he continues to serve as a probationer until otherwise dealth with. Therefore, in the absence of anythin contained in the contract to the contrary, nothing prevented the petitioner Company from conferring on the respondent No. 3 another limited period of probationership."

Similar was the decision of the Supreme Court in the case of Express Newspapers, Limited, versus Labour Court, Madras, and another [LLJ 1964(I), page 9]. The Supreme Court held in this case that if no action was taken by the employer either by way of confirmation or by way of termination, the employee continued to be in service as a probationer. In the case of Caltex (India) Ltd., it was also held that the question whether a probationer had worked satisfactorily rested with the employer and could not be objectively tested and consequently the employer was not bound to give reasons for not confirming the probationer and a probationer had no right to be confirmed and could be discharged without giving any reason. So, in view of the legal position arising out of the specific condition No. 5 governing the probationary appointment of this workman and also out of the general principles governing the appointment of a probationer as laid down in the cases cited above, it cannot but be held that in the present case, this employee did not automatically attain the status of a permanent workman on the expiry of the initial probationary period of six months, referred to in his letter of appointment but he continued to work as a probationer for an extended period and the Company had the legal right to terminate his service as a probationer for its own reasons and without assigning any reason whatsoever. In this connection, I should refer to a case cited by the workman. It is a case of the Mysore High Court. In this case, the employee concerned had been appointed in a substantive permanent post on probation for one year and after the expiry of the probationary period of one year, he was informed that the probationary period was extended for a further period of six months pending decision as to his suitability for the post, but by a subsequent order, he was discharged from service on the ground of unsuitability. These orders were passed under the Mysore Government Servants (Probation) Rules, 1957, even though they had been repealed and substituted by the Mysore Civil Service Rules, 1958. In this case, it was held by the High Court that though the appointment to a permanent service on probation could be terminated at any time during the period of probation, after the expiry of the period of one year, the probationer did not continue as a probationer but became a permanent servant and therefore was entitled to all the protection guaranteed by the Constitution and orders extending the period of probation and discharging the probationer were illegal. This decision was made strictly under the provisions of Mysore Civil Service Rules, 1958, and it was observed in this case that there was no provision of the Mysore Civil Service Rules which form the conditions of service of the probationer, empowering the Government to extend the period of probation; nor did the order of appointment by virtue of which the petitioner held his office, enabled the Government to extend the period of probation. So, the appointment in this case of the Mysore High Court was strictly governed by the Mysore Civil Service Rules, 1958. In the present case, the appointment of the applicant employee is not governed by any such definite service rules and it must be deemed to be governed by the strict terms of the contract of probationary appointment and the general principles of law governing probationary appointments in industrial establishments. I have already indicated above that the specific condition No. 5 in his letter of appointment strictly negatived the position that he was to attain permanent status just on the expiry of six months, and on the contrary, it clearly laid down that he could not be considered as confirmed in his post until such confirmation in writing had been obtained from the Company. Accordingly, I hold that by virtue of a specific condition of his probationary appointment under the letter, dated 14th December 1962 (Ext. A) and also under the general principles of law governing probationary appointments in industrial establishments as laid down in the cases referred to above, this employee continued to work as a probationer even after the expiry of the initial probationary period of six months and the Company had every legal right to terminate his probationary appointment without confirming him and without assigning any reason and it does not matter that the Company terminated his probationary appointment without assigning any reason. Upon the evidence also, I hold that there is no reason to suppose that the Company terminated his probationary appointment mala fide and by way of punishment. So, the whole basis of the applicant employee's case falls on the above decision. As regards the payment of additional one month's wages to him, it is an admitted position that he wrote the letter, Ext. C, asking for this concession and it was allowed. He has now come forward with the plea that this letter was obtained from him under duress by the Director. The employee has testified to that effect. No witness has been examined on behalf of the Company. Prima facie there is no reason why his letter, dated 2nd September 1963 asking for concession of one month's additional salary should not be deemed to be bona fide and genuine having regard to the fact that he was not an ordinary industrial worker but an educated technician, who was employed as a Foreman. Even if the employee's case based upon his oral testimony which is not denied by any competent witness on the Company's side, is accepted and it is held that the latter, Ext. C, was obtained under duress, it does not in any way affect the basic legal position that by the letter, dated 3rd August 1963, his probationary appointment had been legally terminated by the Company and the Company had every right to so terminate his appointment as a probationer. The point to be noted is that the termination of his probationary appointment by letter, dated 3rd August 1963 was not, in any way displaced or affected, even if the Company is held to have subsequently obtained the letter, Ext. C, by some inducement or duress for the purpose of paying him one month's additional salary. The termination of his probationary appointment legally stood on its own merits and could not be affected by any subsequent events. In the above view of relevant facts and circumstances discussed above, I hold that the Company legally terminated the probationary appointment of this workman by its letter, dated 3rd August 1963 and it was really a case of termination of appointment of a probationary employee and not termination of employment by way of punishment for any misconduct. The termination of his service could in no way be termed as an alteration in the conditions of his service. In view of these positions, the termination of appointment of this workman could not fall under section 33(2)(a) or (b), Industrial Disputes Act and as such, the employer Company was not required to comply with the requirements of the proviso to section 33(2)(b), Industrial Disputes Act. There was thus no contravention of any relevant provision of section 33 in regard to the termination of his appointment. In this view, the present applications under section 33A, Industrial Disputes Act become not maintainable in law. Apart from this position according to my decision on the merits of the termination of his service, the Company acted quite bona fide and within the ambit of its legal jurisdiction and according to a specific condition of his probationary service in terminating his probationary appointment according to its choice and this Tribunal has no reason to interfere with the Company's action in this respect.

In view of the decisions recorded above, I hold that the workman is not entitled to any relief against the termination of his probationary service by the Company and as such, both these applications must fail.

In the result, both these applications under section 33A, Industrial Disputes Act are dismissed on contest. I award accordingly.

No. 3510-I.R./IR/11L-413/63.—13th August 1964.—Whereas under the Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, order No. 4552-I.R./IR/11L-413/63, dated the 8th November 1963, the industrial dispute between Messrs. Dasgupta & Co. Private Ltd., 54/3 College Street, Calcutta-12, and their workmen represented by Paschim Banga Pustak Byabasayee Karmachari Samity, 9/7B Ramanath Majumdar Street, Calcutta-9, regarding the issue mentioned in the said order being matter specified in the third schedule to the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), was referred for adjudication to the second industrial Tribunal;

And whereas the said Second Industrial Tribunal has submitted to the State Government its award on the said industrial dispute;

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the provisions of section 17 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), the Governor is pleased hereby to publish the said award as shown in the annexure hereto.

ANNEXURE

In the matter of an industrial dispute between Messrs. Das Gupta & Co. Private Ltd., 54/3 College Street, Calcutta-12, and their workmen represented by Paschim Banga Pustak Byabasayee Karmachari Samity, 9/7B Ramanath Majumdar Street, Calcutta-9. (Case No. VIII-261/63.)

BEFORE THE SECOND INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL

Present:

Shri A. P. BHATTACHARYA, Judge, Second Industrial Tribunal.

Appearances:

For the Company: Shri B. K. Mukherjee, Advocate.

For the Union: Shri Dwijen Sen Gupta, Advocate, and Shri Anil Das Chowdhury, Advocate.

The Government of West Bengal by its Labour Department Order No. 4552-I.R./IR/11L-413/63, dated 8th November 1963, referred to this Tribunal an industrial dispute between Messrs. Das Gupta & Co. Private Ltd., 54/3 College Street, Calcutta-12 (hereinafter referred to as the Company), and their workmen represented by Paschim Banga Pustak Byabasayee Karmachari Samity, 9/7B Ramanath Majumdar Street, Calcutta-9 (hereinafter referred to as the Union), for adjudication under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act.

The issue referred to the Tribunal for adjudication in this case runs as follows:

Scales of pay and dearness allowance.

AWARD

The case of the Union in its written statement is that Messrs. Das Gupta & Co. is a book-selling and publishing concern which was established as a proprietory concern in 1886 and subsequently converted into a Private Ltd. Company in 1948. It is a family partnership business of Das Gupta family. Shri Rajat Kumar Roy Chowdhury and Shri Amulya Chandra Das Gupta are now the prominent partners of this Company, and they started another concern under the name and style "Indian Book Distributing Company" at 65 Mahatma Gandhi Road. This Distributing Company is run by Shri Balaram Das Gupta and Sailendra Nath Das Gupta, who are nephews of Shri Amulya Chandra Das Gupta, Managing Director of the present Company. The Company has diverted its income to the Distributing Company by manipulation. Das Gupta & Co. is purchasing books from that concern instead of making purchase from the publishers themselves and this they do at a lower commission.

Regarding Viswa Bharati publications, Das Gupta & Co. is the Managing Agent and gets 30 per cent. commission from Viswa Bharati. It sells books to that new concern "Indian Book Distributing Company" in lots and repurchases the same at a lesser commission. This is how the Das Gupta & Company is manipulating its accounts to reduce the profits. It is a stable and financially prosperous concern, but it has no scale of pay for its workmen, and dearness allowance that is paid is too inadequate. The Company is not even paying the minimum wages on need-based minimum calculation.

With regard to dearness allowance, the Union claims that the present price index is above 450 points in respect of working classes as compared to 1939 index taken as 100. The dearness allowance that is paid by the present Company is very low. So, scales should be fixed at 180 points and dearness allowance paid at the rate of ten annas per point of rise in the price index above 100 points, according to the decision of the Buckingham Carnatic case. Payment of dearness allowance by this Company is arbitrary. It publishes three books as named in paragraph 17 of the Union's written statement. It is also the biggest seller in foreign books and journals besides books published in India. A charter of demand was submitted to the Company sometime in 1962, but the Company did not consider the demands of the workmen. On the contrary, it withheld annual increments in consequence of the present reference. The Union claims the following scales as mentioned in the last column of Annexure to its written statement:

		Rs.
Accountant	...	200—15—380
Deputy Accountant
Cashier	...	125—10—275
Clerks	...	125—10—275
Salesman	...	120—10—270
Bearers	...	70—5—150

The Union claims dearness allowance according to the scheme of Bengal Chamber of Commerce or the recommendations of the Pay Commission or on the basic of the Buckingham Carnatic Mills case or the award of the Third Engineering Tribunal.

On the side of the Company, a written statement in reply is filed. It is denied that the Company is reducing its profits or diverting its income towards the Indian Book Distributing Company. The allegation of manipulation of accounts is denied. The Company contends that Indian Book Distributing Company is an independent concern. It is admitted that there is no scale of pay for the workmen of this Company, but it is contended that the book-selling concerns in the College Street Area do not have any scale of pay for their workmen. The rates of dearness allowance given by the Company are said to be fair and reasonable. A list of employees of the Company is given in Appendix A to its written statement. There are 33 clerks and salesmen, and 11 subordinate staff making a total of 44 employees in all.

Decision

The issue consists of two parts, namely, scale of pay and dearness allowance. I will take up the question of scale of pay first though the dearness allowance is also mixed up with it. Admittedly, the Company has no scale of pay. From the chart it will appear that the clerks are getting various salaries ranging from Rs. 66 to Rs. 300. The salesmen are getting pay ranging from Rs. 57 to Rs. 150. One of the clerks is getting Rs. 155 and another Rs. 135. They are said to be employed in the accounts. The bearers are getting pay ranging from Rs. 40 to Rs. 59. The rate of annual increment varies from Rs. 2 to Rs. 5, and dearness allowance varies from Rs. 20 to Rs. 30. This is the picture of the present pay-packet of the workmen of this Company. First of all I will consider whether any scale of pay should be introduced in this Company. The exact nature of business transacted by the present Company is not in controversy. They are publishers in respect of certain books, and as book-sellers command a large volume of sale of books published in India. They are also agents of Visva Bharati getting a commission at 20 per cent. They are also importers of foreign books and journals, which they sell from the stock. The present Company is therefore a book-selling concern with substantial work of publication. On behalf of the Company, Shri Amulya Chandra Das Gupta gave evidence. They Company has audited accounts and balance-sheets. But the balance-sheets and profit and loss accounts of the Company have not been filed and have been deliberately withheld as will appear from the evidence of Amulya Babu. He stated in his evidence that he had not produced the balance-sheets of the Company for the last four years. It was suggested to him that the balance-sheets would show a very favourable picture of the Company. The very fact that the Company withheld the balance-sheets and Amulya Babu does not plead financial incapacity to bear the burden of scale of pay claimed by the Union, would go to show that the Company is very prosperous and is making substantial profits. The stability of the Company is also not challenged. From the very nature of the business in which the Company is engaged, it will appear that it has an assured and stable future and a career of prosperity. There is therefore no reason to refuse the claim of the Union for introduction of scales of pay for the workmen of this Company in order to ensure security and prospect for the labourers who contribute towards the prosperity of the Company.

Now the question is what should be the scales of pay and how to categorise the various workmen engaged in the business. In fixing the wage scale, we shall have to fix the minimum wage and the maximum wage, and prescribe the manner of reaching the maximum. Coming to the question of minimum wage, Shri Sen Gupta on behalf of the Union suggests that the Company should pay the bare minimum to its workmen. His argument is in the following manner. Taking 1939 as the base of 100, the basic pay should be fixed at 180 points. The standard family should be taken as one having three consumption units and one wage earner. Reference is made in this connection to the Buckingham Carnatic Mills case reported in L.A.C. 1952, page 490, and Caltax case reported in L.A.C. 1952, page 402. The minimum requirement per head is calculated at Rs. 5-8, and for 3-consumption unit it would be Rs. 16-8. This is taken as the minimum requirement of food which constitutes 60 per cent. of family expenditure of working class, and to this 40 per cent. is added in respect of other expenditure; and the total amount comes to Rs. 27-8. This is taken as 100 point base of 1939. According to Shri Sen Gupta, the basic mininum wage should be fixed at 180 points, and on calculation it would be Rs. 48 approximately. This should be the minimum pay of working class. In respect of middle class workmen, 80 per cent. should be added, and the minimum wage on such calculation would come to Rs. 88. This is the argument advanced on the side of the Union in support of minimum wage. The Union claims some margin for fair wage, and this is how the minimum wage in respect of subordinate staff is claimed at Rs. 70 and at Rs. 125 in respect of clerks who belong to middle class families. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has laid down the principle of fixation of wage in the Express Newspapers case reported in 1961 I L.L.J., page 339. In that case, the concept of living wage was considered. There is distinction between bare subsistence or minimum wage and a statutory minimum wage. The former is a wage which should be sufficient to cover the bare physical needs of the worker and his family, and that is a rate which has got to be paid to the worker irrespective of the capacity of the industry to pay. If an industry is unable to pay to its workmen at least the bare minimum wage, it has no right to exist. I am not coming to the question of fair wage, but the minimum wage, as has been pointed out by the learned representative for the Union, should be Rs. 48 for the working class and Rs. 88 for the middle class. While the lower limit of the fair wage must obviously be the minimum wage, the upper limit is equally said to be what may broadly be called the capacity of the industry to pay. This will depend not only on the present economic position of the industry, but its future prospect as well. Between these two limits, the actual wage would depend on a consideration of the following factors:

1. Productivity of labour,
2. Prevailing rates of wages in the same or similar occupations in the same or neighbouring localities,
3. Level of national income and its distribution,
4. Place of the industry in the economy of the country.

This is taken from the report of the Committee on Fair Wages quoted in the Express Newspapers case at page 364 of the L.L.J. mentioned above. In the same reported judgment, it has been observed that whereas the bare minimum would have to be fixed irrespective of the capacity of the industry to pay, the minimum wage thus contemplated postulates the capacity of the industry to pay, and no fixation of wages which ignores this essential factor of the capacity of the industry to pay could ever be supported. This is at page 364. Then the Hon'ble Supreme Court turned to the measure of the capacity of the industry to pay. This capacity of the industry to pay should be gauged on an industry-cum-region basis, after taking a fair cross-section of that industry. This is the burden of that decision. This decision has been followed in other cases. There are several book-selling and publishing concerns in Calcutta in the College Street Area and also in other parts of the City. The scale of pay for the workmen of Das Gupta & Co. should be fixed on taking a fair cross-section of all such concerns in Calcutta region. This Company does not plead its incapacity to bear the burden of the pay structure claimed by the Union, and it intentionally withheld its balance sheet lest it should show that its condition is very prosperous. The mere fact that this particular unit of the industry (Das Gupta & Co.) can pay the wage scales claimed by the Union is not sufficient to accept the Union's claim in toto. The industry as a whole should be considered, as otherwise introduction of scale of pay in this particular Company would create disparity in wages in respect of similar other concerns with the resultant unrest in labour, and that is why a fair cross-section is considered necessary. Accordingly, I will turn to the comparable units of this industry in the Calcutta region in fixing the wage structure for this Company. The Union claims five categories, namely, accountant, cashier, clerks, salesmen and subordinate staff, i.e., bearers. I will now consider whether these categories are to be accepted in respect of the present Company. On the other hand, the Company divides its workmen into three categories, namely, clerks, salesmen and subordinate staff. Annexure to the Union's written statement mentions three book-selling and publishing concerns for the guidance of the Tribunal. The Company supplied a list of other concerns engaged in this particular business, and the names of such concerns can be found in Ext. B-series. Coming to the question of categorisation, I find from the Union list that in the case of Oxford University Press there are only three categories of workmen, and they are accountant, clerks and peons and bearers. In the case of Oxford Book & Stationery, there are accountant, cashier, clerks, salesmen and bearers, and this is also the case with Thackers Spink. The three business concerns cited by the Union are located in Lalbazar, Park Street and Esplanade in the city of Calcutta. The Company also filed a list of concerns located in College Street Area and Mahatma Gandhi Road. Das Gupta & Co. whose case is now before this Tribunal is located in the College Street Area. I do not think there is much difference between the College Street Area and other places mentioned in the Union's Annexure C. The region is the same and all are book-sellers and publishers whether it is College Street Area, or Lalbazar Area or Esplanade Area. In my opinion all are busy areas attracting a large number of purchasers. Of course, the balance sheets as demanded by the Union have not been filed. Since the present Company (Das Gupta & Co.) does not care to file its balance sheets, I may safely assume that the financial capacity of this Company will be at par with the Companies quoted in the Union's annexure. Now the Union's exhibits show only three main categories besides accountant and cashier, and they are clerks, sales clerks and subordinates. It is significant to note that the persons who are working as accountants in the instant Company do not possess any special qualification as accountants. They are only senior clerks, having acquired knowledge of keeping accounts by experience. Though the accountant does not possess any technical qualification, still the fact remains that the job of accounts is onerous and full of responsibilities. The work of an accountant cannot be put on par with the work of an ordinary clerk or salesman. The accountant should therefore be treated as a separate category. In fact, the Company pays a little higher salary to the accountant, and it is Rs. 155 in the case of Sudhir Chatterjee. It will however appear that one Sauren Das Gupta gets Rs. 175, though he is described as a clerk. In my opinion, the salary of the accountant, though he is recruited from the senior clerk, should be higher than the wages of the ordinary clerks and salesmen. There are accountants in Oxford University Press, and the salary is Rs. 400—750. In case of Oxford Book & Stationery it is Rs. 400, while Thackers Spink pays Rs. 275 to the accountant and grants very high annual increments. In the College Street Area there is no special grade for the accountant. But considering the sepcial and onerous work of the accountant and having regard to the pay scales of the accountants in Oxford University Press and other concerns, I introduce the following scale of pay. for the accountant in respect of the present Company. The Assistant Accountant, if any, will also fall under the same scale. The scale which I recommend for the accountant of this Company is Rs. 175—225 with annual increment of Rs. 10 or in other words, it is Rs. 175-10-225. This scale is quite in keeping with the present salary of a clerk which is Rs. 200. In fixing the grade of the accountant, I have taken into account the pay which is paid to the accountant in other units of the same industry, as well as the pay of clerks which I am going to introduce in this award.

Regarding cashier, I am not in favour of introducing any separate category for that post, and so no separate scale of pay is recommended for this post.

I am thus dividing the rest of the employees of the present Company into three categories, namely, clerks general, sales clerks or salesmen and subordinate staff. Now let us consider what should be the scale of pay for these three categories. The Union's Annexure C has been proved by P.W. 1 Shri Chandra Nath Majumdar, who is working in the Company (Das Gupta & Co.) since 1955. At page 2 of his evidence he has stated that he collected the figures of Annexure C and prepared the statement with the help of the Union Secretary which was correct. This evidence is not challenged either by way of cross-examination or by giving a denial by Shri Amulya Chandra Das Gupta, who was examined on the side of the Company. I must therefore accept the statement of Annexure C to the Union's written statement as correct. The Union also filed two other exhibits—one in respect of Indian Associated Publishing Company (Ext. 2) and another in respect of Rupa & Co. (Ext. 1). I will now compare all these scales. There was an industrial dispute over scales of pay and dearness allowance in respect of Oxford University Press, and the award made in that case has been filed before this Tribunal. Amulya Babu has stated in his evidence that Oxford University Press is principally a publishing concern. The work of publication, so far as Das Gupta & Company is concerned, is of limited nature. Annexure C to the Union's written statement shows the wage structure of Oxford University Press for clerks, and it is Rs. 80—300, for peons it is Rs. 55—90 and for packers it is Rs. 60—115. There is separate dearness allowance for the workmen of this Oxford University Press. Oxford Book & Stationery Co. pays Rs. 125 with dearness allowance to clerks and typists with annual increment of Rs. 20, Rs. 175 with dearness allowance to the salesmen with the same annual increment of Rs. 20 and Rs. 70 including dearness allowance to bearers with annual increment of Rs. 5. Thackers Spink & Co. pays Rs. 75 to clerks, Rs. 90 to salesmen and Rs. 35 to bearers excluding dearness allowance. The annual increment is 6½ per cent. of the basic pay in each case. Exhibit 1 shows that Rupa & Co. which is in the College Street Area pays Rs. 110 to clerks, Rs. 112 to assistant salesmen and Rs. 70 to bearers. There is no scale of pay for the employees of this Company. Exhibit 2 shows that Indian Associated Publishing Company pays wages to its employees according to different departments. There is division of work there. In this Company, the usual pay of clerks ranges from Rs. 80 to Rs. 175. This is exclusive of dearness allowance. This is the evidence on the side of the Union. The concerns cited on the side of the Company will show that the starting salary of clerks is Rs. 60, sales clerks Rs. 50 and subordinate staff Rs. 23 in the case of Indian Associated Publishing Concern (vide Ext. B). Other companies pay consolidated sum which includes dearness allowance. The pay scales mentioned in Exts. B-1 to B-4 on an analysis will show that the minimum basic pay including dearness allowance varies from Rs. 70 to Rs. 80 and the maximum varies from Rs. 100 to Rs. 185 in the case of clerks. In the case of sales clerks it varies from Rs. 50 to Rs. 75 on the minimum side, and Rs. 100 to Rs. 190 on the maximum side. With regard to subordinate staff, it varies from Rs. 35 to Rs. 50 in the minimum and Rs. 65 to Rs. 75 in the maximum including dearness allowance. Thus the minimum basic pay which may be collected from Ext. B-series excluding dearness allowance would be Rs. 60 in the case of clerks, Rs. 55 in the case of sales clerks and Rs. 30 to Rs. 40 in the case of subordinate staff. The maximum excluding dearness allowance would be Rs. 175 in the case of clerks, Rs. 160 in the case of sales clerks and Rs. 55 in the case of subordinate staff. These rates can be found in Ext. B-series. The Company wants me to compare those units, but their balance-sheets are not filed. On the side of the Union it is said that those concerns are inferior to the present Company (Das Gupta & Co.) and as such they cannot be compared with this Company.

Now I will proceed to the fixation of wages for the workmen of Das Gupta & Co., after taking a fair cross-section of the industry in the region. In fixation of wages, the established principle is that the total wage packet is to be considered. The pay structures of different companies exhibited both by the Company and the Union are to be considered closely while introducing a new scale for the workmen of Das Gupta & Co. First of all, I will take up the case of clerks. The total pay packet of clerks on the minimum side in Oxford University Press is Rs. 80+D.A. Rs. 44=Rs. 124. In Oxford Book & Stationery Company it is Rs. 125 inclusive of dearness allowance. In Thackers Spink it is Rs. 75+35=Rs. 110. On the side of the Union, relying upon Ext. B-series it is urged the minimum pay packet of clerks should be Rs. 85 broadly. Taking an overall estimate of the total pay packet, I am in favour of introducing a scale for clerks with a minimum of Rs. 74 (basic). This should be the basic salary excluding dearness allowance. Now with regard to the maximum, it is Rs. 300 in Oxford University Press. In respect of Oxford Book & Stationery Co. no maximum is shown, but the annual increment of Rs. 20 indicates that the maximum is high enough. This is also the case with regard to Thackers Spink. Das Gupta & Co. at present is paying the maximum of Rs. 155 to its clerks. The Company also pays Rs. 175 to another clerk under the existing pay position. I am ignoring the case of Shri Ranjan Das Gupta who draws a salary of Rs. 300 per month as a special case—he being the son of the Managing Director and also for doing a special job. The Company therefore at present pays basic salary of Rs. 175 in the maximum to one individual. Generally the pay is confined to Rs. 155. Now the maximum in Ext. B-series including dearness allowance is Rs. 190. Having taken the maximum of the industry as a whole, I am of opinion that maximum basic salary of the clerk should be Rs. 174. Now the question is how the maximum is to be reached. The annual increment in Union Exhibits is very high. There is no increment shown in the Company's exhibits. But considering the fact that the Company pays annual increment of Rs. 4 and Rs. 5, I adopt this principle in the following manner —Rs. 74 — 4 — 114. This should be reached in 10 years. There should be Efficiency Bar when the stage of Rs. 114 is reached. Thereafter increment should at Rs. 5 and the maximum of Rs. 174 would be reached in 12 years. Thus the scale of pay to be introduced for clerks would be Rs. 74 — 4 — 114 — E.B. — 5 — 174.

Now I come to the case of salesmen. They used to start under the existing arrangement at a lower pay. Their pay is lower than that of the clerks. Of course, the evidence is that the work of a clerk and a salesman is more or less interchangeable—particularly in this Company. So, there should not be much difference in the pay scale of the salesmen. I am in favour of introducing the same scale of pay for the salesman with the modification that the salesman should start at the minimum of Rs. 70, and the scale would be Rs. 70 — 4 — 114 — E.B. — 5 — 174.

Next I come to the case of bearers and peons. The bearers at present start at Rs. 40. They get dearness allowance of Rs. 20. The total per packet in the existing arrangement is Rs. 60. The total pay packet at its minimum in Oxford University Press is Rs. 55+33=Rs. 88. In Oxford Book & Stationery Company it is Rs. 70 including dearness allowance, and this is also the case in respect of Thackers Spink. Exhibit B-series will show that the total pay packet of subordinate staff is Rs. 55 to Rs. 60. The total pay packet of bearers should approximately be Rs. 70. Regarding scale of pay, they should start at Rs. 45 basic. Next I come to the question of maximum. The maximum in Oxford University Press is Rs. 115+50=165. The Oxford Book & Stationery Co. pays annual increment of Rs. 5 which indicates that the maximum is high up. The same is the case with Thackers Spink which pays 6¼ per cent. of the basic as dearness allowance. The maximum of subordinate staff in Ext. B-series appears to be Rs. 75. Considering the industry as a whole, I am in favour of putting the maximum of basic pay at Rs. 69. The next question is how the maximum is to be reached. The Company gives annual increment of Rs. 2 to bearers, and the same rate should be maintained in reaching the maximum. At this rate, in 12 years the maximum would be reached. The scale accordingly would be Rs. 45—2—69.

In fixing the above scales of basic pay, I have taken into consideration the total pay packet of the different Companies that have been exhibited in this case.

The next question is with effect from what date, the new scale should come into force. I should not give retrospective operation of the scales as it is against normal principle. The present reference was made in November 1963. The charter of demands was submitted earlier in 1962. I think, it would be fair and reasonable to give effect to the newly introduced scales with effect from 1st August 1964. In this Company, increment used to fall due in November each year, and this is the evidence on the side of the Company. After the new scale is introduced, the annual increment will fall due every year on 1st of August instead of 1st of November.

Coming to the question of adjustment, it is suggested on the side of the Union that the employees who are already in the employment of the Company, should get the same increment as recommended in the scale on the basis of past service. It is true that past services should be considered, and specially when the pay scale was low in this Company. So, the employees already in service of the Company should get some benefit of their past service. I am in favour of giving the following benefit. For every five years of completed past service to be calculated backwards from 1st August 1964, an employee of each category would be entitled to one increment to be added to his existing basic pay and the rate of increment will depend upon his salary, as it stands, on the day previous to the day on which the new scale of pay comes into force. The rate of increment will be at the rate as mentioned in the particular slab of the newly introduced scale. In the case of clerks and salesmen, it would be Rs. 4 drawing less than Rs. 114 basic on 31st July 1964 and Rs. 5 if drawing above Rs. 114 on that day, and thereafter they will be pulled up and fitted to the new scale. An employee who has not put in five years of completed service on 1st August 1964 would not get any benefit besides being pulled up and fitted to the new scale. For the purpose of further clarification, the following directions are given for fitting in the employees in the new scales fixed by me. All employees for whom a scale has been stated above shall be stepped up in the same stage next above which the present pay is drawn. A special increment in the scale for every five years of completed service should be given. Employees whose salary is less than the minimum prescribed will be pulled up to the minimum of the prescribed scale. If the existing salary of any employee is higher than the maximum prescribed, he will be subjected to no cut.

Coming to the question of dearness allowance, the Union claims Bengal Chamber of Commerce rate. The Bengal Chamber of Commerce rate is a high rate of dearness allowance, and it seeks to neutralise 90 per cent. rise of the cost of living index of employees drawing below Rs. 100 as basic. The Bengal Chamber of Commerce rate is nowhere applicable to book-selling and publishing concerns. That being so, there is no reason why I should accept that rate of dearness allowance in the present case. The Union's claim on this score is therefore rejected. Dearness allowance should be fixed along with pay scale by a comparative study of other units of the same industry and in the same region. I have considered the dearness allowance of book-publishing and book-selling concerns. In fixing the scale of pay, I have already considered the total pay packet, and the scale has been fixed with an eye to dearness allowance as well. The Company is paying dearness allowance of Rs. 20 to subordinate staff, Rs. 25 to employees drawing annual increment of Rs. 3 and Rs. 30 to those who are drawing annual increment of Rs. 5. I think, dearness allowance should be fixed at Rs. 30 for the subordinate staff, so that the total wage packet comes to Rs. 75 in the minimum which is the general total wage packet on the industry-cum-region basis. So, the subordinate staff should get dearness allowance of Rs. 30.

Regarding clerks and salesmen, they belong to middle-class family, and for them higher dearness allowance is claimed. But this argument is untenable in view of the observations of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Greaves Cotton case reported in 1964, L.L.J. I, page 342. It was observed in that case that the same rate of dearness allowance to the factory workmen and members of the clerical and subordinate staff employed in the same establishment should be given. Dearness allowance is accordingly fixed at Rs. 30 for all employees drawing basic salary less than Rs. 100. The employees drawing basic salary above Rs. 100 would be entitled to Rs. 40 as dearness allowance. With Rs. 30 as dearness allowance, the initial total wage packet would be Rs. 104 and in the case of sales clerks or salesmen it would be Rs. 100. It is significant to note that there should not be complete neutralisation of the rise in the cost of living, as such neutralisation would be disastrous on the economy of the country and has been studiously discouraged by the Supreme Court. I have fixed dearness allowance for subordinate staff at Rs. 30 and for employees drawing basic salary above Rs. 100 at Rs. 40. The scale of dearness allowance is fixed on the Labour Commissioner's consumer price index of the last calendar year, i.e., year ending on 31st December 1963. The cost of living index stood at 447 point, as will appear from the calculation sheet of the Company. It is necessary that a sliding scale of dearness allowance should be prescribed for rise and fall in the cost of living index taking 447 point as the base. It has been usually taken on the basis of the Central Pay Commission's report that dearness allowance will be liable to increase or decrease on the basis of Re. 1 for every five-point rise or fall in the cost of living index. The position will have to be reviewed at the end of each calendar year. In the circumstances, a sliding scale is attached to the dearness allowance in respect of Rs. 30 and Rs. 40 as the case may be. It is liable to increase or decrease on the basis of Re. 1 for every five-point rise or fall on the cost of living index from the base of 447 point, and it will take effect from 1st August every year. In this connection, I may refer to the case reported in 1963 L.L.J. I, page 108. The pay and dearness allowance which I have fixed in this case is related to the living index of 447 point, taking the point of 1939 as 100. The new rate of dearness allowance shall take effect from 1st August 1964.

This is my award which is to be implemented within 30 days of its publication.

LABOUR DEPARTMENT

ORDERS

No. 3499-I.R./IR/10L-149(A)/64.—13th August 1964.—Whereas under the Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, order No. 3537-I.R./IR/10L-97/62, dated the 6th August 1962 (hereinafter referred to as the said order), the industrial dispute between the employees of the Engineering Establishments mentioned in the list I of the said order and represented by themselves or by the organisations mentioned in list II of the said order on the one hand, and their workmen represented by the Trade Unions mentioned in the list III of the said order, on the other, regarding the issues mentioned in the said order, being matters specified in the Third Schedule to the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), was referred to the Seventh Industrial Tribunal for adjudication;

And whereas during the pendency of proceedings before the said Industrial Tribunal (1) Safi Rahman, (2) Sk. Faru, (3) Abdul Sattar and (4) Radha Prosad Burman, workmen of Messrs. Russa Garage & Electrical Works (P) Ltd., 3 Mangoe Lane, Calcutta-1, one of the Companies involved in the said disputes made complaints in writing to the said Industrial Tribunal against the said Company alleging that the said Company had dismissed the said workmen concerned in such dispute;

And whereas in exercise of the powers conferred by section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), the said Industrial Tribunal has adjudicated upon the said complaint and submitted its award to the State Government;

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the provisions of section 17 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), the Governor is pleased hereby to publish the said award as shown in the annexure hereto.

ANNEXURE

In the matter of application under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act filed by (1) Safi Rahman, Case No. 70, (2) Sheikh Faru, Case No. 71, (3) Abdul Sattar, Case No. 72 and (4) Radha Prosad Barman, Case No. 73 against their employers Messrs. Russa Garage & Electrical Works (P) Ltd., 3 Mangoe Lane, Calcutta-1, in connection with G.O. No. 3537-I.R./IR/10L-97/62, dated the 6th August 1962. (Case Nos. 70, 71, 72, 73 of 1963 under section 33A.)

BEFORE THE SEVENTH INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL

Present:

For the Company : Shri S. K. Sarkar, Advocate.

Award

These four cases arising out of four applications under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act, made by different workmen against the same employer Company Messrs. Russa Garage & Electrical Works (P.) Ltd., have been tried analogously on a joint prayer made by the parties on the ground that the cases are of the same nature and arise out of the same cause of action. I have gone through the applications and have found that the cases are of the same nature and almost same or similar facts have been alleged by the contending parties in each case. As the cases have been tried analogously this award will govern them all.

Though the allegations made in each of these applications are that the concerned workman was dismissed in contravention of the provisions of section 33(2)(b) of the Industrial Disputes Act, during the pendency of the adjudication proceedings of another dispute between the Company and its workmen referred to this Tribunal by Government Order No. 3537-I.R.|IR|10L-97|62, dated the 6th August 1962, none of them has appeared to prosecute his case. It is stated on behalf of the Company at the hearing that these four workmen have left the Company's service after taking payment of all their legal dues in full and final settlement of their claims and there is no dispute between the Company and any of these workmen. I find that the substantive case put forward in the Company's written statement in each of these cases is that the concerned workman voluntarily left the Company's service after taking payment of all his dues in full and final settlement and there was no dismissal of any of them by the Company.

At the hearing the Company has examined one witness. This witness has not been cross-examined on behalf of the concerned workman. No witness has been examined on behalf of any of the concerned workmen and no other evidence is produced on behalf of any of them.

The evidence of the Company's witness stands unchallenged and unrebutted. The evidence is to the effect that each of these concerned workmen has settled the dispute with the Company and has taken payment of all his dues in full and final settlement. The witness for the Company is its cashier. I see no reason why the unchallenged and unrebutted testimony of the Company's witness should not be accepted. Accordingly I accept this evidence and hold thereon that all these concerned workmen have settled their disputes with the Company and have taken payment of all their legal dues in full and final settlement of their claims and so there is no outstanding dispute between them and the Company requiring adjudication. Upon this finding, all these cases are to be disposed of on the footing that the disputes covered by the applications under section 33A are no longer in existence.

Accordingly I make a "no-dispute" award in each of these cases on the footing that the dispute covered by each application is no longer in existence and no adjudication of any such dispute is pressed.

S. K. ROY, Judge,

AWARD

The above dispute over the issue given in the order of reference and reproduced below was referred to this Tribunal by Government order No. 4837-I.R./IR/11L-436/63, dated the 30th November 1963.

Issue

Is the dismissal of Shri Ganga Prasad justified? To what relief, if any, is he entitled?

The relevant case put forward by the Union in its written statement is as follows: The concerned workman, Shri Ganga Prasad, was employed by this Company in its ice factory worksite on a permanent basis. He is a member of the concerned Union and took a leading part in organising the workmen and championing their cause against the highhandedness and unfair labour practices reported to by the Company in its dealings with the workmen. A charter of demands was placed before the Company by the workmen and several conciliation meetings were held in connection with this charter of demands in the office of the Assistant Labour Commissioner, Asansol, and in these meetings, Shri Ganga Prasad took part as one of the workmen's representatives. The Management adopted a discriminatory attitude in the matter of giving increments to workmen and for this, the workmen had to send a deputation to the Management to represent their case. A deputation of the workmen under the leadership of Shri Ganga Prasad met the Manager in his office, but without paying any heed to the representation of the workmen, the Manager abused them and drove them out of the office and threatened Ganga Prasad with dismissal. This took place on 22nd August 1963. On the very next day, 23rd August 1963, the Management issued a letter to Shri Ganga Prasad containing a false charge against him of attempting to assault Shri Sahani and also an order of summary dismissal without issuing any charge-sheet or making any enquiry regarding the charge. The workmen were very much aggrieved by this arbitrary, mala fide and high-handed action against Shri Ganga Prasad and at their instance, the Union took up the matter with the Assistant Labour Commissioner for reinstatement of Ganga Prasad. The conciliation proceedings ended in failure owing to stiff attitude of the Management and as a result this reference was made for adjudication on the dispute regarding the dismissal of Shri Ganga Prasad.

The Company has filed a written statement in reply to the Union's written statement. The relevant case put forward by the Company in its statement is briefly as follows: The concerned workman has got no representative character and so the dispute raised by it is not an industrial dispute and the Government order of reference is also not maintainable in law. The allegations made by the Union against the Company are absolutely false and baseless. The Company is always sympathetic towards its workmen and grants enough facilities to them. The Company never adopted any highhanded attitude or resorted to any unfair labour practice against the workmen. No workman has been victimised on account of his joining the Union and the Company is not aware who are the leading members of the Union. This workman, Shri Ganga Prasad, was previously warned for some misconduct committed by him and it was hoped that he would improve in future, but the hope proved futile. On 22nd August 1963 at about 5-30 p.m., this workman Ganga Prasad went so far as to abuse and physically assault the Company's Supervisor, Shir Sahani, at the ice factory on the plea that he had not been paid wages for the period of his absence due to sickness. The said Supervisor escaped physical assault due to intervention of other workers. This matter was enquired into on the same day in presence of the concerned workman and the complaint was found to be correct. After this, the Company decided to discharge him from service and accordingly dismissed him. This action of the Company was absolutely bona fide and justified. The workman was asked to collect all his dues in full settlement of his claims and he collected his dues accordingly. After the dismissal, he immediately took employment elsewhere and he is now continuing in his new employment. The workman is not, therefore, entitled to any relief against his dismissal by the Company.

I first take up the preliminary objection raised by the Company against the maintainability of the present reference on the ground that the Union which has raised the present dispute has no representative character and as such it is not competent to raise any industrial dispute on behalf of the workmen. In my view, there is no substance in this objection. No doubt, the concerned Union is not a Union exclusively of the workmen of the Company, but is a general Union of the contractors' employees. It is not disputed that this Company is carrying on business as a contractor. P.W. 1 Shri Damapada Mukherjee is the Vice-President of the concerned Union. He has testified that the workers of this Company are members of the Union and this concerned workman is a member of the Union since 1962. He has also testified that this Union had some agreements with the Company regarding certain disputes and as evidence of this fact, he has produced an agreement concluded between the Company and this Union representing its workmen regarding a dispute between the Company and its workmen. Exhibit 1 is that agreement. It was concluded in presence of the local Assistant Labour Commissioner. This agreement has not been denied or disputed by the Company. After having concluded such an agreement with the Union, the Company cannot now turn round and deny the representative character of the Union in relation to its workmen and dispute its competence to raise an industrial dispute on behalf of its workmen as in the present case. This agreement means an admission by the Company of the representative character of the Union in relation to its workmen. In view of this position, it does not matter that the Vice-President of the Union, who has deposed on behalf of the Union, has not produced any record to prove the number of workmen of this Company who are members of the Union. The Company would not certainly have entered into an agreement regarding an industrial dispute with the Union had it not commanded membership and allegience of a substantial number of its workmen. In this view of the matter, I hold that this concerned Union is quite legally competent to raise an industrial dispute regarding the dismissal of the concerned workman, Shri Ganga Prasad, and the dispute as raised by it is an industrial dispute and as such, the order of reference is quite legal and valid and this Tribunal is competent to adjudicate upon the dispute. The preliminary objection raised by the Company is, therefore, rejected.

I now come to the merits of the case. Upon the evidence produced by the parties at the hearing, it may be taken to be a common ground that this workman, Shri Ganga Prasad, was dismissed by the Company in connection with an occurrence which took place in the office of the Supervisor, Shri Sahani, between the Supervisor and this workman on 22nd August 1963 at about 5-30 p.m. and the occurrence arose out of the demand made by this workman to the Supervisor regarding payment of his sick leave wages. The concerned workman, Shri Ganga Prasad, in his evidence has practically admitted this position. He has said that on 22nd August 1963 after 5 p.m., he went to the Works Supervisor, Shri Sahani, to speak to him about his sick leave dues and some grievances of the workmen. There is, however, no other evidence to prove that he spoke to Shri Sahani about some grievances of the workman. So, I am unable to believe this part of his story, which is not admitted by Shri Sahani, who has only admitted that this workman went to him on tha date and at that time and spoke to him about his sick leave wages. His evidence stands as follows: "On 22nd August 1963 Ganga Prasad had a quarrel with me over his sick leave wages. He demanded sick leave wages from me. I told him that I had no authority in the matter and he should approach the office. * * * Ganga Prasad told me that he would not go to the office and he would realise the wages from me and also charged me for not having given him any written slip for his sick leave wages." On the evidence before me on this point which consists only of the testimonies of the concerned workman, Shri Ganga Prasad on the one side and Shri Sahani on the other side, I hold that on 22nd August 1963 some time after 5 p.m., Shri Ganga Prasad alone went to Shri Sahani in his office and demanded his sick leave dues from him and on Shri Sahani's stating that he had nothing to do with it, there was some altercation between him and the workman. As already indicated above, this is practically the common ground between the parties in regard to the occurrence. After this, come contrary versions about the subsequent conduct of the concerned workman. According to the Union's case, Shri Sahani asked the concerned workman, Shri Ganga Prasad, to go out and threatened him with dismissal. The evidence of the concerned workman in this respect stands thus: "When I spoke to him, Shri Sahani asked me to go out and threatened me with dismissal." The Company's case, on the other hand, is that after Shri Sahani said that he had nothing to do with the payment of sick leave wages, the concerned workman left but then when the Supervisor, Shri Sahani, came out of his office atfer finishing his work, Shri Ganga Prasad came up to him and tried to assault him with a lathi, but the assault could not materialise, as Shri Sahani caught hold of the lathi and after this Ganga Prasad picked up a big stone and hurled it at the Supervisor and thus again tried to assault him with stone. The Company's further case is that Shri Sahani reported the matter at once to Shri George Chatterjee, an officer of the Company, and Shri Chatterjee at once called the concerned workman and gave him a letter containing the complaint of Shri Sahani, but he reufsed to accept the letter and then Shri Chatterjee at once held an enquiry in presence of the workman and at the enquiry, he examined Shri Sahani and another witness, Shri Radha Kanta Haldar on behalf of the Company, and then asked the concerned workman to make his statement regarding the occurrence, but he declined to make any statement and thereafter he recorded the finding that Shri Ganga Prasad was guilty of the charge of attempting to assault Shri Sahani and forwarded it to the Field Officer and on the basis of his report, the Management dismissed the workman on the gronud of his gross misconduct in attempting to assault Shri Sahani. The Union's case is that no such enquiry was ever held in presence of the workman and the workman was never given any charge-sheet and he had no opportunity to reply to any charge-sheet and put forward his defence against it in a proper manner. I will here deal with the alleged domestic enquiry against this concerned workman. I may state at once that I am not satisfisd that there was any fair and proper domestic enquiry concerning the complaint against this workman made by Shri Sahani in presence of the workman and in accordance with the principles of natural justice after allowing him sufficient and suitable opportunity to reply to the charge and put forward his defence against the charge. Shri George Chatterji (O.P.W. 1), Shri Sahani (O.P.W. 2) and Shri Radha Kanta Haldar (O.P.W. 3) have testified to the alleged enquiry. Exhibit C is said to be the record of the alleged enquiry proceedings containing also the recorded finding of the enquiry officer. Exhibit C(1) is said to be the complaint made in writing by Shri Sahani against Shri Ganga Prasad, Ext. C(2) is said to be a written statement submitted by the witness, Shri Radha Kanta Haldar, to Shri Chatterji at the time of the enquiry and Ext. C(3) is said to be a letter containing the complaint against Shri Ganga Prasad, which was tendered to Shri Ganga Prasad at the time of the enquiry but was not accepted by him. This letter is said to have been the charge-sheet against Shri Ganga Prasad. Even beleiving the whole of the Company's evidence on this point, the position comes to this that an enquiry was held just on the receipt of the complaint of Shri Sahani without taking all possible steps to serve a charge-sheet upon Ganga Prasad and giving him suitable and sufficient opportuntiy to reply to the charge and defend himself against the charge after due preparation. If the letter containing the complaint against Ganga Prasad was really not accepted by him on being tendered by Shri Chatterji on 22nd August 1963 shortly after the occurrence, the fair and proper course would have been to send it to him by registered post, but this was not done. Shri George Chatterji at once proceeded to an enquiry even wtihout giving the concerned workman any opportunity to submit his reply to the charge contained in the letter, Ext. C(3), and also sufficient time to prepare for his defence. Shri Chatterji has himself clearly admitted in his own evidence that after receiving the complaint, he did not issue any charge-sheet to Shri Ganga Prasad but immediately held the enquiry. An enquiry held in such hot-haste just after an attempt to serve a letter containing the complaint against the concerned workman was not certainly in accordance with the principles of natural justice because the concerned workman was thereby denied reasonable time and opportunity to sumbit his reply to the charge and prepare for his defence. Moreover, according to the evidence, neither Shri Sahani nor Shri Radha Kanta Halder, who were the only two witnesses for the Company at the enquiry, were personally examined by Shri Chatterji at the time of the enquiry and Shri Chatterji only accepted the letter of complaint of Shri Sahani and the written statement of Shri Radha Kanta Haldar without giving any opportunity to the concerned workman to cross-examine these witnesses. The enquiry proceedings in Ext. C purport to show that Shri Sahani and Shri Radha Kanta Haldar were questioned by Shri Chatterji and they made some statements which accorded with the letter of complaint of Shri Sahani and the written statement of Shri Haldar. The alleged statements were not recorded. O.P.W. 2 Shri Sahani has stated in his evidence that Shri Chatterji did not put any question to him after reading his letter of complaint. His statement stands thus: "I handed over by written complaint to Shri Chatterji. He read it but did not put any further question to me." Both the witnesses Shri Sahani and Shri Radha Kanta Haldar have made some significant statements about examination of the concerned workman, Shri Ganga Prasad, by the enquiry officer Shri George Chatterji. Shri Sahani's evidence in this respect stands thus: "I cannot say whether Shri Chatterji after reading my letter asked Ganga Prasad whether he had done such and such things. I cannot say whether Shri Chatterji had any talk with Ganga Prasad at the time of enquiry." Shri Radha Kanta Haldar has made the categorical statement that "Shri Chatterji did not put any question to Ganga Prasad in my presence." So, it cannot be held upon the evidence produced by the Company that at the enquiry Shri Chatterji, the enquiry officer, even asked for any statement from the concerned workman, Ganga Prasad by way of explanation. Considering all the above facts and circumstances, I have no hasitation to hold that there was no fair and proper enquiry according to the principles of natural justice in regard to the complaint made against this workman by Shri Sahani and the alleged enquiry did not conform to the principels of natural justice and was not held after giving proepr and sufficient opportunity to the concerned workman to submit his reply to the complaint and also to prepare for and put forward his defence. There was also no proper charge-sheet against the workman. I, therefore, reject the alleged domestic enquiry and the finding of the equiry and necessarily, the dismissal of the workman in so far as it based upon the enquiry cannot be upheld.

In view of the aforesaid decision regarding the nature of the domestic enquiry leading to the dismissal of the concerned workman, the issue of his dismissal becomes open and at large before this Tribunal and this Tribunal has to decide independently upon the evidence produced before it whether the dismissal was justified.

I now come to an independent investigation into the merits of the dismissal upon the evidence produced before me. If the concerned workman was really guilty of attempting to assault his superior officer, the Supervisor Shri Sahani, it was certainly gross misconduct and his dismissal for such misconduct would certainly be justified. I have already indicated above that the common ground of the parties takes us to the fact that on the evening of 22nd August 1963 sometime after 5 p.m., this concerned workman went to Shri Sahani, the Supervisor, in his office and spoke to him about his demand for sick leave wages and Shri Sahani told him that he had nothing to do with the matter and asked him to go out. It is quite natural that there was some altercation between them. I may state here that in the written statement of the Union, the case put forward regarding the origin of the occurrence in the office of Shri Sahani on the evening of 22nd August 1963, does not tally with the case put forward in evidence through P.W. 2 Shri Ganga Prasad, the concerned workman himself. The case in the written statement is that on account of adoption of a discriminatory attitude in the matter of granting increments to workman by the Company, the workmen were agitated and so, a deputation of the workmen under the leadership of Shri Ganga Prasad met the Manager at his office but without paying any heed to the representation of the workmen, the Manager drove them out of his office, abused them and threatened Ganga Prasad with dismissal and this incident took place on 22nd August 1963 and on the very next day, Ganga Prasad was dismissed. There is no reference in the written statement to Ganga Prasad's demand for sick leave wages before Shri Sahani in his office. There is also no evidence that really Ganga Prasad led a deputation of workmen to the office of the Manager or Shri Sahani on 22nd August 1963 for representation of their grievances regarding discrimination in the matter of granting increments to the workmen. Ganga Prasad has not made any such statement and his clear statement is that he went to Shri Sahan alone. So, the case in the written statement of the Union is not at all correct. Nevertheless, we are to take note of the admitted fact that Ganga Prasad went to Sahani in his office on 22nd August 1963 and spoke to him about his demand for sick leave wages but Shri Sahani did not entertain the demand saying that he had nothing to do with it. Next, comes the vital part of the occurrence, in regard to which there are divergent stories from the Union and the Company. According to the Union, Shri Sahani drove him out of the office and threatened him with dismissal and according to the Company, Shri Sahani did nothing of the sort but simply told him to go away saying that he had nothing to do with the matter and thereafter when he was coming out of the office, Shri Ganga Prasad came up to him and at first tried to assault him with a lathi, but this attempt failed as Shri Sahani caught hold of the lathi and then Shri Ganga Prasad tried to hit him with a stone and this was seen by at least one witness, Shri Radha Kanta Haldar. O.P.W. 2 Shri Sahani has testified to the above story. O.P.W. 3 Shri Radha Kanta Haldar could not give the details of the occurrence in his examination-in-chief and he stated that he saw the incident which he could not remember and he submitted a written statement about the incident. Had his evidence ended there, it could have been said that he has not supported and corroborated the evidence of Shri Sahani regarding the attempted assault upon him by Shri Ganga Prasad and so, Shri Sahani's evidence stands exparte and uncorroborated. But while under cross-examination by the Union representative, he was again asked as to what occurrence he had seen and when he made the definite statement that he saw Shri Ganga Prasad trying to assault Sahani with a stone weighing about 25 seers. This clear and categorical statement was elicited in his cross-examination by the Union representative. There is no reason why this evidence should not be accepted and believed. It may be said to be natural and probable that he had a flash of memory on our cross-examined about the occurrence. So, it comes to this that there is concurrent evidence of two witnesses for the Company, O.P.W. 2 Shri Sahani and O.P.W. 3 Shri Radha Kanta Haldar that the concerned workman attempted to assault Shri Sahani with a stone. I see no reason why this concurrent evidence should not be accepted in preference of the solitary statement of P.W. 1 Shri Ganga Prasad, the concerned workman. The resultant position is that regarding the occurrence itself, the independent evidence at the hearing before this Tribunal consists of the bare testimony of the concerned workman on the side of the Union and the concurrent testimonies of O.P.W. 2 Shri Sahani and O.P.W. 3 Shri Radha Kanta Haldar on the side of the Company and this concurrent evidence is to the effect that the concerned workman, Shri Ganga Prasad attempted to assault Shri Sahani at least with a stone. Considering the admitted background of the occurrence as already indicated above, I accept the concurrent evidence of Shri Sahani and Shri Haldar and hold thereon that there was really an attempt at severe assault upon Shri Sahani, the Supervisor, by the concerned workman who was then working under him. The concerned workman was certainly guilty of gross misconduct in so attempting to assault a superior officer and such misconduct certainly merited the punishment of dismissal. It is to be noted that in the letter of dismissal issued on the very next day (Ext. 2), it was clearly stated that the reason for his dismissal was his attempt to assault Shri Sahani. I am unable to believe that the Company concocted the whole story of the attempted assault upon Shri Sahani simply for the purpose of dismissing this workman. No particular reason for the Comanpy's having any severe bias or animus against this workman so as to induce the Company to effect his dismissal mala fide and upon a false story of attempted assault upon his superior officer has been made out in the evidence produced on behalf of the Union. It has not been proved that he was a leading member of the Union or a forceful and aggresive spokesman on behalf of the workmen. On the other hand, we find that just a few months before this occurrence, in May 1963 he was once severely warned for having abused another officer of the Company. Exhibit B is a copy of the letter of warning containing the signature of the workman in token of receipt. It has been admitted by Ganga Prasad in his evidence. There was no protest against this warning and so it should be accepted as correct.

So, upon an independent investigation on the merits of the dismissal, I find that this workman was justifiably dismissed for a grave misconduct of attempting to assault a superior officer and the Company acted bona fide in so dismissing him and it was not a vindictive or mala fide action on the part of the Company. The dismissal shall, therefore, be upheld.

In the result, I find that the dismissal of the workman was justified and so, he is not entitled to any relief and I award accordingly.

For the Union: Shri Subodh Banerjee.

The Government of West Bengal by its Labour Department order No. 4433-I.R.|IR|10-L-223|63, dated 22nd October 1963, referred to this Tribunal an industrial dispute between Messrs. Das Zemmerman Private Ltd., Taratala Road, Calcutta-27 (hereinafter referred to as the Company), and their workmen represented by West Bengal Engineering Workers' Union, 48 Dharamtolla Street, Calcutta-13 hereinafter referred to as the Union), for adjudication under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act.

The issue framed in this case for adjudication runs as follows:

> Whether the refusal of employment of Shri Panchanan Koley is justified? To what relief, if any, is he entitled?

AWARD

The Union's case in its written statement is that Shri Panchanan Koley was an employee of the Company. He was appointed in 1960. The workers of this Company joined this Union in 1963. Shri Koley was one of the organisers of this Branch Union which was formed in July 1963. At first 75 workers of this Company became members of this Union and subsequently the number swelled up to 103. The total number of workers is 150. On 22nd July 1963 Shri Koley was accused by the junior partner of the Company, Shri Sunil Kumar Das, who is the younger brother of the Managing Director, of organising the Union. There was an altercation between Shri Koley and Shri Sunil Das, who is popularly known in the factory as Chuta Babu. Shri Koley apologised for his misconduct on that date, i.e., on 22nd July 1963. But subsequently on 24th July 1963 Shri Koley was dismissed summarily by the Managing Director without any chargesheet or enquiry. He was driven out of the office and subsequently on the next day he received a letter of dismissal by post. The Union contends that this dismissal is illegal and unjustified and is challenged as such.

The Company's written statement discloses the following facts. Shri Koley was found at fault on 22nd July 1963. He misbehaved towards his superior Shri Halder on that date. He was chargesheeted, but he apologised in writing. So, the proposed order of dismissal was not issued. Subsequently on 24th July 1963 he was found again at fault. Shri Halder called him to his office, which is close to the Managing Director's room. There Shri Koley again misbehaved with Shri Halder and abused. As a result, he was dismissed summarily then and there by the Managing Director. The letter of dismissal actually followed on the next day.

Decision

The letter of dismissal is Ext. D. It is dated 27th July 1963 and it runs thus—

> "In spite of his assurances on 22nd July 1963 that he would not misbehave with his superiors he has started misbehaving again instead of doing work and the Company would therefore be compelled to take effective steps to dismiss him with immediate effect."

This misbehaviour on 24th July 1963 is the ground of Shri Koley's dismissal. That is the charge against him. As a matter of fact there is no chargesheet issued against Shri Koley nor was any enquiry held into the matter giving Shri Koley opportunities of showing cause. The procedure followed by the management in dismissing Shri Koley is opposed to natural justice and so the action taken by the Management cannot stand unless the Company succeeds in proving the charge levelled against Shri Koley before this Tribunal. It is open to the management to prove the said charge by cogent and convicing evidence to be adduced before the Tribunal. This is the burden of decision reported in 1962 L.L.J. II, page 498. The charge as described in the letter of dimissal is misbehaviour towards his superior. All the particulars of the offence with which Shri Koley is charged are stated in clause (d) of the written statement, filed by the Company. Shri Koley misbehaved towards his superior officer on 22nd July 1963. He flared up and abused his superior officer. On that very date, Shri Koley was chargesheeted, but he apologised to the Director in writing for which he was allowed to continue in work. But in spite of the written apology he again misbehaved on 24th July 1963 towards his office superior and shouted at the top of his voice. On hearing the shouting, the Managing Director came out of his room and inquired why he was shouting. At this Shri Koley used unbecoming words to the Managing Director thumping the table and shouting at the top of his voice. The Union's case is that all this story of misbehaviour is false and Shri Koley was victimised—he being the organiser of this branch of the Union. Let us now consider the evidence. The onus is upon the Company to prove the charge. It should be borne in mind that misbehaviour on the part of Shri Koley on 24th July 1963 was the ground of his dismissal. I have already quoted the letter of dismissal which simply mentions the word "misbehaviour." It did not state what was the actual conduct of Shri Koley that was characterised as misbehaviour. On the side of the Union, certain observations of the Allahabad High Court are quoted from the decision reported in 1962, L.L.J. I, page 7. At page 12 it has been observed that the allegation of using disgraceful language was held to be too vague to form the basis of a faulty charge. The actual words attributed to the chargesheeted persons must be included in the charge to enable the Enquiring Officer to decide whether in the present circumstances, the use of the words amounted to incivility. The learned representative for the union wants to reply upon this observation in order to strengthen his argument that the charge is vague. In the instant case, there was no chargesheet, and the matter is going to be decided on merits on evidence adduced before the Tribunal. In the present case, the letter of dismissal should not be taken into consideration as an isolated document embodying the charge. As a matter of fact the charge is embodied in clause (d) of the written statement of the Company, which I have already referred to. If that charge is proved by cogent evidence, the Tribunal will have to decide whether it amounts to misconduct or not. I am now entering into the evidence. There was a previous incident on 22nd July 1963. The letter of apology (Ext. A) is produced by the management and it reads thus:

"আমার আচরণের জন্য আমি খুব দুঃখিত এবং ভবিষ্যতে এ ধরনের কোন অন্যায় আচরণ আমি আর করিব না।"

This letter of apology was admittedly signed by Shri Koley on 22nd July 1963. The evidence on the side of the Company is that Shri Koley was chargesheeted on 23rd July 1963, and Ext. B is a copy of that chargesheet. The chargesheet shows that Shri Koley was charged with misbehaviour, showing temper and using filthy language. Shri Koley wants to say that he did not receive that chargesheet. In any case, there was a chargesheet against Shri Koley on 22nd July 1963, otherwise the apology letter (Ext. A) cannot be explained. In Ext. A Shri Koley tendered apology for his misbehaviour and undertook not to misbehave again. But Shri Koley is very much reluctant to admit that he tendered the apology letter. He wanted to say that Chuta Babu—Shri Sunil Kumar Das accused him of his union activities, and on that he flared up and there was exchange of hot words between him and the Chuta Babu. If there was no misbehaviour on the part of Shri Koley, there was no reason why he should tender the letter of apology. The Union's General Secretary Shri Fatick Chandra Ghosh wanted to say that Shri Koley reported to him about his altercation with Chuta Babu. If the matter was simple, Shri Koley being the organiser of the Union would have been the last person to tender any such apology, nor the General Secertary of the Union would have advised him to tender apology in such circumstances. It is obvious that Shri Koley had trouble with his superior Shri Halder. He was charged for his misbehaviour with Shri Halder and was proposed to be severely dealt with. This attitude of the management compelled Shri Koley to calm down and tender apology in writing. This is the evidence of Shri Achyodananda Halder who is described in the chargesheet as superior to Shri Koley. Shri Halder stated that there is no other superior officer besides himself above Shri Koley. Shri Koley while giving evidence before this Tribunal was trying to conceal the fact that he was subordinate to Shri Halder, but he had to admit ultimately that he was to take orders from Shri Halder and that he had no authority to dictate orders to Shri Halder. It is obvious that Shri Halder is superior to Shri Koley and Shri Koley is bound to obey the orders of Shri Halder and that was known to Shri Koley very well. In the background of what happened on 22nd July 1963 we have now to consider the happenings of 24th July 1963. It will appear from the evidence of Shri Halder that Shri Koley was found absent at his place of work by Shri Halder. Shri Halder returned to his office and sent for Shri Koley. At this, Shri Koley took a revolting attitude and used filthy language shouting at Shri Halder. The Managing Director also came out and saw Koley abusing Shri Halder. Shri Koley also invited the Management to dismiss him and demanded his wages. He was thumping the table and was shouting. The evidence of Shri Halder is corroborated by the evidence of the Managing Director Shri Gauranga Sundar Das (O.P.W. 1). The chamber of Shri Das is close to the office of Shri Halder. Shri Das came out of his chamber on hearing the shouting of Shri Koley and saw him thumping the table and shouting at Shri Halder in front of his office. It is true that the actual words uttered by Shri Koley are not stated by the witnesses. But the very fact of shouting and thumping the table together with using filthy language cannot but be considered as a gross misconduct judged from any standard. Shouting and thumping the table in front of the Managing Director inside the office, to my mind, would amount to gross misconduct. Shri Koley wants to deny the incident altogether. It is not the case of Shri Koley that there was an incident, and that his act of shouting and thumping was caused by some provocation given by Shri Halder. Shri Halder stated that filthy words were used and he was abused. There was no cross-examination on the point as to what actually the words which Shri Koley uttered. I do not however consider the use of filthy language, as stated by Shri Halder, as constituting gross misconduct, because unless the words used are expressed before the Tribunal, it cannot be judged whether the use of such words amounted to abusing. I believe the evidence of Shri Halder and the Managing Director—particularly in the background of the happenings on 22nd July 1963 and the demeanour of Shri Koley in the witness box before the Tribunal. Shri Koley is not a truthful witness as he was even anxious to suppress the fact that he apologised for his misbehaviour on the previous day. Shri Koley was guilty of misconduct for which the Management was at liberty to dismiss him summarily. The learned representative of the Union wants to submit that as the termination of service of Shri Koley is unnecessarily harsh on the part of the employer, judged by normal standard of a reasonable man, the present action of the management may be a cogent evidence of victimisation and unfair labour practice. This is the observation of the Supreme Court at page 226 in a case reported in 1960 L.L.J. II, page 22 and is cited by the learned representative of the Union in support of his argument that the order of dismissal was unnecessarily harsh, and as such I should conclude that Shri Koley was victimised. It may be mentioned here that if Shri Koley is found guilty of misconduct, the management was certainly justified in dismissing him, and I am unable to agree that the punishment of dismissal was unnecessarily harsh. Misbehaviour repeated in the course of a couple of days would certainly justify the management to take the ultimate step of dismissal. I cannot say from that action of the management that Shri Koley was victimised. The mere fact that Shri Koley organised the branch of the Union in July 1963 does not lead to the conclusion that he was dismissed for his Union activities. On the above evidence, I hold that the management succeeds in proving on merits that Shri Koley was guilty of misconduct for his misbehaviour and was rightly dismissed. Accordingly I hold that the dismissal of Shri Koley is justified and he is entitled to no relief.

AWARD

The instant application under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, was originally filed before the Seventh Industrial Tribunal, West Bengal, in connection with Government order No. 2898-I.R., dated 4th July 1962, by which the main industrial dispute between Messrs. Victory Jute Mills and their workers was referred to that Tribunal. Subsequently, the application along with connected papers was transferred to this Court for disposal under section 33B(2) of the Industrial Disputes Act in terms of the Government letter No. 3451-I.R., dated 19th August 1963, read with Labour Department notification No. 1916-I.R., dated 13th May 1958. After the said transfer of the application the parties took adjournments for taking necessary steps and then the case became ripe for hearing and it was heard on contest.

The applicant's case may be stated briefly as follows. The applicant was a permanent workman under the Company serving for more than four continuous years but the Company refused to deduct the provident fund contribution and also refused to pay him or grant him other benefits of continuous service. The petitioner insisted for the said benefits but nothing was done in that behalf. Since 14th March 1963, the petitioner was denied work by the Company without assigning any reason whatsoever.

though he reported for duty everyday. Apprehending mala fide dismissal the applicant applied to the Manager of the Company on 26th March 1963 and requested the Company to allow him to resume his duties. Thereafter the Company served on him a chargesheet, dated 27th March 1963, alleging false and wild charges which he denied on 30th March 1963 by a written reply. Thereafter the petitioner was called upon to attend an enquiry on 5th April 1963, but no enquiry was held on the date as given in the notice. Later on the petitioner received a letter of dismissal alleging that proper enquiry had been held on the date already fixed and he had been found guilty of the charges. The petitioner duly protested against the said illegal order of dismissal which was in contravention of section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act. In fine, the applicant has stated that the dismissal has been an act of victimisation and as such he wants to be reinstated with full wages for the period of unemployment with other reliefs that may be allowed by the Court.

The Company in its written statement has contended inter alia that the applicant is not a concerned workman in the main dispute nor has he ever been a member of the Union in question, that the applicant not being a permanent employee the question of his getting provident fund benefits does not arise, that the applicant was properly chargesheeted for commission of gross misconduct as stated in the chargesheet and thereafter with notice to the applicant an enquiry was held in his presence and he was found guilty to the charges and accordingly dismissed from service, that there was no victimisation, nor any mala fide intention of the Company in dismissing the applicant and as such this application is liable to rejection.

The following points then arise for determination in this case:

(1) Whether the Company has changed the service condition, etc., of the workmen in violation of the provision of section 33, Industrial Disputes Act.

(2) Whether there was a proper domestic enquiry in respect of the chargesheet and whether there was a prima facie case for dismissal of the concerned workman.

Decision

I take up both the points together for the sake of convenience. At the very outset I must say that the question of maintainability of the application has not been pressed before me. However this court has got to see whether there has been any violation of the service condition, etc., of the concerned workman along with the Company's case of dismissal of the workman on the ground of the alleged misconduct. If there be no prima facie case for dismissal of the concerned workman naturally then it will come to this that there has been violation of the service condition, etc., of the concerned workman. So I must go into the merits and see for myself whether there has been a prima facie case for dismissal of the workman Shri Nilmoni Sardar. Exhibit 3 is a copy of the relevant chargesheet, dated 27th March 1963. It was issued by the Manager of the Company to the concerned workman who has admitted receipt of the original chargesheet. The allegation in the chargesheet is to this effect that the workman has shown in the tally book over-production for a considerable period and that through enquiry it was found that the record in the tally book betrayed the actual position. So the charge was framed for a major misconduct liable to disciplinary action under the Standing Orders of the Company. It has been further stated in the chargesheet that a preliminary enquiry disclosed the aforesaid allegation for which the Company had to proceed against the workman, and therefore the workman was called upon to explain his conduct. Exhibit 4 is a copy of the reply to the said chargesheet. The workman has denied the charges and alleged that simply to cover up the Company's illegal action a false story has been cooked up. Not being satisfied with the reply of the concerned workman the Company arranged for a domestic enquiry to be held with notice to the concerned workman. Exhibit G is the enquiry report embodying in itself the proceedings of the domestic enquiry held by Shri B. R. Pal Chowdhury, Assistant Labour Officer of the Company. It transpires from Ext. G that the Enquiry Officer examined Shri Kalipada Bose, in-charge, winding to finishing section and Shri Sib Chandra Sarkar, Office Master. It is stated by the Enquiry Officer in the proceeding that the concerned workman present at the enquiry did not cross examine the witnesses of the Company. Shri Nilmoni Sardar the concerned workman was examined by the Enquiry Officer who took down his statement. The workman did not produce any witness in support of his statement made before the Enquiry Officer. Shri Nilmoni Sardar deposed before me as P.W. 1 has stated in his examination-in-chief that there was an enquiry which cannot be called as such because it was not to his liking. So it seems to me that nothing can be said against the domestic enquiry as to its propriety. It seems that the workman did not sign the enquiry proceeding as it was not to his liking. That does not mean that the enquiry was an improper one. Shri Nilmoni Sardar has admitted before me that he was asked to sign the statement but he did not sign. Evidence does not disclose that the Enquiry Officer has done anything wrong. Shri Kalipada Bose O.P.W. 1 who is no longer in the Company's employment has proved Company's case as to enquiry, etc. No mala fide, no violation of the principle of natural justice is found there. Evidently, the production shown in the tally book is in excess of jute made over to the winding section for production and Shri Nilmoni Sardar is one of the tally clerks who used to make entry in the tally books as to production in that section. Exhibit F read with F(1) shows excess of production over jute issued to the winding section for production. Shri Nilmoni Sardar has himself admitted that production cannot be more than the jute issued. The winders are evidently piece-rated workers of the Company and their production as shown in the tally book being in excess of the jute issued the Company must have lost heavy sums of money due to excess production shown by the winders in the tally book. I have personally verified several items of Ext. F(1) relating to the month of enquiry and a few months perior to it with the issue books regarding the quantum of jute issued and the over-production shown therein. The statement showing quantum of jute issued and the quantum of jute produced in Exts. F and F(1) are deemed to be correct. Therefore, considering the evidence on the record I am satisfied that due to the gross misconduct on the part of the workman (tally clerk) the Company had to lose a huge amount of money because of the over-production shown by the tally clerk. This is dishonesty pure and simple and gross misconduct under the Standing Orders of the Company on the part of the tally clerk concerned. Apparently, enquiry started only when the matter of dishonesty came to light as stated by O.P.W. 1 Shri Bhupesh Ranjan Pal Chowdhury the Enquiry Officer who has spoken in support of his enquiry proceeding and the report in connection therewith. Admittedly, production cannot be more than the jute actually issued to the winding section. But the tally clerk did not hesitate to make entry of production in the tally book which was found to be in excess of the jute issued. Therefore, considering the facts and circumstances of the case I am convinced that there was a prima facie case for taking action against the workman concerned leading to his dismissal from service. Of course there was some correspondences by the workman with the Company for getting provident fund and other benefits but in view of the prima facie case being there it cannot be said with any amount of certainty that it is a case of victimisation for demands of provident fund benefits, etc., in violation of the provision of section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act.

Therefore, I answer both the above points in favour of the Company as above and reject the instant application under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act. In the result, the Company's order of dismissal of the workman Shri Nilmoni Sardar is upheld.

This is my award.

After the said transfer of the application the parties took adjournments for taking necessary steps and then the case became ripe for hearing and it was heard on contest.

The applicant's case may be stated briefly as follows:

The applicant was a permanent workman under the Company serving for about two continuous years but the Company refused to deduct the provident fund contribution and also refused to pay him or grant him other benefits of continuous service. The petitioner insisted for the said benefits but nothing was done in that behalf. From the Second half of 14th March 1963 the petitioner was denied work by the Company without assigning any reason whatsoever, though he reported for duty everyday. I take up both the points together for the sake of convenience as they are interconnected. At the very outset I must say that the question of maintainability of the application has not been pressed before me. However this court has got to see whether there has been any violation of the service condition, etc., of the concerned workman as alleged along with the Company's case of dismissal of the workman on the ground of the alleged misconduct. So I must go into the merits and see for myself whether there has been a prima facie case for dismissal of the workman Shri Paresh Chandra Malakar. Exhibit 1 is the relevant chargesheet, dated 27th March 1963. It was issued by the Manager of the Company. The allegation of the chargesheet is to this effect that the workman has shown in the tally book over-production for a considerable period and that on enquiry it was found that the record in the tally book betrayed the actual position. So the charge was framed for a major misconduct liable to disciplinary action under the Standing Orders of the Company. It is stated by the Enquiry Officer in the proceeding that the concerned workman present at the enquiry did not cross examine the witnesses of the Company. Shri Paresh Chandra Malakar the concerned workman was examined by the Enquiry Officer who took down his statement. The workman did not produce any witness in support of his statement made before the Enquiry Officer. Shri Paresh Malakar deposing before me as P.W. 1 has admitted in his cross examination that there was an enquiry which he attended though he has denied holding any enquiry in his instant application. He has said nothing against the domestic enquiry. Shri Kalipada Bose O.P.W. 1 who is no longer in the Company's employment has proved Company's case as to enquiry, etc. O.P.W. 2 B. R. Pal Chowdhury, Enquiry Officer has also stated in support of his enquiry being proper. Evidence does not disclose anything wrongly done by the Enquiry Officer. No violation of the principle of natural justice is found there. Evidently, the production shown in the tally book is in excess of jute made over to the winding section for production and Shri Paresh Malakar is one of the tally clerks who used to make entry in the tally books as to production in that section. Exhibit F read with F(1) shows excess of production over jute issued to the winding section for production. Shri Paresh Malakar has not challenged the excess production shown therein. The winders are evidently piece-rated workers of the Company and their production as shown in the tally book being in excess of the jute issued the Company must have lost heavy sums of money due to excess production shown by the winders in the tally book. I have personally verified several items of Ext. F(1) relating to the month of enquiry and a few proceeding

Production cannot be more than the jute actually issued to the winding section. But the tally clerk did not hesitate to make entry of production in the tally book which was found to be in excess of the jute issued. Therefore, considering the facts and circumstances of the case I am convinced that there was a prima facie case for taking action against the workman concerned leading to his dismissal from service. Of course, there was some correspondence by the workman with the Company for getting provident fund and other benefits but in view of the prima facie case of the workman's misconduct being there it cannot be said with any amount of certainty that it is a case of victimisation for demands of the provident fund benefit, etc., in violation of the provision of section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act.

Therefore, I answer both the above points in favour of the Company as above and reject the instant application under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act. In the result, the Company's order of dismissal of the workman Shri Paresh Chandra Malakar is upheld.

This is my award.

Award

This is a reference under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act between Messrs. Suren Glass Blowing Works, 137/15 Narikeldanga Main Road, Calcutta-11, and their workmen represented by Glass Blowers' Union, 14/2-C Nirode Behari Mullick Road, Calcutta-6, arising out of the Government of West Bengal, Labour Department order No. 149-I.R./IR/11L-497/63, dated 20th January 1964. The issue has been framed as follows:

Issue

Whether the termination of service of Shri Sambhunath Sen is justified? To what relief, if any, is he entitled?

In short the case of the workman is that Shri Sabhunath Sen is a worker of Messrs. Suren Glass Blowing Works (hereinafter referred to as the Company). One notice, dated 11th July 1963, was pasted on the notice board of the Company in the form of a letter addressed to Shri Sen asking him to show cause, within 24 hours, regarding an allegation that Shri Sen had abused Shri Govinda Ghosh, the Manager and constituted Attorney on behalf of the Factory, in filthy languages in the absence of Shri Ghosh without any reason whatsoever. Shri Sen submitted an explanation denying the allegations. On 12th July 1963 Shri Sen was asked to show cause within three days. Shri Sen submitted another explanation in reply to the said notice. Ultimately, by a letter, dated 16th July 1963, Shri Sen was dismissed from service. There was no intimation of any enquiry. No enquiry was in fact held. It has been alleged that the order of dismissal was illegal, arbitrary and mala fide.

The case of the Company according to its written statement is that Shri Sen, on receipt of the charges, dated 11th June 1963, did not submit any explanation within the time; neither did he give any reply to the charges after the Company's letter, dated 12th July 1963. Shri Sen did not supply his address to the Management and as such the Management had to hung up the letters on the notice board of the Company. On 11th July 1963 Shri Sen abused Shri Govinda Ghosh, the Manager and constituted Attorney, in filthy languages. The proprietress of the Company issued charges, dated 11th July 1963 and 12th July 1963, through notice board. Having received the belated explanation from Shri Sen, the Management issued another notice on 15th July 1963 for investigation of the charges, asking Shri Sen to remain present at the investigation with his witnesses and to answer the charges on 16th July 1963. An ex parte enquiry was held and Shri Sen did not attend the enquiry. As a result, Shri Sen was found guilty of the charges and he was dismissed by a letter, dated 16th July 1963. It has been alleged that the enquiry was bona fide and the order of dismissal was legal, fair and justified. Sufficient opportunity was given to Shri Sen for his defence.

The order-sheet will show that how this matter has been delayed unnecessarily by the employer causing harassment to the Union. On 5th August 1964, the case was taken up for ex parte hearing. Subsequently, an application for adjournment was filed. It was rejected on the ground that it was frivolous. However, the witness was cross-examined and on the prayer of the employer, today was fixed for further hearing. When the matter was taken up for hearing, today, another application for adjournment was filed. That has again been rejected on the ground that the plea taken in the application is unacceptable. The history of the case will show that the employer has been delaying the proceeding all through. Sufficient time had been given to the parties for filing documents. The Union filed several documents but the employer has not filed a single document relating to the case. However, ultimately the hearing has been concluded ex parte.

The Union has examined two witnesses. P W. 1 Shri Santi Majumdar is the Assistant Secretary of the Glass Blowers' Union. His evidence is that Shri Sambhunath Sen is a worker of the Company. He is also a member of his Union. The workers of the Company are all members of Glass Blowers' Union. The Union took up the cause of the workers of the Company and an attempt for conciliation was made before the Government. As the conciliation has failed, the present reference has been made. P.W. 2 is the employee who has been dismissed from service. His evidence is that he is a workman of the Company, and that he saw a letter, dated 11th July 1963, pasted on the notice board of the Company. The copy of that notice is marked Ext. 1. Exhibit 1 is the letter addressed to Shri Sen and the allegation in the letter is that Shri Sen had abused Shri Govinda Ghosh, the Manager of the Company, in filthy languages. Shri Sen was directed to give an undertaking in writing not to do any such thing in future and to explain why he had abused Shri Ghosh. The reply to this letter is Exhibit 2. This is dated 12th July 1963. In this letter Shri Sen has denied any such occurrence. The certificate of posting marked Ext. 2(a) shows that it was posted on 12th July 1963. P.W. 2 has stated that as the explanation was refused, when offered, it was sent through post. P.W. 2 has further stated that the Company held no domestic enquiry against him and there was no intimation about enquiry. P.W. 2 has stated further that on 12th July 1963 another notice was pasted on the notice board dismissing him from service. The copy of that letter is Ext. 3. This letter shows that Shri Sen was dismissed from service as no explanation was received by the Company in reply to Ext. 1. The chargesheet is dated 11th July 1963 and on the very next date, the dismissal followed without waiting for the expiry of the 12th July 1963, The hasty action of the Management seems to be very unreasonable. P.W. 2 has further stated that on 12th July 1963 another letter was pasted in the notice board. The copy of that letter is Ext. 3(a). This notice was clearly given after the notice of dismissal Ext. 3. Exhibit 3(a) shows that Shri Sen was given three days' time again to submit his explanation. This letter admittedly cancels Ext. 3. Shri Sen again sends another explanation, dated 15th July 1963. The copy is Ext. 4. The relevant certificate of posting is Ext. 4(a). P.W. 2 has stated that he received a registered letter from the Company dismissing him from service, the letter is Ext. 5. This is dated 16th July 1963. The letter says that the Company received Shri Sen's letter, dated 12th July 1963, viz., the first explanation. There is no mention about the explanation, dated 15th July 1963. It has been stated in Ext. 5 that as the explanations given by Shri Sen were not satisfactory and as the explanations were not submitted within time, it was not possible for the Company to employ him anymore. Shri Sen was directed to receive his dues on 25th July 1963. From the very reading of the letter of dismissal Ext. 5 it will be clear that the Company dismissed Shri Sen without holding any enquiry whatsoever. There is no reference to any domestic enquiry in this letter. The dismissal was made on the ground that the explanations submitted by Shri Sen were unsatisfactory. I have no manner of doubt in my mind that the statement of Shri Sen is true. I find that Shri Sen was not given any opportunity to defend himself or place his case before the authority regarding the charges made against him. No intimation was given to Shri Sen about any enquiry. The circumstances clearly show that the management was very much in haste to dismiss Shri Sen from service. I also find from evidence before me that the allegations made in Ext. 1 are all frivolous. Shri Sen did not abuse Shri Govinda Ghosh as alleged by the Company. I find that this is an industrial dispute taken up by Glass Blowers' Union having the workers of the Company as its members. The cause was taken up at the instance of the Company's workers. Shri Sen has been dismissed improperly, illegally and without any justification whatsoever. The orde of dismissal is clearly mala fide and vindictive in nature. During cross-examination it was suggested to P.W. 2 that he was living within the compound of the Company's factory. The answer has been given in the affirmative. But in the written statement filed by the Company, it was clearly stated "having not been furnished with his address, the Management had to serve him the letters in question by putting up them for his information on the notice board." The Company knew that Shri Sen was living within the factory compound. I fail to understand how the Company can say that the Management did not know his address. My finding is that the letters were hung up on the notice board with ulterior motive. No attempt was made by the Management to serve the chargesheet or any letter personally on Shri Sen. This is a mala fide act on the part of the Management. However, as I have indicated above, the dismissal of Shri Sen is clearly unjustified and it must be set aside. I have considered the written statement of the parties and the evidence on record and I find the case in favour of the workman.

On the question of relief, there can be no doubt that Shri Sen must be reinstaed in his former post and along with the reinstatement he must get all his back wages till the time of reinstatement. The evidence shows that during the time of unemployment Shri Sen did not get any employment elsewhere, but occasionally he acted as a hawker. That is of no importance.

In the result, the issue is decided in favour of the workmen and Shri Sambhunath Sen, within a month from the date of the publication of this award in the 'Calcutta Gazette" must be reinstated and paid all his back wages as directed above.

ANNEXURE

In the matter of an industrial dispute between Messrs. Gramophone Co. Ltd., 33 Jessore Road, Dum Dum, Calcutta, and their workmen represented by Gramophone Employees' Union, 543 Mandir Road, Dum Dum, Calcutta-28. (Case No. VIII-26 of 1964.)

BEFORE THE FIRST INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL

Present:

Shri RENUPADA MUKHERJEE, Judge,
First Industrial Tribunal.

Appearances:

For the Company: Shri R. Goswami, Officer of Bengal Chamber of Commerce and Industry.

For the Union: Shri D. L. Sengupta, Advocate, Shri M. M. Saha, Advocate, and Shri Bidyut Kumar Mukhopadhaya, General Secertary of the Union.

By its Labour Department order No. 259-I.R.|IR|11-L/134(B)/63, dated Calcutta, the 29th January 1964, Government of West Bengal referred this industrial dispute for adjudication by this Tribunal under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act. One party to the reference is Messrs. Gramophone Co. Ltd. (hereinafter to be described as the Company) and the other party their workmen represented by Gramophone Employees' Union (hereinafter to be described as the Union). The only issue referred for adjudication by this Tribunal is the following:

> Whether the time office clerks employed in the factory of Messrs. Gramophone Company Ltd., Dum Dum, should be treated as workers within the meaning of the Factories Act for the purpose of payment of overtime wages? If so, to what relief are they entitled?

On receipt of the reference usual notices were served upon the parties. The Union filed its written statement first. The sum and substance of the written statement of the Union is that the time office clerks employed in the factory of the Company performed works incidental to or connected with manufacturing process and as such they should be regarded as factory workers within the meaning of the Factories Act. The various items of work performed by these clerks have been enumerated in clauses (a) to (l) of paragraph 5 of the written statement of the Union. It is contended on behalf of the workmen that they are entitled to get overtime wages at double the normal rate of wages according to the provision of the Factories Act. The Company has paid overtime wages at this rate for sometime previously. But it has stopped doing so with effect from 1st July 1960 by taking advantage of a wrong opinion of the Chief Inspector of Factories. Conciliation proceedings were held at the instance of the Union but the management failed to turn up and did not controvert the claim of the employees. So the Union prays that the concerned workmen should be held as workers within the definition of the term as given in the Factories Act and the Company should be directed to pay them overtime wages at double the normal rate with effect from the date from which it was discontinued, i.e., from 1st July 1960.

In the written statement filed on behalf of the Company the above claim of the clerks of the time office has been challenged. It has been contended on behalf of the Company that the time office clerks are not connected directly or indirectly with any work incidental to or connected with the manufacturing process. Their duties have not been correctly enumerated in paragraph 5 of the written statement of the Union inasmuch as they are not required to do any work covered by clauses (g), (i) and (k) of paragraph 5. The Company paid overtime wages to these employees at double the ordinary rate in accordance with the recommendation of the Chief Inspector of Factories Shri G. C. Roy. Later on the Chief Inspector of Factories gave his opinion to the effect that time office clerks would not be considered to be "workers" if a portion of their work was taken out from their duties. Pursuant to that opinion the management by its memorandum dated August 4, 1960, excluded some items of work from the duties of the time office staff with the result that such employees should be regarded as ordinary clerks and not workers within the meaning of the Factories Act. According to the contention of the Company time office clerks are not entitled to overtime wages at double the normal rate in view of the duties performed by them at present.

Decision

The subject-matter of this reference lies within a very narrow compass. The only question which requires my adjudication is whether time office clerks should be regarded as workers as defined in section 2(1) of the Factories Act, 1948. Before I come to that question I shall have to give my decision on a question of law raised by Shri Goswami on behalf of the Compiny. He submitted that the Company has all along been paying overtime wages to the time office clerks in accordance with the recommendation made by the Chief Inspector of Factories and so it should be held that the Government is not justified in making a reference at the instance of the Union. His contention was that on the facts of the case it should be held that the Union is not entitled to raise any industrial dispute. I have carefully considered this contention of Shri Goswami but I am decidedly of opinion that there is no substance in it. The question whether the time office clerks who are 7 (seven) in number are entitled to get overtime wages at single rate or double rate has been agitated between the company and the concerned staff for several years past. It would appear that both parties relied on the opinion of the Chief Inspector of Factories in the past. On 8th April 1959 the Chief Inspector of Factories wrote a letter to the Manager of the Company expressing the opinion that the time office staff, among others, should be regarded as workers within the meaning of section 2(1) of the Factories Act, 1948, if they work in the factory (vide Ext. 2). It is admitted that this opinion was accepted by the Company and overtime wages was paid to the time office staff at double the ordinary rate up to 30th June 1959 according to the provision of section 59 of the Factories Act. From 1st July 1959 the Company began to pay overtime wages to the time office staff at a single rate. The matter was against taken before the Chief Inspector of Factories who gave his decision in favour of the clerical staff (vide Ext. C). The Company accepted that opinion and issued a notice on 25th June 1960 directing that time office clerks and time keepers would get the benefit of the Factories Act with effect from 1st July 1959 (vide Ext. D). A few days after that, namely, on 28th July 1960 the Chief Inspector of Factories again wrote to the company to the effect that the clerks employed in the time office would not be considered to be workers within the meaning of Factories Act if they are not engaged in checking of outward goods, issuing of gate passes and receiving of parcels outside office hours (vide Ext. E). A few days after this letter was written by the Chief Inspector of Factories the management gave a notice on 4th August 1960 to the following effect (Ext. A). It is quoted below:

"THE GRAMOPHONE COMPANY LIMITED
From: Mr. P. S. Homewood.

Ref: PSH-A2|20

To: TIME OFFICE,
Date: 4th August 1960.

Notice

With immediate effect time office clerks will not be required to check outward goods or receive parcels within or outside office hours. They have never issued any gate passes nor are they to issue the same. As such they are not to be considered as workers within the meaning of Factories' Act.

Sd. P. S. Homewood, Act. Factory Manager.

C.c. Pay clerk
P.O. Chief Inspector of Factories—This has reference to his letter No. 4204, dated 28th July 1960."

After the Company discontinued overtime wages at double the normal rate on the basis of the above-named notice, the clerks of the time office made some representations from time to time which proved to be abortive.

Shri Goswami contended on behalf of the company that the Company has all along accepted and followed the recommendation of the Chief Inspector of Factories and so the Union is not entitled to raise any industrial dispute over this matter. I am not at all impressed by the argument of Shri Goswami. The duties of an Inspector of Factories are enumerated in section 9 of the Factories Act. That section does not lay down that the Chief Inspector of Factories is entitled to make any pronouncement, far less any final pronouncement on the conditions of service of a workman or particular class of workmen. Whether the time office clerks are entitled to get overtime wages at single rate or double the ordinary rate is a question relating to one of the conditions of their service to be determined by applying the statute, namely, the Factories Act to the facts of the particular case. This is a matter which certainly lies within the jurisdiction of the Industrial Tribunal and the Government is entitled to make a reference. The preliminary objection raised by Shri Goswami on a question of law is decided against the company. I now come to the merits of the case.

There is no dispute that time office clerks would get overtime wages at double the ordinary rate if they are held to be workers within the meaning of section 2(1) of the Factories Act. The duties of the time office clerks have been enumerated by the Union in clauses (a) to (l) of paragraph 5 of its written statement in the following manner (after correction of verbal mistakes).

(a) Maintenance of attendance of workers of the factory;
(b) Maintenance of leave records of wrokers;
(c) To keep record of accident and report the same to various authorities;
(d) To fill up claim form and deal with it.
(e) Calculation of hours of actual work of the workers for making salary sheet;
(f) Calculation of hours of actual over time of worker for making payment;
(g) Checking and receiving materials for the factory;
(h) Receive Milk for the workers of various departments and send them to the departments;
(i) To maintain and sign pass out and to maintain record for that;
(j) Reception of customers and visitors;
(k) Maintain records of goods despatched from the factory;
(l) Keep records and submit various reports to the Factory Inspector, Labour Commissioner, Bengal Chamber of Commerce, Employment Exchange, etc.

According to the Company the items of work mentioned in clauses (g), (i) and (k) are not performed by the clerical staff. Shri Bidyut Kumar Mukherjee who is the General Secretary of the Union and an employee of the Company, has stated in his evidence that they are performing those disputed items of work as before. It is true that by a notice, dated 4th July 1960 (Ext. A), the Company withdrew items (g) and (k) from the duties of time office clerks and stated that gate pass was never issued by time office clerks and they would not issue it in future. This notice is however contrary to another notice, dated 2nd March 1962 (Ext. 5). It has been stated therein that small or valuable items of parcels arriving in the factory after 4-30 p.m., i.e., after factory hours should be deposited in the time office with the person on duty. Another notice, dated 1st February 1962 (Ext. 4), would show that gate passes would be printed in triplicate and the original copy should be checked by the time keeper against the second copy. It thus appears that the time office clerks were being asked to perform a portion of their duties which was excluded by the notice marked Ext. A. So the contention of the company that the time office clerks are not entitled to get overtime wages at double the ordinary rate by virtue of exclusion of a portion of their work from their duties has got no legs to stand upon. It is also significant that not a single witness has been produced by the company to controvert the case of the union that the time office clerks are doing all the items of work which they previously did and on the basis of which they were recommended by the Chief Inspector of Factories for overtime wages according to the Factories Act.

Apart from the question of the exclusion of a portion of their work from their previous duties, I am of opinion that the time office clerks are entitled to be regarded as factory workers on the basis of the work which they are doing even according to the admission of the Company. Admittedly they maintain attendance of workers of the factory, their leave records, the records of accident and claims and they also calculate hours of actual work of factory workers and prepare their salary sheets. It has been held in a case of Allahabad High Court reported in 1962 II, L.L.J., Page 335 (Abdul Latif versus Karamat Ali):

> "The definition of 'worker' in Factories Act not only includes a person employed in the manufacturing process but also includes a person employed in any other kind of work incidental to manufacturing process. Keeping of accounts of a factory is a work incidental to the manufacturing process and so an accountant or munim is definitely covered by the definition of 'worker'".

So if an accountant of a factory is a worker within the meaning of section 2(1) of the Factories Act, there is no reason why a time office clerk who performs the duties just mentioned should not be regarded as a worker. Shri Goswami frankly conceded that the word "worker" as defined in the Factories Act is an elastic term and he could not seriously contend that a time office clerk is not a worker within the meaning of section 2(1) of the Factories Act. I, therefore, hold that the clerks on whose behalf this reference has been obtained should be regarded and treated as workers within the meaning of the Factories Act for the purpose of payment of overtime wages.

The last question which requires my adjudication is what relief should be given to the time office clerks employed in the factory of the Company. As I have held that they are entitled to get overtime wages according to the provisions of the Factories Act, I direct that the Company should give them overtime wages according to the provisions of section 59 of the Factories Act with effect from 4th August 1960, i.e., the date when such payment was discontinued. The additional amount which would be due to the time office clerks must be paid within a month from the date of publication of this award in the "Calcutta Gazette."

This is my adjudication.

Wages, Grade and Scale

All regular workers working on the production will be broadly classified into five principal groups for the purpose of grade and scale, namely, A, B, C, D and E. Each of the first four groups will have five slabs and the last group will have single slab. Each of the slabs will have four stages of annual increments except the 'A' Group (slabs) which has three stages of annual increments. The amount of wages stated is consolidated with and inclusive of dearness allowance payable to workers from time to time. The five groups and the slabs and the stages are laid down below:

'E' Group—The coolies will be placed in the 'E' Group:

Scale: Rs. 50—1.25/4 yrs.—Rs. 55.

'D' Group—Junior Landis Operators, Shearing Machine Operators, Heaters, Finning Machine Operators, Shunking Operators, Frazing Operators, Tapping Operators, Cutters and Punch Makers:

Increment in the same slab will be automatic, except that if the record of a worker is not satisfactory in the consideration of the management his movement will be interrupted for one year only at a particular stage within the slab. The service will not be considered satisfactory in the following cases amongst others:

(a) Habitual late coming and absenteeism.
(b) Annual average efficiency below 25 per cent.
(c) Misconduct.

But promotion from one slab to next higher slab will be strictly controlled and this will be granted only whenever a worker is able to satisfy the minimum standards, as noted below:

Health, diligence, regularity in time-keeping and attendance.

Besides the above features for promotion from one slab to the next higher slab the worker must also attain the minimum standard of efficiency as laid down below:

Slab 1 to slab 2—Average annual efficiency for four years—32 per cent.
Slab 2 to slab 3—Average annual efficiency for four years—35 per cent.
Slab 3 to slab 4—Average annual efficiency for four years—37 per cent.
Slab 4 to slab 5—Average annual efficiency for four years—40 per cent.

The management reserves the right to grant more than one increment at a time if a worker exhibits exceptional merits and efficiency.

In usual course one shall not move from one group to the next higher group by way of promotion, but the management in its sole discretion may consider for transfer from one group to the next higher group in suitable cases in the same trade, e.g., Junior Landis Operator of the 'D' group may become Senior Landis Operator in the 'C' group, Junior Fitter in the 'C' group may become Senior Fitter in the 'B' group.

Incentive Bonus Scheme

Object.—The object of this scheme is to give workers a reward for producing more to the benefit of the workers and employers both.

The incentive bonus will depend upon the efficiency of the workers either individually or in groups as the case may be.

For the purpose of calculation of efficiency of a worker or a group the minimum production expected from them has been lowered to make a normal production figure as detailed in the Tables 'A', 'B', 'C', 'D' and 'E' attached.

Method of calculation of efficiency.—

(A) Piece basis—

$$\frac{(\text{Actul production minus normal production}) \times 100}{\text{Normal production}} = \text{Cent percent efficiency.}$$

(B) Time basis—

$$\frac{(\text{Normal time minus actual time}) \times 100}{\text{Actual time}} = \text{Cent percent efficiency.}$$

Eligibility.—For the purpose of eligibility for incentive bonus a worker or a group of workers must attain an efficiency of 30 per cent. because the normal production shown in Tables 'A', 'B', 'C', 'D' and 'E' has been reduced proportionately from the quantum produced by an average man of the trade by normal working. Thus a worker who has produced the bare minimum quantity also becomes eligible for incentive bonus (as he will be producing only the quantity produced by an average man and by attaining 30 per cent. efficiency) and he will get 30 per cent. efficiency Bonus.

No incentive bonus will be paid when a worker or a group of workers does not attain 30 per cent. efficiency.

Calculation of incentive bonus.—Incentive bonus payable to each worker or a group of workers has been shown in Charts Nos. 1, 2, 3 and 4:

Chart No. 1—Applies to Workers of 'E' and 'D' grades.

Chart No. 2—Applies to workers of 'C' grade.

Chart No. 3—Applies to workers of 'B' and 'A' grades.

A special Chart 4 has been added which shall apply to any worker of 'B' and 'A' grades who has been entrusted with any special work over and above his own work for sometime on the understanding that he shall be entitled to special incentive bonus if he performs the work to the entire satisfaction of the management.

Amount of incentive bonus payable.—The amount of incentive bonus will be calculated proportionately to the number of hours rounded to the nearest day of eight hours in a month actually worked during the incentive period by him and incentive bonus applicable to him as per Chart.

Productive Side Grouping.—For the purpose of incentive bonus suitable groups (wherever necessary) will be formed consisting of actual operators of the main productive machine and all auxiliary machines and other workers attached to that group for the purpose of setting the machine, supply of dies, tools, cutters, shearing of bars, etc. And the efficiency of such related workers will depend on the efficiency of the actual productive machine. If a worker is looking after several groups of machines which have their own efficiency, the efficiency of the workers concerned will be the average efficiency of all groups or all machines for which he is working.

The management reserves the right to transfer a man or men from one group to another or from one machine to another any time it considers necessary.

Disqualification for Auxiliary Workers. — The following will be disqualification for certain auxiliary workers who will be in the group:

1. Setter. -If he takes more than 1½ hours for setting the die tool per day per machine he shall be disqualified for the purpose of incentive bonus.
2. Shearing Man.—If for shearing of bars the actual productive machine will be down for more than four hours in a month he shall be disqualified for the purpose of incentive bonus.
3. Die Tool and Cutter Supplier.—If for dies and cutters the actual productive machine will be down for more than four hours in a month he shall be disqualified for the purpose of incentive bonus.
4. Finning Man.—(a) All the bolts forged on machine Nos. F/1 and F/2 must be finned when three Finning Machines will be in operation. (b) When only two Finning Machines will be in operation, i.e., one finning Machine each for F/1 and F/2 5,000 pieces must be finned out on each Finning Machine per eight hours. (c) Finning men of F/3 and F/4 (which are main productive machines) must fin 4,500 pieces per eight hours.

If they fail they will be disqualified for the purpose of incentive bonus.

Maintenance.—The Maintenance Department will be divided into several groups and each group will be responsible to keep the machines under their care in first class working order so that production might not hamper for improper running of the machines and the average efficiency of the groups of which he is in charge will be his efficiency.

Grouping.—(1) Bolt and Rivet Forging Section and its auxiliary machines.—Making the full group will be under the charge of two Fitters.

(2) Nut Forging Section.—Will be under the charge of one Fitter.

(3) Screwing Section (Landis, Tapping, Shunking Frazing, etc.).—Under one Fitter.

Disqualification.—If any machine under care of the Maintenance Fitter will be down for more than sixteen hours in a month for breakdowns (except major breakdowns such as Crank Shaft, Fly-wheel, Pinion, etc., broken or bent which cannot be readily replaced) he shall be disqualified and will not get incentive bonus. It will be his duty to see that all replaceable spares are always kept ready in his stock for immediate replacement whenever necessity arises. And if the machines are down for want of these spares due to negligence on the part of the Maintenance Fitter he will be disqualified from the incentive bonus.

Further the Lathe, Shaping, etc., which shall be earmarked for maintenance purpose, will have the average efficiency of all maintenance group.

Mode of payment.—The incentive bonus will be accounted quarterly—each quarter ending on the last date of March, June, September and December every year and will be paid within 15 days from the end of the quarter.

Advance against earned incentive bonus can be granted by the management to the worker every month on the clear understanding that the same will be adjusted at the end of quarterly accounting period.

If the main producing machines remain idle due to break-down, shortage of raw material, failure of electricity or lack of sufficient orders or any cause whatsoever which is beyond the control of the management, such period will not be counted as incentive period for the purpose of incentive bonus and no incentive bonus can be claimed by the workers for such period.

Exemption.—Apprentices are exempted from the scheme of incentive bonus and no apprentice men can claim the incentive bonus.

By order of the Governor,
S. C. MUKHERJEE,
Asstt. Secy.

No. 3702-I.R./IR/8L-51/62.—22nd August 1964.—Whereas under the Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, Order No. 6635-I.R./IR/8L-51/62, dated the 29th November 1962, read with its Corrigendum No. 1411-I.R./IR/8L-51/62, dated the 2nd April 1963, the industrial dispute between Messrs. Central Textile Mills, 149 Mahatma Gandhi Road, Calcutta-7, and their workmen represented by the Calcutta and Howrah Hosiery Employees' Union, 88/2 Tripura Roy Road, Salkia, Howrah, regarding the issues mentioned in the said order, being matters specified in the Third Schedule to the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), was referred to the Fifth Industrial Tribunal for adjudication;

And whereas, during the pendency of proceedings before the said Industrial Tribunal, Shri Bhayanand Jha, a workman of the said Company, made a complaint in writing to the said Industrial Tribunal against the said Company alleging that the said Company had dismissed the said workman concerned in such dispute;

And whereas in exercise of the powers conferred by section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), the said Industrial Tribunal has adjudicated upon the said complaint and submitted its award to the State Government;

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the provisions of section 17 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), the Governor is pleased hereby to publish the said award as shown in the annexure hereto.

ANNEXURE

In the matter of a complaint under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, filed by one Bhayanand Jha, a workman of Messrs. Central Textile Mills (address: 5/1/1A Madhubala Galli, (Calcutta), situated at 149 Mahatma Gandhi Road, Calcutta-7, against the aforesaid Company alleging infringement of section 33 of the Act by its action in dismissing the petition. (Case No. 138 of 1963 under section 33A.)

BEFORE THE FIFTH INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL

Present: Shri K. P. MUKHERJI, Judge, Fifth Industrial Tribunal.

Present for the Company: Shri Birendra Nath Banerji, Advocate.

Present for the workman: Shri Nikhil Roy, Advocate.

The original reference out of which this case has arisen was made under G.O. No. 6635-I.R./IR/8L-51/62, dated 29th November 1962.

This is a complaint under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act by the workman Bhayanand Jha against his employer Messrs. Central Textile Mills, alleging violation of section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act. It is alleged that the applicant worked under the opposite party for about five years and he was an active member of the Calcutta and Howrah Hosiery Employees' Union. A charge-sheet was given to him on 23rd October 1962 alleging misconduct on his part with ulterior object of dispensing with his service. He submitted his explanation denying the charge brought against him and after a so-called enquiry he was dismissed from service. The dismissal is said to be mala fide and illegal, and the applicant has prayed for his reinstatement.

The opposite party filed its written statement on 20th December 1963 and the case was adjourned till today for a compromise. A joint petition of compromise has been filed by the parties stating that the matter has been amicably settled out of Court, and the petitioner has been paid a sum of Rs. 460 in full and final settlement of all his claims against the opposite party, and an award be made accordingly. The terms of the settlement appear to be fair and I see no reason to suspect the bona fides of the settlement. The petition is accepted and the case is disposed of in terms of the joint petition of compromise filed. The petition of compromise is appended to this award as Annexure A and made a part thereof. This is my award.

The original reference out of which this case has arisen was made under G.O. No. 6635-I.R./IR/8L-51/62, dated 29th November 1962.

This is an application under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, filed by Shri Baidyanath Thakur, an employee of Messrs. Central Textile Mills, alleging infringement of section 33 of the Act by the Company. Notice of the application was sent to the Company on 13th September 1963 for appearance and filing of the written objection. The Company filed its written statement on 20th December 1963, and 8th January 1964 was fixed for filing of documents by the parties. After several adjournments the case was fixed for hearing on 19th August 1964. In the meantime on 10th August 1964 the parties filed a joint petition of compromise stating that there has been a settlement of the dispute between the parties out of Court on the terms stated in the petition and praying for an award in terms of the settlement. I have perused the petition of compromise and the terms of settlement contained therein, and I find them to be quite fair and reasonable. I accept the terms of settlement and pass my award accordingly incorporating therein the petition of compromise as Annexure A which will form part thereof.

For the Union: Shri Ramen Banerjee, Advocate.

AWARD

The Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, by order No. 2772-I.R./IR/10L-88/63, dated the 13th July 1963, referred under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, the abovementioned dispute to this Tribunal for its adjudication.

Issue

Dearness Allowance.

After receipt of the reference from the Government on 19th July 1963, usual notices were issued to the parties fixing 8th August 1963 for their appearances and for filing of written statement by the Union. The parties entered appearances on 8th August 1963 and Union filed its written statement on 2nd September 1963. The Company filed its written statement on 18th October 1963 and also filed its documents on 7th January 1964. The Union also filed its documents on 25th February 1964 and after several adjournments the case was fixed for hearing on 29th July 1964. The case was taken up for hearing on 29th July 1964 and two witnesses were examined and some documents were also marked as exhibits and the case was adjourned to 11th August 1964 for arguments. After the argument for the Union was heard on 11th August 1964, the learned Advocte for the Company gave a proposal to the Union for consideration and for settlement of the dispute. Thereafter the parties agreed to the terms of settlement and put in a joint petition of compromise setting out therein the terms upon which the dispute had been amicably settled between them and praying for a compromise award accordingly.

I have considered the terms of compromise. These appear to be quite fair and lawful. I am satisfied that there has been a bona fide compromise of the dispute between the parties upon the terms set forth in the petition. I accepted the terms of compromise and I make a compromise award in terms of the joint petition of compromise filed by the parties, a copy whereof is made a part of the award as an annexure.

ANNEXURE

BEFORE THE FIFTH INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL

In the matter of order of reference No. 2772-I.R./IR/10L-88/63, dated 13th July 1963

And

In the matter of Motor and Machinery Manufacturers Ltd.—Employer

Versus

Their workmen represented by Motor and Machinery Workers' Union—Workmen.

The humble petition of both the employer and workmen abovenamed most respectfully sheweth—

That the parties hereto have amicably settled the dispute referred under the aforesaid order of reference by and between themselves on the following terms, viz.—

1. That the employer agrees to grant an increase of Rs. 3 (rupees three only) as dearness allowance to all workmen on existing scheme who are on the rolls of the employer on this date and are permanent, and the workmen agreed to accept the same, in full and final settlement of their past disputes with regard to their dearness allowance. The first of such increments will be paid along with salary of August 1964.

2. That the parties hereto agree that the said increase of Rs. 3 (rupees three) be paid to the above workmen with effect from the first day of November 1963, and the amount will be paid in three equal instalments, namely, one in September 1964, one in November 1964 and the balance in January 1965, along with their wages.

3. That the parties also agree that there will be a sliding scale of dearness allowance on the basis of Re. 1 (rupee one only) for every 5 points of increase or decrease of cost of living-index on the basis of the Third Engineering Tribunal Award to be implemented after this award comes into operation, that is to say, the increase or decrease due during the period August 1964—31st July 1965, will be given effect in August 1965.

4. That the workmen realise the financial position of the employer and undertake to co-operate with the employer to revise the norms of production already existing.

5. From the date of the operation of the award the temporary staff will be given this 3 rupees increase either in shape of D.A. or on consolidated basis.

6. That the parties agree that this settlement should be made a part of the award.

Your petitioners, therefore, pray that Your Honour will be pleased to approve of the above settlement and pass an award accordingly treating this petition of settlement as part of the award.

And your petitioners, as in duty bound, shall ever pray.

ANNEXURE

In the matter of an industrial dispute existing between Messrs. Biswalaxmi Oil Mill, 20 Ultadanga Road, Calcutta-4, and their workmen represented by the Employees' Association, 1 Joy Bhattacharjee Lane, Calcutta-3. (Case No. 295 of 1963.)

For the Association: Shri Panchanan Bhattacharya, President.

AWARD

This dispute between Messrs. Biswalaxmi Oil Mill and their workmen represented by the Employees' Association was referred to this Tribunal under Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, Order No. 4831-I.R./IR/15L-19/63, dated 30th November 1963, for adjudication upon the only issue which is as follows:

Whether termination of service of the following workmen is justified? To what relief, if any, are they entitled?

(a) Ram Kumar Jadav, (b) Jamuna Singh, (c) Nirgun Kahar, (d) Ramsurat Kurmi, (e) Kotowaru Jadav, (f) Kalu Murai, (g) Deosaran Pandey, (h) Motar Singh Munshi, (i) Ram Narayan Murai, and (j) Seharat Musumma.

After receipt of the order of reference on 3rd December 1963, usual notices were issued to both the parties fixing 28th December 1963 for appearance and filing of the written statement by the Union. The Union took time and filed its written statement on 15th January 1964, and the Company filed its written statement on 13th February 1964. 5th March 1964 was fixed for production of documents by the parties. Thereafter the Company prayed for inspection of certain documents belonging to the Union, and the Union was asked to produce those documents by 27th June 1964. The Union took time for filing the aforesaid documents for inspection by the Company, and 13th August was fixed for filing the said documents. Meanwhile, on 10th August 1964 the President of the Union Shri Panchanan Bhattacharya appeared and filed a petition to the effect that the concerned workmen had all left Calcutta and ceased to have connection with the Employees' Association which represented the workmen in the present dispute and consequently no useful purpose would be served in pursuing the proceedings further. He wanted to withdraw himself from the proceedings and requested that a "no dispute" award in this case be passed.

I have perused the petition of the President of the Union, and I also find that no useful purpose would be served by keeping the proceedings pending further in face of the petition of withdrawal of the case by the President of the Union and also in view of the fact that the workmen themselves are not available and the relevant documents also cannot be produced. In the circumstances, I pass a "no dispute" award and dispose of the case accordingly.

ANNEXURE

In the matter of an industrial dispute between Messrs. Basanti Binding Works, 61/1 Surya Sen Street, Calcutta-9, and their workmen represented by Press Employees' Association, 249B Bowbazar Street, Calcutta-12. (Case No. VIII-165/63.)

BEFORE THE THIRD INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL

Present:

Shri J. N. MANDAL, Judge, Third Industrial Tribunal.

For the Union: Shri Anil Das Choudhury, Advocate.

For the Company: Shri K. K. Maitra, Vice-President of Assam, West Bengal, Orissa and Bihar Employers' Association.

AWARD

By Order No. 3389-I.R./IR/13L-10/63, dated the 14th August 1963, the Government of West Bengal, in the Labour Department, referred under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, the industrial dispute between Messrs. Basanti Binding Works, 61/1 Surya Sen Street, Calcutta-9, and their workmen represented by Press Employees' Association, 249B Bowbazar Street, Calcutta-12, regarding the matters specified in the schedule, to the Third Industrial Tribunal, constituted under section 7A of the Industrial Disputes Act, by Notification No. 808-I.R./IR/3A-2/57, dated the 11th March 1957, for adjudication.

Issues

1. Grades and scales of pay.
2. Dearness allowance.
3. Leave and holidays.
4. Working hours.
5. Security of service.

This is a reference made by the Government of West Bengal, in their Labour Department, under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, for adjudication of some industrial disputes existing between Messrs. Basanti Binding Works, 61/1 Surya

Sen Street, Calcutta-9 (hereinafter be referred as the Company), and their workmen represented by Press Employees' Association, 249B Bowbazar Street, Calcutta-12 (hereinafter be mentioned as the Union).

As usual parties were given notices immediately after receipt of the reference, and they turned up promptly and filed their written statements. But after filing of the written statements by both the parties, it appears that the workmen who are numbering 26 in all, negotiated directly with the Company and amicably settled all their outstanding disputes with the employer. They have at the same time ceased to be the members of the Union which took up their cause. They accordingly intimated their intention to the Secretary of the Union by letter, dated 5th of August 1964, a copy of which has been forwarded to this Union. On the same date they have also addressed one letter to this Tribunal signed by all the 26 workmen, whereby they have intimated the fact that all the existing disputes have been amicably settled out of the Tribunal and they have prayed for a "no dispute" award. After receipt of this petition from all the concerned workmen, the Tribunal contacted Shri Anil Das Choudhury who is an Advocate and who appeared in this case as Vice-President of the Union and was shown the aforesaid two petitions signed by all the workmen of the Company. He has raised no objection to the disposal of the reference as prayed for by the workmen. Therefore, in the circumstances, I make a "no dispute" award and also do make the workmen's petition, dated 5th August 1964, a part of the award as an annexure thereto.

In the matter of an Industrial Dispute
Between
Messrs. Basanti Binding Works
And
Their workmen, represented by Press Employees' Association (vide G.O. No. 3389-I.R., dated 14th August 1963)

Respected Sir,

In the above matter we beg to inform you that we the signatories of this petition are all workers of Messrs. Basanti Binding Works. There are 26 workers and all of us have signed this petition.

We have settled all our disputes pending before Your Honour with the Company amicably out of Tribunal and so Your Honour need not proceed with the hearing of the case fixed on the 12th day of August 1964.

We have also resigned our membership of the Union by a separate petition—a copy of which we have forwarded to Your Honour under Registered with A/D.

The Union has no right to appear before Your Honour for and on behalf of the workmen of Messrs. Basanti Binding Works; because all of us have resigned from the membership of the Union.

We pray that on the basis of this petition a "no dispute" award may be passed.

We have sent a copy of this petition to the Secretary of the Union and to the Company under Registered with A/D for their information.

We, therefore, most humbly pray that Your Honour would be graciously pleased to accept this petition and to pass a "no dispute" award, dated the 5th August 1964.

Copy to—

The Government of West Bengal by its Labour Department Order No. 4437-I.R./IR/11L-402/63, dated 22nd October 1963, referred to this Tribunal an industrial dispute between Messrs. Govardhan Das P.A., 32 Netaji Subhas Road, Calcutta-1, and their workmen represented by Employees' Association, 3 & 4 Hare Street (2nd floor), Calcutta-1, for adjudication under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act.

The issue framed in this case for adjudication runs as follows:

Whether the termination of service of Shri Basudeo Prosad is justified? To what relief, if any, is he entitled?

AWARD

After the receipt of the reference, notices were issued to the parties and written statements were filed by them. After some adjournments, on both sides' prayer the case was fixed for hearing on 16th July 1964. The Union examined P.W. 1 Shri Basudeo Prosad and he was cross-examined on the side of the Company. Thereafter before the hearing was concluded, a talk of compromise cropped up, and it materialised in the filing of a joint petition of compromise on 3rd August 1964. The workmen concerned Shri Prosad received payment of Rs. 310 in my presence and gave endorsement to the petition of compromise. The said petition was duly signed by the representatives of both the Company and the Union. Shri Prosad agreed to withdraw the case and accepted Rs. 310 in full and final settlement of his claim. An award is accordingly made in terms of the petition of compromise which will form part of the award as Annexure "A".

The Government of West Bengal by its Labour Department Order No. 666-I.R./IR/4L-4/64, dated 19th February 1964, referred to this Tribunal an industrial dispute between Messrs. Wayside Garage (P) Ltd., 166B Shyama Prasad Mukherjee Road, Calcutta-26 (hereinafter referred to as the Company), and their workmen represented by Road Transport Mazdoor Congress, 286 G.T. Road (South), Howrah (hereinafter referred to as the Union), for adjudication under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act.

The issue framed in this case for adjudication runs as follows:

Whether the dismissal of Shri Bhagwandin Singh is justified? To what relief, if any, is he entitled?

Award

After service of notice, the parties appeared. The Company filed its written statement, but the Union did not. The Company raised an objection that it is not an industrial dispute, inasmuch as the Union named in the order of reference, namely, Road Transport Mazdoor Congress, is not a Union of the workers of this Company, and as such it is not competent to espouse the cause of the dismissed workman Shri Bhagwandin Singh. The matter was fixed for ex parte hearing both on preliminary point as well as on merits.

With regard to the preliminary point, there is no evidence on the side of the Union on whom the onus lies to prove that the Road Transport Mazdoor Congress can represent and espouse the cause of the dismissed workman. It must be shown that this Union is either the Union of the workmen of this Company or an appreciable number of workmen of this establishment are members of this Union, and authorised this Union to espouse the cause of the dismissed workman. There is evidence to the contrary on the side of the Company in the evidence given by Shri Ganesh Chandra Banerjee, Managing Director. I accordingly hold that the Road Transport Mazdoor Congress has no authority to espouse the cause of the dismissed workman, and as such it is not an industrial dispute.

Coming to the merits of the case, the Company proved by oral and documentary evidence the fact that the workman concerned was guilty of misconduct for which he was charge-sheeted. An enquiry was held and it was attended to by the said workman, and thereafter the dismissal order was issued on justifiable grounds. In the circumstances, the dismissal in this case is justified, and the workman concerned is entitled to no relief.

This my award.

ANNEXURE

In the matter of an industrial dispute between Messrs. Albion Plywood Ltd., Budge Budge, 24-Parganas, and their workmen represented by Albion Plywood Workmen's Union, Budge Budge, 24-Parganas. (Government Order No. 2230-I.R., dated 5th June 1963.) (VIII-119/63.)

BEFORE THE FOURTH INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL

Present:

Shri R. BHATTACHARYA, Judge, Fourth Industrial Tribunal.

For the Company: Shri S. C. Sen, Advocate.

For the Union: Shri P. K. Sanyal, Advocate.

This is a reference under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act over an industrial dispute between Messrs. Albion Plywood Ltd. and their workmen represented by the Albion Plywood Workmen's Union. The issue framed in the order of reference is as follows:

Issue

Grades and scales of pay of the workmen.

The parties duly appeared in this case and submitted their written statements. In short, the case of the workmen is that the Albion Plywood Ltd. (hereinafter referred to as the Company) is one of the biggest manufacturers of plywood in India. This industry earns foreign exchange. Since 1960 the production of the Company has been increased and the Company is making expansion of its business. It is also alleged that the Company was attained very sound financial position. Since 1960 the cost of living in West Bengal has been going up. The Company does not pay any dearness allowance separately, and the total remuneration paid to the workmen falls short of the barest minimum necessary in the present economic condition. It is also stated that the operations carried on by the workmen require skilled and technical knowledge. There was a previous agreement with the Company regarding the wages but that agreement has been terminated by the workmen and fresh demands are made for the fixation of grades and scales of pay of the workmen. The workmen have prayed for introduction of grades and scales of wages according to the certain categories of workmen.

The Company in reply to the written statement submitted by the Albion Plywood Workmen's Union (hereinafter described as the Union) has stated that the financial position of the Company cannot be considered to be very sound, and that it has been trying to pay proper wages and other amenities to the workmen according to its financial capacity. On 8th February 1960 there was an agreement between the Company and their workmen regarding the wages of the workmen and since then there has been no change of circumstances justifying the change of the pay scale and classification of the workers as claimed by the Union. It has been admitted that since 8th February 1960 there has been gradual increase in the output of the factory but such increase is by no means considerable. On the other hand, the Company is to meet numerous other financial commitments. It has been alleged from the side of the Company that the expansion of the Company's activities has been effected more out of the loans raised than by its profits. There has been no increase in the work-load of the workmen. The Company has also stated that since 1960 a substantial number of plywood factories had been established in West Bengal and this has given rise to a keen competition in the market. The Company submits thta the Tribunal would not consider about the fixation of wages in respect of individual cases but it will decide the question of wages of the workmen in general. It is stated further that the existing classification of the workmen mentioned in the agreement is proper and fair. The Company claims that the existing classifications and wages for the categories of workmen are fair and proper and that it should not be interferred with. According to the Company, its present financial position will not justify the introduction of any time scale as prayed for by the Union. The Company has said in its written statement that it pays a consolidated amount including basic pay and dearness allowance to the workmen and no dearness allowance is paid separately. It has been affirmed in the written statement that the present wages of the workmen compare favourably with the wage structure of other plywood factories, not only in the State of West Bengal but in the rest of the country as well. The Company, however, does not admit that the workmen employed require any highly skilled and technical knowledge. They are mainly unskilled workers with a small amount of skill. They are not required to do any highly skilled job. The Company has prayed that there should be no alteration in the classification of the workmen or their rates of wages or any scale or time scale as claimed by the Union.

Several witnesses have been examined on the side of the Union but on the side of the Company its Works Manager has been examined. Several documents have been admitted in evidence on both the sides.

The Union in its written statement has referred to the classification of the workmen, and the placing of the workmen in such grades and on such scales of pay as relate to their work irrespective of their present designation. The Union has not adduced any evidence regarding the classification of the workmen according to the duties done in the factory of the Company, and there is no sufficient or reliable evidence as to the nature of work done by a particular workman. Practically speaking, there has been no attempt before me to give stress upon the classification of the workmen according to the nature of their duties. Even during the argument, no attempt was made by the parties regarding the classification of the workmen. It is, therefore, not possible for this Tribunal to classify all the workmen of this Company according to the duty allotted to them.

The main question before me relates to the grades and scales of pay of the workmen and for that purpose I am to consider what should be the minimum wage of the workmen and what should be the maximum in the scale of pay. I am also to see whether gradation and scales of pay of the workmen can be fixed. I shall, first of all, refer to the oral evidence adduced in this case. P.W. 1 Shri J. R. Jain, is an employee of Messrs. Jayasree Plywood. He has produced balance sheets and Profit and Loss Accounts for the years 1960, 1961 and 1962. This particular unit of the Jayasree Plywood which is a part of Jayasree Tea and Industries Ltd. was commissioned in 1962. The said Company maintains a consolidated balance sheet and Profit and Loss Accounts, and there is no balance sheet or Profit and Loss Accounts for Jayasree Plywood Unit. P.W. 2 is the President of the Albion Plywood Workmen's Union. He has produced a copy of the agreement between the Esso Standard Eastern and the Petroleum Workers Union regarding certain items including wages. He has produced certain calculations made by him with reference to the 15th Labour Conference recommendations, and the prices of different commodities prevailing at Budge Budge. The calculations are collectively marked Ext. 4. The witness has not compared his calculations with those relating to the previous years. The witness has not seen the agreement between the Esso Standard Eastern and the Petroleum Workers Union. He has admitted however that the Esso Standard Eastern is one of the richest companies in oil industry. He has not ascertained about its financial position. P.W. 8 is the Personnel Officer of Jayasree Tea and Industry Ltd. He has admitted that the plywood business of the Industry started in April 1962. He has produced a chart of different categories of workmen employed in plywood section of Jayasree Tea and Industry Ltd. That chart is Ext. 22.

Several workmen of the Company had been examined on the side of the Union. P.W. 3, Sk. Anoarali, is an Operator of the Hot Press Department. He runs the machine and watches the temperature. All veneers made to size come to the Hot Press Section before they become finished goods. It appears from the evidence of the witness that there are several sections of Hot Press Department. The witness wants to say that without training for six months nobody can act as operator or glue mixture. This witness read up to the Class VIII. He learnt his work during his service in the factory. He was at first working as Spreading Operator and then he was promoted as Hot Press Operator. P.W. 4, Shri Bera, works in the godown of the factory. He is known as helper. He prepares the list of finished goods. After due check up the goods are taken to the godown with the help of coolies and then the witness submits report to the godown-in-charge. The goods are loaded under his supervision. From this witness we get that plywood is used for table, chair, window leaves, ceiling, railway coachs, ship and aeroplane. The evidence further is that the finished goods of the Company are sent out of India. This witness is a Matriculate, but he had admitted that the works of the helper do not require that he should be a Matriculate. P.W. 5, Indradev, is the Peeling Operator. He started his work as coolie of the Peeling Department and worked for about a year. Thereafter he worked as a coolie in the Decorating Section for the last three years where he has been working as an Operator. He says that it takes about a year to get training as an Operator of the Peeling Section. In cross-examination he has stated that although he is designated as coolie, he is acting as an Operator. Every coolie gets Rs. 2.16 nP. per day as his remuneration. But the Operator of the Peeling machine gets Rs. 3.20 nP. per day. It is clear therefore that P.W. 5 is a coolie and whenever he acts or rather officiates as the Peeling Operator, he gets the wages of the Operator. P.W. 6 is a Splicing Operator. A helper assists him to run the machine. This witness also started work as a coolie, and for the last three years he has been working as an Operator. He says that an ordinary coolie cannot do the work of Splicing Operator, but for such work, he requires training for about eight or nine months. P.W. 7 is a Flash-door Checker. He started his work as a coolie from 1955 and from 1956 he has been working as a checker. He says that he took training for 10 months before he was taken in as a checker. This witness read up to Class VI.

On the side of the Company Shri R. D. Goutam, the Works Manager of the Company, has been examined as O.P.W. 1. He is an Engineer. He has been working here as Works Manager from 1957. He executed the agreement Ext. G on behalf of the Company. His evidence is that the profit position of the Company has not changed since 1960 and rather the profit position of the Company is going down since then. According to him, although the sale has increased according to the balance-sheet, the profit has come down because the cost of raw materials has increased steadily and on account of keen competition in the market, the sale-price of the production has been decreased. The witness has also given a chart showing different categories of employees of the factory. This has been marked Ext. H. The minimum rate in this exhibit is according to the agreement Ext. G, and the maximum rate is inclusive of the ad-hoc increment mentioned in the said exhibit. From this witness we also get that there was an increase in production in 1961 but again there was a fall in 1963. He has denied the suggestion that a large number of machineries had been set up after 1960. The Works Manager, during the cross-examination, has stated that there has been decrease both in production and sales in 1963. Of course, the Company has acquired two sets of seasoning kilns during the year 1962-63 and during this period, the Company has installed a slicer.

Both the parties have brought in several documents in evidence. The balance-sheets of the Company are exhibited.

The issue in the order of Reference relates to grades and scales of pay of the workmen. No attempt has been made in this case to classify the workmen of the Company according to their duties or qualifications. At the time of argument even, none of the parties has made any endeavour to classify the workmen into several grades, so that any scale of pay may be fixed for any such class of workmen. In the absence of any reliable material, I cannot therefore make any classification of the workmen according to any grade. I must also say that the Union, even at the time of argument did not place before me any proposed gradation or scales of pay with regard to any class of workmen of the Company. The submission of the Union, at the time of argument, has been that the financial condition of the Company is prosperous and in view of the present day standard of living and also considering the wages which are being paid in the other factories, the minimum pay of the workmen should be raised and a fair maximum rate should be fixed. Both the parties have agreed before me that the wages should be fixed on the basis of region-cum-industry, if available.

First of all, I shall consider the financial condition of the Company and also its operations. I must note in this connection that after the argument was concluded, the Company filed an application for putting in the balance-sheet for the year 1962-63 in evidence. I heard both sides. The Union had no objection to the balance-sheet being taken in evidence and it was marked exhibit. The Union was allowed an opportunity to adduce evidence against it if any, but the Union did not adduce any further evidence. Further arguments of both the sides were heard. The balance-sheets of the Company are marked Ext. A series. The balnce-sheets of the Company will show that from 1961 there was a downward motion for the profit of the Company and ultimately, the balance-sheet for the year ended 30th September 1963 shows that the Company suffered loss for the year in question. As against the balance-seets, it has been argued from the side of the Union that according to the balance-sheets there was some acquisition of machineries by the Company and reserves were made every year. These facts, according to the Union, show that the Company is very much prosperous but with regard to Ext. A(3), the balance-sheet for the year 1963, it has been submitted from the side of the Union that the apparent loss is no loss because the balance-sheet shows strong financial position with future prospect. Moreover, Ext. A(3) shows that the cost of the stock of raw materials would be worth more than Rs. 18 lakhs. This amount was handed over for the next year. The Works Manager has stated in his evidence that the profit position of the Company has been going down since 1960. He has also stated that the decline in the profit was due to the increase in the cost of raw materials and the decrease in the sale price in the market on account of keen competition. The witness has further stated that there was fall in the production in the year 1963 below the mark. The evidence of the Works Manager is supported by the balance-sheets filed. Exhibit A(3), the balance-sheet for the year 1962-63 shows that lessor quantity of raw materials was consumed while for the year 1961-62, the quantity of raw materials consumed was greater. The balance-sheet will show that in the year 1962-63, there was a sharp decline in the sales of production. The Director's Report in Ext. A(3) has been referred to me from the side of the Union. This will again show that there was a decline in production and this decline was due to curtailed and interrupted timber supply from Assam and Andamans. It has been stated that the cost of production was further pushed up by the higher price of indigenous chemicals which had to be used in the absence of imported chemicals. It has been noted also that there was no corresponding increase in the price of the finished products. We also get that a steam generating set is being installed to augment the power supply and it is hoped that the increased supplies of veneers from the Andaman unit will lead to fuller utilisation of capacity of the plywood factory at Budge Budge. On the whole, on consideration of all the facts and circumstances, I have no manner of doubt in my mind to hold that at present, the progress of the Company has been rather checked on account of decline in production and sales coupled with increasing cost of raw materials and chemicals. There is no doubt that the Company was progressing in the last few years but at present, the progress has been arrested although the Company expects that it will go forward steadily in future. It is admitted at the time of argument by both the sides that the Company exports its products and as a result thereof, there has been some national gain. There can be no doubt that if the present difficulty is overcome, the Company with its future scheme will be able to go ahead successfully. At the present moment, if any liability is thrust upon the Company, its scheme and progress will seriously be affected.

I shall now consider the wages of the workmen of this Company on the basis of industry-cum-region. Admittedly, there is no other Plywood Factory nearabout the place of the Company's factory at Budge Budge. The Union wants to rely upon the wages of some other business concerns, relating to Jute and Petroleum. Exhibit 3 is the memorandum of settlement between Esso Standard Eastern and Petroleum Workers' Union. P.W. 2 has stated that Esso Standard Eastern is one of the richest Company in oil industry. He has not ascertained about its financial position. The agreement Ext. 3 cannot be considered as any basis. P.W. 2 has prepared a chart showing the minimum wage in accordance with the terms recommended by XV Labour Conference held on 11th December 1957. The chart has been marked Ext 4. P.W. 2 has stated that his calculations were not compared with those relating to previous years. Moreover, the chart itself will show that in the present situation of the society, the claim of the Union is unthinkable and it is impossible to satisfy that claim. The minimum wage claimed by the Union amounts to Rs. 225.81 nP. The Union wants to rely upon the report of the Central Wage Board for Jute Industry 1963. There is no material to suggest that Plywood Industry and the Jute Industry or the duties of the workmen in both the industries are the same. I cannot say that the Board's recommendation regarding jute workers will be applicable in case of Plywod Industries.

The Union wants to rely upon the rates of wages prevalent in Messrs. Jayasree Plywood. Exhibit 22 is a chart showing the remunerations of the workmen. P.W. 1 appeared before this Tribunal on behalf of Jayasree Plywood. He has stated that Jayasree Plywood is a Unit of Jayasree Tea and Industry Limited. This particular unit was commissioned in 1962. There is no separate balance-sheet or Profit and Loss Account for Jayasree Plywood. A consoliduated balance-sheet and Profit and Loss Accounts for Jayasree Tea and Industry Ltd., is being maintained. The Unit of Jayasree Plywood is operating at Khardah, a long way off from Budge Budge where the Albion Plywood Ltd. has its factory. Moreover, we have not before me, any material to show that the functions of the workmen having the same designation, working in Jaysaree Plywood and the Company are the same. On the other hand, Ext. 22 will show that the monthly rated operators of Jayasree Plywood are performing the supervisory jobs, whereas such operators of the Company have no such supervisory job. Exhibit 22 therefore cannot be accepted as a basis for the fixation of minimum wages for the workmen of the Albion Plywood Limited. We have not before me any material to understand the financial position of Jayasree Plywood of Khardah. The Union has filed some balance-sheets of Andamans Timber Industries Limited, but nobody has been examined to prove the labour condition of this business concern and I have nothing before me to indicate the prevalent wages of the workmen there. Exhibit 2 series are therefore of no importance.

The Company on the other hand wants to rely upon the minimum wages paid by some other Plywood business concerns. Exhibit D is a copy of a letter written by Messrs. Mysore Commercial Union Limited, Bangalore, in which it has been stated that the minimum wage for an adult male unskilled worker of the said Company has been fixed at Re. 1 per day. Exhibit E is a copy of another letter written by the Indian Plywood Manufacturing Company Limited, Bombay, stating that the minimum wage that is being paid to an unskilled labourer, working at the Dandeli Factory, is Rs. 1.69 nP. per day, but over and above that he gets free accommodation and other free benefits as water supply and kerosene oil for lighting and residence in the housing colony of the Company. Exhibit F is a copy of a letter written by the South Indian Plywood Manufacturers' Association to all the members of the Association particularly in Kerala State, giving a list of the minimum wages of different categories of labourers. From this it appears that an unskilled labourer gets Rs. 2 per day. Exhibit C is a letter of Andaman Timber Industries Limited showing that the minimum rate of wages in the factories of this Company is Rs. 2 per day inclusive of dearness allowance. It is also stated that there is no graded scale. On the basis of these documents, the Company has argued that the minimum rate of the wages of the workmen of the Albion Pvt. Ltd., viz., Rs. 2.16 nP. per day of 8 hours' work is most reasonable. It is very difficult, without any sufficient material regarding the cost of living and other factors to rely upon the minimum rates prevailing in other States. However, from Ext. 22, the chart of minimum rates prevailing in Jayasree Plywoods Limited relied upon by the Union and Ext. C, the latter giving the minimum rate of wages in the factories at Calcutta and Andaman of the Andamans Timber Industries Limited, we may get an idea about the minimum wages prevailing in West Bengal. Those two exhibits cannot be accepted as the basis for fixation of the minimum or the reasonable wages of the workmen in any Plywood Factory at Budge Budge. No evidence has been adduced before me to show that there is any grade or scales of pay of the workmen of any Plywood Industries. It has been contended from the side of the Company that Puja bonus is being paid to the workmen over and above the wages earned. It has been strenuously argued that in no other Plywood factory Puja bonus is being paid. The Company has submitted that the payment of Puja bonus should be considered as an amenity over and above the wages actually earned and if this fact is considered it should be held that the earnings of the workmen of the Company are more than expectation. Exhibit G(1) shows that there has been an agreement between the Company and their workmen regarding Puja bonus. Exhibit G(1) is the copy of a Memorandum of Settlement. It shows that Puja bonus is being paid to the workmen to the extent of two months and five days' wages to all their permanent workmen. This is certainly of financial advantage to the workmen of this Company. If this bonus is considered, then certainly the wages given to the workmen of this Company cannot be considered as less favourable when remunertions of other Plywood Industries are taken into consideration. Exhibit G(1) was executed on 22nd November 1961 and it is to remain in force up to the end of 1964. This is temporary arrangement no doubt, but when the Company has given special stress upon the payment of Puja bonus to the workmen during argument to show that the wages paid by the Company are reasonable, then I can safely take it for granted that the payment of Puja bonus to the workmen has been accepted by the Company as a part and parcel of pecuniary earnings allowed to the workmen along with the wages. When Ext. G(1) was executed the financial condition of the Company was very satisfactory. There was another Memorandum of Settlement between the Company and their workmen. That was executed on 8th February 1960 by both the sides. The evidence shows that the present rates of wages are on the basis of that agreement. The Company has argued that although the Union has given notice revoking that Settlement, there has been no change of circumstances for which the Union may demand wages at a higher rate. It is true that in 1960, when Ext. G, the Memorandum f Settlement regarding wages was executed, the nancial condition of the Company was prosperous. At present, the progress of the Company has been etarded and on account of the present day market, he Company has sustained loss as will be evident rom Ext. A(3). In fact there has been no change f circumstances in favour of the Union because here has been deterioration in the business of the Company on account of the decline in the sale and roduction of the Company due to several factors nd not on account of any latches on the part of he Company. On account of this change of ircumstances, the Company may very well say that t present, the Company cannot be burdened with rther financial liabilities. I have given my best onsideration to the facts and circumstances of this ase and I think that the Company should not be addled with such a burden so that it may not hrive and prosper. It is no good to check the rogress of the Company for, in that case the work-nen will ultimately suffer. If anything bad happens o this Company, the fate of the workmen working n the factory will be at stake and the national roduction and gain will certainly be affected. After studying the minimum rates of wages of lifferent industries, I find that at present, the wages aid by the Company to its workmen at Budge udge are on the whole, fair and reasonable specially n view of the fact that the Company is paying Puja onus to its workmen. I believe the Company ould be given some opportunity to recuperate its nancial position so that it may, in future, raise the age-structure, if possible. In the circumstances, I annot say that there should be at present grada-ons and scales of the wages of the workmen but am inclined to fix the rate of the minimum wages the workmen of the Company at Rs. 2.25 paise er day of eight hours' duty. I find from Ext. H, he chart prepared by the Company and which is ot challenged before me from the side of the Union, that the minimum wage that is being paid o a workman is Rs. 2.16 nP. and there are some orkmen who are getting Rs. 2.24 nP. per day. I ink, the lower limit of the wage per day should e raised to Rs. 2.25 payse. This increase of the te of the minimum wages of the workmen will not riously affect the Company's financial position. he Company has not included the durwans or the embers of the Watch & Ward department in its art, but from Ext. 20 prepared by the Union, it pears that the wages of the members of the Watch d Ward Department are reasonable as minimum r the present.

Before conclusion I must mention another fact. t the request of both the parties, I inspected the mpany's factory at Budge Budge, in course of the aring accompanied by the representatives of the nion and the Company. I inspected the factory 14th December 1963 and visited several depart-ents. I found the men at work. The operations re explained by both the sides and after inspection, am of the opinion that most of the workmen cluded several operators do not require any high ill for their work. I think, any ordinary labourer n become an operator if he has general intelligence d if he gets a practical training for about six nths. This belief of mine is based upon the idence given by several workmen examined in this case and confirmed by the actual operations seen on the spot. It appears that an ordinary cooli or labourer may become an operator if he gets some training for a period. He does not require any special education. Any cooli having commonsense and ordinary intelligence, is able to do the functions of operators in several departments of the factory. Heavy manual labour is also saved by several mechanical processes.

In view of my findings above I do not think that there should be any fixation of grades and scales of pay of the workmen of the Company. I have, however, fixed the minimum wages of the workmen at Rs. 2.25 paise per day. As I have already indicated that the Company has treated the Puja bonus as a part of the earnings of the workmen in service, such bonus shall be paid every year according to the term Nos. 2 and 6 of Ext. G(1), until and unless wages of the workmen are revised in future either by mutual agreement or by any award or otherwise according to law. I have considered this bonus as a part of the earnings of the workmen while considering the rates of wages. I further direct that the workmen of the Company would be entitled to the benefit of the minimum wages fixed by me, with effect from 1st April 1964.

This is the award.

AWARD

By Order No. 179-I.R./IR/10L-257/62, dated the 11th January 1963, the Government of West Bengal, in the Labour Department, referred under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, the industrial dispute between Messrs. Wesman Engineering Co. (P.) Ltd., 41 Dum Dum Road, Dum Dum, Calcutta-28, and their workmen represented by Wesman Engineering Workers' Union, 24 H. L. R. Road, Calcutta-28, regarding the matter specified in the schedule, to the Third Industrial Tribunal constituted under section 7A of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, by Notification No. 808-I.R./IR/3A-2/57, dated the 11th March 1957, for adjudication.

Issue

Whether the workmen are entitled to any Profit Bonus for the year 1960-61?

If so, what should be the quantum?

This is a reference made under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, by the Government of West Bengal, in their Labour Department, for adjudication of an industrial dispute existing between Messrs. Wesman Engineering Co. (P.) Ltd., 41 Dum Dum Road, Dum Dum, Calcutta-28 (hereinafter be referred as the Company), and their workmen represented by Wesman Engineering Workers' Union, 24 H. L. R. Road, Calcutta-28 (hereinafter be referred as the Union).

Notices having been received from this Tribunal, both parties entered appearances and presented their cases in writing.

The Union's case in the written statement is, as usual, that the Company is a prosperous engineering concern having employed more than 150 workmen, but the workmen are not being given proper and adequate wages. The Company has, for long, been paying some bonus before Puja every year on the basis of a scheme, and in accordance with that scheme, the Company has paid only two months' wages as bonus in the year 1961. But the Company having made sufficient profit the workmen claim additional bonus out of profit for the year 1960-61. They claim three months' wages as additional bonus for the said year.

The Company has raised some preliminary objections. The first one is that the union has no locus standi to raise the present dispute inasmuch as it does not truly represent the majority of the workmen in the employ of the Company. The second objection of the Company is that the present reference in respect of the workmen's claim of bonus for the year 1960-61 is not maintainable in view of the fact that there is a bipartite agreement arrived at between the parties in existence and in terms of that agreement the workmen have received two months' consolidated wages on 20th September 1961 as bonus for the year 1960-61. The said agreement is still subsisting and binding on the parties under section 19(2) of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, and the said agreement has not been duly terminated in accordance with law.

Besides the above preliminary objections taken by the company, it has been further stated that the workmen cannot claim bonus simultaneously on two different basis, viz., on the basis of the agreed scheme and on the basis of Company's trading results. The Company has denied all other allegations raised in the written statement by the Union.

Decision

The Union has examined two witnesses, Secretary of the Union and a workman, and the Company has examined an equal number of witnesses, they are the Works Manager and the Accountant of the Company. The Union has exhibited one document and the Company has relied on a number of documents exhibited in the case.

Of the two preliminary objections raised by the Company in the written statement, the first one was not pressed at the time of hearing of the case. That objection as to the locus standi of the Union was ultimately abandoned and waived by the Company.

The other objection, viz., the question of maintainability of the reference relating to the Workmen's demand for additional bonus in view of subsequent agreement between the parties has been seriously pressed and pursued. Admittedly there was a Bipartite agreement between the workers and the Company or in other words, between the employers and the employees on 4th October 1956, and in terms of that agreement the Company has been paying bonus to its workmen according to the agreed scheme of bonus. P.W. 1 Shri Saral Sen, the Secretary of the Union, admits in his evidence this agreement Ext. A. He further admits in his cross-examination that the Union or the workmen did not raise any objection at the time of payment of bonus during the last two years in accordance with the agreed scheme. P.W. 2 Shri Harihar Dey who is a workman also admits that the payment of bonus was received without any protest. D.W. 1 Shri L. V. Bhaswani, the General Manager of the firm, has deposed that the Company has already paid two months' wages as bonus to the workmen for the year 1961 which is not challenged. Therefore, it is an admitted fact that there is an agreed scheme of bonus and the Company has not violated the terms of agreement but has been regularly paying bonus every year according to the scheme mutually agreed upon between the parties, and admittedly for the year 1960-61 the workmen have already been paid two months' wages as bonus at the scheduled time. It is not disputed by the Union that in making the payment of two months' wages as bonus for the year 1960-61 there has been any violation of the terms of the bipartite agreement Ext. A. It appears from the said agreement that bonus to be calculated at Rs. 2,250 on Rs. 10,00,000 and it is to be paid only on goods delivered and for which bills have been drawn. Therefore, the basis of calculation of bonus is the actual amount of sale proceeds which amount depends on production as well as prevailing prices of the goods produced and sold. Therefore, it cannot strictly be called production bonus which depends upon the quantum of production of individual workman. In the present case it is the sum total of the various goods produced by the different departments irrespective of the capacity of the individual workman to produce. The question of profit in a way is also covered up by the agreed scheme of bonus because in accordance with the amount of profit the quantum of bonus will also be higher as I have said the total sale proceeds will depend upon the production, margin of profit and also on the quantity actually produced sold. Therefore, the workmen will not be competent to raise a separate and distinct claim for profit bonus so long the agreed scheme of bonus subsists. If they are not satisfied with the existing scheme of bonus, to which they voluntarily agreed and in accordance with which scheme of bonus they have been accepting payment regularly every year without a murmur or protest, they can get away from that agreed scheme of bonus only by termination thereof in accordance with law. But admittedly there has been no termination of the agreement Ext. A. Therefore, it continues to be binding upon the parties to the agreement until the expiry of two months from the date on which a notice in writing of an intention to terminate the settlement is given by one of the parties to the other party under section 19(2) of the Industrial Disputes Act. P.W. 2 Shri Harihar Dey is a workman in service of the Company for nine years. He admits that no notice of termination of agreement was given to the management.

The Union of the workmen does not contend that whatever bonus the workmen are being paid every year by the Company is a customary bonus or it is claimed as condition of service. But it is definitely admitted that the workmen are being paid bonus according to the terms of the agreed scheme of bonus Ext. A. That being so, for reasons I have already discussed the present claim of the workmen for profit bonus for the year 1960-61 is not maintainable. It is undisputed that whatever amount of bonus due to the workmen in accordance with the agreed scheme for the year 1960-61 has already been paid in proper time and the workmen have grievance or nothing to complain about the said payment of bonus in accordance with the scheme of bonus agreed upon by the parties. Therefore, I uphold the Company's objection. The present reference relating to the workmen's claim of profit bonus for the year 1960-61 is not maintainable.

ORDERS

No. 3815-I.R./IR/11L-374/63.—27th August 1964. —Whereas under the Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, Order No. 5123-I.R./IR/11L-374/63, dated the 16th December 1963, read with Corrigendum No. 690-I.R./IR/11L-374/63, dated the 20th February 1964, the industrial dispute between Messrs. Louis Dreyfus & Co. Ltd., 18A Brabourne Road, Calcutta-1, and their employees represented by the Louis Dreyfus Employees' Association, 12A Netaji Subhas Road, Calcutta-1, regarding the issue mentioned in the said order being a matter specified in the third schedule to the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), was referred for adjudication to the Seventh Industrial Tribunal;

And whereas the said Seventh Industrial Tribunal has submitted to the State Government its award on the said industrial dispute;

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the provisions of section 17 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), the Governor is pleased hereby to publish the said award as shown in the annexure hereto.

ANNEXURE

In the matter of an industrial dispute between Messrs. Louis Dreyfus & Co. Ltd., 18A Brabourne Road, Calcutta-1, and their employees represented by the Louis Dreyfus Employees' Association, 12A Netaji Subhas Road, Calcutta-1, referred under G.O. BEFORE THE SEVENTH INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL

Present:

Shri S. K. ROY, Judge.

Present for the Company: Shri J. K. Ghosh, Advocate, Orr. Dignam & Co., Solicitors.

Present for the Union: Shri Nikhil Ranjan Roy, Working President of the Union.

The above dispute over the issue given in the Order of Reference and reproduced below was referred for adjudication to this Tribunal by the Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, Order No. 5123-I.R./IR/11L-374/63, dated 16th December 1963.

Issue

Is the retrenchment of the following workmen justified? To what relief, if any, are they entitled?

(1) Shri R. K. Mondal.
(2) Shri S. N. Chatterjee.
(3) Shri R. C. J. Shah.

(20) Shri Anil Kr. Dey (vide corrigendum No. 690-I.R., dated 20th February 1964).
(21) Shri Nirmal Mukherjee.
(22) Shri Ajit Kumar Roy.

Notices of the Reference were duly served upon the parties and they appeared and filed their respective written statements. After the usual preliminary proceedings and some adjournments, including some adjournments taken jointly by the parties for effecting a settlement, the case was finally fixed for compromise and in default thereof for hearing of some petitions regarding production of documents on 14th August 1964. On that date the parties' Representatives appeared before the Tribunal and stated that the entire dispute had been amicably settled between the parties and they also filed a joint petition of compromise together with a Memorandum of Settlement containing the terms upon which the dispute under Reference had been amicably settled and also some other terms relating to other matters in dispute between the parties but not under Reference for adjudication.

I have heard the Representatives of the parties. I have also considered the terms of settlement in respect of the dispute under Reference. These terms are contained in Part A of the Memorandum of Settlement annexed to the joint petition of compromise. The terms appear to be quite fair and lawful. I am satisfied that there has been a bona fide settlement of the dispute under Reference between the parties on these terms.

Accordingly there is to be a compromise award according to the joint petition of compromise and in terms of Part A of the Memorandum of Settlement annexed thereto.

In the result I make a compromise award according to the joint petition of compromise filed by the parties and in terms of Part A of the Memorandum of Settlement. Copies of the joint petition of compromise and Part A of the Memorandum of Settlement are made a part of the award as an annexure.

(Re: Retrenchment of staff.)

6. It is mutually agreed between the parties: (a) That out of 22 retrenched workmen, whose cases are now pending adjudication, the following retrenched workmen shall be taken back into service in any department at the discretion of the Management with continuity of employment, within a week from the date of this settlement, that such placement shall not be treated as an inter-Depaartmental transfer, and that the period between the date of their retrenchment and the date of their resumption of duties shall be treated as extra-ordinary leave without pay, although they will receive for every month of such period an ex-gratia lump sum payment equivalent to seven days' salary calculated on the basis of the last salary paid (periods less than a month will be paid pro rata):

Name and serial No. in the order of reference
(1) Mr. Anil Kumar Dey (20).
(2) Mr. P. K. Mullick (5).
(3) Mr. R. K. Mondal (1).
(4) Mr. N. Mukherjee (21).
(5) Mr. Ajit K. Dey (22).
(6) Mr. Antharjami Naik (16).
(7) Mr. Rakhal Ch. Dey (15).

(b) That the retrenchment of the remaining workmen shall stand.

(c) That the following retrenched workmen who have already collected their dues including retrenchment compensation shall not qualify for any further benefit:

Name and serial No. in the order of reference
(1) Mr. M. C. Dey (10).
(2) Mr. D. P. Seal (7).
(3) Mr. S. N. Seal (8).
(4) Mr. C. R. Bose (11).
(5) Mr. S. K. Dev (12).
(6) Mr. R. C. J. Shah (3).
(7) Mr. N. Gomes (4).
(8) Mr. A. K. Ghosh (6).
(9) Mr. K. L. Bhattacharjee (18).
(10) Mr. L. K. Roy (17).

(d) That the following retrenched workmen who have not collected their dues including retrenchment compensation will receive, in addition to their normal dues including retrenchment compensation, an ex-gratia lump sum payment equivalent to 14 days' salary per month for the period between the date of retrenchment and the 30th June 1964, calculated on the basis of the last salary paid to them:

Name and serial No. in the order of reference
(1) Mr. S. N. Chatterjee (2).
(2) Mr. T. S. Gomes (9).
(3) Mr. P. R. G. Nair (19).
(4) Mr. T. P. Sarkar (13).

(e) That the workmen, Sanyasi Charan Das (serial number 14 in the order of reference) who was re-employed on 17th February 1964, will receive a lump sum ex-gratia payment equivalent to seven days' salary per month for the period from the date of his retrenchment to the date of his re-employment, calculated on the basis of the salary paid at the time of retrenchment.

(f) That a joint petition shall be filed by the parties before the Seventh Industrial Tribunal praying for the disposal of the pending Industrial Dispute in terms of Part A of this Memorandum of Settlement.

PART B

(Re: Charter of Demands.)

Scales of pay—

(g) That the existing clerks shall be classified into three grades, viz., Grade B, Grade A and Intermediate Grade.

(h) That the scales of pay for each grade shall be as follows:

Clerks, Grade B—Rs. 77—6—125—7—181—8—245—9—254—10—264 covering the period of 27 years.

Clerks, Grade A—Rs. 166—12—250—15—340 covering the period of 13 years.

Clerks, Intermediate Grade—This grade will commence at Rs. 265 with increments at the discretion of the Company.

(i) That for the purpose of fitting the existing clerks into the aforesaid grades, the Company will consider initially all staff who by virtue of their basic salary have reached the top of B Grade as belonging to A Grade, similarly all who have reached the top of A Grade as belonging to the Intermediate Grade, it being understood that such consideration is for the initial absorption of the staff into the new pay scales. Appropriate increment will be made where necessary to adjust each worker's current pay to the nearest wage stage of the initial grade.

(j) That thereafter any necessary upgrading will be at the sole discretion of the Management, who will then examine the merits of the staff who are eligible for upgrading, i.e., present salary above the commencing state of the next higher grade. The performance of the staff concerned will be studied carefully and their merit rating established between the coming into force of the new pay scales and the end of the current year, when it is agreed that the first upgradings will be considered, and for this purpose the Vice-President of the Association will be taken into confidence.

(k) That the scale of pay for the subordinate staff will be a single grade with the following time scale:

Rs. 34—1—44—2—74—3—83—4—91 covering a period of 30 years.

Bonus—

(l) That bonus will be paid to the workmen at the sole discretion of the Management until such time as the recommendations of the Bonus Commission become enacted into Law, after which the statutory provisions of the Law so enacted will be observed.

Tiffin allowance—

(m) That tiffin allowance shall be paid to the workmen as follows:

(1) Clerical staff 75 P. per head per day;

(2) Subordinate staff 56 P. per head per day for all full working days, but Saturdays excluded.

Medical benefits—

(n) That the Management shall pay at its discretion actual medical expenses up to a maximum of Rs. 90 per annum to each member of the clerical and the subordinate staff, on production of receipts supporting expenses incurred in respect of the member of the staff himself.

Gratuity—

(o) That taking into account that the existing Provident Fund is based on 6¼ per cent. of basic salary and dearness allowance, which is an advantage over many other firms in which it is based on basic salary only, and also taking into account the present trading results and prospects of the Company, the Management is unable to take any heavy financial burden, and consequently the demand for pension was given up and a Gratuity Scheme formulated in lieu thereof on the following terms:

(i) On the death of a workman whilst in the service of the Company, or on his physical or mental inability to continue further in service when so certified by a Registered Medical Practitioner, approved by the Company—One month's basic salary for each completed year of service, subject to a maximum of 15 months' basic salary, last drawn, to be paid to the heirs of the deceased employee, or to the disabled employee as the case may be.

(ii) On superannuation or voluntary retirement or resignation, or termination of employment otherwise than by dismissal for misconduct after 15 years of continuous service—Fifteen months' basic salary last drawn.

Retirement age—

(p) That the workmen shall retire on reaching the age of 58 years.

Privilege leave—

(q) That privilege leave for workmen shall be as follows:

For workmen with less than five years service, 15 days per year, cumulative up to 30 days. For workmen with over five years' service, 30 days per year, cumulative up to 60 days.

Casual leave—

(r) That casual leave for workmen shall be as follows:

Ten days per year subject to the existing practice of the Company.

Sick leave—

(s) That sick leave for workmen shall be as follows:

One month on full pay and one month on half pay per year. (Sick leave in the case of serious and protracted illness may be cumulative up to three months on full pay and three months on half pay, subject to proper evidence of the nature of the illness being produced to the satisfaction of the Management.)

7. That this Agreement shall, in so far as it relates to Part B hereof, be treated as having come into operation with effect from July 1, 1964, and shall remain in force up to the 31st December 1967.

For the Union: Shri Dwijen Sen, Advocate, and Shri Anil Das Chowdhury, Advocate.

The Government of West Bengal by its Labour Department Order No. 4438-I.R./IR/11L-194/63, dated 22nd October 1963, referred to this Tribunal an industrial dispute between Messrs. Vallabdas Champasi & Co., 20 Pollock Street (3rd Floor), Calcutta-1 (hereinafter referred to as the Company), and their workmen represented by Burrabazar Jamadar Sangh, 90 Lower Chitpore Road, Calcutta-7 (hereinafter referred to as the Union), for adjudication under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act.

The issue framed in this case for adjudication runs as follows:

Whether the termination of service of Shri Ramjog Tewari is justified? What relief, if any, is he entitled to?

AWARD

After service of usual notices on the parties, both the Union and the Company filed their respective written statements, and ultimately they filed a joint petition of compromise on 4th August 1964. The terms of settlement are fair and may be accepted. The petition of compromise is signed by the representatives of both the Union and the Company. The workman Shri Ramjog Tewari appeared before me and admitted that he received payment of Rs. 850 in full and final settlement of his claim. A copy of the receipt has also been filed. Accordingly, I make an award in terms of the petition of compromise which will form part of the award as Annexure"A".

This industrial dispute was referred for my adjudication under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act by the Government of West Bengal by its Labour Department Order No. 3625-I.R./IR/8L-26/63. dated Calcutta, the 29th August 1963. One party to the dispute is Messrs. Bharat Woollen Mills Ltd., Handloon Section, 4 Cossipore Road, Calcutta-2 (hereinafter to be described as the Company), and the other party is their workmen represented by Bharat Woollen Mills Employees Union, 249 Bipin Behari Ganguly Street, Calcutta-12 (hereinafter to be described as the Union).

The following issues have been referred to by the order of reference:

1. Whether the closure of the factory is real and bona fide?
2. Whether the closure is beyond the control of the management and in the circumstances justified?
3. To what relief, if any, are the workmen mentioned in the enclosed list entitled?

On receipt of the reference usual notices were served upon the parties. Written statement was filed first on behalf of the Union. The following is a brief summary of the written statement of the Union. The Company is the only concern in West Bengal which produces woollen articles and it has got an all-India market and it makes huge earnings Apart from the handloom section at Cossipore there are two other factories of this management—one at Belghoria and another at Tollygunge. The services of the workmen of different factories are not inter-changeable or transferable. There were about 52 workmen in the handloom section at Cossipore out of whom eight workmen were illegally and unjustifiably dismissed by the company in December, 1962. An agitation was set on foot by the remaining workmen who demanded their reinstatement. The management adopted various unfair methods for disrupting the unity of the workmen and being unable to coerce the workmen the company suddenly issued a notice on 12th January 1963 for closing down the factory on and from 14th January 1963 on the ground of financial difficulty and the workmen were directed to report for duty at Tollygunge factory on 14th January 1963. This closure was a mere pretence and not a real and bona fide closure and it was not beyond the control of the management Neither the order of closure nor the order of transfer is justified. The Union accordingly prayed that the closure be declared to be unreal and mala fide and not beyond the control of the management and to direct the Company to allow the workmen to resume their duties either at Belghoria or at Tollygunge until the work of the handloom section at Cossipore is started again. A prayer was also made for payment of wages for the period of unemployment.

In the written statement filed by the Company it was stated that the reference is ultra vires of the Industrial Disputes Act inasmuch as there cannot be any reference after the closure of Cossipore factory. The handloom section at Cossipore was opened as an experimental measure and as it was found to be unremunerative the Company had to close it for economic reasons. Notice of this closure was first issued on 22nd December 1962 and not on 12th January 1963 as alleged by the Union. Simultaneously with the order of closure of the factory an order was issued upon the workmen to report for duty at Tollygunge where the company had a pre-existing handloom section. Though the three factories at Cossipore, Belghoria and Tollygunge were separate in many respects there was an intimate connection between them inasmuch as all of them belonged to the same Company and many of the operations for the transaction of business were inter-dependent. The Company had the right to transfer the workmen from one factory to another and at the time of closure of the Cossipore factory the workmen of that factory were transferred on a distinct assurance that their service conditioned would remain the same. Although several notices were issued to the workmen for reporting themselves at Tollygunge on the closure of Cossipore factory they did not abide by the lawful order of the Company and ultimately the Company had to treat them as deserters. The closure of the Cossipore factory is real and bona fide and the workmen are not entitled to any relief in this case.

Decision

Issues Nos. 1 and 2

These two issues being connected are taken together for adjudication. Before I come to actual adjudication of the issues I shall dispose of two preliminary objections raised on behalf of the Company. The first objection was to the effect that the reference is incompetent inasmuch as it was made by Government long after actual closure. It is an admitted fact that the factory was closed with effect from 14th January 1963. The date of the reference is 29th August 1963. Shri Sen contended that no dispute could be raised and no reference could be made by Government after the actual closure of the factory. In my opinion this objection of Shri Sen is not well founded. The reference is competent for assessment of the amount of compensation under section 25FFF of the Industrial Disputes Act, if not for any other purpose. It has been held in a case of Rajasthan High Court reported in 1963, 2, L.L.J., page 47 (Bijey Cotton Mills versus Rashtriya Mill Mazdoor Sabha) that section 25FFF of the Industrial Disputes Act provides for compensation to workers in case of closing down of an undertaking. This provision will be altogether useless if the dispute under section 25FFF cannot be referred to the Industrial Tribunal even when an undertaking has been closed down. This being the legal position I must overrule the objection of Shri Sen that the reference is incompetent as it was made after the closure of the factory.

The second objection raised on behalf of the Company was that although the Company had three separate units, one at Tollygunge, another at Belghoria and the third at Cossipore at the relevant time, all the units were owned and possessed by the same Company and as only one of the units was closed down it cannot be said that the entire business was closed. There was thus no closure and no question of reinstatement or payment of retrenchment compensation arises. Section 25FFF provides for payment of compensation in case of closing down of an undertaking. The world "undertaking" has not been separately defined in the Industrial Disputes Act. This word appears where a definition of the word industry has been given in clause (j) of section 2 of the Industrial Disputes Act. The definition of industry is quoted below:

> "Industry" means any business, trade, undertaking, manufacture or calling of employers and includes any calling, service, employment, handicraft, or industrial occupation or avocation of workmen."

Shri Sen contended on behalf of the Company that as only one of the units of this Company has been closed, it cannot be said that the entire business of the Company has been closed. This argument of Shri Sen does not appear to be acceptable. Section 25FFF does not speak of the closing of an entire business or industry. The section is attracted "where an undertaking is closed down". It transpires in evidence that the Cossipore Unit is a separate unit. A statement of accounts filed by the Company for the purpose of showing that this unit was a losing concern would show that the accounts of this unit were separately kept. It is true that the management of all the three units was the same. But as Cossipore unit was a separate and self-contained unit, I am of opinion that the closure of this unit or undertaking attracts the provision of section 25FFF of the Industrial Disputes Act. It is significant that in the order of reference one of the parties to the dispute has been mentioned as Bharat Woollen Mills, Handloom Section, 4 Cossipore Road, and not the entire Company. The second legal objection taken by Shri Sen on behalf of the Company is overruled.

I now come to the merits of the case. The primary question for my determination is whether the closure of the factory is real or bona fide. According to the case of the company this factory was started as an experimental measure towards the latter part of 1961 for production of articles of hand loom weaving. According to the case of the Union the factory came into existence in 1959. The question as to the actual time of the starting of the factory will not be material for the purpose of present reference purpose because, as will be seen later, the workmen are not entitled to get any retrenchment compensation in the present reference.

Shri Das Gupta contended on behalf of the Union that there has been a pretence of closure and not actual closure. A list of 38 workmen has been furnished in the order of reference showing the workmen who are affected by the closure. It is an admitted fact that there is a separate reference concerning eight other workmen who have been dismissed by the Company for some acts of alleged misconduct. I am not at present concerned with those eight workmen. It is an undisputed fact that in addition to these 46 workmen there was another batch of six workmen whose names are not included in the present reference. Shri Das Gupta contended on behalf of the Union that these six workmen are still working in the factory and the looms and machines are still being maintained in the factory premises. After considering the evidence adduced by both parties I find that these six workmen are not engaged in any production work. They are casual labourers who are employed from time to time for keeping the factory premises in order and for cleansing the machines. It is true that the head office of this Company submitted an application to the Chief Inspector of Factories on 20th December 1962 for renewal of the license for Cossipore Handloom Section. Notice of closure of the factory was given for the first time on 22nd December 1962 (vide Ext. 8). The evidence of Shri Briz Bhusan Chandra Sarma (P.W. 1) would show that the application of renewal was made through inadvertence and as soon as the mistake was detected an application was made to the Chief Inspector of Factories on 2nd January 1963 for cancellation of the renewal application (vide Ext. 11). It is not disputed that since the factory was closed on 14th January 1963 there has been no production in it. Sufficient evidence has been given on behalf of the Company that this factory has been closed because it had been found uneconomic to run it. There is absolutely no reason to think that the Company has closed the factory simply for the fun of it. The suggestion of the Union was that the factory was closed for the purpose of scattering the workmen who had formed a Union. The suggestion is not acceptable. Although the Company is engaging casual workmen from time to time for the purpose of keeping the factory premises and machinery in good order until they can be suitably disposed of, I am of opinion that it has got no intention of renewing the work of production. The evidence adduced on behalf of the Company would show that only Tollygunge factory had a handloom weaving section. The evidence of Shri Sharma (P.W. 1) would show that that section of Tollygunge has also been closed down and retrenchment compensation has been paid to the workers concerned because the handloom section of Tollygunge has been found to be unremunerative. On a consideration of these facts and circumstances I am of opinion that the closure of Cossipore Unit is real and bona fide. This disposes of issue No. 1.

The second issue is whether the closure is beyond the control of the management and in the circumstances justified. I have already observed that the closure has been effected for reasons of economy and no other reason. The explanation to section 25FFF lays down that where an undertaking is closed down only for financial difficulties, closure shall not be deemed to have been effected on account of unavoidable circumstances beyond the control of the employers. In the present case the closure being due to financial difficulties it should be held that it was not beyond the control of the management. This disposes of the second issue raised in the order of reference.

I now come to the third and last issue, namely, to what relief, if any are the workmen covered by the order of reference entitled.

In the present case the workmen can claim only retrenchment compensation according to the provision of section 25FFF and no other benefit. I would have directed payment of compensation under this section but for one insurmountable difficulty which stands in the way of the Union. I have already referred to the first notice of closure given by the Company. It is Ext. 8 and it is dated 22nd December 1962. By this notice all the workers of this factory are notified to the effect that the factory at Cossipore would be closed with effect from 14th January 1963. Simultaneously with this notice of closure the workers were notified that they should report at Tollygunge factory with effect from 14th January 1963 where their services were transferred and their existing service conditions would not be changed in any way. The second notice to which I shall refer is Ext. 1. It is dated 12th January 1963. In this notice the company reiterated that the factory would be closed from 14th January 1963 and the 38 workmen involved in this reference were directed to report for duty at Tollygunge mill on and from 14th January 1963. It is an admitted fact that these notices were not complied with by the workmen. There were some subsequent notices issued by the Company directing the workmen to report for duty at Tollygunge. There was no compliance on the part of the workmen and the matter was taken to the Labour Commissioner by the Union. Exhibit 4 is a letter from Assistant Labour Commissioner Shri A. C. Roy Choudhury to the Managing Director of Bharat Woollen Mills. It is dated 5th February 1963. The relevant portion of this letter is quoted below:

"Sir,

With reference to the joint conference held at this office on 28th January 1963 on the subject noted above, I am to write that I have persuaded the workers to agree to accept the transfer order on the following terms:

(1) The Management would procure houses for the workers transferred to Tollygunge factory in the neighbourhood of the factory and the workers would pay for reasonable rent charged for these houses;

(2) Pending procurement of houses, as mentioned above, the Management would pay actual bus fare to these workers to attend their duty at Tollygunge from Cossipore area; and

(3) The facilities already offered by the management to the workers for transfer as well as their continuity of service shall be granted by the management.

You are requested to communicate your final decision of the matter within two days of the receipt of this letter failing which the matter, I am afraid, would have to be referred to Government for necessary action."

The reply to the above letter was given by the Company on 13th February 1963 and it is marked Ext. 4(a). This reply would show that the Company did not agree to undertake to provide the workmen with quarters at Tollygunge as was demanded by them. The Company was agreeable to pay them bus fare for a period of three months for their journey from Cossipore to Tollygunge. There was no settlement and the out-come is the present reference.

Shri Sen contended on behalf of the Company that the management had the absolute right to transfer the workmen from one unit to another and as they refused to abide by the lawful orders of the Company they are not entitled to get any compensation until it is held that the transfer orders were illegal. Shri Das Gupta argued, on the other hand, that transfer orders were, on the face of them, illegal inasmuch as Cossipore Unit was a self-contained unit and the workmen were not liable to be transferred from Cossipore to Tollygunge. As the reference stands, it is not possible for me to make any finding on this question. The legality or illegality of the transfer orders was not made the subject matter of any issue in the order of reference. Shri Sen, no doubt, contended on behalf of the Company that before the conciliation officer the transfer orders were not put in issue by the Union and it simply demanded accommodation of the workmen at Tollygunge. In my opinion, this was done by way of settlement of dispute and it cannot be argued as was done by Shri Sen that the Union is precluded from questioning the validity of the transfer orders at any subsequent time. I hold that the Union is entitled to question the legality or propriety of the transfer orders but not in the present reference. Until and unless the legality of these transfer orders is specifically made the subject matter of a Government reference, this Tribunal is not entitled to pass any opinion on the question one way or other. If the transfer orders are found to be legal and valid the workmen would not be entitled to get any compensation because, by their refusal to obey those orders they should be held to be deserters. If, on the other hand, it is found that the Company had no right to transfer the workmen from Cossipore to Tollygunge, then the workmen would be entitled to get retrenchment compensation according to the provisions of section 25FFF of the Industrial Disputes Act. It is with regret that I hold that in the present reference I am unable to adjudicate on that matter with the result that the dispute remains unresolved on account of the above lacuna in the order of reference.

In view of the above findings I hold that the workmen concerned will not get any relief in the present reference.

ANNEXURE

In the matter of an industrial dispute between Messrs. Braithwaite & Co. (India) Ltd., Hide Road, Calcutta-43, and their workmen represented by Braithwaite Sramik Karmachari Union, 27B Circular Garden Reach Road, Calcutta-23. (Case No. VIII-8/64.)

For the Union: Shri Ram Sen.

The Government of West Bengal by its Labour Department Order No. 103-I.R./IR/10L-14(A)/63, dated 11th January 1964, referred to this Tribunal an industrial dispute between Messrs. Braithwaite & Co. (India) Ltd., Hide Road, Calcutta-43 (hereinafter referred to as the Company), and their workmen represented by Braithwaite Sramik Karmachari Union, 27B Circular Garden Reach Road, Calcutta-23 (hereinafter referred to as the Union), for adjudication under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act.

The issue framed in this case for adjudication runs as follows:

Whether the dismissal of Shri Aditya Ghosal is justified? To what relief, if any, is he entitled?

AWARD

The written statement of the Union discloses the fact that Shri Aditya Kumar Ghosal was a motor driver employed by the Company and took privilege leave for 12 days with effect from 5th March 1962. He was dismissed from service from 12th May 1962, and this dismissal is challenged as unjustified.

The Company filed a written statement in answer to that of the Union. The allegation against Shri Ghosal is that he applied for privilege leave for 12 days with effect from 5th March 1962 to 16th March 1962 stating that the leave was required for dealing with a dispute of land in his native town. The leave was sanctioned as the ground alleged was considered sufficient. During the period of leave Shri Ghosal took employment as a car driver under the National Garage (P) Ltd. He was charge-sheeted for misconduct asking him to show cause. Shri Ghosal admitted at the enquiry that he drove a motor car in a convoy to Bombay and reached there on 15th March 1963, i.e., on the ninth day of his leaving Calcutta and for that he was paid Rs. 120 by the National Garage Company. The Company accordingly dismissed Shri Ghosal for misconduct.

Decision

The leave application (Ext. B) shows that Shri Ghosal applied for 12 days' leave to settle a dispute of land at home, and that leave was sanctioned. It was privilege leave, a leave which was due to him. The copy of the charge-sheet issued against Shri Ghosal is Ext. A. The charge against him is that during the period of leave he took employment as a car driver with the National Garage (P) Ltd. and drove a car from Calcutta to Bombay in a convoy. Another charge is that he took leave on false pretext. These are said to be constituting misconduct according to the Company's conditions of service. It is an admitted fact that Shri Ghosal applied for leave on the ground of settling a land dispute at home and he went on leave. Shri Ghosal's evidence is that the land matter was settled in two days. During the unexpired portion of the leave he got an opportunity for going to Bombay and took employment in a convoy during the leave period and for that he received Rs. 120 from the National Garage (P) Ltd. These are all admitted facts. The enquiry was held in presence of Shri Ghosal who had opportunities of cross-examining the witnesses. The enquiry was therefore conducted fairly. The enquiry proceeding is Ext. F. The enquiry report shows the finding that Shri Ghosal took up appointment with another Company during the period of his leave and that itself is a misconduct for which dismissal was recommended. It is significant to note that the Company has no standing orders and acceptance of a temporary employment during the period of leave without any detriment to the interest of the Company is not forbidden by any standing orders. So, it cannot be said that it was a condition of service that while serving under the present Company, Shri Ghosal was not in a position to earn some additional income by taking up engagement temporarily beyond his duty hours or while he was on privilege leave. Shri Ghosal's conduct in accepting such temporary appointment cannot be construed as a misconduct according to the common notion of misconduct as it is ordinarily understood. The conduct of Shri Ghosal was in no way detrimental to the interest of the Company. But the fact remains that he was dismissed on that ground. The finding of the Enquiring Officer is therefore perverse in view of the fact that he described the conduct of Shri Ghosal as misconduct, although that conduct of Shri Ghosal cannot really fall under the description of misconduct as it is commonly understood.

The learned representative for the Company attempts to make out another ground for dismissal, and it is Shri Ghosal's taking privilege leave on false allegation. But this allegation of the Company is not borne out by evidence at all. On the contrary, the evidence is that Shri Ghosal took privilege leave for settlement of a land dispute. He proceeded on leave to his home and settled the land dispute. It cannot be argued that as soon as the land dispute was settled, the workmen on leave should have cancelled the remaining portion of his leave and resumed his duties before the expiry of the leave already sanctioned. Privilege leave once sanctioned is supposed to be enjoyed in full by the workman concerned. Now if Shri Ghosal during the unexpired portion of his leave had earned some additional income by accepting off chance temporary employment in another Company, it cannot be said that the application for leave was made on false pretext. There is no evidence that Shri Ghosal obtained employment first and then applied for leave on false grounds. The chance came by accident and he availed of the same while sitting idle at home. I am unable to accept the Company's contention that the application for leave was made on false pretext. The finding of the Enquiring Officer is therefore perverse and cannot be supported. The punishment of dismissal is such a severe one that I can presume victimisation on the part of the management. In view of the above discussion, I find that the dismissal of Shri Aditya Ghosal is unjustified, and he is entitled to reinstatement with back wages from the date of his dismissal till he is reinstated, and the continuity of his service should be maintained.

This is my award and it is to be implemented within 30 days of its publication in the "Calcutta Gazette".

The Government of West Bengal by its Labour Department Order No. 4247-I.R./IR/8L-43/63, dated 8th October 1963, referred to this Tribunal an industrial dispute between Messrs. Mahatma Hosiery, 9 Rupchand Roy Street, Calcutta-7, and their workmen represented by Calcutta and Howrah Hosiery Employees' Union, 82/2 Tripura Roy Lane, Salkia, Howrah, for adjudication under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act.

The issue framed in this case for adjudication runs as follows:

Whether the refusal of employment to Shri Abhodh Raj Tewari is justified. To what relief, if any, is he entitled?

Award

After the reference was received, parties were served with notice. They appeared and filed their respective written statements. Then the case was fixed for hearing on 5th August 1964 after some adjournments. On that date, the parties put in a petition of compromise, the terms of which appear to be fair and reasonable. The workman concerned Shri Tewari appeared before me and stated that the dispute has been compromised, and in full and final settlement of his claim he received payment of Rs. 800 in my presence. The petition of compromise is duly signed by the representatives of both the Union and the Company. An award is accordingly made in terms of the joint petition of compromise which will form part of the award as Annexure "A." Dictated and corrected by me.

The Government of West Bengal by its Labour Department, Order No. 4923-I.R./IR/10L-233/63, dated 4th December 1963, referred to this Tribunal an industrial dispute between Messrs. Bengal Electric Lamp Works Ltd., 137 P. G. H. Shah Road, Calcutta-32 (hereinafter referred to as the Company), and their workmen represented by Bengal Lamp Sramik Panchayet, 4 Prince Baktiar Shah Road, Calcutta-33 (hereinafter referred to as the Union), for adjudication under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act.

The issue framed in this case runs as follows:

Scales of pay and dearness allowance of the canteen workmen.

AWARD

The Union's case in its written statement is that under the Factories Act the canteen is maintained for the benefit of the workmen by the Company under its management and control. There are 10 workmen employed in the canteen including servants and cook and they are employees of the Company. But they are denied the benefit of wages and dearness allowance enjoyed by the workers of the Company. This is a social injustice. The workmen of the canteen are entitled to participate in the Company's Provident Fund Scheme as well as State Insurance Scheme, but they do not get the wages of the workers of the Company. The workers accordingly raised a demand and conciliation in this respect failed. In paragraph 12 of the written statement, the Union claims for the workmen of the canteen the benefits which are available to the Company's workmen under the Third Engineering Award. The scale of cooks is claimed at Rs. 75—2—115. The scale of Rs. 40—1—25—65 is claimed for the Assistant to Cook and the scale of Rs. 35—1.25—37.50 for the other Assistants. Dearness allowance is claimed in the following manner. It is claimed at Rs. 36 for the pay range up to Rs. 50.

The Company filed a written statement resisting the claim of the Union that the canteen staff are the workmen of the Company. It is true that the canteen is established in compliance of the provisions of section 46 of the Factories Act. The Company makes contribution for running of the canteen, but the canteen itself is not a profit making establishment of the Comapny. The canteen staff moreover enjoy the following benefits: They get free board and lodge, free meals and tiffin, two pieces of undervest, two pieces of shorts and two pieces of handloom towels free of cost per year. Besides, they also enjoy casual leave for 15 days and privilege leave for 30 days in a year. The Omnibus Engineering Tribunal did not consider the case of the canteen staff while making its award and there these canteen workmen were not considered as workmen of the Company. Therefore, the workmen of the canteen are not entitled to the benefits which are available under the Third Major Engineering Tribunal Award.

Decision

Having regard to the pleadings of the parties, we shall now have to decide whether the canteen staff are entitled to any scale of pay and dearness allowance. The canteen staff are paid consolidated wages varying from Rs. 30 to Rs. 50 per month roughly. A list of canteen workmen—10 being in number—with their respective pay is annexed to the Company's written statement. The Union's broad case obviously is that the canteen staff are workmen of the factory, which is an engineering concern, and as such they are entitled to the facilities of pay and dearness allowance according to the Third Major Engineering Award, which was published in the "Calcutta Gazette" on November 5, 1958. This is the contention put forward by the learned Advocate for the Union. The learned Advocate for the Company challenges the soundness of this contention, and denies the fact that the workmen of the canteen are the workmen of the Company. The Company is a lamp manufacturing concern, and accordingly it is an engineering industry. Let us enter into the evidence to see if the workers of the canteen are the employees of the Company. P.W. 1 Shri Amar Nath Ghosh stated in his evidence that the Company pays salary to the canteen staff. The Company examined its Works Manager, Shri Nirmal Chandra Sen, whose evidence discloses the following facts. He has the overall control of the canteen which is maintained according to the provisions of section 46 of the Factories Act. The factory workers take their principal meal in this canteen. The canteen is maintained by the Management under an obligation to do so in terms of the Factories Act in order to feed and entertain the persons engaged in the factory as workers. It is true that the canteen building is located outside the factory premises, still it is used for the purpose of the factory inasmuch as the factory workers take their meal at that place. If the running of the canteen is obligatory on the part of the management under the provisions of the Factories Act, it is all the more an essential requisite of the factory. On the top of all, the overall management of the canteen is with the Works Manager of the Company. The Works Manager's further evidence is that he himself supervises the running of the canteen, and the Canteen Manager is a factory worker. The Works Manager has also authority to punish the canteen workers and the Managing Director gives the final order. They Company appoints the Canteen Manager and he is entitled to the wages available to the Company's workmen. This is what comes out from the evidence of the Works Manager. In the background of the above evidence, it must be said that there is relationship of laster and servant between the Company and the anteen staff. There is existence of right of control ver the canteen staff in the Works Manager of the ompany. The principle of law in this respect can e found in the case reported in F.J.R. XI, page 439, nd at page 444 the following observation occurs:

"The principle which emerges from these authorities is that the prima facie test for the determination of the relationship between master and servant is the existence of the right in the master to supervise and control the work done by the servant."

In another case reported in 1954 L.L.J. I, Bombay, age 714, it has been held that where there is a tatutory obligation on the part of the textile mill to rovide a canteen under rules 72 to 78 of the ombay Factories Rules, 1950, prescribed under ection 46 of the Factories Act, the workmen mployed by such contractor for running the canteen ould be employees of the textile mill within the eaning of section 3/13 of the Bombay Industrial elations Act. I do not, however, rely upon that ecision, because it turns upon an interpretation of Bombay Statute. In the light of evidence which have discussed, the workers of the canteen are irectly controlled and supervised by the Factory anager, and as such they are workmen of the ompany and are entitled to pay and dearness llowance as workers of the factory.

Now the question is what should be the scale of ay and dearness allowance for the workmen of the anteen. The Third Engineering Award should be onsidered in this connection. I will also have to onsider at what category the cooks and servants of he canteen are to be placed. The Third Engineer- ng Award however did not discuss the case of the anteen employees as such. The canteen employees re, from the nature of their work, manual labourers nd their work must be said to be heavy manual ork. I am unable to accept the contention of the arned Advocate for the union that the cooks must e placed in the category of skilled labour. A cook s not a skilled labour or skilled operative in the anner it is understood in engineering industry. A cook is just a manual worker with some nowledge of cooking. He must be treated as if he elongs to the unskilled category of manual workers. he grade for unskilled category of workers is s. 35—1.25/2—37.50. This should be the grade r the cooks and servants.

Now the question of adjustment and fitting in the ew scale will be considered. The scale recom- ended above is obviously exclusive of dearness llowance. The canteen staff will draw the minimum f the scale now introduced, subject however to the llowing restrictions: The salary of any workmen hall not be less than the total emoluments including earness allowance which I am going to fix now. he scale will come into force with effect from 1st eptember 1964.

Now I come to the question of dearness allowance, hich should also be in conformity with the Third ajor Engineering Award. In that award, dearness llowance was fixed at Rs. 36 for the pay range up o Rs. 50. In the present case we are confined to hat rate of dearness allowance, because the maximum f pay will not exceed Rs. 37.50 nP. Dearness llowance was fixed in the Third Engineering Award taking into consideration the cost of living index at 364 point. This will appear in the award itself. The living index of the last calendar year is 447 according to the publication of the Labour Commissioner. Rs. 36 is to be calculated to reach the living index of 447 from the base 364 as in the Third Engineering Award. On calculation, the additional amount comes to Rs. 16. So, the dearness allowance which would be payable to the canteen staff would be Rs. 52. I have calculated the amount of Rs. 16 at the rate of Re. 1 for every 5 point rise in the living index. So, dearness allowance is fixed at Rs. 52 for the pay range up to Rs. 50 and it will be subject to sliding scale. In other words, dearness allowance will be liable to increase or decrease on the basis of Re. 1 for every 5 point rise or fall in the cost of living index. The position will have to be reviewed at the end of each financial year. This rate of dearness allowance will also be introduced with effect from 1st September 1964.

It is in evidence that the canteen staff enjoy certain privileges which are not enjoyed by the workmen of the factory. They get two principal meals a day free of cost, and they also get some dresses, i.e., two half pants, two ganjis and two napkins every year. All these concessions given to the canteen workmen shall stand withdrawn from the date of introduction of the scale of pay, i.e., from 1st September 1964. If, however, the canteen staff want to enjoy those privileges, they can by negotiation with the Company arrive at the cash value of the amenities to be deducted from their total emoluments. As all those privileges relate to wages, I make the above recommendations. I answer the issue accordingly.

This is my award.

AWARD

By Order No. 4182-I.R./IR/11L-26/63, dated the 4th October 1963, the Government of West Bengal, in the Labour Department, referred under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, the industrial dispute between Messrs. Homoeo Research & Pharmaceutical Works, 66/1 Sambhunath Pandit Street, Calcutta-25, and their workmen represented by Homoeo Research Workers' Union, 120 Ashutosh Mukherjee Road, Calcutta-25, regarding the matters specified in the schedule, to the Third Industrial Tribunal, constituted under section 7A of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, by Notification No. 808-I.R./IR/3A-2/57, dated the 11th March 1957, for adjudication.

Issue

Whether retrenchment of the following workmen is justified? What relief, if any, are they entitled to?

(1) Shri Ramani Mohan Bhattacharya.
(2) Shri Santosh Kumar Acharjee.
(3) Shri Amar Chandra Debnath.
(4) Shri Dilip Chakraborty.
(5) Shri Suresh Das.
(6) Shri Dhoral Singh.
(7) Shri Suren Roy.
(8) Shri Suresh Barat.

This is a reference under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, for adjudication of an industrial dispute existing between Messrs. Homoeo Research & Pharmaceutical Works, 66/1 Sambhunath Pandit Street, Calcutta-25 (hereinafter be referred to as the Company), and their workmen represented by Homoeo Research Workers' Union, 120 Ashutosh Mukherjee Road, Calcutta-25 (hereinafter be referred to as the Union).

Immediately after receipt of the reference notices were sent out for service upon the parties who in pursuance thereof entered appearance and filed their written statements.

The Union's case in the written statement is that the Company is engaged in preparation and sale of homeopathic medicines and allied products. It has two units—one at No. 2 S. R. Das Road and the other at 66/1 Sambhunath Pandit Street. The two units are interconnected and inter-dependent. About 30 workmen were in the employ of the Company in these two units. The Company in spite of its prosperity and profit did not grant proper amenities to the workmen. So, the workmen organised themselves under the present Union and submitted a charter of demands but without any solution. The Company, on the other hand, being annoyed with the Trade Union activities of the workmen started taking repressive measures and ultimately closed down the entire unit at 66/1 Sambhunath Pandit Street by a notice, dated 29th July 1963, and thereby rendered eight workmen unemployed. The closure of the unit was not a bona fide one but it was done with a motive to victimise the workmen for their trade union activities. Hence, the prayer is for their reinstatement.

The Company's case in the written statement is that it is a proprietory concern and the proprietor himself who is a medical man devoting most of his time in the preparation of homeopathic medicines at his residence at 2 S. R. Das Road and the other unit at 66/1 Sambhunath Pandit Street was a selling centre of the medicines. At the relevant time there were eight workmen employed in their selling centre but that unit had to be closed down because the owner of the premises obtained an ejectment decree against the Company.. So, the premises had to be vacated in favour of the landlord. It was a bona fide closure of the business, and the workmen were given proper notice thereof and also they were offered compensation which they were entitled to under the provisions of section 25F of the Industrial Disputes Act and the workmen collected their dues. Therefore, the question of reinstatement does not and cannot arise.

Decision

Both parties adduced evidence—oral and documentary. The Union examined one witness and the Company examined two witnesses besides documents.

Undisputedly it is a proprietory concern engaged in pharmaceutical works—in the preparation and sale of homeopathic medicines. D.W. 1 Shri Satish Chandra Seal is the proprietor who himself carries on research work in his residence at No. 2 S. R. Das Road, which is described as the Head Office of the Company. The proprietor's eldest son Shri Sudhir Chandra Seal assists him in his work. He is a qualified man—a Medical Graduate of the Calcutta University. Another son, Shri Sunil Seal, works as a laboratory assistant. His daughter used to maintain the stock books (Exts. A, A/1). There was another unit which was the selling centre of the medicines, located in a rented house being premises No. 66/1 Sambhunath Pandit Street. All the eight workmen involved in the present dispute were employed in that selling shop of the Company. There was an ejectment suit (Title Suit No. 607 of 1961 of the Second Additional Court of the Munsif at Alipore) brought by the landlords against the present proprietor of the business who was the tenant. The suit was instituted on 22nd July 1961 and it ended in a compromise decree on 3rd December 1962 (Ext. B is the certified copy of the decree). Obviously sometimes before the institution of the suit for eviction there was notice to quit given to the proprietor of the business. So, he became aware of his position in respect of his shop room in premises No. 66/1 Sambhunath Pandit Street. He was certain that he would have to vacate that shop room. He cannot remain in possession of that premises belonging to another person for all time to come, specially when the landlord sought for his eviction in accordance with law. Since the landlord attempted eviction of the tenant from premises No. 66/1 Sambhunath Pandit Street. Dr. Seal, the proprietor of the business, started to change the address of his business from 66/1 Sambhunath Pandit Street to 2 S. R. Das Road, Kalighat. This will appear from the price list Exts. 2, 2(b). Prior to the year 1961-62 the address was given as 66/1 Sambhunath Pandit Street. This will appear from Exts. 2(a) and 2(b) (Price list for the year 1957-58 and 1959-60). Similar change was also effected in the Bengali almanac for the year 1369 B.S. (1962-63), Ext. 4, and also in an advertisement in the current almanac Ext. 5. All these publications will certainly disprove the allegation of the Union that after its submission of the charter of demands to the proprietor, he hit upon a plan to close the selling shop and to get rid of the workmen. The charter of demands, according to P.W. 1 Shri Dilip Chakravarty, one of the concerned workmen, was submitted about two years back, i.e., in the year 1962. But I have already found an ejectment suit was instituted in July 1961 and the notice to quit must have been served upon the proprietor much earlier. Therefore, the Union's allegation against the proprietor appears to be unsubstantial and unreal.

The next allegation of the Union is that the proprietor had no sympathy for the workmen who had to suffer considerably and ultimately they combined themselves to form a Trade Union but the proprietor started taking repressive measures against the office-bearers of the Union and victimised the Secretary and the Assistant Secretary of the Union by dismissing them from service. The proprietor has denied these allegations of the Union. It appears that previously in the year 1958 there was a reference made by the Government of West Bengal to the Fourth Industrial Tribunal for adjudication of some disputes existing at the time between the proprietor and the workmen. In that reference several items of disputes were referred to Tribunal for adjudication including increment of wages and all the then outstanding disputes were amicably settled and there was a compromise award passed by the Tribunal in terms of the joint petition of compromise. Exhibit H is the copy of the said award. Therefore, it is not correct to say that the proprietor of the business all along behaved unsympathetically with the workmen and sternly refused to come to terms with the workmen. After that compromise award there was a charter of demands submitted by the workmen in the year 1962. But before that the proprietor faced with a problem of his eviction from premises No. 66/1, Sambhunath Pandit Street, wherein was located his shop room. He anticipated his position and ultimately he also came to terms with the landlord after more than a year of the date of institution of the ejectment suit. In terms of the compromise decree he had to vacate the rented shop room which fact is not denied. It is not the case of the Union that the Company still retains possession of that shop room. Therefore, the proprietor of the business being faced with litigation had to vacate the shop room. It appears that Shri Manindra Nath Chakravarti and Shri Bhupal Chandra Roy Chaudhury were charge-sheeted on 29th of June 1963 and they having been found guilty of serious misconduct were dismissed from services on 31st August 1963. They were the Secretary and the Assistant Secretary of the Union, but it appears from the charge-sheets Exts. C, C/1 that there were serious charges of misappropriation and defalcations of fund and medicines of the value of Rs. 11,000. Exhibits C/2 and C/3 are the letters of dismissal to show that there was a domestic enquiry after due notice to them. The Enquiry Officer found both of them guilty of the serious charges levelled against them and the proprietor accepted the findings and dismissed them from services. It further appears that the matter was referred to the Government of West Bengal for intervention but the Government on scrutiny found justification for their dismissal after proper enquiry and, therefore, the Government intervention in the matter was considered uncalled for. This will appear from the Government letter Ext. C/4. So, the proprietor suffered a heavy loss in his business and his evidence before this Tribunal is that he having sustained heavy loss in the business and having been faced with the suit for his eviction from the premises wherein his shop was located, he decided to close down the business. In fact, both the grounds were there. So, the proprietor cannot be blamed for taking the decision to close down the selling shop at 66/1 Sambhunath Pandit Street. In my view these are substantial grounds. So, I find that there was justification for closure of the shop. The proprietor's decision to close the unit was duly communicated to all the workmen of that unit by notices in writing, dated 29th July 1963. These notices are Exts. F to F/9. In the notices the grounds of the closure have also been specifically mentioned and the workmen have been offered the dues they are legally entitled to in a case of bona fide closure. They were offered one month's wages in lieu of notice and also compensation at the rate of 15 days' wages for each completed year of service or any part thereof in excess of six months as provided in section 25FFF of the Industrial Disputes Act. The notices were sent to the workmen individually by registered post with acknowledgment due. Admittedly the workmen also accepted the compensation and other dues as per chart Ext. D, but subsequently, however, the Union by letter, dated 25th August 1963, wanted to record that the acceptance of the amount was without any prejudice (vide Ext. 3). This, of course, conclusively proves acceptance of the compensation and other dues as offered to them as per notices (Ext. F series). There is, however, no denial of payment of compensation and other dues by any of the workmen.

There is evidence to show that notice in Form 'P' was duly and promptly sent to the Secretary, Labour Department, Government of West Bengal. Copy of the said notice is Ext. 6. It is dated 29th July 1963. It was sent by registered post with acknowledgment due and it was duly received at that end on 31st July 1963 (vide acknowledgment Ext. E).

It transpires in evidence that the medicines prepared by the Company are being sold through Messrs. Homoeo Specific Agency which is an undertaking belonging to the two daughters of Dr. Satish Chandra Seal. It is also located in premises No. 2 S. R. Das Road. But this is not a new concern started after the closure of the selling centre at 66/1 Sambhunath Pandit Street. It appears in the cross-examination of D.W. 1 Dr. Satish Chandra Seal that the agreement in respect of this undertaking was signed and executed as far back in 1961, i.e., at a time when the ejectment notice in respect of premises No. 66/1 Sambhunath Pandit Street was served upon the proprietor of the business and a suit was instituted on 22nd July 1961 for his eviction from the said premises. It was, however, before the charter of demands was submitted by the workmen. Therefore, it is not a fact that the Company voluntarily closed the business at 66/1 Sambhunath Pandit Street and diverted it with a motive to get rid of the workmen employed at 66/1 Sambhunath Pandit Street. On the contrary, I am satisfied from all what I have discussed above that there was bona fide closure of the business for good and sufficient reasons and that the retrenchment of the workmen concerned is justified. I find no substance in the allegation that the workmen in a body were victimised and retrenched because of their Trade Union activities. Admittedly the concerned workmen were never charge-sheeted by the Company. There was no occasion to warn them even. I have already observed that the disputes they raised previously were settled amicably and in terms of the amicable settlement there was a compromise award (Ext. H). There is no evidence of any other dispute being raised by the workmen excepting the charter of demands that was submitted about two years back from now. But I have already found that before the submission of charter of demands the proprietor was served with a notice to quit followed by a regular suit for his eviction from premises No. 66/1, Sambhunath Pandit Street and shortly after that there was detection of misappropriation of fund and medicines by two workmen of the Company which charges were established against them and they had to be dismissed from services. So, the proprietor not only faced his eviction from the shop room but also he sustained a heavy loss in the business due to the misconduct of two of the workmen. Therefore, the closure of the shop was justified and also the retrenchment of the workmen employed in that shop. The concerned workmen who were employed in that shop are, therefore, not entitled to any relief.

This is my award.

Present:

Shri K. P. MUKHERJEE, Judge

Appearances:

For the Company: Shri R. Goswami, Officer of Bengal Chamber of Commerce and Industry.

For the Union: Shri Subodh Banerjee.

AWARD

The Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, by Order No. 5012-I.R./IR/15L-16/62, dated 9th December 1963, referred under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), the abovementioned dispute to this Tribunal for its adjudication.

Issue

Whether the dismissal of Shri Lalit Halder is justified? What relief, if any, is he entitled to?

After receipt of the reference on 11th December 1963, usual notices were issued to the parties concerned fixing 6th January 1964 for appearances filing of written statement by the Union. Parties entered appearance on 7th January 1964 as 6th January 1964 was declared a local holiday and Union filed its written statement on 24th January 1964. Company filed its written statement on 2nd March 1964. Company filed some documents on 25th April 1964, and the case was fixed for hearing on 10th August 1964. On 10th August 1964, a petition was filed by the Company for adjournment on the ground that the dispute between the parties was likely to be settled amicably and the case was adjourned till 24th August 1964 for compromise, or for hearing if no compromise was effected. On 24th August 1964, a joint petition of compromise was filed by the parties setting cut therein the terms upon which the dispute had been amicably settled between them, and praying for a compromise award accordingly.

Considered the terms of compromise. These appear to be quite fair and lawful. I am satisfied that there has been a bona fide settlement of the dispute between the parties on the terms set forth in the petition of compromise. I accept the terms of compromise and I make compromise award in terms of the joint petition of compromise filed by the parties, a copy whereof is made a part of the award as an annexure.

And

In the matter of an industrial dispute

Between

The Indo-Burmah Petroleum Co. Ltd., Netaji Subhas Road, Calcutta-1

And

Their workmen represented by the I. B. P. Employees' Union, 104 Mahatma Gandhi Road, Budge Budge, 24-Parganas.

The compromise petition filed on behalf of the Company and the workmen.

The said Company and the Union most respectfully submit:

1. That the parties have come to a compromise this day on the following terms:

(a) That Company agrees that the order of dismissal made against Shri Lalit Haldar shall be converted to that of discharge.

(b) That Company will pay to Shri Lalit Halder (I) ex-gratia amount of Rs. 3,500 (three thousand and five hundred only) and (II) salary due to be paid to him amounting to Rs. 623.56 (six hundred twenty-three and fifty-six nP.) only within two weeks from date. The workman accepts the aforesaid amount and states that he has no other claim against the Co.

(c) Shri Lalit Halder will be entitled to draw the full amount of Employees' Provident Fund standing in his name, if he is allowed to do so by the Provident Fund Commissioner. The Company will not object to making payment of the full amount of Provident Fund to his credit including Company's contribution.

(d) This settles the dispute fully and finally.

2. That an award may kindly be made on the basis of this compromise petition.

For this Act of kindness the petitioners shall ever pray.

matter of an application under section 33(2)(b), Industrial Disputes Act, by Messrs. Air Survey Co. of India Private Ltd. for approval of the dismissal of the workman Shri S. N. Das, Welder, of 7P Gour Sundar Sett Lane, Calcutta-50. [Case No. 90 of 1963 under section 33A and Case No. 193 of 1963 under section 33(2)(b), Industrial Disputes Act].

BEFORE THE SEVENTH INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL

PRESENT:

Shri S. K. RAY, Judge, Seventh Industrial Tribunal.

For the Workman: Shri R. Banerjee, Advocate.

For the employer Company: Shri Arun Dutta, Advocate, assisted by Shri Dilip Das Gupta, Advocate.

Award

These two applications—one under section 33A, Industrial Disputes Act (Case No. 90 of 1963), and the other under the proviso to section 33(2)(b), Industrial Disputes Act (Case No. 193 of 1963), relate to the dismissal of the same workman, Shri S. N. Das, the applicant in Case No. 90 and the O.P. in Case No. 193, during the pendency of the adjudication proceedings of another dispute between the Company and its workmen, referred to this Tribunal by Government Order No. 6493-I.R./IR/4L-48(A)/62, dated the 21st November 1962. Both these applications have been heard analogously and this award will govern both the cases.

The background facts and circumstances and the respective cases of the parties regarding the dismissal in the applications under section 33A, Industrial Disputes Act, and the proviso to section 33(2)(b), Industrial Disputes Act, may be briefly summarised as follows:

The application under section 33A by the workman proceeds on the footing that he was dismissed by the Company by a letter, dated 15th March 1963, during the pendency of the adjudication of the dispute between the Company and its workmen, referred to this Tribunal by Government Order No. 6493-I.R./IR/4L-48(A)/62, dated 21st November 1962, for some alleged misconduct but without complying with the provisions of section 33(2)(b), Industrial Disputes Act. This dismissal has been challenged as illegal, mala fide, unjust and untenable. The substantive case about the dismissal in the application under section 33A is as follows: He was appointed as a Welder under Air Survey Co. of India Private Ltd. and was duly confirmed in that post in July 1960. On 30th September 1961 this workman was ordered by his employer Company to "punch in" at this Company's workshop and "punch out" at the workshop of Messrs. Aeronautical Services Ltd., which was subsequently named Veegal Engines and Engineering Co. On 17th August 1962 the regulator with which he was working in the workshop of Veegal Engines & Engineering Co. (hereinafter referred to as V.E.E. Company) became unserviceable and thereupon, Shri P. K. Basu, Assistant Engineer of V.E.E., asked him to procure one from another section and work for both the sections with the same regulator. The concerned workman expressed his inability to cope with the work of two sections and pointed out that being an outsider he could not borrow a machine from another section. At this, Shri Basu abused and manhandled the workman and development of a more serious situation was prevented by the intervention of other workmen. Subsequently, the employer Company issued a charge-sheet to him, dated 17th August 1962, falsely alleging that it was he who had insulted the Assistant Engineer, Shri Basu, and was about to assault the said Engineer and he was at once suspended pending enquiry. This workman replied to the charge-sheet on 20th August 1962 giving the true facts of the occurrence. Thereafter, by a letter, dated 7th September 1962, the workman was informed that a domestic enquiry would be held on 11th September 1962 by the Chief Engineer of the Company and he was also told to bring his witnesses from the Company's employees only. The workman protested against this restriction regarding witnesses, specially because the incident occurred in the workshop of another Company (V.E.E. Company) and also asked for the presence of the Secretary, General Manager and Shri N. C Das, a clerk of the Company, at the enquiry. The enquiry fixed for 11th September 1962 was adjourned and as the Company adopted dilatory tactics in the matter of the enquiry, the workman complained about it to the Deputy Labour Commissioner through his Union. The enquiry was next fixed to be held on 23rd November 1962. At the enquiry held on 23rd November 1962, Shri P. K. Basu, the Assistant Engineer involved in the occurrence of 17th August 1962, was not present; nor was any letter of complaint from him put in. Shri S. Halder, one of the witnesses cited by the workman, was not examined on that date, as he was absent. The enquiry was held in part on that date and adjourned to a future date for examining his witness, Shri S. Halder, and other witnesses, but no further enquiry was held at all. By a Memo., dated 14th December 1962, the concerned workman was informed that an alleged written statement subsequently obtained from Shri P. K. Bose, the Assistant Engineer, had been made a part of the enquiry record without his knowledge and in his absence. Shri P. K. Bose never appeared personally at any session of the enquiry. The workman protested against this illegal procedure. Then on 22nd February 1963 the Company served a "show cause" notice on the workman and he replied to the notice on 28th February 1963. Finally, by a letter, dated 15th March 1963, the Company terminated the service of this petitioner without complying with the requirements of the proviso to section 33(2)(b), Industrial Disputes Act, which governed the dismissal. In the meantime, the Company had made an application under section 33(2), Industrial Disputes Act, to the Labour Officer, but this application was rejected by the Labour Officer on 2nd May 1963. The dismissal of this workman by the letter, dated 15th March 1963, was irregular, illegal and mala fide and the alleged domestic enquiry was also irregular, prejudiced and in violation of the principles of natural justice and as such, it was no enquiry at all. After the aforesaid case in the application under section 33A, Industrial Disputes Act, the workman prays that the order of his dismissal be set aside and he be reinstated to his service under the Company with full back wages.

The Company filed its written statement in the case under section 33A on 14th August 1963 and in the meantime on 9th August 1963 it had filed its own application under the proviso to section 33(2)(b), Industrial Disputes Act (Case No. 193 of 1963). The case put forward by the Company in regard to the dismissal of the concerned workman is substantially the same in both its written statement in the case under section 33A and its own application under the proviso to section 33(2)(b), Industrial Disputes Act. This case is briefly as follows: A charge-sheet was issued to this workman on 17th August 1962 asking him to show cause why disciplinary action should not be taken against him for some misconduct. This misconduct related to the alleged incident in the workshop of V.E.E. Co. with Shri P. K. Basu, the Assistant Engineer of that Company. The workman submitted his explanation on 20th August 1962. The explanation was considered by the Management to be unsatisfactory and so the Management decided to hold a domestic enquiry. The first notice of the domestic enquiry was given on 7th September 1962. Finally, a departmental enquiry was held by Shri B. D. Mulherkar, the Chief Engineer of Messrs. Air Service Co., on 23rd November 1962. The delay in holding the departmental enquiry was due to the adamant and unhelpful attitude of the workman and also to the temporary absence of the E.O. The workman appeared at the departmental enquiry on 22nd November 1962. The statements of the witnesses examined at the enquiry were recorded and the workman was given all facility and opportunity for defence. The workman signed the recorded proceedings of the domestic enquiry. The E.O. submitted his finding some time in February 1963. When the departmental enquiry was pending, the concerned Union purporting to represent the workman made some representations to the Deputy Labour Commissioner regarding suspension of the workman after issue of the charge-sheet. The Company appeared before the concerned Deputy Labour Commissioner from time to time and subsequently before the Labour Officer concerned and participated in the general conferences held by the Labour Officer as Conciliation Officer and submitted before him representations stating correct and true facts of the case relating to the workman. After considering the proceedings of the domestic enquiry and findings of the E.O., the Management bona fide came to the conclusion that a case of gross misconduct had been established against the workman and so decided to dismiss him from the Company's service. As conciliation proceedings regarding the Union's complaint against suspension of this workman after the charge-sheet were pending before the Labour Officer when the Management decided to dismiss the workman on the result of the domestic enquiry, the Company bona fide made an application before the Conciliation Officer for permission to dismiss the workman. After receipt of this application, the Conciliation Officer held a conference on 27th March 1963. In this conference, the Company asked for permission of the Conciliation Officer to dismiss this workman as he had been definitely found guilty of a charge of gross misconduct after fair and proper domestic enquiry. The Conciliation Officer did not, however, pass any definite order regarding the Company's contention and finally by his Memo., dated 2nd May 1963, informed the Company that section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act was not attracted to the case before him. The Company again made a representation to the Conciliation Officer for a proper and final disposal of its application to dismiss the workman, but the Conciliation Officer did not pass any final order in the matter. In the circumstances, the Company felt that it was improper to keep the matter of dismissal of the workman pending any further and finally decided to dismiss the workman from the Company's service for the gross misconduct of which he was found guilty in accordance with the relevant provisions of its Certified Standing Orders and accordingly passed dismissal order by its Memory dated 3rd August 1963. Thereafter, one month's wages were remitted to the workman by the Company and the Company filed its application under section 33(2)(b), Industrial Disputes Act, for approval of dismissal of the workman by the Company's Memo., dated 3rd August 1963, in compliance with the requirements of the proviso to section 33(2)(b), Industrial Disputes Act. The present application under the proviso to section 33(2)(b), Industrial Disputes Act, was filed on 9th August 1963. No formal order of dismissal was passed against the workman till 3rd August 1963 and accordingly the workmans' application under section 33A, Industrial Disputes Act, filed on 10th July 1963 before the passing of the formal order of dismissal on 3rd August 1963 is premature and not maintainable in law and so it should be dismissed in limine. There was no dismissal of the workman by the Company's letter, dated 15th March 1963, and as such no question of violation of the relevant provisions of section 33, Industrial Disputes Act, by the Company could arise in connection with the said alleged dismissal. The dismissal was really effected by the Company's letter, dated 3rd August 1963, and in regard to that dismissal, the Company filed the required application under the proviso to section 33(2)(b), Industrial Disputes Act, on 9th August 1963, and one month's wages were remitted to the workman by M.O. and so there was no contravention of the proviso to section 33(2)(b), Industrial Disputes Act, though the dismissal fell under that section.

With regard to the fact of dismissal itself, the Company has pleaded the following case: On 17th August 1963 at about 9 a.m. Shri P. K. Basu, Assistant Engineer of V. E. E. Co., was asked by the Chief Engineer of Air Survey Co. to send Shri S. N. Das, who was at that time working in the workshop of V. E. E. Co., to Air Survey Co. with all his tools and implements for some urgent work. Shri P. K. Basu called Shri S. N. Das and asked him to go to Air Survey Co. for some urgent work with his tools and implements and offered him transport facility. At this, Shri Das suddenly became violent and flatly refused to go to Air Survey Co. and started abusing the Management in most objectionable language. Upon this, Shri Basu requested Shri Das to leave his office, but Shri Das paid no heed to it, and on the contrary he became aggressive and proceeded towards Shri Basu with raised fist in order to hit him, but he was caught by two employees of the Glider Section, Shri S. N. Chowdhury and Shri A. K. Roy, who ultimately took Shri Das out of the office of Shri Basu. The matter was immediately reported to the Chief Engineer of V. E. E. Company, who again reported the matter to the Chief Engineer of Air Survey Co. The matter was ultimately reported to the Management and thereupon a charge-sheet was issued to Shri Das on 17th August 1962 by the General Manager of Air Survey Co. and Shri Das was placed on suspension. Shri Das submitted his reply to the charge-sheet. The reply having been found unsatisfactory, the Company decided to hold a domestic enquiry. Accordingly, a notice of enquiry was issued and the enquiry was fixed for 11th September 1962. On that date, Shri Das made a representation to the E.O. requiring the presence of the Secretary and the General Manager of the Company and Shri N. C. Das and all workers of Glider Section of V. E. E. Co. It is not correct to say that Shri Das was asked to bring witnesses only from amongst the Company's employees. The Company replied to the representation of Shri Das by its letter, dated 15th September 1962, and Shri Das was informed that the request for presence of all workers of V. E. E. Co. was absurd and untenable and that he could bring some workers whom he would like to be his witnesses. He was further asked by this letter whether the presence of the Secretary, the General Manager and Shri N. C. Das were still required as his witnesses and was told that if Shri Das wanted their presence this could be arranged on a convenient date. In reply to this letter of the Company, Shri Das wrote a letter, dated 27th September 1962, requesting the Company to hold the departmental enquiry after 2 p.m. and communicate the date of the enquiry at least a week earlier, but he did not submit the names of witnesses; nor did he make any prayer for the presence of the Company's high officials. By the Company's letter, dated 3rd October 1962, Shri Das was informed that according to his request, the departmental enquiry would be held after 2 p.m. and he was again requested to send the names of his witnesses and also to let the E.O. know whether he required the presence of the Secretary, the General Manager and Shri N. C. Das as his witnesses. He was also informed that as the Chief Engineer would be away from India on official business, the enquiry would be held after his return. The enquiry was ultimately held on 23rd November 1962. On this date, Shri P. K. Bose, the Assistant Engineer concerned, was absent, being out of Calcutta on Company's work. So, his evidence could not be taken. He was expected to return before the 15th of November 1962, but unfortunately he returned after 23rd November 1962 and soon thereafter he was required to join the Air Force as a reservist on 2nd December 1962. As it was not possible for Shri Basu to be present at any departmental enquiry within a reasonable time after 23rd November 1962, he submitted a written statement regarding the incident which took place on 17th August 1962. At the enquiry held on 23rd November 1962, the Company's witnesses were examined and three witnesses on behalf of Shri Das made statements before the E.O. One of the witnesses named by Shri Das, Shri Sachindra Nath Halder, was not present on that date and so it was not possible to produce him. Shri Das also did not require any adjournment of the enquiry for his examination. By a letter, dated 14th December 1962, the Company forwarded relevant extracts from the written statement submitted by Shri P. K. Basu to Shri Das with a request that Shri Das would furnish his comments regarding the same, but instead of furnishing any comments, Shri Das, by his letter, dated 20th December 1962, made certain false allegations and asked for the entire letter of Shri Basu and this request was duly complied with by the Company's letter, dated 17th January 1963. The E.O. submitted his report with his findings on 20th February 1963. The Company decided to dismiss the workman on the basis of the findings, but as the dispute regarding his suspension after charge-sheet was pending before the Conciliation Officer, the Company applied to him for permission to dismiss the workman and informed the workman accordingly by its letter, dated 15th March 1963. As the Conciliation Officer did not made any final order on the Company's application for permission to dismiss the workman and held that the application was not maintainable, the Company ultimately dismissed him by its letter, dated 3rd August 1963. The facts concerning the conciliation proceedings have already been stated above.

I have stated the background facts and the respective cases of the parties in regard to the dismissal of the concerned workman in some details so that a clear picture of the background facts and the other relevant facts alleged by the parties may be properly appreciated and kept in view in coming to a decision about the conflicting claims of the parties put forward in these two proceedings, the workman's claim for setting aside the dismissal said to have been effected on 15th March 1963, and the Company's claim for approving the disimssal said to have been effected on 3rd August 1963.

The basic dispute between the parties as to when actually and legally the dismissal of the concerned workman was effected must be first of all decided for the purpose of a proper decision of the two related cases—one under section 33(2)(b) and the other under section 33A, Industrial Disputes Act. If the workman's dismissal was not really and legally effected on 15th March 1963, and if it was really and legally effected on 3rd August 1963, as alleged by the Company, the workman's application under section 33A filed on 10th July 1963 would be premature and not maintainable and in that case the Company's application for approval of the dismissal filed on 9th August 1963 will have to be considered on merits and decided. If, on the contrary, the dismissal is held to have been really and legally effected on 15th March 1963, the workman's application under section 33A, Industrial Disputes Act, will have to be decided on merits and, at the same time, the subsequent application under section 33(2)(b), Industrial Disputes Act, filed by the Company will also have to be considered along with the Company's explanation for the delay in making the said application and it will also have to be considered whether having regard to the clear contention in the application that the dismissal was effected on 3rd August 1963, it would be entitled to have the dismissal of the concerned workman which really and legally took place on 15th March 1963 approved upon the case made out in its application. The precise question would be whether having asked for approval of the dismissal said to have been effected on 3rd August 1963, it can obtain approval of the dismissal which really took place on 15th March 1963.

I first address myself to a decision of the basic dispute as to on what date the dismissal of this workman really and legally took effect. I have already stated in details above the respective cases of the parties on this point. It is an admitted position that the workman was charge-sheeted for some alleged misconduct in an incident with Shri

K. Basu, the Assistant Engineer of V. E. E. Co., on 17th August 1962, and after he submitted his reply to the charge-sheet, the Management decided to hold a domestic enquiry and Shri B. D. Mulherkar, the Chief Engineer of the Company, was appointed to hold the enquiry and he actually held an enquiry on 23rd November 1962 in presence of the workman and he finally submitted his enquiry report with findings to the General Manager on 20th February 1963 and after considering the report, the Management issued a letter, dated 15th March 1963, to the concerned workman informing him that the Management had decided to dismiss him with immediate effect, but as at that time a conciliation proceeding regarding his case was pending, the Management was applying to the appropriate authority for permission to dismiss him. It is also an admitted position that the concerned workman was suspended pending enquiry along with the issue of the charge-sheet and the dispute regarding his suspension was raised before a Deputy Labour Commissioner by the Union on behalf of the workman and the matter was taken up for conciliation by a Labour Officer and some general conferences were called, but the Labour Officer did not pass any final order granting or refusing permission to dismiss this workman and he practically refused to take any action on the Company's application for permission on the view that the Company had no cause of action when the case of the workman himself was in dispute. I am to state here that the application for permission was made on 15th March 1963, the date on which the Company issued the letter to the workman informing him that it had decided to dismiss him and an application for permission for the dismissal of the workman was being made to the Conciliation Officer. It appears that the above view of the Conciliation Officer was first communicated to the Company on 2nd May 1963 and thereafter the Company challenged this view of the Labour Officer and asked him to dispose of the Company's application either by granting or refusing the permission asked for, but the Labour Officer struck to the view already taken and refused to take any further action and he wrote the final letter to the Company reiterating his view on 7th August 1963. The Company's second letter to the Labour Officer in this matter was dated 16th July 1963 and the Labour Officer's letter, dated 7th August 1963, was a reply to this letter. The Company issued the final order of dismissal on 3rd August 1963, narrating all relevant facts in connection with the matter up to its second letter to the Labour Officer, dated 16th July 1963, but before receipt of the Labour Officer's reply to this letter which was sent on 7th August 1963. Exhibit 26 is the Company's letter, dated 15th March 1963, to the workman and Ext. F is the Company's letter, dated 3rd August 1963, to the workman. In this connection, reference may be made to the admitted Exts. D. E. G. H. I, J, K and O on the Company's side and Exts. 2, 3, 16, 17, 22, 27 and 28 on the Union's side, which considered together, support the position that after suspension of the workman on issue of the charge-sheet, the Union made a representation to the Labour Department challenging the Company's action as illegal and mala fide and the matter was ultimately taken up for conciliation by a Labour Officer, who obtained the Company's comments on the representation made by the Union and the Union's counter-comments on the comments made by the Company, but the Labour Officer did not pass any final order in the matter and on being asked by the Company to pass some final order either granting or refusing the permission asked for the Labour Officer intimated that his view was that the application was not maintainable as the case of the workman himself was in dispute and after taking note of this view, the Company issued a final and definite order of dismissal, dated 3rd August 1963, intimating that the Company in view of the pendency of the adjudication proceedings of some other dispute between the Company and its workmen before this Tribunal, an application for approval of the dismissal was going to be made and offering him one month's wages and some other benefits. The Company evidently made the application for permission to dismiss the workman with reference to its letter, dated 15th March 1963, under section 33(1)(b), Industrial Disputes Act. So, the Company expressly acted upon the position that though it had decided to dismiss the workman with immediate effect by its letter, dated 15th March 1963, the dismissal could not legally take effect without an express permission in writing of the Conciliation Officer before whom the dispute raised by the Union on behalf of the workman against his suspension along with the issue of the charge-sheet, dated 17th August 1962, was pending for conciliation. When admittedly a conciliation proceeding regarding the dispute raised by the Union on behalf of the workman in regard to the suspension of the workman after charge-sheet was pending at the time when the Company after the alleged domestic enquiry decided to dismiss the workman for some misconduct, his dismissal may quite reasonably and legally be said to have fallen under section 33(1)(b), Industrial Disputes Act. Section 33(1)(b), Industrial Disputes Act, lays down that when a conciliation proceeding is pending in respect of an industrial dispute, no employer shall discharge or punish, whether by dismissal or otherwise, any workman concerned in such dispute for any misconduct connected with the dispute save with the express permission in writing of the authority before whom the proceeding is pending. In the present case, the concerned workman was certainly concerned in the dispute raised before the Conciliation Officer regarding his suspension and in fact, he was the only person concerned in the dispute and the Company was seeking to punish him for some misconduct connected with the dispute under conciliation, i.e., the dispute over his suspension. He was charged with a definite misconduct and was suspended pending enquiry and final decision of the Company and his dismissal for the charged misconduct was certainly connected with the dispute raised over the suspension of the workman after the charge-sheet. I see no point in the Conciliation Officer's view that the Company had no cause of action when the case of the workman himself was in dispute before him. The crucial point is that there was identity between the dispute pending conciliation before him and the dispute regarding his proposed dismissal for the charged misconduct because the charged misconduct was the basis of both the suspension and the proposed dismissal. In this connection, the letter, dated 15th March 1963, is to be read carefully and the real intent and purpose of the Company and the real import of the action taken by the Company are to be gathered from the language used therein. Exhibit 26 is that letter. It was written by the Managing Director. Paragraph 2 of this letter referred to the fact that he had been found guilty of the charge levelled against him in the charge-sheet, dated 17th August 1962, and the letter, dated 22nd February 1963 (Ext. 23), which was a letter to him after receipt of the enquiry report with the findings asking him to show cause why he should not be punished with dismissal, and ended with the intimation that the Managing Director had decided to dismiss him with immediate effect. In the next paragraph, it was clearly indicated that as at the material time a conciliation proceeding was pending regarding his case, the Company was applying to the appropriate authority for permission to dismiss him. I quote below paragraphs (2) and (3):

> "Taking into consideration of all material facts and circumstances, I hold that you are guilty of the offences or charges levelled against you by this office Memos., dated 17th August 1962 and 22nd February 1963. The misconducts established are serious in nature for which a workman is liable to be dismissed under the provisions of our standing orders. I find no circumstances in your favour for inflicting a lesser punishment and accordingly I have decided to dismiss you with immediate effect. As, however, at the material time a conciliation proceeding is pending or has been started regarding your case, we are applying to the appropriate authority for permission to dismiss you."

I am clearly of the view that this letter intimated nothing more than that the Company had decided to dismiss him on the basis of the findings of the domestic enquiry and after consideration of surrounding circumstances, subject to the permission of the Conciliation Officer before whom the dispute already raised in respect of him, was pending. This letter clearly indicated nothing more than a decision of the Company to dismiss him, subject to the permission of the conciliation authority. So, this letter cannot be taken as a letter of final dismissal, notwithstanding that the Company had decided to give immediate effect to the dismissal. Exhibit F is the final letter of dismissal, dated 3rd August 1963. It recited all the previous facts and circumstances and then stated that the workman was dismissed from the Company's service with effect from that date and then it also contained a statement that in view of the pendency of another dispute between the Company and its workmen before this Tribunal, the Company was going to make an application for approval of the dismissal before this Tribunal and was also going to remit to him one month's wages by M.O. in compliance with the terms of the proviso to section 33(2)(b). The workman was, in my view, finally and definitely dismissed with effect from 3rd August 1963, by the letter of that date, Ext. F, and before that, the position arising out of the previous letter, dated 15th March 1963, was that there was no final and definite dismissal of the workman by the Company, but there was only a decision by the Company to dismiss him, subject to permission being obtained from the Conciliation Officer. It is to be noted that in a case falling under section 33(1)(b), there can be no final and effective dismissal until and unless the express permission of the concerned authority is obtained, and in the present case, when such an application for express permission in respect of the dismissal of the concerned workman decided upon by the Company had been made, it clearly indicated that the Company did not mean and intend that the dismissal was to take final effect before the permission was granted by the concerned authority; and even assuming that the Company meant it to be a final dismissal, it could not be legally so and the Company was incompetent to make a final dismissal forthwith, in view of its own conduct of seeking permission for the dismissal from the conciliation authority. The strict legal position was that the dismissal referred to in the letter, dated 15th March 1963, was not final and conclusive and the Company was not competent to make a final and conclusive dismissal at that stage. But in a case under section 33(2)(b), the Company is competent to make a final dismissal, subject to the subsequent approval of the concerned authority. So, there is an essential difference between a case under section 33(1)(b) and section 33(2)(b), Industrial Disputes Act.

In the above view of the relevant facts and circumstances and the legal position arising therefrom, I hold that there was no final and effective dismissal of the workman by the Company's letter, dated 15th March 1963, but the Company finally and effectively dismissed the workman by its letter, dated 3rd August 1963, and his dismissal was to take effect from that date, subject to the approval of the concerned authority to whom the Company also made an application under section 33(2)(b), Industrial Disputes Act, and that authority is the present Tribunal.

It is to be noted here that at the time when the Company issued its letter, dated 15th March 1963, the adjudication proceedings of the other dispute, between the Company and its workmen, referred to this Tribunal by Government Order No. 6493-I.R., dated 21st November 1962, were pending and so this Tribunal was also a competent authority to whom the Company could have applied for permission to dismiss the workman under section 33(1)(b), Industrial Disputes Act. But, the Conciliation Officer was also a competent authority in that respect, because the dispute raised by the Union regarding the suspension of this workman was pending for conciliation before him. The Company was, therefore, entitled to apply to him for permission.

There was thus no final and effective dismissal of the concerned workman by the letter, dated 15th March 1963. I have already held that the letter, dated 15th March 1963, conveyed nothing more than the decision of the Company to dismiss him, subject to the permission of the Conciliation authority and the Company duly applied for such permission, but if the concerned authority did not choose to dispose of that application by granting or refusing the permission, the Company cannot be blamed for that. The point to note is that the Company complied with the relevant provisions of section 33 and in that case, it was the provisions of section 33(1)(b), Industrial Disputes Act.

After the above findings, the workman's application under section 33A made on 10th July 1963, against his alleged dismissal by the Company's letter, dated 15th March 1963, cannot stand and so, it must fail as not maintainable. After the failure of the workman's application under section 33A, the only application that requires to be decided is the Company's application under section 33(2)(b), Industrial Disputes Act, in regard to the final and effective dismissal by the Company's letter, dated 3rd August 1963. I shall now proceed to deal with that application.

As, according to the Company's case, this workman was dismissed on a charge of misconduct after he had been charge-sheeted for the alleged misconduct and a domestic enquiry had been held after receipt of his reply thereto, the first question to be decided would be whether there was a fair and proper domestic enquiry according to the principles of natural justice and without any prejudice to the workman in the matter of his defence. It is also an admitted position on the side of the concerned workman that he got his charge-sheet and submitted his reply to it and then there was a domestic enquiry held by the Chief Engineer of Air Survey Co., Shri B. D. Mulherkar. It is a common ground that Ext. A is the charge-sheet, dated 17th August 1962, and Ext. B is the workman's reply to the charge-sheet submitted on 20th August 1962 and that the enquiry was finally held on 23rd November 1962 in the presence of the concerned workman and with his participation. Exhibit N(1) is the original record of the enquiry proceedings and Ext. N is an admitted copy of the same. After considering the recorded enquiry proceedings and the further evidence regarding the enquiry produced at the hearing through witnesses on both sides, I find that the enquiry suffered from some vital defects which made it wholly irregular, unfair and prejudicial to the concerned workman. It appears that the E.O. started the enquiry by first examining the concerned workman and then he proceeded to examine three out of four witnesses cited by the workman and last of all, he examined the Company's witnesses, but these witnesses did not include the Assistant Engineer, Shri P. K. Basu, between whom and the concerned workman the incident of 17th August 1962 occurred and upon whose complaint the charge-sheet was issued. I may shortly restate here that the charge against the workman was that 'on being called by the Assistant Engineer to his office and on being asked by the said Assistant Engineer to go at once to Air Survey Co. for some urgent work with his tools and implements, the workman became very much excited and agitated and refused to comply with the Assistant Engineer's directions and he also used insulting and abusive language towards the Assistant Engineer and further was about to assault him with fist'. The procedure followed in holding the enquiry was absolutely unfair and prejudicial to the interest of the concerned workman who was in the position of an accused after the issue of the charge-sheet and such procedure has been squarely condemned by the Supreme Court in the case of Associated Cement Co. Ltd. Vs. their workmen [1963(II) L.L.J., page 396], and also in the case of Meenglas Tea Estate Vs. its workmen [L.L.J., 1963(II), page 393]. So, the enquiry stood self-condemned by the procedure adopted by the Enquiring Officer, which resulted in vitally prejudicing the charge-sheeted workman in the matter of putting forward his defence by asking him to give his own statement and examine his witnesses even before knowing what evidence was there against him in support of the charge which he was to meet. In the case of Meenglas Tea Estate, the Supreme Court observed as follows:

> "It is an elementary principle that a person who is required to answer a charge must know not only the accusation but also the testimony by which the accusation is supported. He must be given a fair chance to hear the evidence in support of the charge and to put such relevant questions by way of cross-examination as he desires. Then he must be given a chance to rebut the evidence led against him. This is the barest requirement of an enquiry of this character and this requirement must be substantially fulfilled before the result of the enquiry can be accepted. A departure from this requirement in effect throws the burden upon the person charged to repel the charge without first making it out against him."

In the case of Associated Cement Companies, the Supreme Court observed as follows:

> "It is necessary to emphasize that in domestic enquiries the employer should take steps first to lead evidence against the workman charged, give an opportunity to the workman to cross-examine the said evidence and then should the workman be asked whether he wants to give any explanation about the evidence led against him. It seems to us that it is not fair in domestic enquiries against industrial employees that at the very commencement of the enquiry, the employee should be closely cross-examined even before any other evidence is led against him."

So, apart from all other considerations, I at once hold that the domestic enquiry regarding the charge-sheet to the concerned workman, as already held in the present case, was not at all fair and in accordance with the principles of natural justice and the dismissal of the concerned workman as a result of such enquiry cannot be justified and upheld.

There is a further glaring infirmity in the enquiry proceedings which also makes the enquiry unfair and unsustainable according to the principles of natural justice. It appears that the officer directly involved in the occurrence of 17th August 1962, Shri P. K. Basu, did not appear before the Enquiring Officer at any stage but some written statement submitted by him was taken into consideration by the Enquiring Officer in coming to his decision without giving the concerned workman an opportunity to cross-examine the said officer. It is an admitted position that the enquiry was held in the absence of Shri P. K. Basu and evidence has been led on behalf of the Company to explain the absence. The evidence is to the effect that on or about 30th or 31st October 1962, this officer was sent to Delhi and Allahabad by the Company for some urgent duties and just after coming back to Calcutta on or about 30th November 1962 he was called up for emergency service with the Indian Air Force as a reservist and in these circumstances, it was not possible for him to attend the domestic enquiry, though he had received a letter from the Chief Engineer of his Company to come and attend the enquiry. Shri P. K. Basu, P.W. 2, has given this evidence. Of course, there is no reason to disbelieve this evidence of Shri Basu, but still it does not cure the vital defect in the enquiry arising out of consideration of his written statement submitted to the Enquiring Officer without giving the concerned workman an opportunity to cross-examine him. He was certainly the most vital and important witness in support of the charge and so it was all the more incumbent upon the Enquiring Officer to see that the workman had a sufficient and suitable opportunity to test the evidence of this witness by cross-examination. I am not also satisfied that it was absolutely impossible for this officer to come to attend the domestic enquiry for giving evidence. According to his evidence, he personally submitted the letter, Ext. 24, containing his written statement to the Enquiring Officer on 3rd December 1962, by coming from Barrackpore where he was on military duty with permission from the military authorities. This shows that he could get permission from the military authorities to attend to some urgent work in Calcutta. Necessarily, there was no reason why the Enquiring Officer should not have adjourned the enquiry to a suitable date for the purpose of his appearance before him with the permission of the military authorities for giving evidence and for cross-examination by the workman. In the enquiry proceedings, it was recorded that "the enquiry was held in absence of Shri Basu, as he was away on duty. His statement was read to Shri S. N. Das".

The statement in the enquiry proceedings quoted above is alleged to have been interpolated by the Enquiring Officer. In support of this contention raised on behalf of the Union, reference is made to the patent fact that this writing appears just above a horizontal line and the second line of the statement impinges on the horizontal line and it is argued that this could not have been the case had this writing been made first and then the line was drawn. According to the Company's contention, the written statement referred to as read to the concerned workman was the original report of the occurrence submitted by Shri P. K. Basu, to the Chief Engineer (Ext. 6). The manner in which the writing appears in the enquiry proceedings really appears to be suspicious. It is to be noted that though according to the Company, the original report, Ext. Q, was read over to the workman at the time of the enquiry and this fact was noted in the writing under discussion, this report was not made a part of the record of enquiry proceedings. In any case, and even assuming that the original report, Ext. Q, was read over to the concerned workman at the enquiry, this does not cure the vital defect that the Assistant Engineer whose statement it was, was not present and the workman had no opportunity to cross-examine him. So, this statement should not have been considered and relied upon by the Enquiring Officer. It appears that long after the close of the enquiry, on 14th December 1962, the Enquiring Officer wrote a letter to the concerned workman enclosing therein copy of a relevant portion of the written statement submitted by Shri P. K. Basu after the close of the enquiry. Exhibit 18 is that letter. In this letter, the workman was only asked to submit his comments regarding the statements. The workman at once sent a reply protesting against this procedure and challenging it as illegal and invalid and stating categorically that even the original complaint or statement of Shri P. K. Basu, on the basis of which he was charge-sheeted, or any copy thereof, was not sent to him at any time. This reply was also made on 14th December 1962 (Ext. 19). In course of correspondence over this matter, the Company categorically asserted in its letter, dated 17th January 1963 (Ext. 20), that the Management had the right to consider the subsequent statement of Shri Basu and then intimated that to meet the technical objection against sending only a copy of the relevant portion of the statement to him, a copy of the whole statement was being forwarded to him. The workman at once replied to this letter by a letter of the same date (Ext. 21) and in this letter, he again challenged the whole procedure as illegal, irregular and mala fide. The Enquiring Officer was not certainly correct and fair in utilising only a written statement submitted by Shri P. K. Basu regarding the occurrence which formed the basis of the charge against the workman, for the purpose of the enquiry and basing his findings thereon without giving the charge-sheeted workman an opportunity to cross-examine him and this procedure was not only irregular and illegal but also against all principles of natural justice. So, in this way also, the enquiry was completely irregular, illegal and violative of a basic principle of natural justice and this leads to the same conclusion that the dismissal in so far as it was based upon such an enquiry, was absolutely illegal and invalid. It has also been contended on behalf of the workman that the enquiry was further illegal and unfair and violative of the principles of natural justice in that all the witnesses cited by the workman were not examined. It appears from the record that the concerned workman cited four witnesses from the workmen for examination on his side and he also wanted to examine the General Manager, the Secretary and one Shri N. C. Das. The evidence on the record shows that on the date of enquiry, the workman clearly stated that only four other workmen were his witnesses and they were Shri Monglu, Shri Sachin Haldar, Shri Jayanta Bagchi and Shri S. M. Ghosh and among them, all except Shri Sachin Haldar were present on that date and they were examined and Sachin Haldar could not be produced and examined as he was not present. It is contended on behalf of the workman that he should have been given a further opportunity for examination of this witness, Shri Sachin Haldar. I think the contention is reasonable. When he definitely named four witnesses and among them one was accidentally absent on that date and there was nothing to show that he gave up that witness, the Enquiring Officer should have given him a further opportunity to examine that witness and his failure to do so amounted to a vital irregularity and violation of the principles of natural justice. It did not matter that this workman did not apply for an adjournment. When he did not give up the absent witness, the Enquiring Officer should have adjourned the enquiry suo moto in order to enable the workman to examine the witness when he was available. I cannot, however, accept the workman's contention that the failure on the part of the Company to produce the General Manager, the Secretary and Shri N. C. Das as witnesses also amounted to a grave irregularity and failure of natural justice. The correspondence on the record shows that the Company wanted to know why these persons who had nothing to do with the occurrence and were nowhere near the occurrence, were required to be examined and the workman could not give any definite and reasonable reply. In any case, the fact remains that on the date of enquiry he named only four persons as his witnesses and did not press his demand for production of the General Manager, the Secretary and Shri N. C. Das as his witnesses. So, I reject this part of the workmen's contention.

In view of the above decisions, the dismissal of the concerned workman in so far as it was based upon the domestic enquiry and the findings of the Enquiring Officer cannot be sustained and approved.

It is well settled that in a case under section 33(2)(b), Industrial Disputes Act, the Tribunal is only to see whether a prima facie case for dismissal of the concerned workman has been made out. In my view, in deciding whether such a case has been made out or not, the Tribunal can and should also look into the merits of the dismissal, aprat from the enquiry proceedings when the enquiry proceedings are found to be vitally defective and against the principles of natural justice. I have not been shown any authority in support of the proposition that in considering whether a prima facie case for dismissal has been made out in a proceeding under section 33(2)(b), the Tribunal shall exclusively confine itself to the enquiry proceedings and the findings thereof. Prima facie case means also prima facie case on merits. Accordingly, I proceed to consider whether a prima facie for dismissal of the concerned workman on merits has been made out by evidence produced before this Tribunal.

It is common ground that on 17th August 1962, this workman was working in V. B. E. Co. in the morning and at about 9 or 9-30 a.m., he was called by Shri P. C. Basu, the Assistant Engineer of that Company, and on his coming to the Assistant Engineer he was told that he was immediately required to go to Messrs. Air Survey Co., which was really his employer Company, for some urgent work, with his tools and implements, but the workman protested and then there was some alteration between the Engineer and the workmen. Up to this, there is practically no dispute. The Company's version is that the workman not only flatly refused to comply with the order of the Assistant Engineer but he also went so far as to abuse filthy the Management and insult the Assistant Engineer and was about to assault him with fist, but this assault was prevented by timely intervention of some other members of the staff, and among them was one Shri A. K. Roy. The Union's case on behalf of the workman is that he never assaulted or abused the Engineer or attempted to assault him, as alleged, but it was the Engineer who, upon his protesting against his being required to go to work in Air Survey Co. with tools and implements. which he had borrowed from some other section, abused him by calling him a "rascal" and threatened to turn him out of the room with the help of the Durwan and he actually shouted for the Durwan and at this time, a Mechanic came and took him away from the room. In support of the Company's version of the allegedly offending part of the occurrence underlying the charges of insulting the Engineer and attempting to assault him. the only substantive evidence led before me is the evidence of the Assistant Engineer, Shri P. K. Basu and in support of the Union's version of the occurrence, there is the evidence of the concerned workman, Shri Sailendra Nath Das, and his witness, Shri Sachindra Nath Haldar, who had been cited as a witness at the domestic enquiry but had not been examined. Admittedly, one Shri A. K. Roy intervened and took away the workman from the room. But, this witness has not been produced and examined before me. The evidence of the Engineer is that when this workman raised his fist to strike him, he was held by an apprentice and another employee, Shri A. K. Roy, who took him away. This apprentice has also not been examined. I find that one apprentice, Shri S. N. Chowdhury and Shri A. K. Roy were examined in the enquiry proceedings. These two witnesses were examined out of order after the examination of the workman and his witnesses was over. When I have rejected the entire enquiry proceedings as not legal and fair and in accordance with the principles of natural justice, I cannot accept a part of the proceedings, viz., the evidence given by some witnesses of the Company. Though there is no other evidence on the Company's side regarding the occurrence itself excepting the evidence of the Assistant Engineer, Shri P. K. Basu, his evidence finds corroboration from the immediate report he made to the Chief Engineer regarding the occurrence, Ext. Q. Considering the entire evidence on both sides, I accept the Assistant Engineer's positive evidence that in course of the occurrence which took place on 17th August 1962, the concerned workman abused the Management and insulted the Engineer and attempted to assault him. I hold, therefore, that a prima facie case of the occurrence, as alleged by the Company, has been made out by the evidence produced before me.

After the above findings regarding the prima facie case on merits, I shall now deal with the dispose of certain other legal objections raised on behalf of the workman.

It is contended that the dismissal was not in accordance with the Standing Orders of the Company, because it had not the approval of the Manager of the establishment. In support of this, reference is made to paragraph 3 in page 6 of the Certified Standing Orders, Ext. M. The relevant rule stands thus: "The approval of the Manager of the establishment is required in every case of dismissal....." After considering the evidence on the point, I find that there is no substance in this legal objection. The order of dismissal was issued over the signature of the Managing Director (Ext. F). This order was issued on the basis of the findings of the domestic enquiry and after the said findings had been submitted to the General Manager. Exhibit L is the report of the Enquiring Officer containing his findings. It is headed "For consideration of the G. M.". This clearly indicates that the enquiry report was placed before the G. M. and the order of dismissal was issued thereafter. It can be naturally held that the said order had the General Manager's approval. So, I find that the dismissal did not contravene the provisions of the Standing Orders relied upon by the workman.

The only other legal objection is that the dismissal was irregular inasmuch as it was based upon some additional charges not contained in the original charge-sheet, Ext. A, in respect of which domestic enquiry was held. In this connection, reference has been made to Ext. 23, the notice issued by the Company to the workman to show cause why he should not be dismissed on the basis of the domestic enquiry. In this notice, the following statements were made by the Company: "Apart from the charges set out in the show cause notice or charge-sheet, dated 17th August 1962, it appears from the materials on record that you are guilty inter alia of offences of wilful insubordination or disobedience, riotous and/or disorderly behaviour during working hours which are also serious misconduct and/or misdemeanour for which a workman is liable to be dismissed under the provisions of our Certified Standing Orders." No doubt this statement referred to certain additional charges which were not contained in the original charge-sheet, Ext. A. The Company was not certainly legally entitled to dismiss him on some additional charges without a fair and proper enquiry according to the principles of natural justice, but then the fact remains that the charges levelled against him in the charge-sheet which had been enquired into and of which he had been found guilty, had also been referred to in this letter as established by the departmental enquiry and the dismissal was also based upon those charges. Even if the additional charges mentioned in this letter are rejected as irrelevant and not worthy of consideration and not capable of supporting a dismissal, the fact remains that the charges given in the charge-sheet were also referred to and these were also the basis of his dismissal. Mere mention of some additional charges, as made in this letter, cannot in my view, vitiate the dismissal wholly when it was also based upon the charges contained in the charge-sheet. Apart from this position, I have already found that the dismissal in so far as it was based upon the enquiry proceedings and the findings of the Enquiring Officer cannot be upheld and then I have gone into the question whether a prima facie case for the dismissal upon the charges levelled against him has been made out by evidence produced before me and I have found out that such a case has been made out. Upon such a prima facie case, the impunged dismissal can certainly be approved in the present proceedings. He was prima facie guilty of insulting the Assistant Engineer and attempting to assault him and this certainly amounted to disorderly behaviour and act subversive of discipline falling under clause (h) of the list of misconducts contained in the charge-sheet [vide page 6, clause (h)]. In the charge-sheet, the offending acts committed by him were referred to and when a prima facie case that he was guilty of such acts had been made out, it can quite reasonably be held that the acts amounted to disorderly behaviour and subversion of discipline which were misconducts under the Standing Orders and such misconducts merit the punishment of dismissal.

The result of all the above decisions is that the workman's application under section 33A shall fail as premature and not maintainable, but the Company's application under section 33(2)(b), Industrial Disputes Act, shall succeed and the dismissal which really took effect from 3rd August 1962 shall be approved.

I should record here that Ext. F, the final letter of dismissal with effect from 3rd August 1963, clearly shows that one month's wages and some additional benefits for the long period of suspension were offered to the workman. No dispute is raised by the workman regarding such offer. No objection is also raised regarding any delay in making the application under section 33(2)(b), Industrial Disputes Act. It appears that the letter of dismissal was issued on 3rd August 1963 and the present application was made on 9th August 1963. On a reference to the official calendar, I find that 3rd August 1963 and 4th August 1963 were holidays. The application was made on the 5th day from the date of dismissal, excluding the holidays on 3rd August 1963 and 4th August 1963. The Company certainly required some reasonable time for preparing the application with its annexure. I do not think that there was any unreasonable delay in making the application under section 33(2)(b), Industrial Disputes Act. Thus, the two requirements of the proviso to section 33(2)(b), Industrial Disputes Act, were complied with.

Accordingly, I dismiss the workman's application under section 33A as premature and not maintainable and allow the Company's application under section 33(2)(b), Industrial Disputes Act, and approve the dismissal of the workman with effect from 3rd August 1963. This is my award in the two connected cases under section 33A and 33(2)(b), Industrial Disputes Act.

AWARD

The above dispute over the issue given in the order of reference and reproduced below was referred for adjudication to this Tribunal by the Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, Order No. 4764-I.R./IR/11L-415/63, dated the 26th November 1963.

Issue

Gratuity.

After service of notices of the reference upon the parties, they appeared and filed their written statements. After necessary preliminary proceedings and some adjournments, the case was finally fixed for hearing on 21st August 1964. On that date, a talk of settlement was initiated after the opening of the case before the Tribunal and the talk proved successful and the parties finally filed a joint petition of compromise embodying the terms upon which the dispute had been amicably settled between the parties and praying for a compromise award in those terms.

I have heard the representatives of the parties and have considered the terms of settlement embodied in the joint petition of compromise. The terms appear to be quite lawful and fair. I am satisfied that there has been a bona fide settlement of the dispute between the parties on those terms. Accordingly, the case is to be disposed of by a compromise award, as prayed for.

In the result, I make a compromise award in terms of the joint petition of the parties, a copy whereof is made a part of the award as an Annexure.

Present:

Shri S. K. ROY, Judge.

Appearances:

Present for the workman: Shri Balai Chatterjee, General Secretary, W.B.M.E.F.

Present for the Municipality: Shri S. C. Das Gupta, Advocate.

This proceeding arises out of an application under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act by Shri Manindra Chandra Bhattacharjee, an employee of Santipur Municipality, complaining of his alleged, illegal, wrongful, unjust, vindictive and malicious dismissal by the Municipality during the pendency of adjudication proceedings of another dispute between the Municipality and its workmen, referred to this Tribunal by Government Order No. 3623-I.R., dated 19th July 1960, in contravention of the relevant provisions of section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act.

The Municipality filed its written statement in reply to the application under section 33A. After preliminary proceedings and some adjournments, the case was finally fixed for hearing on 14th August 1964. On that date, the representatives of the parties reported that the dispute between the parties had been amicably settled and they also filed a joint petition of compromise containing the terms of settlement and praying for an award on those terms.

I have heard the representatives of the parties. I have also considered the terms of compromise. The terms appear to be quite fair and lawful. I am satisfied that there has been a bona fide settlement of the dispute between the parties on these terms. Accordingly the present application under section 33A is to be disposed of on compromise on those terms.

In the result I make a compromise award in the case in terms of the joint petition of compromise filed by the parties, a copy whereof is made a part of the award as an annexure.

For the Union: Shri D. L. Sen Gupta, Advocate, and Shri Madan Mohan Saha, Advocate.

AWARD

The Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, by Order No. 1643/I.R./IR/17(A)/64, dated the 28th April 1964, referred under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), the abovementioned dispute to this Tribunal for its adjudication.

Issue

Whether the termination of service of Shri Chittaranjan Roy is justified? To what relief, if any, is he entitled?

The case of the Union, shortly stated, is as follows: Shri Chittaranjan Roy (hereinafter referred to as Shri Roy) worked as a Fitter (Maintenance) under the Company for about seven years with a clean record of service. He was an active member of the Gramophone Employees' Union which was formed in January 1962 and registered under the Indian Trade Union Act in May 1962. The Company did not take the formation of this Union in good grace and Shri Roy being a member of this Union was not in the good book of the Company. A charge-sheet was given to him on 3rd August 1963 for dishonestly taking with him some excess instruments for attending to some work at the residence of the General Manager of the Company at 23 Raja Santosh Road, Calcutta. The reply to the charge-sheet was given by Shri Roy on 5th August 1963 in which he denied the allegation made against him. Thereafter, an enquiry into the charge-sheet issued against Shri Roy was held on 8th August 1963 by a committee consisting of Shri S. R. Sen and Mr. J. W. Byfield. The committee found the workman guilty of the charge brought against him and recommended his dismissal from service. Pursuant to the recommendation Shri Roy was dismissed from service. The dismissal of Shri Roy is said to be mala fide and in dismissing him, the Company is said to have been actuated by a desire of victimisation and unfair labour practice. The domestic enquiry into the charge-sheet issued to Shri Roy has been challenged on several grounds. The Union has prayed for reinstatement of the workman concerned with all back wages including bonus.

The Company has filed a written statement in a reply to the written statement of the Union. The case of the Company as set forth in its written statement shortly stated is as follows: Shri Roy was appointed by the Company as a Fitter on 2nd July 1957 and was dismissed on 19th November 1963 for having committed theft in respect of Company's properties on 31st July 1963. He carried with him without any authority some tools which had no relation whatsoever with the work for which he was deputed at 23 Raja Santosh Road on 31st July 1963. This act on the part of the workman concerned constituted a misconduct under the standing orders of the Company for which the management decided to suspend him from 1st August 1963. Thereafter, an enquiry into the charge-sheet against the workman concerned was made and full opportunity was given to him to defend himself and there was no violation of the principle of natural justice in holding the enquiry against Shri Roy. It is denied that the order of dismissal was mala fide, or the Company in dismissing the workman was actuated by any desire of victimisation or unfair labour practice on account of his trade union activities. The order of dismissal is said to be bona fide and the workman concerned is not entitled to any reliefs claimed in this case.

Decision

The only issue in this case relates to the termination of service of Shri Roy. The undisputed facts bearing on his dismissal are these: He was given a charge-sheet on 3rd August 1963. A reply to the charge-sheet was given by the workman concerned on 5th August 1963. Thereafter, an enquiry was held into the charge-sheet by a committee of enquiry set up for the purpose and on the recommendation of the committee which found him guilty of the charge brought against him, he was dismissed from service with effect from 19th November 1963.

There is no dispute with regard to these facts. The workman concerned was dismissed from service as a result of a domestic enquiry, in which he participated. It is now well settled by the series of decisions of the Hon'ble Supreme Court that where before dismissing an employee on a charge of misconduct, an enquiry is held by the employer into the charge brought against the workman, and the enquiry is found to be fair and proper, the Tribunal will not interfere with the order of the dismissal. It has also been held in several cases following the principle laid in Indian Iron & Steel Co. Ltd. and their workmen (1958 L.L.J., Vol. I, page 260) that where an employee has been dismissed as a result of a domestic enquiry, the Tribunal will interfere—

(i) when there is want of good faith,

(ii) when there is victimisation or unfair labour practice,

(iii) when the management has been guilty of a basic error or violation of prinicple of natural justice, and

(iv) when on the materials, the finding is completely baseless or perverse.

Admittedly, there was an enquiry into the charge-sheet which was issued against the workman concerned in this case, an he was dismissed from service as a result of the finding of the enquiry committee which found him guilty of the charge brought against him. It has been urged on behalf of the Union that the enquiry held against the workman concerned cannot be regarded as fair and the finding arrived at by the enquiry committee is based on no evidence and is therefore baseless. It is to be seen whether the contentions raised on behalf of the Union have got any substance.

The charge against the workman Shri Roy as appears from the charge-sheet (Ext. A) is that he took out 27 pieces of tools while going out for work on 31st July 1963 by falsely declaring that he was taking out 18 pieces of tools for which a gate pass was issued to him. This act on the part of the workman is said to be a misdemeanour (major) under item (d) of the certified standing orders of the Company. On a reference to the certified standing orders of the Company, it is seen that item (d) relates to theft, fraud or dishonesty on the part of a workman which constitute major misdemeanour. In the charge-sheet, it is not specifically mentioned whether the workman committed theft, fraud or dishonesty. The charge, therefore, as it is, is somewhat vague, as mere false declaration by itself on the basis of which a gate pass is issued, does not constitute an offence unless it is proved that such a false declaration was made with some dishonest intention. Be that as it may, the question is whether the enquiry against the workman was a fair enquiry in which the charge brought against him was proved. The first ground of attack of the enquiry is that it was not a fair enquiry inasmuch as Shri S. R. Sen who was a member of the enquiry committee took active part in the recovery of the excess tools from the possession of the workman concerned while he was at work at 23 Raja Santosh Road. It is an undisputed fact that Shri Sen and Mr. Buxton found some extra tools besides the tools covered by the gate pass in possession of Shri Ray while at work at 23 Raja Santosh Road. Shri Sen therefore was an witness to the recovery of the extra tools from the possession of the workman concerned, and it was not proper for the management or for Mr. Sen to be a member of the committee of the enquiry. The workman concerned has reasonable ground to apprehend that he would not get a fair decision at the hands of Shri Sen. It is true that no specific plea has been raised by the workman at any stage that Shri Sen was biased against him, but it cannot be denied that the workman might reasonably feel that Shri Sen could not hold the enquiry with an open mind. In this view of the matter, it cannot be said that the enquiry was a fair one in view of the well-known maxim that justice should not only be done, but it must be felt to have been done.

The next question for consideration is whether the finding of the enquiry committee is based on evidence adduced at the enquiry. Three witnesses were examined on behalf of the Company at the enquiry and the workman concerned also made statement at the enquiry. It is an undisputed fact that some extra pieces of tools were recovered from the tool bag of the workman concerned while he was at work at 23 Raja Santosh Road on 31st July 1963. It is also not disputed that no gate pass was obtained for these extra pieces of tools. The workman concerned has claimed that the extra tools which were not covered by the gate pass and were found in his possession were received by him by way of gift from Shri M. N. Das who was the general foreman of the Company at the time when he retired from service about three years back. This plea was no doubt taken by him at a late stage, but in view of certain facts and circumstances, this plea cannot be rejected outright. The workman concerned took a gate pass and his evidence is that he never took any gate pass for the extra nine pieces of tools previously while going out for work at any time, as these were his properties. There is no evidence to show that he took away those extra nine pieces of tools surreptitiously and the evidence of Man Bahadur Chettry, a Naik of the Watch and Ward Department, is that the workman concerned carried the materials some in tin box, some packed in gunny and some wrapped in paper and he opened only the tin box but did not open any other packet. The Watch and Ward Department allowed the workman to go out with all the pieces of tools and this fact coupled with the evidence of Mr. Buxton that the extra tools do not belong to the tool stores lend some support to the plea of the workman concerned that the extra tools are not the properties of the Company. To find the workman guilty of the charge of theft, fraud or dishonesty, there should be some evidence on the side of the Company to prove that the extra tools are the properties of the Company and the workman concerned acted dishonestly in removing the same from the factory. None of the witnesses examined at the enquiry has said that the extra nine pieces of tools are the properties of the Company and no evidence has also been adduced before me to prove the same. The fact that the workman concerned claimed the extra tools as his own does not absolve the Company of its duty to duce evidence to prove that these are the properties of the Company. There is, however, no idence on this point on the side of the Company. is curious to note that in the finding of the quiry (Ext. D), the enquiry committee has found at it is not the practice of the Company to put ts stamp for identification purpose on the tools rought inside the tool stores and the inventory of he tools stores was defective, though there is no vidence in support of this finding. None of the itnesses on the side of the Company has said that t is not possible to identify the tools belonging to he Company, or that the register of tools which is ept in the tools stores is defective. There is thus o evidence worth the name to prove that the nine ieces of extra tools which were found in possession the workman were the properties of the ompany. Moreover, the intention of a man is to e judged from his conduct. The conduct of the orkman in the instant case does not go to indicate ny dishonest intention on his part; no doubt he rried the extra tools with him without taking a ate pass under a mistaken belief that no gate pass as necessary as he never obtained a gate pass in he past but that by itself does not prove his dishonest intention. This workman has a clean record f service and if he had any dishonest intention of isappropriating the extra nine pieces of tools, it s expected that he would have disposed them of s soon as he brought these out from the factory, ut he did not do anything of the kind, but he arried them to the place of his work and there is o reason to disbelieve him when he says that after lay's work he would have brought back all the ools as per his practice.

Considering the facts and circumstances of the ase and the evidence at the enquiry, it cannot be aid that the finding of the enquiry committee that he workman concerned removed the extra pieces of ools with intention to misappropriate them, is ased on evidence adduced at the enquiry. The nding of the enquiry committee, therefore, ppears to be baseless and the order of dismissal of he workman concerned on the basis of the finding f the enquiry committee cannot be sustained. The ermination of service of Shri Roy cannot, therefore, e held justified for the reasons stated above, and e is to be reinstated in view of his clean record f service in the past.

As regards the claim of the workman for full ages, for the period of his non-employment, the ormal order when a dismissal is set aside and the ismissed employee is reinstated with continuity of ervice is for payment of full wages from the date f the dismissal held to be wrongful to the date of einstatement. In the instant case, the trouble rose over the possession of some tools which the orkman claims to be his. It was clearly the duty f the workman to notify to the Company that the xtra tools were his properties and the whole ouble would have been avoided had he given this timation to the Company when, as alleged by him, e got the tools by way of gift from Shri M. N. as. Thus the trouble arose on account of his tches and negligence and in this view of the latter, I think, that he should be paid half the ages for the period from the date of his dismissal p to the date of his reinstatement.

In the result, the termination of service of Shri Chittaranjan Roy cannot be held justified and the Company is directed to reinstate him with continuity of service and also to pay him half the wages from the date of the dismissal up to the date of reinstatement within a month from the date of the publication of the award.

This is my award.

Road, Calcutta-50, regarding the issue mentioned in the said order, being a matter specified in the Second Schedule to the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), was referred to the Fifth Industrial Tribunal for adjudication;

And whereas during the pendency of proceedings before the said Industrial Tribunal Shri Satya Prasad Mandal and 10 other workmen of the said Company, made a complaint in writing to the said Industrial Tribunal against the said Company alleging that the said Company had dismissed the said workmen concerned in such dispute;

And whereas in exercise of the powers conferred by section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), the said Industrial Tribunal has adjudicated upon the said complaint and submitted its award to the State Government.

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the provisions of section 17 of the Industrial Disputes Act, (XIV of 1947), the Governor is pleased hereby to publish the said award as shown in the annexure hereto.

ANNEXURE

In the matter of an application under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, filed by Shri Satya Prasad Mandal and 10 others, c/o Anup Metal Casting and Engineering Sramik Union, 80 B.T. Road, Calcutta-50, all are employees of

Messrs. Anup Metal Casting and Engineering Works, 25 Nabin Chandra Das Lane, Calcutta-50, against the said Company in connection with G.O. No. 1294-I.R./IR/10L-70/63, dated 26th March 1963. (Case No. 126 of 1963 under section 33A.)

BEFORE THE FIFTH INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL

PRESENT:

Shri K. P. MUKHERJEE, Judge

Appearances:

For the Company: Shri Dilip Kumar Das Gupta, Advocate.

For the workmen: None.

Award

This is an application under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, filed by Shri Satya Prasad Mandal and 10 others against their employer Messrs. Anup Metal Casting and Engineering Works in connection with an industrial dispute between the said Company and its workmen referred under G.O. No. 1294-I.R./IR/10L-70/63, dated 26th March 1963. The petitioners have alleged violation of section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act, by the opposite party.

The case of the workmen is that during the pendency of an industrial dispute between the opposite party and its workmen, they were dismissed from service without complying with the provisions of section 33(2)(b) of the Act. Their further case is that no charge-sheet was issued to them, and they were dismissed from service in violation of the principles of natural justice for their Union activities.

A written statement has been filed by the Company, opposite party, and most of the allegations made in the petition filed by the workmen have been denied. The case of the opposite party is that there is no relationship of master and servant between the Company and the applicants and as such the application under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act is not maintainable. It is further pleaded that there has been no violation of section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act inasmuch as the petitioners were not workmen under the Company, nor they were dismissed by the Company. It is pleaded that the application is liable to be rejected as not maintainable and the petitioners are not entitled to any relief whatsoever.

After service of notice of the application on the Company, opposite party, the Company filed its written statement on 28th September 1963. After several adjournments on the prayer of the parties, the case was fixed for hearing on 21st August 1964. The lawyer for the Company was present, but none of the workmen was present in Court. No steps had also been taken by them. It appears from the conduct of the petitioners that they are not keen in proceeding with this application, and I have no alternative but to dismiss the application for non-prosecution. The petition is accordingly dismissed for non-prosecution.

This is my award.

No. 3956-I.R./IR/9L-68/62.—3rd September 1964.—Whereas the Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, Order No. 615-I.R./IR/9L-68/62, dated the 14th February 1962, read with Corrigendum No. 3148-I.R./IR/9L-68/62, dated 21st July 1964, the industrial dispute between Messrs. Kadambini Tea Company Limited, in respect of their Birendra Chandra Tea Estate, P.O. Nagrakata, Jalpaiguri, and their workmen represented by West Bengal Chah Sramik Union, Jalpaiguri, regarding the issues mentioned in the said order being matters specified in the second schedule to the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), was referred for adjudication to the Fifth Industrial Tribunal;

And whereas the said Fifth Industrial Tribunal has submitted to the State Government its award on the said industrial dispute;

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the provisions of section 17 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), the Governor is pleased hereby to publish the said award as shown in the annexure hereto.

ANNEXURE

In the matter of an industrial dispute between Messrs. Kadambini Tea Company Limited, Jalpaiguri, in respect of their Birendra Chandra Tea Estate, P.O. Nagrakata, Jalpaiguri, and their workmen represented by West Bengal Chah Sramik Union, Jalpaiguri. (Case No. VIII-43/64.)

BEFORE THE FIFTH INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL WEST BENGAL

PRESENT:

Shri K. P. MUKHERJI, Judge

Award

The Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, by Order No. 615-I.R./IR/9L-68/62, dated 14th February 1964, referred under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), the abovementioned dispute to this Tribunal for its adjudication.

Issue

Whether the dismissal of Shri Jhuman Lohar is justified? To what relief, if any, is he entitled?

After receipt of the reference on 19th February 1964 usual notices were issued to the parties concerned fixing 24th March 1964 for appearance and filing of written statement by the union. The Union filed its written statement on 16th June 1964 and the Company filed its written statement on 25th July 1964. The case was fixed for hearing on 31st August 1964. On 27th August 1964 a petition was filed by the union stating that it does not want to proceed with the case in view of the sympathetic attitude of the Company towards the workman concerned.

In view stated in the petition I find that the union is not interested in this dispute and does not like to proceed with the case. Accordingly I pass a "no dispute" award and the case is disposed of accordingly.

This is my award.

No. 3970-I.R./IR/11L-267/63. — 4th September 1964. Whereas under the Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, Order No. 940-I.R./IR/11L-269/63, dated the 3rd March 1964, the industrial dispute between Messrs. Empire Cable Co., 5 Dilarjang Road, Calcutta-2, and their workmen represented by the Empire Cable Co. Workers' Union, 43 Lockgate Road, Calcutta-2, regarding the issues mentioned in the said order being matters specified in the second and third schedules to the Industrial Dispues Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), was referred for adjudication to the Third Industrial Tribunal;

And whereas the said Third Industrial Tribunal has submitted to the State Government its award on the said industrial dispute;

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the provisions of section 17 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), the Governor is pleased hereby to publish the said award as shown in the annexure hereto.

ANNEXURE

In the matter of an industrial dispute between Messrs. Empire Cable Co., 5 Dilarjang Road, Calcutta-2, and their workmen represented by the Empire Cable Co. Workers' Union, 43 Lockgate Road, Calcutta-2. (Case No. VIII-65 of 1964.)

BEFORE THE THIRD INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL

Present:

For the Union: Shri Amar Chakrabartty, Advocate, with Shri Prasanta Das Gupta, President of the Union.

For the Company: Shri Rakhal Chakrabarty, Manager of the Company.
(None was present at the hearing).

AWARD

By Order No. 940-I.R./IR/11L-269/63, dated the 3rd March 1964, the Government of West Bengal, in the Labour Department, referred under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, the industrial dispute between Messrs. Empire Cable Co., 5 Dilarjang Road, Calcutta-2, and their workmen represented by the Empire Cable Co. Workers' Union, 43 Lockgate Road, Calcutta-2, regarding the matters specified in the schedule, to the Third Industrial Tribunal constituted under section 7A of the Industrial Disputes Act, by Notification No. 808-I.R./IR/3A-2/57, dated the 11th March 1957, for adjudication.

Issues

1. Whether refusal of employment to Shrimati Shefali Moitra is justified? To what relief, if any, is she entitled?

2. Whether non-payment of wages for the period of maternity leave from 1st October 1962 to 31st December 1962 and wages from 1st January 1963 to 20th January 1963 to Shrimati Rebarani Ghosh is justified?

3. Whether non-payment of wages for the period of maternity leave from 10th February 1963 to 9th May 1963 to Shrimati Rani Ghosh is justified? To what relief, if any, is she entitled?

This reference was received from the Labour Department of the Government of West Bengal for adjudication under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, existing between Messrs. Empire Cable Co., 5 Dilarjang Road, Calcutta-2 (hereinafter be referred to as the Company), and their workmen represented by the Empire Cable Co. Workers' Union, 43 Lockgate Road, Calcutta-2 (hereinafter be referred to as the Union).

After receipt of the reference notices were served upon both the parties. They appeared but the Union only filed written statement. The Company did not file any although a few adjournments were taken for the purpose. The case was then fixed on 27th August 1964 for ex-parte disposal, but before that date two of the three female workers involved in the present dispute and the Company filed two joint petitions on 19th August 1964 reporting that the dispute in respect of the said two female workers Shrimati Rani Bala Ghosh and Shrimati Rebarani Ghosh has been settled amicably out of the Tribunal and they prayed for a "no dispute" award.

On going through the joint petitions it appears that the said two workers received some amount of money in full and final settlement of their claims and demands. They have also filed along with the joint petitions stamped receipts in support of the payments made by the Company. Therefore, in respect of these two workers Shrimati Reba Rani Ghosh and Shrimati Ranibala Ghosh, I make a "no dispute" award as jointly prayed for in the two separate joint petitions filed before this Tribunal on 19th August 1964 which two petitions do form part of the compromise award as annexure thereto.

In respect of the third worker Shrimati Shefali Moitra the Company filed copies of two letters, one dated 5th August 1964 and the other one dated 14th August 1964, purported to be addressed to Shrimati Shefali Moitra. By the first letter Company directed the said worker to resume her duties within seven days of the date of issue of the letter, failing which, it was stated, it could be presumed that she is no longer interested in the service of the Company, and her name be struck off from the rolls. By the second letter she was advised to collect her legal dues from the factory office of the Company. Strangely enough there is no evidence to show that the said two letters were duly despatched to the correct address of the worker Shrimati Shefali Moitra. There is also nothing to show that the said two letters were duly posted and reached the destination in time. Therefore, in absence of such material evidence it is difficult to hold that the Company's offer of reinstatement was duly communicated to the workmen. Therefore, in view of the Company's willingness to take her back in service I direct that the said offer of the Company will remain open to her up to a fortnight's time from the date of publication of this award in the "Calcutta Gazette". If she fails to appear within 15 days of the publication of the award in the "Calcutta Gazette" before the management, then she would forfeit her claim for reinstatement. On being reinstated within this specified date she will be entitled to her wages for the period she actually served under the Company and the period of her unemployment be treated as on leave without remuneration for the purpose of continuity of service, as there is no evidence to show how she became unemployed and whether or not she was in employment of any other concern during the period.

This is my award.

ANNEXURE

In the matter of an industrial dispute between Messrs. Mahendra Chowdhury and Sasibhusan Sarkar, contractors of Messrs. Bengal Bone Mills, 7 Chaulpatty Road, Calcutta and their workmen represented by Bengal Bone Mill Workers' Union, 95 Narkeldanga Main Road, Calcutta-11. (G.O. No. 1367-I.R., dated 8th April 1964.) (VIII-99|64.)

BEFORE THE FOURTH INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL

Present:

Shri R. BHATTACHARYA, Judge,
Fourth Industrial Tribunal.

For the Union: Shri L. Roy, Advocate, and Shri S. Chowdhury, Advocate.

For the Company: None.

This is a reference under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act. The parties are Messrs. Mahendra Chowdhury and Sasibhusan Sarkar, contractors of Messrs. Bengal Bone Mills, 7 Chaulpatty Road, Calcutta, and their workmen represented by Bengal Bone Mill Workers' Union, 95 Narkeldanga Main Road, Calcutta-11. The issues in the order of reference are (i) Bonus payable in 1963 and (ii) Abolition of "Vaga system." This reference arises out of Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, Order No. 1367-I.R.|IR|11L-92|64, dated 3rd April 1964, and the Corrigendum No. 2585-I.R.|IR| 11L-92|64, dated 3rd July 1964. The Union appeared in this case but the employers, viz., Mahendra Prosad Chowdhury and Sasibhusan Sarma, contractors of Messrs. Bengal Bone Mills (hereinafter referred to as contractors), did not appear in spite of notice issued by this Tribunal under registered post which has been returned with the endorsement "refused."

In short, the case of the workmen as stated in the written statement is that Messrs. Bengal Bone Mills (hereinafter referred to as the Company), according to the contract delegated some work to the contractors. For those works workmen are recurited by the contractors. The workmen employed directly by the Company are being paid Puja bonus every year on the eve of the Durga Pujas for a long period of time irrespective of profit and loss. But the workmen employed through the contractors are deprived of the Puja bonus. The workmen through their union demanded this Puja bonus to be paid to the workmen under the contractors but the prayer was rejected. It is further alleged that the workmen employed through the contractors are deprived of a portion of their earned income by the contractors under the system known as "Vaga system." According to this system the employers divide the earnings of the workmen by the number of wrokmen plus one, and one such division is retained by the contractors, and over and above this share the employers take a commission out of the earnings of the workmen at the rate of one anna per rupee. The Union has prayed for Puja bonus for the workers employed by the contractors and the abolition of Vaga system.

The matter has been heard ex parte as the contractors had not appeared in this case. Two witnesses have been examined on the side of the union. P.W. 1 is the Secretary of the Union. He has stated that the company is of 25 years standing. The Union has come into existence in 1950. The company has been paying all along Puja bonus to its workers since 1950. He has no personal knowledge if Puja bonus was paid before 1950. His further evidence is that there has been change in ownership of the Company after the Durga Pujas of 1960 and that after the change of ownership the service conditions have been changed. Majority of the workers were placed under the contractors. The Company gave Puja bonus to its direct workers after 1960 but the workers of the contractors were not paid any Puja bonus. The grievance of the Secretary of the Union is that the workers who are the employers of the contractors are not paid any bonus. He has stated that the workers of the contractors and the workers of the Company are working together at the same place, and the nature of their work is same. He raised a dispute but the contractors paid no heed. P.W. 1 has also spoken about the Vaga system. His evidence is that the workers of the contractors if allotted to a particular kind of work, their wages earned during the week would be divided by the number of the workers plus one, and one of the divided shares would be kept by the contractors, and the remaining portion would be distributed equally amongst the workers. P.W. 1 has further stated that the contractors also take one anna per rupee out of the earnings of their workers as commission. P.W. 2 says that he is a worker for the last 20 years. He and other workers were receiving Puja bonus all along. According to him, the ownership of the company was changed in 1960, and the Shaw Wallace & Co. are the new owners of the mill. P.W. 2 asserted that he is a worker of Messrs. Shaw Wallace & Co. and that Messrs. Mahendra Prosad Chowdhury and Sashi Bhusan Sarma are the contractors of Messrs. Shaw Wallace & Co. He has stated further that from 1961 he did not get any Puja bonus from the company. He has also spoken about the Vaga system and the commission mentioned by P.W. 1.

With regard to issue No. 1, namely, Puja bonus, claimed by the Union, I must say that the workers are not entitled to such bonus. According to P.W. 1, the ownership of the Company was transferred and from P.W. 2 we get that it was transferred to Messrs. Shaw Wallace & Co. According to the written statement the workers recruited by the contractors were the employees of the Company because they were recruited by the contractors for and on behalf of the Company. P.W. 1 has stated that with the transfer of the ownership the service conditions were changed. No evidence has been adduced before this Tribunal regarding the change of the service condition. Moreover, P.W. 1 has admitted in his evidence that the workers who were the employees of the contractors were not paid any bonus. He has made statements regarding the workers of the contractors and the workers of the Company. It is therefore clear that the story given in the written statement is contradicted by the evidence of P.W. 1, and it has not been proved that the workers employed by the contractors are, in fact, the workmen of the Company. The Secretary of the Union must be a responsible officer. He does not know whether any Puja bonus was paid to the workers of the Company before 1950. According to the written statement if the workers recruited by the contractors are the employees of the Company, in that case the workmen cannot get any relief in this reference because the Company has not been made a party to this proceeding. However, as I have already indicated that I have got no reliable evidence to prove that the workers recruited by the contractors and who are not paid Puja bonus, are the workmen of the Company. Even if the Company pays Puja bonus to its own workers, the employees of the contractors cannot claim Puja bonus as a custom or service conditions. There is no convincing evidence to prove that the Puja bonus is paid by the Company on the basis of service condition. If I accept this story as stated by P.W. 1 that the workers who are not paid Puja bonus are the employees of the contractors, in that case also I cannot give any relief because there is no iota of evidence that there has been any such custom or practice grown up for such bonus. There is no service condition before me to prove that the contractors are bound to pay Puja bonus to their employees or workers. No case has been made out regarding of Puja Bonus payable in 1963.

With regard to the second issue, namely, Vaga system, I have before me the evidence that the contractors have employed several workers and that they are deducting a portion of the earned income of those workers on the basis of the system. The evidence shows that the earned income of the workmen is divided by the number of the workmen plus one, and the contractors take one of the shares and distribute the remaining shares equally to the workmen. This practice is shocking to the conscience and most unreasonable. The deduction of commission at the rate of one anna per rupee out of the earnings of the workmen is also most unreasonable and unfair. This practice of Vaga system including commission must be abolished. I therefore hold that the contractors should not deduct any portion of the earned income of the workers by way of Vaga system or commission. Before me, the employers are the contractors and the workmen are the employees of the contractors as proved by evidence and, therefore, with regard to issue No. 2, I should give relief to the workmen of the contractors. The system of deduction from the earned income of the workmen by way of Vaga system as indicated above must be abolished.

In the result, the reference is partly allowed in favour of the workmen of the contractors, Mahendra Prosad Chowdhury and Sashi Bhusan Sarma.

ANNEXURE

In the matter of an industrial dispute between Messrs. Karam Chand Thapar & Bros. (P) Ltd., Thapar House, 25 Brabourne Road, Calcutta-1, and their workmen represented by Karam Chand Thapar & Bros. Employees' Association, 18 Prince Anwar Shah Lane, Calcutta-33. (Case No. VIII-103|64.)

Present:

Shri R. BHATTACHARYA, Judge,
Fourth Industrial Tribunal.

Appearances:

For the Company: Shri M. L. Pandit.

For the Union: Shri Dwijen Sen Gupta, Advocate.

This is an industrial dispute under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act between Messrs. Karam Chand Thapar & Bros. (P) Ltd., Thapar House, 25 Brabourne Road, Calcutta-1, and their workmen represented by Karam Chand Thapar & Bros. Employees' Association, 18 Prince Anwar Shah Lane, Calcutta-33, arising out of Goyernment of West Bengal, Labour Department, Order No. 1417-I.R.|IR|11L-102|64, dated 8th April 1964. The issue has been framed as follows:

Is the termination of services of the following five peons justified?

(1) Ram Sumer, (2) Ram Sundar Kahar, (3) Ram Fer, (4) Ram Ashray Hui, (5) Ram Dulal Ahir.

To what relief, if any, are they entitled?

AWARD

Both the parties entered appearance after service of due notices. When the case became ripe for hearing, the parties came to a mutual compromise, and filed a joint petition of compromise on 26th August 1964 settling their dispute. I heard both the sides. It appears that the compromise is legal, voluntary and reasonable. In the petition of compromise the prayer is that an award may be passed in terms of the agreement filed. In the circumstances, I pass an award in terms of the agreement between the parties. The joint petition of compromise marked Annexure "A" and the agreement marked Annexure "B" do form parts of this award.

BEFORE THE FOURTH INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL

PRESENT:

Shri R. BHATTACHARYA, Judge, Fourth Industrial Tribunal

For the Union: Shri D. L. Sen Gupta, Advocate.

For the Company: Shri N. Dutta Majumdar, Counsel.

Two references under section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act have been heard analogously for the sake of convenience and at the request of the parties. In both the references the parties are the same. The employer is Messrs. McLeod & Co. Ltd., 3 Netaji Subhas Road, Calcutta-1 (hereinafter described as the Company), and the employees of the Company are represented by McLeod's Indian Employees' Association. The first reference arises out of the Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, Notification No.5502-I.R./IR/11L-129/60, dated the 31st October 1960, and the second reference is based upon the State Government Order No. 6511-I.R./IR/11L-80(B)/62, dated 22nd November 1962. In the first reference the issues are as follows:

Issues

1. Grades and scales of pay of the clerical staff, stenographers, comptists, and telephone operators.
2. Travelling allowance.
3. House allowance for subordinate staff.
4. Whether the Company should bear provident fund establishment charges.
5. Whether daily-rated salary system should be abolished.
6. Retiring age.
7. Permanency of the following workmen:
 1. Shri N. Bhattacharya.
 2. Shri Manindra Chatterji.
 3. Shri Lal Behari Roy.
 4. Shri Ajit Kumar Mukherjee (Tea Garden Section).
 5. Shri Bishnupada Ghosal.
 6. Shri Ajit Kumar Ganguly.
 7. Shri Sudhangsu Ghose.
 8. Shri Ajit Kumar Mukherjee (Jute Mill Section).
 9. Shri Ramayan Roy.
 10. Shri Monomohan Baidya.
 11. Shri Bhagwan Baroj.
 12. Shri Sudhir Manna.
 13. Shri Sisir Adhikary.
 14. Shri Judhisthir Garai.
 15. Shri Bharat Parida.
 16. Shri Ramharak Upadhaya.
 17. Shri Pitambar Senapati.
 18. Shri Buttokristo Prodhan.

In the second reference the following issues have been framed:

1. Grades and scales of pay of sub-staff.
2. Gratuity.
3. Leave.

In short, the case of the workmen in the first reference is that the Company is old and functioning as the Managing Agents, Secretaries and Treasurers of various prosperous concerns engaged in business of jute, tea, railways, engineering, etc., besides its own business in import and sale of machineries, steel and tea purchasing and exporting and the like. The Company, according to the McLeod's Indian Employees' Association (hereinafter described as the Union), is a highly prosperous concern with its Head Office in Calcutta at 3 Netaji Subhas Road. There was a Mercantile Tribunal Award relating to several companies and the award was published on 4th August 1949. It has been alleged that the said award was an ad hoc award without due consideration of the material aspects in the matter of fixation of wages. It has been further alleged that the Tribunal in that award did not properly decide the issues regarding pay, travelling allowances and retiring age of the employes. Subsequently, another dispute was raised by the Union and the matter was decided by another Industrial Tribunal relating to scale of pay and grade, rules regarding recruitment and promotion, etc., retiring age and some other issues. The award of this Tribunal was published in 1953. It has been stated by the Union in the written statement that the Tribunal did not in this award consider the workers' need from the employees' point of view. Another dispute was referred to another Tribunal in 1956 and the said dispute was settled by an award based on agreement, published in the "Calcutta Gazette" of the 28th of January 1958. An appeal was taken before the Labour Appellate Tribunal and a decision was given giving some relief to the workmen appreciating the difficulties of the employees. The Union has further stated that the Labour Appellate Tribunal did not entertain any appeal on several other points for want of jurisdiction. The Union has stated that the award as modified by the Labour Appellate Tribunal was terminated by due notice, dated 10th February 1960. The Union now wants improvement of the service conditions on the basis of the changed circumstances and of several awards passed in connection with other industrial concerns. The Union says that the grades and scales of pay of the clerical staff, stenographers, comptists, telephone operators, etc., should be revised and raised. It is stated also that previous to the Mercantile Award the clerical and the subordinate staff used to get some amount as leave travelling allowance, but now that practice has been abandoned. The workmen want to say that the Company gives some accommodation to some of the subordinate staff but the rest are left helpless. The Union claims housing accommodation or house rent allowance for the subordinate staff. The Union had also grievances regarding Provident Fund establishment charges and daily rated salary system but as those issues have not been pressed at the time of hearing, I need not relate the story of the Union about these issues. It has been alleged that the retiring age should be raised to 58 years according to the decision of the Supreme Court and that the present retiring age of 55 is not proper. The Union had a grievance about the permanency of several persons mentioned in the order of the first reference but that issue has not been pressed on some undertaking of the Company.

In the second order of reference the general story is the same as stated in the written statement filed in the first reference. It has been added in the second reference that in the award published in 1953, the Tribunal did not consider the basic need from the employees' point of view. The present scale of basic wages of the sub-staff is not fair. The Union preferred an appeal against the said award and the Labour Appellate Tribunal's decision was published in September 1955 without altering the said award on technical ground. The Union terminated the said award by due notice, and the Union wants that the grades and scales of pay of the sub-staff should be revised and raised. In fact, for several categories of the sub-staff there is no scale of pay and there is no regular increment of pay. No sufficient and proper provision for gratuity has been made by the Company. Privilege leave, casual leave and sick leave should be further extended both for the clerical and the subordinate staff. It has been particularly alleged that the scales of pay paid by the Company to the workmen should be raised according to the scales prevailing in similar concerns of the locality.

The Company has filed written statements in both the references. The story of the Company in the first written statement, in short, is that the Union has been constantly raising industrial disputes with the Company. At first, there was an omnibus Industrial Tribunal, known as the Mercantile Tribunal. There were issues in that case relating to pay, dearness allowance, retiring benefits, accommodation allowance, travelling allowance and some others, and the award of the Tribunal was published in February 1949. In or about 1951 the Union raised some other industrial disputes and another award was passed by the Tribunal and it was published in November 1952. In 1952 the Union again raised further industrial disputes regarding scales of pay and grades, conditions of service, retiral benefit, retiring age and some other issues. The Tribunal passed the third award and it was published in September 1955. In the following year the union again raised several industrial disputes regarding gratuity and some other matters. The Industrial Tribunal passed the fourth award and it was published in January 1958. In all these awards similar or same disputes were considered and several common issues have again been raised in the present reference, dated 31st October 1960. Many of the present issues were directly or indirectly the subject matters of the previous awards. The Company's revenue has been deminishing since 1951. The Company is the Managing Agent of four jute mills and one engineering concern and the Secretary and Treasurer of five jute mills and 15 tea gardens. Until recently the Company was also the Managing Agents of the last-mentioned five jute mills and 15 tea gardens but the Company's position has changed from Managing Agent to Secretary and Treasurer in respect of these concerns. This change from managing Agency to Secretaryship and Treasurership has substantially decreased the income of the Company. The Company's business in import and sale of machineries and machine parts have to be within the limits of the present import restrictions and as such the Company's business in this line has decreased. The Company's export business is far from being steady. Regarding the import of steel the Company's business has altogether stopped as no import of steel is permitted by the Government. Between 1949 and 1951 the Company sold away six tea estates. The Company lost the agencies of some companies.

The annual revenue of the Company on account of deterioration of the business decreased heavily. The Company had to transfer a number of staff to some other companies and to retrench one whole-time director, several assistants, clerks, typists and members of the subordinate staff. The travelling allowance claimed by the Union was rejected by the previous award. The Company does not pay leave travelling allowance to all junior grade assistants as alleged but some allowance is paid to some junior grade assistants who are entitled to the same under contract. The conditions of service of junior grade assistants are different from those of the clerical staff. The Company has done its best to provide as much accommodation as possible to the subordinate staff but it is not possible for the Company to provide further accommodation, and the workmen are not entitled to any accommodation or house rent allowance. It is not the duty of the Company to provide any house accommodation or any allowance in lieu thereof. Besides the improvement in the pay and grades of the Company's workmen effected by several awards, th clerical staff enjoy leave salary, bonus including Puja bonus and ex-gratia payment, dearness allowance. The workmen of the Company are not entitled to any further increase in their total emoluments in any form, on account of several awards passed by the Industrial Tribunal and the gradual decrease in the Company's annual income and the decline in the efficiency and the quantity and quality of work done by the workmen. There has been no change of circumstances in favour of the workmen. The claim regarding the Provident Fund has also been challenged by the Company. The Company engage daily-rated workmen on the basis laid down by the award and at present the Company has no daily-rated employee. Some persons were reappointed by the Company after their retirement and it was done at the request of the retired persons, especially in view of their indigent circumstances. The issue about the retiring age was considered by the Industrial Tribunal in previous award and there has been no change of circumstances for fresh consideration of the same. It has been alleged that the retiring age prevalent in the Company is the same as in the establishments of other members of the Bengal Chamber of Commerce. The Company has not deviated from the awards passed previously and there is no unfair labour practice. The question involved in issue No. 7 was decided by previous awards, and the Company has been following the principles laid down on those awards. Temporary employees have been engaged either to fill a temporary vacancy or to perform work on temporary nature and the durations of such temporary work are only extended according to necessity or the exigencies of the situation. The Company has made several statements relating to the workmen connected with issue No. 7 mentioned in the order of reference. On the whole, the Company has challenged the material allegations made by the Union and states that the workmen are not entitled to any relief under any issue.

The Company in the written statements filed in the second reference has denied the material allegations made against the Company. A general statement has been made following those made in the first reference. The Company has stated that by the award made in 1949, Provident Fund for the subordinate staff was introduced and it was also awarded that for the period prior to 1949, the Company was to pay 15 days' basic wages as gratuity for each year of service. The special leave referred to by the Union as sick leave is at the discretion of the management in case of tuberculosis patients only. On the whole the Company submits that the existing pay, leave and retiral benefits are just and adequate, and that the demands of the Union being unjust and improper should be rejected.

Both the parties have produced their documents in evidence and they are marked exhibits. On the side of the workmen five witnesses have been examined while the Company has examined three witnesses on its behalf.

With regard to issue Nos. 4 and 5 mentioned in the order of first reference, the workmen filed an application in the midst of hearing stating that they required no adjudication of these issues and it was submitted from the side of the Union that these two issues were not pressed. That very day the Company also filed an application stating that the employees mentioned in issue No. 7 of the first reference were getting all benefits as enjoyed by other employees and that the Company had no objection to treat those employees as permanent on and from the date of enforceability except Sudhangsu Ghosh and Bhagawan Baroj mentioned in serial Nos. 7 and 11, respectively on the ground that a case against Shri Ghosh was pending elsewhere regarding his service and that Shri Baroj had already retired from service. At first the Union wanted that these two persons should also be treated as permanent but ultimately, this point was not further pressed. No evidence regarding these two persons or any other persons mentioned in issue No. 7 was adduced and no argument was advanced in this behalf. During the argument the issue Nos. 4, 5 and 7 were not dealt with by any of the parties. The parties ultimately accepted the petitions filed on 26th December 1963. However, the Company submitted at the time of filing the application that it would consider the case of Shri Ghosh after the decision of the pending case and that he would be treated as permanent if he is proved to be a temporary workman. In these circumstances, I hold that the issue Nos. 4 and 5 of the first order of reference are given up by the Union as not pressed and that the persons mentioned in issue No. 7 of the first reference except the cases of Shri Ghosh and Shri Baroj are declared to be permanent employees with effect from the date of order of the first reference. I, however, make it clear that if it is decided in the pending case that Shri Ghosh is a temporary workman of the Company, in that case he shall also be treated as a permanent employee of the Company along with the remaining workmen mentioned in issue No. 7. Shri Baroj appears to have retired from service and, therefore, he shall not be treated as permanent employee.

I shall, first of all, deal with issue No. 6 of the first order of reference. It relates to retiring age. The contention of the workmen is that in the present state of affairs of the society and in view of the decision of the Supreme Court of the country, the retiring age of the workmen should be raised to 58 years. In this connection several decisions have been referred to me from the side of the Union. I have considered the case of Guest, Keen, Williams (P) Ltd., reported in 1959, XVI, FJR, p. 415. The case between the workmen of the Jessop & Co. Ltd. and the Jessop & Co. Ltd. and others, reported in 1964, L.L.J., Vol. I, at page 451 has also been placed before me. This case was decided by the Supreme Court of India in connection with the issue regarding retiring age. It has been found in the judgment as follows:

> "We feel however that the time has now come for increasing the age of retirement in the case of clerical staff and the subordinate staff. The question was considered by this Court in Guest, Keen, Williams (Private) Ltd. v. P. J. Sterling and others (1959—II L.L.J. 405) and the considerations to be taken into account in fixing the date of retirement were there indicated. Bearing those considerations in mind we are of opinion that age of retirement for clerical staff and subordinate staff should be increased as a first step to 58."

There are some other decisions of our Supreme Court regarding retiring age. From the reading of the decision of the highest Tribunal of our country, it is clear that the time has now come for increasing the age of retirement in the case of clerical staff and the subordinate staff generally from 55 to 58 as held in the case of workmen of Balmer-Lawrie & Co. vs. Balmer Lawrie & Co. It should be remembered that the society is a living organisation and it is obvious that the members of the society must keep pace with time and the progressive march of the society. Economic structure of the society is also changing with the social progress and the industry of the country must be moulded in such a manner that it may fit in with the present economic and social structure. There can be no doubt that at present the age of retirement requires to be increased. If in one part of the country the retiring age is being increased from 55 to 58, there should be no reason why in another part of the country the same principles should not be adopted. It may be that many of the industries have not yet increased the age of retirement fixed at 55 but in some industries also steps are being taken to increase the retiring age. Exhibit 7, a copy of the memorandum of agreement between Messrs. Shaw Wallace & Co. Ltd. of Calcutta and their employees, shows that the retiring age is extended up to the age of 58 subject, of course, to passing a medical examination on reaching the age of 55. Exhibit 12, a copy of service prevailing in Duncan Bros. & Co. Ltd of Calcutta also shows that an attempt has been made to raise the retiring age from 55. Exhibit 8(a) mentions some service conditions of Messrs. Andrew Yule & Co. Ltd. of Calcutta. The retiring age of the clerical staff and subordinate staff of this Company is 58 years. There is no denying the fact that the age of retirement is being increased in the country. I asked Shri Dutta Majumder, the learned counsel for the Company, to give his reply to the decisions of the Supreme Court and it has been submitted from the side of the Company that if the retiring age be raised, several complications would arise regarding financial liability and the Company would be burdened with financial commitments. As I have already noted that as we are to march along with the progress of time, it does not matter whether this onward march affects our financial gain to some extent. I cannot hold that the financial position of the Company is of such a nature that it would not be able to increase the retiring age to 58 years. I therefore hold that at the present time the claim of the Union for raising the retiring age is justified and I raise it to 58 years for all the workmen including those now in service.
